Stanfield Says Liberals Holiday at Time of Crisis

Emerging from a day-long Progressive Conservative caucus, Mr. Stanfield told reporters his party does not understand "why the government has not been at work and why it hasn't presented a program for Parliament.

"We're just appalled by the problem that exists and the leisurely attitude of the government. It's been on holiday since the election."

He said the problems of inflation and unemployment are inexcusable and lack of action by Prime Minister Trudeau and his Liberal government are inexcusable.

Mr. Stanfield said the price and income controls his party advocated in the campaign for the July 8 election will no longer be an issue when Parliament sits Sept. 30.

"Our job is to find out what the government's policy is and if, as I suspect, it doesn't have one, to put pressure on it to come forward with some kind of response to the inflationary difficulties facing the people of this country."

Mr. Stanfield rejected any suggestion his party is backing away from the controls policy which has been blamed widely for the Conservative set-back July 8 and the election of a Liberal majority government.

"We put an alternative before the people and they returned the Trudeau government with a majority."

Mr. Stanfield said he does not believe a national conference similar to that called by President Ford in the United States is necessary now to study inflation.

"President Ford has just come into office and his position is different, but Trudeau has been in office for a number of years . . . and he ought to have already done the consultation necessary to find out what the people think."

Study Swims

TORONTO (CP) — The province will call "a meeting of interested and concerned parties" to look into marathon swims, it was announced Tuesday.

A joint announcement from the ministry of community and social services and the ministry of the solicitor-general said the meeting will consider the need to establish regulations or guides by which future long-distance swims will be regulated.

Professors Prefer Canadians

TORONTO (CP) — Sociology professors at the University of Toronto voted Tuesday to hire only Canadians or landed immigrants on regular staff for the next year.

Exceptions will be made in the case of foreign scholars "who have made or who are making substantial contributions to the understanding of Canadian society," the motion said.

The motion followed two weeks of controversy over hiring practices which started two weeks ago when the Canadian Anthropology and Sociology Association censured the department for not taking enough Canadians.

Banker Urges Government Take Middle Economic Path

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian banker urged the federal government Tuesday to walk the middle road between expansion and restraint in trying to steer the economy on an even course.

Dr. H. T. Gedrin, a vice-president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said some difficult decisions will have to be made between promoting employment growth of the Canadian economy and the stabilization of prices.

Dr. Gedrin said the expansionary approach, followed by the government to date, would only aggravate inflation.

But on the other hand, too much restraint might create a prolonged recession, he said.

Dr. Gedrin was addressing a business course at the Canadian Executives Institute.

The government's expansionary stance has placed too heavy a burden on the Bank of Canada. If the government held back on its spending, it would stimulate investment and take some pressure off the financial markets, he said.

Canadians can expect that food-price inflation will ease by 1975 and wage settlements can be expected to be higher than average as workers try to recover from the effects of inflation.

The bank's senior economist said the higher wage demands will, however, decrease profits and push prices up. So inflation will ease only slightly, dropping to around nine per cent, he predicted.

Liberals and Tories Said Too Far to Left

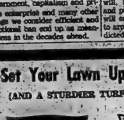
TORONTO (CP) — A new political party should be formed to reflect the views of the business community, W. A. Walker, vice-president of AGF Management Ltd., Toronto, said Tuesday.

Mr. Walker said Liberal and Conservative parties have moved "far to the left" and while a new party could not expect to win more than 12 seats in Parliament, it "could restore the balance of power in Ottawa".

In a speech to a national conference of mutual fund salesmen, Mr. Walker said the new party could effectively refute adverse statements and correct misconceptions about the business community and stop the present trend toward government encroachment of industry and private enterprise.

Executives have a responsibility to defend in public the political interests of corporations, he said.

"Corporations are the most unpopular, the least publicly appreciated and the poorest organized of any social group in Canada today".



Mr. Walker said that if business does not get involved in government, capitalism and private enterprise and many other things we consider efficient and functional can end up as meaningless in the decades ahead.

Discrimination Against Lakes Is Deplored

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The Great Lakes Commission was urged Tuesday to continue fighting National policies of "outright discrimination" against the Great Lakes.

John McWilliam of Toledo, Ohio, chairman of the commission's seaway and navigation committee, told the opening business session of the commission's annual meeting that continued efforts are needed to end the discrimination.

Medical Association Wants Contraceptives to Be Free

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association has asked the federal government to provide free contraceptives and launch an educational campaign on family planning.

The association says in a comprehensive report on abortions and contraception that more than 40,000 abortions were performed in Canada last year and there are indications there will be even more this year.

Abortion Not Reason

Consent Age Lowered

CHATHAM (CP) — The Ontario government did not lower the age of consent for surgery to 18 from 18 to facilitate abortions, Premier William Davis assured Kent separate school board trustees Tuesday night.

Trustees wrote to Mr. Davis in April asking him to reconsider the decision and to return the responsibility for surgery consent to guardians of children under 18.

At his request, the premier said an erroneous interpretation has been given to the change in regulations under the Ontario Public Hospitals Act.

He noted that abortion legislation is incorporated in the Criminal Code, written by the federal government, and is beyond the powers of the province to enact or amend.

Let 'em Drink at 14 Driving May Improve

TORONTO (CP) — One of the best ways to improve the driving habits of young people who drink may be to lower, or eliminate entirely, the legal drinking age, says Lee H. Hames of Ottawa, director of safety education for the American Medical Association.

It seems possible that the younger drinking legally and with social acceptance at 14 or 15 years might get some of the "newness of drinking" out of his system by the time he starts driving extensively, Mr. Hames said Tuesday at an informal conference on alcohol, drugs and traffic safety.

This could be accomplished by teaching young people how to drink sensibly, possibly by serving liquor to young people experimentally under some parental control system, he said.

"Concerned parents, teachers in the community, homemakers in the effects of alcohol, might serve as leaders in establishing some experimentation patterns for youthful drinking that are aimed at fostering desirable decision-making concerning drinking."

Mr. Hames also recommended that alcohol education should begin at the kindergarten level and be made a part of the total health education teaching. Students in higher grades should be able to participate in developing alcohol education curricula to help assure their acceptance of the course.

It should be admitted to young people that drinking is pleasant and that it is possible to drink and still drive safely, he said.

Another speaker, education specialist Peter Flon of Cambridge, Mass., said teachers should keep their attitudes toward drinking and driving to themselves when teaching about alcohol-traffic safety.

This is because students should come to their own conclusions about drinking so that they learn the process of independent thinking, said Mr. Flon.

Moreover, the expression of teacher attitudes would destroy the teacher's chances of producing any rational examination on the part of students of how they should drink and drive.

Canadian Is Killed By Nicosia Gunfire

NICOSIA (CP-AP) — A Canadian paratrooper from Richmond, Que., was killed Tuesday night when gunfire hit his truck on the Green Line dividing Turkish-and Greek-Cypriot forces in Nicosia, the United Nations peace force reported.

The Canadian Forces spokesman in Edmonton identified the victim as Pte. Joseph Claude Berger, 22, of the Canadian Airborne Regiment based in Edmonton.

UN officers said the young trooper was shot in the head on the eastern fringe of the capital where shooting has been reported almost every night since the Aug. 15 ceasefire.

Defence department spokesmen in Ottawa said the jeep carrying Pte. Berger and other Canadians attached to the United Nations peacekeeping force was clearly marked as a UN vehicle, and that it was still daylight when the shooting occurred.

Pte. Berger was the 29th UN soldier and the second Canadian killed in Cyprus fighting.

Pte. Joseph Lionel Gilbert Perron, 23, of Montreal, also was shot by an unidentified sniper on Aug. 6, after his patrol car was stopped at a check point in Nicosia.

A spokesman for the Canadian Airborne Regiment in Cyprus said Tuesday night an investigation is scheduled for today. He added it is not known whether the shots were fired by Greeks or Turks.

Friction Costs Industry Millions in Breakdowns

TRENTON (CP) — Canadian industry loses hundreds of millions of dollars a year because of breakdowns due to the corrosive effects of combined friction on metals, says Dr. John Molgaard of Montreal University.

Dr. Molgaard is a member of an associate committee of the National Research Council of Canada (NRC) set up in 1971 by industry, government, science of lubrication, friction and wear.

Tribology — studies friction, wear on metals from the mechanical operations of a chain saw to the wear caused by pellets leaving a shotgun, and even the friction between coins in a pocket.

The word tribology was coined in 1966 by British academics who had spent months investigating the matter of lubrication and the necessity for its diligent application in a world of ever-increasing technology.

Dr. Molgaard, head of his metals engineering department, said he has been working with models which would enable industry to estimate accurately the surface temperatures of metals in friction.

In a laboratory situation, researchers can, with reasonable accuracy, predict these temperatures, how much oxide is formed at a given point and how the temperature affects the wear rate.

But, he said, it still is extremely difficult to pinpoint the exact moment of breakdown in all bearings.

The high cost of repairs to machinery and equipment in Canadian industries in 1970 was estimated at $3.25 billion. A high proportion of this figure is necessitated by the failure of bearings or other "moving" or sliding components.

For example, the auto industry accepts a failure rate of 10 per cent on engine bearings before the guarantee expires. And many engine bearings fail soon after the guarantee period's end.

Wear is a two-fold problem. On one hand, there is the question of how a machine is maintained by the owner or user.

Also there is inertia within industry to design products with components that will last for longer periods of time.

He said industry should overcome that inertia and the public must accept the probability of higher initial payments for machinery though there will likely be long-term savings.

Dr. R. B. Whyte, who heads the NRC committee, said:

"In Canada, it is estimated that at least $100 million could be saved each year by increased awareness of good tribological practice in design and operation.

"To this figure must be added savings due to reduced down-time, reduced use in shut-down time, reduced use and scrap, and so soon reduction in energy consumption, bringing total to several hundred millions of dollars a year.

"These benefits are obtainable without appreciable capital investment and without any inflationary effects."

But every situation is different, he said.

Dr. Molgaard said:

"We might devise a machine for a particular situation—say, for example, paper making—but then test all the parts separately and together, and find a total or partial solution.

"However, when we move to another type of bearing or metal, used in another type of machine, then we're in a whole new ball game.

"If we change one metal, or speed the motion of another, then we don't know what will happen."

Dr. Molgaard said that of late in industry, as soon as a machine reaches relative perfection, there are demands for increased production.

"When this happens, as it is very apt to do with over-hauled equipment, the machinery usually breaks down and we're back where we were before."

The Wankel rotary engine is an example of the kind of problem which researchers face, he said.

"The engine was developed in the 1920s and 1930s — but there were problems with parts wearing out and within the rotary chamber. These problems were overcome only recently, resulting in a spread of about 40 to 50 years between development and marketing.

Dr. Molgaard said he anticipates breakthroughs in research into metal wear within the next 10 to 15 years.

University of Saskatchewan President's Office Vanishes

SASKATOON (CP) — The Canadian Who's Who lists him as:

Spinks, John William Tranter, M.B.E., B.Sc., Ph.D., D.Sc., LL.D., F.R.S.C.; university president . . ." and then goes on to list more than a dozen academic and scientific boards and societies which he either heads or belongs to.

"I've been lucky," Dr. Spinks said in an interview. "Some things just happened."

Dr. Spinks has been president of University of Saskatchewan for the last 15 years. His office is disappearing fast, however, due to legislation dividing the province into two universities.

Regina campuses into two universities.

His career at the university began at the age of 23 when he arrived from England as an assistant lecturer with his Ph.D already behind him. He became a full professor in 1938, head of the chemistry department in 1946, dean of graduate studies in 1949, and university president in 1958.

In between he travelled to Germany to work with Nobel Prize winner Gerhard Herzberg of Ottawa, and made a name for himself through his work on the reactions of chlorine and ozone under the influences of light rays.

During the Second World War he worked in the field of radiation and became involved with the United Kingdom-Canada Atomic Energy Commission, later co-authored An Introduction to Radiation Chemistry, the first book in English to give complete coverage of major aspects of radiation chemistry.

Dr. Spinks also researched and documented the development at University of Saskatchewan during the 1960s in a major publication entitled A Decade of Change.

He wrote scores of magazine articles, more than 200 scientific papers, and conducted lecture tours in universities as far-flung as Israel and Russia.

Looking to the future, Dr. Spinks said there are a number of speaking engagements he has kept, papers to be finished and a book to revise. There were also rumors of an autobiography to be completed.

After wandering the campus for 15 years, Dr. Spinks was asked if there is any one part of building which he particularly enjoyed. "No," he said, "I'll miss parts make the whole."

Man Killed By Arrow He Fired

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — A couple's court here has given no record the case of an African who shot himself to death with his own arrow.

The dead man lost his life when his regular hunt was interrupted. The only witness to the incident was the man's brother who came under strong suspicion of murder.

The court records detail the story the brother gave:

He said the two of them had gone on a hunting expedition with bows and arrows. They went out in search of guinea-fowl, but had no luck at all.

Towards evening they came across a troop of monkeys and shooting down a monkey or two would be handy than to empty-pot they gave chase.

Finally they managed to trap a group of monkeys in a wild fig tree. The hunters stationed themselves, under the tree and one fired an arrow at one of the monkeys.

The arrow missed its target and glanced through the branches of the tree. Then it fell back along the same course, again missed the branches, and struck the hunter in the neck.

His brother said before he could reach and do anything about the accident the man died from loss of blood.

The story was plausible. The hunter presently still peering up at his unsuccessful shot would have exposed his neck to the fallingarrow.

But what impressed the court, apart from the case's obvious sincerity, was his actions after the accident.

After he had brought his dead brother's body back to the village he immediately set off to pick up the monkeys' trail to take vengeance on the animals he blamed for his brother's death.

Recorded now in the legal annals of the court is the verdict that was handed down—death from misadventure.

Whether or not the verdict is a tribute to a gifted story teller or the record of an extraordinary set of circumstances will never be known.

But the court documents laconically record the fate of the only man legally found to have shot himself to death with his own bow and arrow.

HELP THEM ADJUST — ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Parents can help young children adjust to the first day of school, says child psychologist Dr. David Elkind of the University of Rochester. They should be given a chance to meet the teacher and explore the classroom beforehand to familiarize themselves with their new surroundings.

All Aglow at Night

The Quinte Exhibition Fall Fair takes on a different look at night. It is then that the fair comes alive with explosion of lights, color and music. This night view is that of the Round-up in which riders are spun around and around in an upright position. The fair continues until Friday with opening night ceremonies scheduled for 8 tonight.

Quinte Exhibition Returns With Fall Version of Fair

By JIM URWELLE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Exhibition Fall Fair opened Tuesday and while crowds were sparse when gates opened at 8 p.m., they picked up later in the evening.

Crowds packed the grandstand for both 8 p.m. performances of the Universal Thrill Driving Dogs. Word "Intelligencer that he is pleased with the exhibit response shows so far.

"And we've got the largest midway we've ever had, close to 30 rides or better, including a lot of new ones," he said.

He pointed out the few changes evident in this year's fair. The one thing we've done away with the sheep and swine display and instead are having a swine barrow show in which judging is done with a device called a Sonarey. This is done while the animal is alive, instead of after being slaughtered. The Sonarey gradates the animal, he said.

Mr. Gowsell said the reason the fair closes Friday and not Saturday this year is because he didn't want it to be in direct competition with the Mohawk Fair, held Saturday on the Tyendinaga Reserve.

"Since it was the only week the change and not then, I think we should give them the recognition and not run four fairs on top of them," he said.

Tonight, the official opening of the fair takes place at 8 p.m. at the Grandstand. A half hour before that the Universal Thrill Drivers take to the track.

Also being held during the official opening will be presentation of the winners of the tiny Tot Show.

On Thursday, children in elementary school are allowed into the fair free from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and all ride prices will be reduced.

As well, there will be a fashion show and livestock displays and shows.

On Friday, the Miss Dairy Princess contest at 6:30 p.m. and harness horse racing in the Grandstand at 8 p.m.

Township to Reduce Polls Regardless of Election Act

By COLIN TEEUCE
Staff Reporter

Sidney Township officials said this week they are prepared to break the Municipal Election Act if it will save ratepayers unnecessary expense.

Using voter turnout figures from the last election, municipal clerk Hugh Lyons has recommended that fewer polling booths be used this year.

During the public session of Monday council Mr. Lyons recommended the number of polling booths in the township be reduced to 21 from 36.

While in contrary to the act," clerk said.

The act stipulates "where ever practicable" there must be one polling booth for every 350 electors, said Ian Reid, Director of legal services for the province's ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs.

"I suppose it's contrary if someone wanted to raise a stink about it," said Sidney Township Reeve Gord Wiseman, during an interview with The Intelligencer Wednesday.

The government spokesman said the "situation seems odd."

The government legal advisor said the act is not policed by the province but the ratepayers of the municipality.

The elimination of nine polls would mean a $450 savings, Mr. Lyons said this week.

"We gave the clerk the go ahead on this thing to save money," said the reeve.

Reeve Wilman told The Intelligencer, however: "If a story about this is published, we'll (council) call another meeting and go back to 36 polls.

"If there's no story we'll reduce the polls and save some money," he said.

Reduction of the number of polls, however, may limit the number of people who are able to vote.

"I'd be in hot water if people were still lined up at the polls after 8 p.m. waiting to vote," said Mr. Lyons.

Once the polls officially close at 8 p.m., the Act stipulates no further votes may be cast.

"If the situation comes up, I recommend polling booth staff allow the last to vote after 8 p.m.," said Mr. Lyons.

"Unless this election has a real hot issue ... unless we have a hot and heavy question, we could have all the polls," said the clerk.

Arts Centre Need Studied by Firm

The Quinte area should have a good idea by Christmas what form a local arts centre will take.

Brian Dixon, partner of Dixon-Moore Associates, told a press conference Tuesday his firm would have an interim report ready by Christmas or midway through their $22,000 commission to study the feasibility of a Quinte Arts Centre.

The Toronto firm was hired after a joint Loyalist College - Quinte Arts Council committee received an $11,000 grant from the provincial ministry of colleges and universities to conduct the study.

At a special reception Tuesday, Mr. Dixon:

Announced his firm's final report would be completed in March, but that the interim report would give local organizations ample ammunition to begin seeking senior government funding.

Indicated surveys and questionnaires would be widely spread in the area to determine "what sort of facility people would use if they had it".

Refused to predict what activities would best be suited for a Quinte cultural centre, but he said would become more evident as the study progressed.

However, in response to a query from Mayor Robin Jeffrey, Mr. Dixon did not rule out the possibility of an arts centre being the eventual home of something along the lines of Stratford Shakespearean or Niagara - on - the - Lake Shaw-fen festivals.

The Quinte area's reputation as a mecca for tourists would help in this regard, said Mr. Dixon, adding that "committed, wealthy people" would have to take a local interest in such a project.

Another problem, he cautioned, was "a shortage of dramatists". Would there be a "Quinte Dawn Festival?"

Mr. Dixon, whose firm has completed similar studies in Brantford and Sarnia, stressed that erecting cultural "monuments" was not one of his biases.

In some cases, his firm had recommended renovation of existing facilities, such as theatres, to accommodate a community's cultural needs.

Mr. Dixon was officially introduced to Belleviliens by D. R. Fraser, Loyalist College Director of Planning and secretary of the Loyalist - Quinte Arts council ad hoc committee on the cultural centre.

Tenders Exceed Estimate

In these days of rapidly rising prices, budget estimates can fall considerably short of tender quotes received.

And sometimes tender calls don't even attract bidders.

This was the lesson learned by the city Recreation Arena Committee, which Tuesday recommended work done on two projects — one which will cost more than double the budget estimate and the other for which no tender bids were received.

The committee recommended the expenditure of $5,000 for construction of a new tennis practice board at the Moira Secondary and Public School Club in East Belleville. The new practice board, an extra-wide concrete block wall — will replace an existing rusty and leaky board which has been the source of complaints from near neighbors.

The budget estimate for the work was $2,800.

But the work recommended includes $500 for removal of the old practice board, $1,000 for construction of the new wall and $1,000 for contingencies and $1,850 for preparation of the playing area.

Selection of the practice board will leave the tennis courts free for play at all times.

Other work recommended by the committee included installation of steel doors, and frames at the Memorial Arena and at the Dick Ellis Rink, and also installation of washroom dividers at the Hillcrest community Centre.

No bids for the work were received after a tender call so the materials will be purchased and installed by city maintenance staff. Cost of the materials will be $2,577.

Phosphate in Bay of Quinte About Half of Earlier Levels

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

GLENORA — Quinte-area industries, as well as determined manufacturers, are credited with cutting phosphorous levels in the Bay of Quinte in half since the bad effects of phosphates on water quality were first publicized about five years ago.

Jack Christie, director of the Glenora Fisheries Research station, credits the women who do the washing with cutting phosphate input into the bay long before phosphate content in detergents was reduced by law.

Phosphorous levels in output from the Picton sewage treatment plant have been monitored by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment since 1966 and are now about half the 1966 level.

The monitoring led to the formation of Project Quinte, which started in the spring of 1972, as an informal group of scientists from Glenora, the federal government, Queen's University and the University of Guelph. They were interested in studying the effect of phosphate reduction on water and water life under controlled conditions.

Now, sanctioned by federal and provincial governments, Project Quinte scientists are continuing their studies but coordinator Don Hurley of the Glenora station, says it is too early to report any significant change in the bay as the result of phosphate reduction.

"We hope we can watch the situation develop over a period of time to get through evaluation of the effect and effectiveness of phosphate reduction on water quality and aquatic life," Mr. Hurley said. "Speaking as a scientist, I hope the bay is left alone with no new elements, such as hatchery fish, introduced. That way we can get an accurate picture of the effect of phosphate reduction."

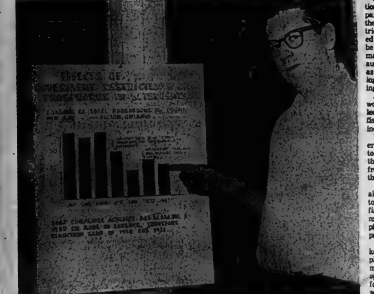
The Glenora station is one of seven operated by the ministry of natural resources in the province.

The station has a permanent staff of nine, three of whom are biologists. Students — last summer there were 12 — are hired to assist with the station's extensive field work. But winter months are mainly devoted to evaluating and determining data collected during the summer.

Main activity of the station is keeping track of the fish populations in Lake Ontario. Fish are caught year-round and examined for maturity, age, sex, growth rate, stomach contents and other characteristics.

When a pattern of population increase or decline in a particular species emerges, the research station staff then tries to determine what caused the change. If a cause can be found, a recommendation may be made to provincial authorities to take action such as revising the laws governing commercial or sport fishing.

An example of the station's work is a 5-year study that led to the closing of all white-fish hatcheries in the province.



Whitefish, like yellow perch, are hard and expensive to rear in a hatchery since they require live food right from the moment they leave the egg.

"Trout and salmon will eat almost anything," said director Jack Christie. "But whitefish, although a valuable commercial species and badly depleted in the lake, just didn't pay off."

Monitoring the lake includes keeping an eye on foreign plants and creatures that might be introduced. The opening of the Welland Canal, for instance let the notorious sea lamprey into the upper Great Lakes and, since it spread out the lake trout fishery.

Pest fish can come from many sources — ships' bilges, fishing minnows and pets like tropical fish. When asked what he thought was the worst pest fish in the lake now, Jack Christie replied:

"Now that we've got the lamprey pretty well under control, I think it's the American smelt."

Halfway There

Phosphate levels in the Bay of Quinte from the Picton sewage treatment plant are half the 1969 level, but there's still room for improvement, says Don Hurley, co-ordinator of Project Quinte. The project studies effect of phosphate reduction on water quality and aquatic life. By 1975, sewage treatment plants must have facilities to remove 80 per cent of phosphorous from their output, according to the Glenora Fisheries Research Station scientist.

Culture Bugs

Toronto cultural consultant Brian Dixon and Mayor Robbi Jeffrey discuss plans for a Quinte Arts Centre. Mr. Dixon's firm has been commissioned to conduct a feasibility study on the project by a joint Loyalist College - Quinte Arts Council committee, courtesy a recently-received provincial government grant.

Woman Arrested

Police refuse to release any information surrounding the Bridge St. arrest of a woman today.

The woman — described by witnesses as in her 40s — was apprehended by two police officers on the steps of The Intelligencer and taken to a waiting cruiser.

Police said later they have a woman in custody but refused to give details about the charge. A warrant had been issued for the woman's arrest, said a sergeant.

The sergeant said Police Chief Douglas Cowlin — who normally handles public information — was out of town and the deputy chief was "out of the office."

"It's being handled by the detectives," he said.

No detectives were in the office for comment.

Tree Removal

Employees of the Wharram Tree Service Ltd., this year's contractor for the removal of dead and diseased trees along Belleville's streets now up another maple — this one on Bridge Street East, at Alebert. Each year diseased and dead trees are marked for removal, mainly as a safety measure. Replacements are planted in the spring as part of the city's tree planting program.

Drive On

The Picton Rotary Club will launch its 18th annual peanut drive Saturday, Sept. 14 with profits going to crippled children and community work. Although there has been an increase in the wholesale cost of the peanuts this year, the club will continue to sell them for $1 a tin. Chairman for the three-day drive is Dr. Richard Evans of Picton.

Courses Begin

Registration for Prince Edward Power Squadron Courses will be held Sept. 16 and 17 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Queen Elizabeth School in Picton. Courses offered include piloting, seamanship and navigation. The non-profit squadron organization aims to improve boating skills, techniques and safety and each year runs a series of courses on navigational techniques.

Consumption Up

Energy consumption by individual residences in Ontario went up by three per cent last year, utilities commission general manager Bill Britton said Tuesday. He said residents are more and self-defrosting refrigerators and an increase in TV set can raise electricity consumption without the householder being aware of it.

Beavers Gathering

Registration for Beavers (as in scouting) will be held for five — to seven-year-old boys at Crescent Street School, Wednesday, Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. Parents are asked to accompany their sons to the registration. For further information contact any member of the Trenton District Scouting Council.

12th Inning Homer Sinks Sox

Johnson Delivers for Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alex Johnson, acquired Monday from Texas Rangers, went to work on Tuesday night in a New York Yankee uniform and hit a game-winning home run.

"You have to get lucky sometime," said Johnson after his 430-foot hit in the 12th inning brought the Yankees a 2-1 victory over Boston Red Sox.

Ironically, Johnson failed earlier in a potential game-winning situation when he struck out as a pinch-hitter with a man in scoring position.

The win gave the Yankees a two-game lead over both the Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles in the East American League East race.

The Orioles lost a 6-5, 10-inning decision to Milwaukee Brewers to fall into a second place tie with the Red Sox.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, Cleveland Indians beat Detroit Tigers 12-4, Minnesota Twins beat Chicago White Sox 8-7 in 15 innings and California Angels defeated Kansas City Royals 8-3.

ALEX JOHNSON

Johnson's game-winner, his fifth homer of the baseball season, came off reliever Diego Segui, 7-7. The victory went to Dobson, 15-14, who won his 4th straight game with last-inning relief help from Sparky Lyle. Dobson gave up four hits in 11 innings.

But a fan in the right field stands touched the ball and the Red Sox argued that the runners should go back to second and third because it was a ground-rule double. The umpires concured, bringing New York manager Bill Virdon storming out to protest the decision.

After several minutes, Virdon won his argument that the pair never would have scored.

Slats Lezcano singled home a run in the 18th inning to give Milwaukee its victory over Baltimore.

Johnny Briggs walked to open the Milwaukee 18th and moved to second on a bunt sacrifice by Bob Coluccio. Lezcano then singled to right to score Briggs with the game-winner.

Cleveland reached Detroit's Mickey Lolich for five runs on six straight singles in the second inning and went on to beat the Tigers.

Lolich, who had won his four previous decisions against Cleveland this season, retired the leadoff batter in the second inning before Buddy Bell, Joe Lis, Frank Duffy, Angel Hernandez, John Ellis and Oscar Gamble singled. That put Cleveland in front 5-0 and chased Lolich, 14-18.

Rod Carew walked, stole second and scored on Larry Hisle's single in the 15th inning to give Minnesota its victory over Chicago.

Joe Lahoud drove in five runs to lead California over Kansas City, Frank Tanana, 11-7, was the winner with relief help from Orlando Pena.

BEARS TRADE VETERANS

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears traded veteran guard Glen Holloway and defensive end Terry McGee to Cincinnati Bengals for a conditional draft choice. McGee, a Bear starter for three seasons who signed for 1975 with Chicago Fire of the World Football League, was sent to New England Patriots for two undisclosed draft picks.

Dodgers and Pirates Would Host Playoffs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pittsburgh and Los Angeles would be sites of baseball playoff games in case of ties for division titles, said National League President Charles Feeney after coin tosses Tuesday.

Any ties for the titles would be settled Oct. 1, the day after the regular season ends. The league's best-of-five playoff will begin Oct. 5 at the home of the Eastern Division champion.

Pittsburgh Pirates lead St. Louis Cardinals in the East, and Los Angeles Dodgers are ahead of Cincinnati Reds in the West.

Philadelphia Phillies, third in the East, also took part in Tuesday's coin flipping. If they tie for first place, the one-game division playoff would be in Philadelphia.

Willie Davis – Two-run Homer

Expos Trip Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Davis hit a two-run homer and Larry Lintz knocked in three runs with two singles to give Montreal Expos a 6-4 victory over New York Mets in a National League baseball game Tuesday night.

The Mets took a 3-0 lead off Ernie McAnally, 7-13, in a first-inning rally keyed by John Milner's two-run double.

But the Expos, wiped out that Hodges' sacrifice fly.

Lorimer's Late Goal Keeps Leeds in Hunt

LONDON (Reuter) — English League champions Leeds United, struggling to find form in this soccer season, forced a replay of their Football League Cup second round match against Third Division Huddersfield Town through a last-minute goal Tuesday night.

Lorimer had failed to score from a penalty in the fourth minute. He lashed the ball into the net, but had to take the kick again because his team-mate Allan Clarke had moved into the penalty area and his second attempt was saved by Huddersfield goalkeeper Steve Poole.

Three hundred police were on duty for the match at Notts County between Nottingham Forest and Newcastle United, whose F. A. Cup tie at Newcastle last season was marred by crowd riots.

There were only minor outbreaks of trouble, resulting in arrests, as the match ended in a 1-1 draw.

A hat-trick by Colin Bell helped Manchester City sink Scunthorpe United 6-2 in the biggest win of the night.

Former England international Bobby Charlton scored the 351st goal of his career for Preston North End in a 2-0 win over Sunderland.

LIONS GET WEST

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions of the National Football League have acquired veteran defensive back Charlie West from Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed future draft choice, it was announced Tuesday. West, 28, was with the Vikings for seven years.

During 8-2 Loss to Phils

Wills' Record Falls to Brock

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lou Brock has made good on his promise to the baseball fans of St. Louis.

Brock, who had said he wanted to break Maury Wills' stolen-base record before the home fans at Busch Stadium, did just that Tuesday night, stealing second base in the first and seventh innings to increase his season total to 105—one more than the standard set by Wills in 1962.

"I'm glad to get it over with, although I'd have liked it to be during a winning game," said Brock, whose Cardinals were beaten 8-2 by Philadelphia Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates beat Chicago Cubs 12-4, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Atlanta Braves 1-0, Cincinnati Reds beat San Diego Padres 5-2, Montreal Expos defeated New York Mets 6-4, and San Francisco Giants edged Houston Astros 6-5 in 11 innings.

Wills said he had mixed emotions about seeing his record broken, but lauded Brock's outstanding performance.

"My hat's off to him," the former Los Angeles Dodgers' infielder said. "I don't think anyone would approach the record this soon, probably not in my lifetime."

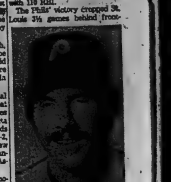
After leading off the first inning with a steal, he broke for second on the second pitch by Philadelphia right-hander Dick Ruthven and easily beat the throw from catcher Bob Boone, which bounced into centre field as Brock went to third.



In the seventh inning, Brock again walked until Ruthven had an 0-1 count on Ron Hunt before breaking to second, once again a well -timed dash as Boone's wild throw to the bag.

Brock tried to steal once again in the ninth inning, after reaching base on a throwing error by Pete Mackanin's fielding glove. He broke for second on a 1-1 pitch, but this time he was thrown out by Boone.

The steals by Brock, who has been thrown out 28 times this year, also lifted him to 748 for his career. Only Ty Cobb, who had 901, and Eddie Collins, 743, stole more bases during their major league careers.

Brock's base-running efforts overshadowed the slugging of Phils' third baseman Mike Schmidt, who hit a two-run homer and two doubles and drove in four runs. He now leads the majors with 35 homers and is tops in the NL with 102 RBI.

The Phils' victory cropped St. Louis 3½ games behind front-running Pittsburgh in the NL Eastern Division.

MIKE SCHMIDT

Don Sutton of Los Angeles blanked Atlanta on four hits in earning his record to 15-9 and Ron Cey drove in the game's only run with a single in the second inning.

Dan Gullett scattered six hits through 11 innings in pitching the Reds to victory over San Diego. The win lifted Cincinnati 3½ games behind the Dodgers in the NL West.

Ken Brett, making his first start since injuring his elbow Aug. 6, pitched the first six innings of the Pirates' win over Chicago, and also rapped out three hits.

Richie Hebner contributed four hits to Pittsburgh's 20-hit barrage, including his 14th homer of the season.

The Pirates broke a 4-4 tie with an RBI single and Bobby Bonds drove in what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning for the Giants. The Astros came back with a run in the bottom of the 11th on Cliff Johnson's single, but fell one run short.

Griffins Lead 3-1

MONTREAL (CP) — Al Geoffrion and Dave Willeng each scored three times to lead Rochester Griffins to an 18-1 win over Montreal Quebecois Tuesday night, enabling Rochester to take a 3-1 lead in their National Lacrosse League best-of-seven semi-final.

The teams were tied 6-6 at the end of the first period and the Griffins scored nine times in the second to grab a 15-8 lead going into the final 20 minutes.

Rochester fired 49 shots at Montreal goaltenders Kevin Mitchell and Don Crocker, while the Quebecois, who displayed little of the muscle and zip that carried them to a 20-11 win Sunday night, had 44 shots.

Referees Carm MacMillan and Jerry Blodgett assessed 38 minutes in penalties in the game watched by 8,088 fans.

Fergie May be Missing But Auger's Will be Here

Season overlapping season in the sports world posed a pain in the typewriter (as if anything could register on this clunker) to many of us. To Auger's Men's Wear of the Quinte Athletic Club it's meant an enduring spike.

The Trenton entry qualified for the Quinte Football League (QFL) playoff finals more than a day or two ago and ever since, club officials have been anxious to start the title set.

There is a valid reason for the anxiety up Trenton way. After Friday, Auger's will be without the services of right-hander George Ferguson.

Fergie allowed just one run while his squad was polishing off Rollins Construction in four games in semi-final play.

Now that Howard and Robert Printing has put Dervolin Motors away 4-2, the final set can get started . . . or can it?

With any luck, George may be around long enough to get into one game in the title series. Saturday he trades his gloves and spikes for a stick and skates and heads for Toronto where the Maple Leafs open training camp, Sunday.

The strong showing of this city's Dervolin Motors Softball Association entries (Dervolin Motors Senior "B", Rollins Construction, Intermediate A; Howard and Robert Printing, Intermediate AA; Ellis Printing, Junior A and the E&O squad, Pee-wee A (and they're still at it) has made it tough to schedule QFL contests at Alemite Park.

If Howard and Robert is going to win this thing, no doubt the club would like nothing better than a showdown with Auger's at full strength.

But well a second.

Don't be writing the Trenton-based club off . . .

Tuesday night, an official of the Auger team was scheduled that, yes, it appeared as if Ferguson would be missing from the lineup, he asked, "We'll have more surprises for them (Howard and Robert)."

So, perhaps this QFL final will be closer than some people are willing to bet right now.

BLIZZES — Pickering Panthers' officials have returned to the Quinte area for hockey talent this season.

Last time around, the Metro Junior 'B' League entry gave Trenton's Tim Manley a try and the slick centre didn't disappoint them. In his first season in Junior B company, Tim scored 21 goals and earned 24 assists in 39 games, good for 45 points, and sixth place in the team's scoring race.

Well, Tim, 19, has signed for another season. And his 16-year-old brother, Tom, is also aboard.

With another season of midget eligibility left, Tom has made the grade with the Junior club.

The Manleys attend High school in Pickering, when they're not shoving their stuff for Panthers. They are both centremen.

Another Trenton centre is also with the club.

Nineteen-year-old Bill Glover will be learning the building trade while employed by a Pickering contractor when he isn't giving opposing defencemen and goaltenders fits.

A 5-foot-7 speedster who weighs in at about the 150 lb. mark, Bill excels in the heavy going. He was a dominant force for Trenton Hot's Hawks' Bantam juveniles as the club rolled to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association AA title last April.

It's a cinch Panthers are not putting the emphasis on size in their recruiting. None of these, Trenton products would impress anyone when it comes to heights and weight. But put them in action in a hockey game, and look out!

That Peterborough lacrosse team which leads the National Junior Final 3-0 over Barrydowne Cables in the championship series of Week-Wednesday is known as the PCOs.

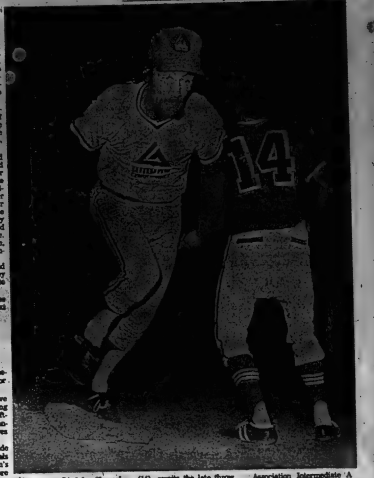
The team is sponsored by the Police Chiefs Club, head office in Toronto, says fellow who should know. He's Ray Sickle, a resident of Bayside, who is the company's representative in this area.

But what about the O? Well, they're pest control operators.

Rollins Won't Let Up

Rollin's Construction defeated Toronto's Scarborough Lindale Homes 4-1 Tuesday night to win their fourth consecutive Eastern Ontario Amateur Softball Association Intermediate 'A' series.

Ken DeMille fired the victory, fanning nine batters while walking only one. He scattered eight Scarborough hits over the nine innings.



DeMille shut out the visiting Toronto team for the first eight innings. The only run he gave up came in the top of the ninth inning when Toronto right fielder Steve Protomani crashed a solo home run.

Toronto pitcher Dave Webster was the loser with relief help from Doug Spencer. The pair combined to fan three batters while walking two. They too allowed eight hits.

Rollin's hits were sold-ed by Glen Carleton smashed a solo homer, 325 feet over the centre field fence in the third inning and Paul Goodfellow belted a one run homer into the deep left field corner in the sixth inning. Wayne McTaggart and Marv Stacey both connected for triples and Dave Lott added a double. Other hits went to DeMille, Goodfellow and Carl Boom hower each with a single.

Both DeMille's pitching and heads up defence were key factors in limiting Toronto to just one run.

Rollins will travel to the London area for their next series.

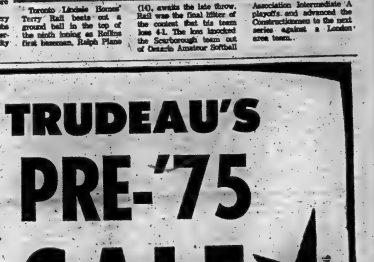
It is more than a month since Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs began and Belleville's representatives have excelled in all men's divisions. Read on for other dirtdons to boot.

Rollins Construction has knocked off four clubs in their drive for an Ontario Intermediate A Championship. Tuesday night they defeated Scarborough's Lindale Homes to take that series in two games straight. Where they go next is not yet known, but it is expected they will travel to the London area.

In Senior B action Dervolin Motors knocked off Kingston on the weekend to win their third series since the playoffs began.

Howard and Robert Printing go into action Thursday night for the second game of their Intermediate AA series with Etobicoke. The Printers have already taken three sp-ings and lead this one1-0.

In other divisions, the Ellis Juniors are coming closer to an all-Ontario title all the time. Saturday they travel to Scarborough for the third and deciding contest in their fourth series. If they win that game they advance to the provincial semi-finals.



Belleville's SACO pee-wees are making a strong bid for an Ontario title. They defeated Cedar Hill Saturday to advance to the semi-finals.

Although all of the above teams are cam's and belong to the Canada Amateur Softball Association, there is another local club that deserves recognition.

Belleville Broadloom made it all the way to the finals of the Provincial Women's Softball Union playoffs before losing 2-1 in the series.

All-in-all it's been a very good year for Belleville clubs and there could be five different softball titles in the city this year.

Toronto Lindale Homes' Terry Hall beats out a ground ball in the top of the ninth inning as Rollins first baseman, Ralph Plaxe (16), awaits the late throw. Hall was the final hitter of the contest that his team lost 4-1. The loss knocked the Scarborough team out of Ontario Amateur Softball Association Intermediate 'A' playoffs and advanced the Constructionmen to the next series against a London area team.

Frankford Junior C Entry

Grind Begins for Huskies

TRENTON — The 1974-75 edition of the Frankford Huskies began to take shape at the Community Gardens here, Tuesday night.

Training camp opened for the Labrador Junior C hockey League club which is preparing for its second season in the senior circuit complex.

Eagers recruits went through their paces with Charlie Drake, coach of Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA champions the last two seasons here, behind the bench.

According to the club's general manager, Steve Bedard, there will be plenty of new faces with the team.

"We've lost some of last year's players who are now attending university, but we've got some good looking talent out there again, this time around," advised Bedard.

Huskies are a community effort all the way. Financial backing is provided by shareholders, college residents who kick in $100 each to assist the operation of the club, Bedard explained.

Bill Payne is the hockey club's president; vice-presidents are Leon Collins and Earl Gregory; manager's duties are handled by Brian Crowell; Don Wright is treasurer and Joyce Frost, secretary.

Huskies expect to open the new campaign on October 13. The club will play most of its home games on Friday nights at Frankford Arena. Some Sunday dates are also available.

Training camp sessions are scheduled for Belleville's Dickens Arena, Friday and Saturday of this week, at 9.15 p.m., and Sunday, at 1 p.m.

Other teams in the grouping are Cobourg, (Ontario champions last season), Port Hope, Bowmanville, Lindsay, Perry, Lindsay and Sutton.

Howe Shows Them How

SASKATOON (CP) — An ageless Gordie Howe showed the juniors and the pros how Thursday night as Team Canada '74 defeated the Western Canada All Stars 6-1 in preparation for a series against Russia.

Howe, 46, scored three goals, passed his weight around with abandon, and provided the leadership Team Canada must receive in the eight-game set with Russia which starts Sept. 27 at Quebec City.

A record crowd of 4,762 watched Howe's every move. He grew up here and was born not nearby Floral.

It was by far the most snappish exhibition game and included the first fighting majors.

Kirk Clarkson, a junior defenseman, tangled with Serge Bernier near the All Stars nets with 15 seconds remaining. Each drew a major.

Coach Billy Harris of Team Canada said the fight proved his contention that the pros should not retaliate against the Russians.

"We will be frustrated if the officiating is inconsistent, as it will be," he said. "We will be under pressure and we simply must retaliate. But it's difficult to change the habits of players accustomed to the Canadian tradition of retaliation."

Harris said some players have controlled themselves better than others in the exhibition series against the juniors, but "there is still some way to go."

"We had some cohesion," said defenceman Pat Stapleton of his Team Canada mates.

"We let the puck do the work; we finally did things quickly enough to keep the juices off us."

Team Canada winger Paul Henderson was hurt when he skated into the boards and left the game in the second period. However, the hero of the 1972 victory over Russia returns for the third period.

The exhibition series ends Thursday in Edmonton. Team Canada, made up of World Hockey Association players, has won three and lost one game against the Juniors.

CBC GIVES SERVICE

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC announced Tuesday that it would free its English television network facilities during the forthcoming Canada-Soviet Union hockey series to telecast the four games being produced on the CTV network where the CBC stations are not providing duplicate coverage.

America's Cup

U.S. Takes Opener Aussies are Upset

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — An Island Sound and the two Australian real estate promoter made it known months ago he would spend as much as $9 million to dislodge the America's Cup from the United States.

He also may add to his money a few more strong words uttered at the U.S. crew manning the Courageous.

Alan Bond already has spent an estimated $6 million in his challenge to win the 125-year-old Cup, but in Tuesday's first race in a best-of-seven series, the gold-chained Southern Cross went down in shocking defeat.

Courageous, only crack helmsmen Ted Hood and Dennis Connor in control, outdistanced the Aussie challenger by four minutes and 54 seconds to light wind and came home at least one-half mile ahead.

The two boats were to race the second heat beginning at 12:15 p.m. today over a 24.3-mile course seven miles offshore in Rhode Island Sound.

"We're not discouraged," Bond said after the first race.

"The crew hasn't lost its confidence. We made some pure boomer errors, and we won't make them again in the next race."

But Bond saved his strongest words for Connor. He accused the American of shouting such phrases as "false start, false start" as the two boats maneuvered around the starting line.

"I don't know what he was trying to do, or to prove, but I'll be does it again. I'm going to file a protest," Bond said.

Better sailing weather was expected for today's start. The forecast was for winds up to 15 knots, giving both boats a chance to operate at peak efficiency.

The start of the first race was delayed by heavy fog on Rhode Island Sound and the two yachts didn't get away until 2:10 p.m., the latest possible time they could have started under the terms of the match.

The American II maneuvered fully defended the Cup 21 times since it was brought to this country in 1851 and over that time have won 67 races to only seven by all the challengers combined.

The Southern Cross was sailed to be the most formidable challenger the Americans have had to face. But after the first one-sided contest, many veteran yachtsmen feel the Cup will remain in this country for another three years at least.

Cosmos Forced Southern Cross over the starting line before the gun and then dipped back and crossed two seconds ahead on a starboard tack while Southern Cross was going over on port tack at the other end of the line.

For the first few minutes of the race it appeared the Australian boat was sailing slightly faster in the 19-knot breeze.

But as the wind lightened, Hood began to move Courageous away from Southern Cross and rounded the first mark with a 34-second lead. The Aussie never recovered.

DROLET SIGNS

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and forward Rene Drolet have agreed to contract terms, a team spokesman said Tuesday. Drolet, 28, native of Quebec City, was drafted from Philadelphia Flyers after spending two years with Richmond Robins of the American Hockey League.

Neudorf Fires Two-hitter

McRae's Dump Newmarket 6-1

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Niagara Falls McRaes took the opening game of their Ontario Fastball League semi-final series with Newmarket, Tuesday, defeating the Ray's 6-1.

Th next game in the best-of-three series is scheduled for Thursday in Newmarket. The winner meets Oshawa Tonys for the championship.

Ed Neudorf pitched a two-hitter for the winners and had a no-hitter going until Dan Labey led off the seventh with a solo home run. Labey got the only other hit given up by Neudorf when he doubled in the ninth.

The McRaes clouted stanley three singles.

Bob Domik threw the mound in the fourth inning as they took a 6-0 lead. Larry Marshall took over and gave up the final two runs.

The big hit off Domik was an inside-the-park homer by Vic Dyck with a runner aboard. Neudorf accounted for three of Niagara Falls's nine hits with three singles.

QMJHL Frowning On Fights

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Major Junior Hockey League announced Tuesday it will be taking steps to curb the excessive fighting which has been featured in early exhibition games.

League president Raymond Lagace announced that an aggressor in a fight will receive an automatic game misconduct as well as any other penalties he may incur. In addition, when two players vow to continue a fight after they have been separated once, they will be given game misconducts.

Burnaby on Short End

Hitting Game or Not, PCOs Take 2-0 Lead

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Burnaby Cubbs won into Tuesday's Canadian junior baseball championship game with a different plan than the one they used in the best-of-seven series opener Sunday. The plan worked but the team lost, again.

The Cubbs tried to outrun the outborn Peterborough PCOs Sunday and dropped the first game of the Mickie Cup series 10-11. Burnaby tried clouting Tuesday and lost 13-5.

"We planned to lay back and check and I think it worked," Cubbs coach Dan Mattison said. "We hit people instead of cluttering their uniforms off."

Despite the hitting, the powerful Oshawa champions now are only two games away from an undefeated season after more than 40 exhibition, league and playoff games.

Steve Pinsket scored four goals for Peterborough Sunday but was kept off the scoreboard by Burnaby checkers Tuesday. So the PCOs spread their scoring around.

Guy Lesnick and Randy Gill each got two goals each to pace Peterborough while Jim Johnston, Ken Byers, Paul Gardner and Moe Johnston added singles.

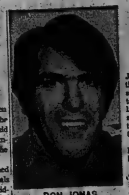
Burnaby was up 2-1 after the first period but Peterborough went ahead 7-5 in the second.

"We couldn't have tried any harder," Mattison said. "We had some mental lapse and they took advantage. They are an awfully good team."

One large came in the third period. With the Cubbs two goals down, Burnaby captain Mike McLaughlin called for a measurement of Peterborough goaltender Jim Barry's stick. The stick was found to be legal and Burnaby was assessed a two-minute penalty for wasting the measurement.

Cubbs were a man short at the time and PCOs scored two more goals to hold a 9-6 margin before Burnaby got back to full strength.



Had the measurement been sought prior to the start of the third period no penalty would have been assessed to the complaining team regardless of the outcome of the measurement.

A crowd of 2,127 watched Peterborough score four goals to less than two minutes midway through the second period to gain the lead they never relinquished.

PCOs, national champions in 1972 and 1973, resume their quest for a third straight Mickie Cup title when the series resumes Thursday.

PLAYERS FILE SUIT

PARIS (AFP) — Associon Jimmy Connors and Ilyeana Goolagong of Australia have sued the French Lawn Tennis Federation for 1 million francs (about $245,000) in damage and interest, it was announced Thursday. The players claim that they were unfairly barred from competing in the French Open last June because of their involvement with World Team Tennis.

DON JONAS

GOLFERS HONORED

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Ben Hogan, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer head a list of 13 players who will be honored as the first inductees at today's opening ceremonies of the World Golf Hall of Fame here.

Other living players to be enshrined are Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, Gene Sarazen, Gary Player and Patty Berg. They join the late greats Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Harry Vardon, Francis Ouimet and Babe Didrikson Zaharias, were selected by the Golf Writers' Association of America.

What A Difference in Outlook

Jonas — A New Lease on Life

HAMILTON (CP) — Don Jonas complained last week that "Ottawa Rough Riders could have been good enough to at least let him play out his last Canadian Football League season in Winnipeg instead of trading him to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

But after only a week to himself, Jonas has changed his mind about retiring.

"This trade has given me a couple of extra years on my playing career," Jonas said in an interview.

The 36-year-old quarterback, traded for Tiger quarterback Chuck Ealey after Jonas began feuding with Riders' management, now has found Tiger coach Jerry Williams easy to get along with.

"If I had to be traded, this was the place for me to come," he said.

"This is my kind of team and my kind of coach."

Jonas says he is impressed with Williams who is known as an offensive-minded coach who prefers a passing attack to the scrambling of a quarterback such as Ealey.

"That's why I think I can play for another two years. It could be fun again."

Jonas said he didn't know if he would be starting in tonight's game against Montreal Alouettes. Jonas sat out most of his first game with Tiger last Saturday against Ottawa Rough Riders while Bill Exter directed the club to its fourth win.

"It's tough to come in and pick up a brand new system in a week," said Jonas.

Game time is 8 p.m. EDT and television coverage is scheduled for the full CTV network. The CBC national network will televise Thursday night's encounter between British Columbia Lions and the Argonauts in Toronto, also set for 8 p.m. EDT.

Cuba and U.S. Turned Back Jews Fleeing from Hitler

NEW YORK (AP) — It was May, 1939. Some 937 Jews bought what they thought was a chance to live.

They purchased visas for Cuba and passage from Hamburg to Havana aboard the luxury liner St. Louis. Some had already been in concentration camps. Others had been pushed to the brink of madness by months of hiding.

Cuba turned the ship back after unloading a handful of mysterious, privileged passengers. The United States refused them entry. After 49 days, the St. Louis turned back toward Europe. England, France, Belgium and the Netherlands finally agreed to take a quarter of the passengers apiece. But it was the eve of the war. The three continental countries were soon to be occupied. When the holocaust ended, only 288 passengers from the St. Louis had survived.

Gordon Thomas and Max Morgan Witts, former BBC producers, interviewed many of those survivors and some St. Louis crew members. The result is a book, Voyage of the Damned, documenting Nazi propaganda efforts and espionage as well as corruption in the Cuban government of the day.

Thomas, who says, "This is the only book I've ever been emotionally involved" in," is the author of 38 books. With Morgan Witts, he writes about people under stress.

"It is fascinating to observe them looking back without hatred or self-pity," he said.

Some survivors just couldn't talk about it, even today.

"Four of those people who were children on the ship had things harmed into their minds. When they finally made their way to the promised land, and met hostility, rejection . . . the whole thing built up a crisis of identity". Six of the surviving passengers are mental patients. One lives in fear behind locked doors in a London suburb.

Promoting the book in the United States, Thomas, travelled for eight weeks, lecturing mainly to Jewish groups.

"Antisemitism is still pretty rife in this country. I had a number of telephone calls from the Bund, and I consider that a verbal, insane tip of a dangerous iceberg."

Most people were saying, "Why make us feel uncomfortable?"

"I say we need to be made uncomfortable. Do you know there are people picnicking on the grass at Dachau today -

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We understand that this is a good time of year to vacation in Vermont. Can you give any details?

ANSWER: Vermont is essentially an outdoor state, a mass of forests so dense that entire landscapes are green. Even the green of the golf courses seem greener in Vermont. But it's an outdoor state that has absorbed and encouraged the finer aspects of civilization. In Vermont you divide your time between the outdoors and quaint festivals and art festivals, museums and antique stores. Vermont covers an area of 9,609 square miles, bordered by Canada, New York State, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. Down the centre, from north to south, run two ridges of mountains — the Green Mountains and the Taconics. They're what bring people to Vermont again and again, in mind or body.

The Green Mountain National Forest has 240,000 acres of woodland streams and ponds, and this is where you'll find most of the state's ski resorts. There are over 30 state parks and forests, with facilities for picnics, fishing, boating and camping. If you're a lake lover you're in your element in Vermont — 400 lakes and ponds, to say nothing of a thousand rivers and streams.

Fortunately the lakes and ponds far outnumber the historic sites, and seeing the sights is a pastime you approach leisurely in the Vermont manner.

The Shelburne Museum, on Route 7, is an outdoor museum with 35 early American buildings, a covered bridge, the last of the old sidewheel steamers from Lake Champlain and an early Vermont steam train. There are more trains over at Bellows Falls, in a museum called Steamtown USA — complete with steam locomotives, cabooses, turntables and water towers. The Bennington Museum has a fine collection of American glass, Bennington pottery and paintings by Grandma Moses — one of America's legendary primitive painters. The Bundy Art Gallery, on Route 105 at Wallingford, has contemporary art and sculpture displayed in 90 acres of lawns and woodlands. Even the museum and art galleries take to the outdoors in Vermont. So do several of the state's 12 summer theatres and seven festivals of the performing arts.

Near Montpelier, Vermont's capital, you can visit the world's largest granite quarries; and Vermont Marble has a museum and exhibit in Proctor.

There are 76 major winter sports resorts in Vermont and almost 50 smaller areas, which make it one of the leading ski states in the Northeast in winter, and one of the most visited sightseeing states in summer. When the last skier has clamped his boots for the last time each season, the gondolas and chairlifts begin to fill with sightseers eager to take the effortless way to the top of Mount Snow, Sugarbush, Killington, Bromley, Mount Mansfield (highest in the state at 4,393 feet), and Stratton Mountain. At Jay Peak, you go up by aerial tramway. At Lake Champlain — Warren Airport, you can go up in a glider for a sightseeing glide over the mountains — the most hushed of all sightseeing tours. But most visitors will probably prefer to cruise across Lake Champlain (you can chop 85 miles from a jaunt into New York State by taking your car over on the ferry), or ride through the Green Mountains on a steam train.

Vermont is a state to cover by bus or car. Interstate 91, paralleling the Connecticut River, is the speedy north-south artery, but you may prefer to drive closer to the banks of the river on U.S. 5, U.S.—7, also runs north-south from Lake Champlain and Canada. Vermont is a place to savor, so take the back roads where possible — roads like Rte. 8, State 30, and State 12. When you're driving around the countryside for Vermont you'll notice other vacationers stopping off at country stores and wayside stands. They're putting together dozens of sugar cured ham, smoked cheeses and cider. Join them. There's plenty of time.

'Clenched Fist' Policy Of Police Irks French

PARIS (CP) — Since mid-June, night-time strollers and motorists have been halted without warning by police demanding their identification papers.

The "clenched fist" policy introduced by Interior Minister Michel Poniatowski has stirred controversy throughout France.

It has been welcomed by elderly night-watchmen, taxi drivers and tradesmen, many of whom have been victims at one time or another of assault, burglary or vandalism.

Others, notably jurists, professors and even some policemen, condemn the measure as a restriction of civil liberties which has little effect on the operations of the country's dangerous criminals.

The measure, put in action mainly during weekends in large urban areas, is aimed at stemming a rise in crime, particularly in Paris, Marseilles and Lille.

In 1973 there were 36,000 reported assaults in urban areas, not including burglaries, armed robberies and rapes—crimes, most often delinquents committed by juveniles.

Burglaries have risen 133 per cent over seven years and statistics indicate that if nothing is done to check this rising rate, the figure will triple by 1980.

Marseilles, with a population of 900,000, reported 433 armed robberies and 16,000 burglaries last year in addition to 700 assaults on women. In Nantes, a city of 300,000 in Brittany, assaults rose from 42 in 1963 to 228 last year, while burglaries increased to 1,800 from 594 and car thefts to 2,700 from 300.

The "clenched-fist operation involves more than 10,000 officers.

Between mid-June and mid-July, 180,000 persons were stopped and 1,800 detained. Of this number, 300 received summonses. Checks were made on 21,000 autos and 18,000 motorbikes and mopeds.

Although some offenders were apprehended, the large majority of those caught up in the police operations were innocent citizens, some of whom complained of rough treatment from the police.

Many of these incidents were reported by the press and the increase week by week of reports of over-zealous police tactics aroused journalists, jurists and professors to contest the government measures.

Prof. Gerard Soulier of the law faculty at Amiens University analyzed the full significance of the measures and concluded that they are contrary to French law. He said the "clenched-fist" operation allowed police to treat all citizens as suspects, forcing them to provide identification to prove their innocence.

Soulier also noted that the minister himself recognized, indirectly perhaps, the illegality of the measures, since he told officers to send letters of apology carrying his signature to those who produced proper papers when stopped by police.

The minister wrote in the letters: "The security and peace of people living in suburban areas must be assured, especially if these people are elderly, women and children. That is why, this evening, you were faced with a new check. I am sorry if you were inconvenienced but I am sure you understand the necessity of this measure. Thank you."

In an editorial, Le Monde, a Paris newspaper, noted that a citizen who is not caught committing an offence is not obliged to show identification.

Undoubtedly a large number of French people do not realize they have this right. Others, who know of it, dare not stand by it when they suddenly find themselves encircled at night by a group of police officers enforcing the clenched-fist measure.

THE DOW THEORY CAN MAKE YOU RICH — Robert M. Barnes

The Dow Theory method of market forecasting is probably the best known and least understood tool of the sophisticated investor. now Mr. Barnes, using his clear, simplified mathematics to reveal, in plain English, the surprisingly sensible basics. Outlining specific ways to use the Dow Theory, with illustrations, he enables the reader to analyze the factors which affect stock market prices.

PROFESSIONAL FICTION WRITING — Jean Z. Owen

There are on hand end-of-fast rides for writing for publication, but many of the important questions which confront every writer of short stories and novels are answered in this new book. There are chapters on selecting material, first sentences, likable characters, effective dialogue and many other aspects of the craft. Examples are given from published stories to illustrate each point.

FOSTER AND LAURIE — Gregory Foster and Rocco Al Silvestri

Laurie were two tough, committed rookies beginning to show the makings of first-rate police officers. Then in January 1972 they were gunned down without warning by the Black Liberation Army group. Al Silverman concentrates on the human aspect of the story: how they grew up, their term in Vietnam and why they decided to become policemen. He tells how they adjusted to the dangers of the job and coped with the agony of wives and families. It is an inspiring story of co-operation and courage.

OLGA — Justin Beecham

Natural charm and stunning athletic ability brought young Olga Korbut to the attention of the world in the 1972 Olympics. Only four feet, 11 inches in height, Olga is shown in text and pictures at home, in training, on tour and in competition.

WIDOW — Lynn Caine

One out of every six women in the United States is a widow. For most of them, says this author, the experience is not only a personal tragedy, but often a rude awakening to the fact that our society turns away from death and from those who have been left behind. In her book Mrs. Caine has written an honest and graphic account of her experiences and emotions before and after her husband's death and how she and her children coped with illness, death and bereavement.

Northern Folk Can Get Grants

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Older residents of the Yukon Territories who want to resume postsecondary education in the near future can now do so with the help of a new territorial education department grant and bursary program.

Residents of the territory between the ages of 24 and 36 can be eligible for financial assistance if they meet eligibility rules.

Under old regulations, a person was ineligible for financial assistance if he or she was 24 or older before classes started.

The new grant system provides for a maximum of $2,400 during a four-year period, paid at $600 a year. The bursary is based on an academic standing of 65 per cent with a maximum of $1,500 during four years.

DIVISION OF DYLEX LIMITED

THE LOBLAWS PROMISES.

We wouldn't have made them if we didn't intend to keep them.

Over a year ago we made a number of promises to you.

We took these promises seriously. And we think our people have done an excellent job of living up to them. Apparently you do too, because our sales figures show we're wanting over new customers every week.

Now we'd like to bring you up-to-date on exactly how well we've kept those promises.

1. We promised prices competitive with our major competitors.

Overall, if you shop at Loblaws on a weekly basis, you'll be getting the very top value for your shopping dollar.

True, we may get beat on price on some items in any given week. But on the other hand, we'll also have our share of price advantages.

Our promise of the very top value is just one part of a pricing policy that aims at bringing you the lowest possible food prices.

Another part of this policy is that wherever there are two or more prices on an individual item, the lowest price will always prevail.

2. We promised the best values in weekly specials.

No one will beat us on weekly specials. If a competitor advertises a lower price, we automatically come down to meet it.

We're living up to this promise.

Also, our specials feature everyday items. A great price on something you wouldn't normally buy is no bargain for you.

We put our specials right up front in prominent displays. We want you to take advantage of them.

If we do run out of a special--we'll give you a raincheck.

3. We promised a fresh, clean shopping environment.

We have a regular in-store program designed to insure clean, easy-to-shop stores with well-stocked shelves.

We've renovated many of our stores, and we're in the process of doing more.

We believe housekeeping is one of the basics of this business. We aren't about to let you down.

4. We promised the widest, most complete selection of any supermarket.

We lived up to this one at the start. And we're living up to it now.

This means that--as a Loblaws customer--you're able to get not only what you want, but in the brand and size you want too.

It means at Loblaws, you make your choice--it's not made for you.

5. We promised well-informed personnel who will give you the assistance you require.

We've made every effort to have our personnel know the basics of their store so they can answer your questions.

Not only that, our people are trained to stop what they're doing and give assistance if you need it.

6. We promised the freshest fruits and vegetables.

We always start with the very top grade produce from our suppliers. You can count on that.

But we also promised that our fruits and vegetables would be fresh not only when you bought them, but when you used them as well.

So we upgraded our equipment: refrigerated trucks. A special refrigerated section of our new distribution centre. And we added efficiencies in getting the produce to the stores as soon as possible.

If our produce isn't fresh when you use it--you get your money back. It's that important to us.

7. We promised the finest quality meats.

Every piece of Loblaws meat has to live up to rigid standards before our men will buy it.

We always start with quality meat.

After that, we give you the finest trim possible--so you don't pay for meat you can't use.

To back our meat promise, we offer you this guarantee: if you aren't satisfied with any piece of Loblaws meat, we'll give you your money back.

It's that simple.

8. We promised top quality and value in Loblaws brands.

Loblaws brands offer a very practical way for you to watch your budget. We feel we're well on our way to having the best private label program in North America.

Our brands offer a very real savings over national brands on over 350 different items.

And they offer such outstanding quality that we can back our brands with the easiest-to-understand, most powerful guarantee we could think of: once again--total satisfaction or your money back.

9. We promised friendly, courteous personnel.

We asked our people to bend over backwards to be as courteous and friendly as they possibly could.

We couldn't have asked for a better response.

It may be an old-fashioned virtue, but as far as we're concerned, it's a large part of what this business is all about.

10. We promise to be not only a responsible business in the community, but a participating citizen in it.

This is a new promise. But it's not a new philosophy for us. And we think we have the track record to convince you that this is not another hollow corporate promise.

Our Family-Card cheque-cashing plan and our on-staff Consumer Advocate are good examples of the way we do a little extra to accommodate our customers.

Our employees are often involved--despite their heavy schedules--with neighborhood, school and government groups in the community.

We think this kind of participation is important and we encourage it. After all, we live in the community, too. We want it to be as nice as possible.

THE LOBLAWS PLATFORM.

1. We promise prices competitive with our major competitors.
2. We promise the best values in weekly specials.
3. We promise a fresh, clean shopping environment.
4. We promise the widest, most complete selection of any supermarket.
5. We promise well-informed personnel who will give you the assistance you require.
6. We promise the freshest fruits and vegetables.
7. We promise the finest quality meats.
8. We promise top quality and value in Loblaws brands.
9. We promise friendly, courteous personnel.
10. We promise to be not only a responsible business in the community, but a participating citizen in it.

The Loblaws Platform. Ten promises. If we haven't lived up to every one of them 100%, well, it hasn't been for lack of trying. We do feel we've made incredible strides. And we aren't stopping now. We're constantly improving--and proving that more than the price is right.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Opera Company opened its 26th season Friday night with two 20th century one-act operas, neither of which drew more than polite applause from the near-capacity audience to the 1,858-seat O'Keefe Centre.

He died Thursday of complications of a broken hip in a hospital here, near the desert he loved to paint.

Swinnerton was the creator of the cartoon strips Little Jimmy and The Genero Kiddies which depicted the adventures of Navajo and Hopi Indian youngsters on their desert homeland.

Swinnerton was the nephew of Hearst Corp. executive. He retired out of art school by William Randolph Hearst Sr. in 1892 as a cartoonist for the San Francisco Examiner. Later he went East with Hearst to help with the first Sunday supplements. He created his cartoon strips for this section.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Thursday, Sept. 12 :

ARIES (March 21-April 19): One the next few days you'll find yourself rich in demand socially. It should be fun. There is one arrangement, though, you'll have to be careful of.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): This is a good time to give serious consideration to making creative changes around the home. They'll add both warmth and beauty.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take time to get in touch with people who have in your future plans. It will be easier to reach them now than later.

Bean Sprouts Cheap And Fine Flavored

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Lee, one of the top five bean sprout growers in Toronto's Bargaining Chinatown, chuckles when he hears that the majority of Chinese food eaters cannot identify the kind of vegetable they're eating when they dig into a plate of chow mein.

It's bean sprouts, which Mr. Lee describes as the cheapest and most delicately flavored vegetable in the world.

Although they have little in the way of fat or protein, they contain vitamins and they fill a plate nicely. In fact, bean sprouts are 90 per cent water, which probably accounts for the spectacular cloths about being hungry an hour after eating Chinese food.

Mr. Lee, president of the Wing Sing Bean Sprout Co. and supplier of the Golden crown Jumbo Mung Bean Sprouts to many of Toronto's finest Chinese restaurants, said sprout farming is relatively simple, but the profit is exceptional.

Mr. Lee's place in the basement of the company's premises at 16 Dowsley, Toronto. The growing cycle is about 72 hours from bean to mature sprout and he services the trade himself for any day of the week. Some days he has a crop to within 15 minutes of the dinner hour.

Golden Crown Mungs are imported from Oklahoma, and cost Mr. Lee about $26.25 for a 100-pound bag. This produces up to five times the weight in sprouts and those, said a local distributor, wholesale for between 15 and 17 cents a pound.

Middlemen can sometimes push the price up to 25 cents a pound, but the producer does not share the extra profit. Mr. Lee said he makes only 61 cents a pound on his produce in this highly competitive market, just enough to pay for gas, water, overhead and the salaries of six employees.

Mr. Lee does not cultivate Golden Crowns exclusively. He has a few vats of cheaper varieties from Peru and Thailand for the low-priced restaurants and he and some restaurants with fine reputations sometimes mix the lesser varieties with the best to keep costs down.

A first-rate dish of bean sprouts is, first of all, uniform. Each sprout is about 1½ inches long, plump in the middle and tapering toward each end. It is soft and crunchy.

The worst stock, about half the size of a pea, and twice as hard, is hardtack when picked.

Mr. Lee dumps 10 pounds of beans in an earthenware pot and hides them from any source of light. The only other ingredient is water, which is changed five or six times a day during the sprout-growing cycle.

Temperature is maintained in the basement at between 60 and 70 degrees. Each bean produces only one sprout and is discarded after harvesting. The weight gain is nothing but water.

The company describes bean sprouts as the cheapest and most delicately flavored vegetable in the world. (CP Photo)

Labor Unrest Seems Likely to Stay High

OTTAWA (CP) — The unrest caused labor unrest caused by inflation this year seems unlikely to abate in the coming fall and winter as crucial contracts come up for renegotiation and unless fence warnings yr tough bargaining ahead.

The history of present and upcoming contract talks shows that many agreements in key sectors of industry and government are expiring.

That fact, coupled with inflation that has led to illegal strikes and demands for interim wage increases, has painted an ominous picture for the future.

Already in the first six months of 1974, 8.2 million man-days were lost due to work stoppages, compared with the record 7.5 million for the full 12 months of 1973.

Two major disputes this summer, involving the 850 Vancouver grain handlers and 1,200 Great Lakes ships' officers and engineers, have recently caused difficulties for the federal government in blocking vital shipments of grain.

But many more potentially-troublesome negotiations have just begun recently or are still to come.

One of the current disputes involves Air Canada's 1,200 pilots. Conciliation proceedings in that dispute begin today in Toronto under conciliation commissioner Stan Hart.

It may have been only psychological warfare, but the pilots have already taken out a $4 million loan for a strike fund.

On that day contracts end simultaneously for nearly 100,000 railway workers, 45,000 postal workers, 1,700 Thunder Bay grain handlers, 2,500 British Columbia longshoremen, 600 Montreal longshoremen and 3,500 St. Lawrence River longshoremen.

The postal employees situation will be doubly complex in the event of mediators become the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, representing fascia workers, and the Letter Carriers' Union, representing delivery men, will be negotiating separately.

In many of the disputes—the railway workers, postal workers, and longshoremen—monetary contentions issue is job security, although inflation has temporarily taken the edge off that question.

Outside the federal jurisdiction, there are a large number of industrial contracts to be renegotiated.

Contracts yet to expire before the end of the year cover such groups as 1,300 Newsprint Mills employees and 3,700 asbestos workers in Quebec, 1,000 pulp and paper employees in Ontario, 2,500 lumber and sawmill workers in Newfoundland, 2,000 coal miners in Cape Breton and 4,000 New Brunswick public servants.

Among groups now negotiating agreements are 8,000 Teamster members across Ontario and 4,000 Massey-Ferguson employees in Brantford and Toronto who have threatened to strike Friday.

Bland Diet For Ulcers Derided

DETROIT (Reuter) — For the businessman nursing his ulcer, a leading authority on the digestive system has this advice: Eat what suits you and forget about special diets.

The authority, Dr. Daniel Hollander, chief of gastroenterology at Wayne State University in Detroit, also scoffs at the notion that milk and cream in coffee helps control stomach acid and helps cure ulcers.

Hollander said a meeting of doctors and dietitians at the Detroit Medical Center: "The preoccupation with diet as a treatment for ulcers is a wonderful fact ought to be demolished."

Patients with ulcers usually feel at least when they eat regular diets of their own choosing as they will when placed on a diet low in spices, he said.

Hollander said that in an experiment on patients with ulcers, one group ate a special diet consisting only of bland foods and another group ate a regular diet. The healing rate of the two groups measured a month later, was identical.

When he was practising in San Antonio, Tex., he added, many of his ulcer patients ate spicy Mexican food with no ill effects.

Experiments, some of which he had directed himself, showed that milk had little or no effect on the acidity of the stomach.

The most effective way to reduce stomach acidic is for the patient to take antacids containing calcium carbonate, Hollander said.

He also suggested that ulcer patients avoid caffein and alcohol, although he added that the evidence that this was helpful was slight.

U.S. Undertakes Review Of Policy Toward Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — In direct signals from Havana that Fidel Castro may be interested in talking with the United States have led the Ford administration to begin an extensive review of U.S. policy toward the Caribbean island.

The Cuban preamble is thought to be more receptive to a dialogue with Washington in order not to remain totally dependent on the Soviet Union, which supplies his regime with about $1 million a day in aid.

The feelers are being conveyed sometimes through the occasional U.S. visitor to Cuba and also by a less-bottle postmaster recently by Cuba toward the United States.

Although no firm decision is imminent, the policy review might eventually lead to a reversal of the U.S. effort to isolate Cuba from the rest of the hemisphere.

The United States broke relations with Cuba in 1961, imposed a trade embargo in 1962, and joined with all Latin American countries except Mexico in 1964 in trying to isolate Cuba both diplomatically and economically.

However, six nations have since restored relations with Havana. Panama has announced its intention to follow suit, and Colombia, Costa Rica and Venezuela have asked the Organization of American States to remove foreign ministers in Quito, Ecuador, in November to consider a reversal of the embargo.

Unlike past administrations, which were firmly opposed to changing U.S. policy, President Ford and his top advisers are said to have an open mind now on Cuba.

At a news conference Aug. 28, Ford said the United States remains bound by the embargo, but he seemed to leave open the possibility of going along with a majority vote for reversal.

'Thar She Blows' Heard No More

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Thar she blows! the traditional call of a whale spotter perched high in the foremast of a whaling ship is heard no more in Newfoundland waters.

A ban on commercial whaling was ordered in December, 1972, by the environment department, and on the shores of Conception Bay local whaling ships are rusting and rotting submerged in harbor waters.

But beaching the boats and leaving the factories and men idle is not for want of whales, according to Newfoundland fishermen.

In fact, the mighty mammals, some of which weigh as much as 135 tons and can cruise the seas as fast as ocean liners, have been reported plentiful in Newfoundland waters during the past two summers.

This season, the mammals have entangled themselves and destroyed nets and traps of local fishermen and have stranded themselves in shallow coves and harbors while driving shorewards after the bait fish, herring and caplin.

At Frenchman's Cove on Fortune Bay a crew of three fishermen had their $5,000 cod trap damaged by a single whale in the extent that they abandoned the fishery completely.

The conservation measures introduced to protect the whales are beginning to backfire, according to the inshore fishermen. They claim the complete ban on whaling is resulting in an increase in numbers and the mammals have to come close to shore in search of fish.

And since the whales are not frequenting any particular areas, but are reported from all along the island's 6,000-mile coastline, there appears to be some logic in the fishermen's argument.

The damage caused by the whale at Frenchman's Cove is not an isolated incident. Fishermen from the shores of the Burin Peninsula, from Bonavista Bay and other points on the island have reported damaged fishing gear and lost time due to the presence of whales close inshore during the past two or three years.

In January, 1967, an 80-ton fin whale became trapped in a salt-water pond near Burgeo, on the southwest coast, and caused considerable controversy among residents. Author-naturalist Farley Mowat later wrote a book on the incident entitled A Whale For The Killing.

This year, a similar incident occurred near Port aux Basques at the southwest tip of the island. But unlike the Burgeo whale the mammal did not die in its trap.

Newfoundland waters are known for many species of whales including the large blue, fin, bumpback, sei and sperm. Among the smaller species, the pothead and beluk whales are common and were hunted extensively by local fishermen for mink food when mink raising was at its height in the province.

The big guns among local whalers, when factories were operating along the coast, was the sperm from a single sperm that became trapped or the shores of Bonavista Bay, processors took 400 gallons of spermaceti, a waxy substance obtained from the head of the mammal for use in the manufacture of ointments, and 2,000 gallons of oil was extracted from the blubber.

The pothead became popular with local fishermen and processors when the provincial government, following Confederation in 1949, started an extensive mink-raising industry.

In the 1964 season, 1,700 potheads were slaughtered for mink food and oil.

The earliest whaling men who frequented Newfoundland waters were the Spanish Basques and the Biscayans in the 16th century. Next came the Bretons, French, Portuguese and the west countrymen of England. After them came the Newfoundlanders, Americans, Canadians, Norwegians and Scots.

American whaling operations were carried on along Many ventures have been made down through the years.

In recent years, whaling operations in Newfoundland waters have primarily been the hunting of the fin whale, and between 1966 and 1971 an average of 464 of this species was taken from inland and Labrador waters each season.

After 1971, fin whale stocks became so depleted that the industry folded. It became active again in the late 1920s and catches increased yearly.

However, two years ago East Coast whaling was indefinitely halted by the then environment minister, Jack Davis.

By banning the whale hunt, Canada joined the U.S. and Britain which applied a similar ban in 1971. Now there is no whaling on the eastern seaboard, but the slaughter still goes on in international waters with Japan and Russia the major killers.

Seaweed-eating Sheep Preserved

LONDON (CP) — A rare breed of seaweed-eating sheep are getting a small island in the Orkneys all to themselves.

The Rare Breeds Survival Trust, a voluntary body formed in 1973, has bought the uninhabited island of Linga Holm as a haven for the breed, which has thrived to one flock confined to the island of North Ronaldsay.

Human traffic to their present habitat increases the risk of foot and mouth disease and the possibility of an old sick that might destroy the sheep or their food.

The intention is to let the half-wild sheep look after themselves on Linga Holm without shepherds or flock management. The animals are tough and prolific, often producing twins or triplets.

The island affords shelter from the wind as it rises to a low hill in the centre and there is plenty of fresh water in a small lake near the coast.

Two derelict buildings will be used as hides for the island's only human visitors, researchers wanting to study wildlife.

Other sheep from the North Ronaldsay flock will go to private landowners who have agreed to help the trust by looking after them.

PLANS LEGISLATION

LONDON (CP) — Home Secretary Roy Jenkins has told Parliament he intends to introduce legislation to deal with sex discrimination. His proposal includes establishment of an equal opportunities commission with responsibility for enforcing new laws applying to employment, education, housing, provision of goods, facilities, services and advertising.

Ethiopian Army Deposes Selassie

ADDIS ABABA (Reuter) — The Ethiopian armed forces today deposed Emperor Haile Selassie and declared an provisional military government to rule for the country.

A statement broadcast by the armed forces committee, which has gradually stripped the emperor of his power since it began a bloodless revolution last March, said the country's constitution has been suspended and both houses of parliament dissed.

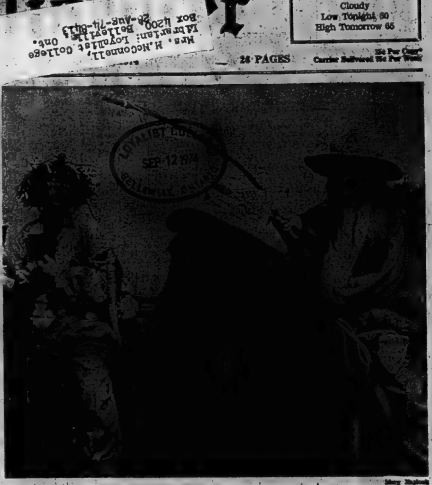
Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, 57, now in Switzerland, will be recalled to be king and act as the figurehead of a constitutional monarchy. He is the deposed emperor's son.

The statement said the military administration will remain in force until democratic elections are held under a new constitution.

The 81-year-old emperor and all members of the imperial family were reported under detention in the national palace. Ministers of the civilian government have been asked to continue their jobs.

Several hours later, Ethiopian radio announced the emperor had been "taken to a place specially prepared for him."

There were reports he had been taken in a car followed by a second vehicle carrying armed soldiers, to the headquarters of the 4th army division.



Tanks rumbled up to the national palace, the emperor's residence, at 4:30 a.m. and took up positions in front of the entrances. Tanks also were stationed around the national bank—opposite the defence ministry—and main city squares.

The overthrow of the Lion of Judah was the climax of 4 months-long campaign by leaders of the Ethiopian armed forces. In the end, the army's once ruled supreme over 36 million people and was one of the most respected monarchs in the world had been reduced to a figurehead, a virtual prisoner in his own palace.

First the armed forces, then the politicians and finally the mass of the population joined in the campaign for his removal. Last he stood accused of bringing the country to the brink of ruin, provoking internal dissension and personally enriching himself at the expense of the people.

An armed forces committee announcement broadcast over radio and television said the emperor had refused to return billions of dollars and hundreds of tons of gold seized by slave labor. He had been asked to hand back the money to help alleviate the suffering of people in the country's drought areas.

Carrot Testing

One way to control a horse is by dangling a carrot before its nose. Leanne Hassenbach, 11, tried the experiment Wednesday, as she and her friend, Lorna Meakter on her pony Lady, attended Prince Edward County's only remaining township fair as Milford. For story see page three.

Cunard Luxury Liner Afire in Mexican Gulf

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The luxury liner Cunard Ambassador was afire today in the Gulf of Mexico and most of its 399 crew members abandoned ship, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

"The fire's in the engine room and seems pretty serious," Coast Guard Lieutenant George Johnson in Miami said. "They tried to put it out themselves and couldn't—that's serious."

There were no immediate reports of injuries. The ship was carrying no passengers at the time of the fire.

Johnson said the crew was climbing into life rafts in calm seas.

"There are no reports of panic. Things seem to be going orderly, as orderly as something like that can," Johnson said. He remained in radio contact with the ship and said Coast Guard aid dispatched to the site.

The closest ship to the 486-foot Ambassador, owned by Cunard Lines Ltd., was the U.S. naval ship Tallahatchie, about a mile away, Johnson said. A cargo ship, California, was about seven miles away.

The 16-foot coast guard cutter Cape York in Key West, could not reach the burning liner until 1 a.m., about three hours after the distress call, Johnson said.

The luxury liner, built in 1971, had left Miami at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and was en route to New Orleans to pick up cruise passengers, a spokesman said. The ship can hold a maximum of 628 passengers.

Cubans Will Seek Pardons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two convicted Watergate figures will take quick advantage of President Ford's decision to allow another request for pardon individually, their lawyer says.

"We will promptly submit an application," Daniel Schorr, attorney for Bernard Barker, a Watergate break-in leader, and Manuel Antonio Carlos Rolando Martinez, both members of the Cuban community in Miami, said Thursday for their roles in the original Watergate burglary and were convicted by a jury in connection with the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Barker, 57, is appealing in both cases and is free on bond. Martinez, 52, is appealing the Ellsberg conviction and has been paroled. Both men served a year in prison for the Watergate burglary.

White House press secretary John Rueben said Wednesday that Ford will review individual pardon requests from defendants in Watergate-related cases, but he ruled out any blanket pardons.

Portuguese Soldiers Calm Town

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Heavy fighting has been reported in the slums of Lourenco Marques, but reinforced Portuguese troops appeared today to be getting control of Mozambique's capital, officials said.

Hundreds of soldiers were flown from central and northern Mozambique Wednesday.

The troops sealed off parts of the city shortly before midnight as sporadic looting broke out again in the African quarters. Job military authorities said the situation was calmer than on Tuesday night.

Authorities at Miguel Bombarda Hospital where most civilian casualties were taken, said 11 persons died at the hospital and the bodies of 29 others had been brought in since Tuesday. All but nine of the dead were blacks, he said.

There were unconfirmed reports that as many as 20 were killed Tuesday after the collapse of a white settlers' rebellion against the Portuguese government's agreement to grant control of the government to Frelimo, the black guerrilla movement that has fought the Portuguese army to a standstill.

The Portuguese government in Lisbon said in a communique early today the death toll was about 100.

Blacks celebrating the end of the rebellion went on a spree of looting and violence in the ramshackle shanties on three sides of the city.

Oil Exporters Meet To Consider Prices

VIENNA (Reuter) — Major oil-exporting countries consider today whether to impose a new price rise on economies already battered by spiralling petroleum costs.

As oil ministers of the 13-nation Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) assembled for their fourth price review this year, OPEC sources in Vienna yesterday went to maintain a nine-month-old price freeze, some wanting a straight, 10 per cent increase, want only token rises through higher royalties or taxes on crude oil.

There also are signs OPEC leaders who want to limit production to maintain prices at a time when there is already a flowing trough the pipeline than the world needs.

OPEC members produce 85 per cent of the oil imported by major Western consuming nations.

Algeria, Ecuador, Kuwait and Venezuela are among OPEC nations favoring a price increase. Other members include Indonesia, Iran, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, with Gabon an associate member.

Injunction Extended

STRATFORD (CP) — A second extension of an Aug. 19 injunction ordering striking workers at Stratford General Hospital from going on strike was granted Wednesday by the Ontario Supreme Court. Legal representatives of both the hospital and the Canadian Union of Public Employees requested the extra week's extension Wednesday morning in Toronto.

Indians' Rights Upheld

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta Provincial Court Judge Ken Rogers has ruled that Indian hunting rights guaranteed by treaty take precedence over the Natural Resources Transfer Act of 1930 which gave provinces the right to administer wildlife resources within their boundaries.

Riding May Be Split

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — City council put forward a proposal Wednesday to split Premier William Davis' Peel North riding into at least three parts. Peel North encompasses half of Mississauga, the city of Brampton and the town of Caledon.

Interns Get More

TORONTO (CP) — An arbitration award giving interns and resident doctors in Ontario hospitals pay increases of between 31 and 75 per cent over two years has been accepted by all parties involved, a spokesman for the Professional Association of Interns and Residents of Ontario said Wednesday. The settlement, arbitrated by Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, also establishes a maximum work week of 85 hours. Interns earned $7,000 a year under the old contract.

Profits Tax Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Canada should have an excess profits tax aimed primarily at big businesses in a position to take advantage of inflation, Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba said today.

TTC Will Sue Union For Delay in Return

TORONTO (CP) — The five-man Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) decided unanimously Wednesday to initiate grievance proceedings against Division 113, Amalgamated Transit Union and obtain damages in connection with the recent transit strike.

The 3,700 union members did not return to work until four days after the Ontario legislature passed emergency legislation ordering an end to the strike, which paralyzed public transit for 23 days.

The TTC estimated that fares during the four days would have totaled about 13 million and now is preparing the bill for damages.

The TTC must seek permission from the Ontario Labor Relations Board to prosecute the union, then take the case into provincial court.

Meanwhile, Leonard Moynihan, local president of the transit union, said the union plans to file a counter grievance against the TTC.

Mr. Moynihan said lawyers now are working on the union grievance.

"I think we can argue quite well there was failure to bargain in good faith," he said.

Poor May Sue Food Boards

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth Dawson, lawyer of the Ontario Anti-Poverty Organization, says the group plans to take local boards that destroy edible food in Canada.

"We're looking at the laws governing marketing boards and we think there is some kind of obligation for them to market commodities efficiently," he said.

Mr. Dawson said he is not certain that he will find a basis in law to bring a class action against boards that destroy marketing boards, prohibiting them in Canada.

He said he did not think anything could be done beat the agency which had 13 million eggs out in warehouses.

Mr. Dawson's comments came at a news conference announcing the Toronto People's conference called Commitment '74 which will bring working and non-working poor, farm groups, labor leaders and community activists together.

Foreign Control Will Grow

SASKATOON (CP) — Edmonton publisher Mel Hurtig predicted Thursday that foreign ownership in Canada will increase by a minimum of $35 billion by 1978, with many large foreign companies locating in Canada for the first time.

While acknowledging a decline in the takeover of Canadian businesses, Mr. Hurtig told the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants that "existing foreign-controlled operations will substantially expand their operations in the next five years, accounting for most of the new growth in foreign ownership."

Various more important changes are made soon, I truly believe that Canada will have passed the point of no return," said the former president of the Committee for an Independent Canada.

Reports on United States investment plans issued by the U.S. department of commerce indicate foreign ownership in Canada will grow by a minimum of $5 billion in 1974, he continued.

"Canada now has more non-resident ownership and even greater non-resident control of its industry than all of the United States, Britain, Germany, France, Spain, Italy and Japan put together."

In a caustic but Canada, armed with massive documentation of the damage of excessive foreign ownership, continues to allow ever-increasing rates of foreign control, Mr. Hurtig said.

Noting that flow of capital outside Canada has increased at the same time foreign ownership has increased, Mr. Hurtig said foreign ownership is a "direct contributor" to inflation, unemployment, depletion of natural resources and improper development of the secondary and service sectors of the economy.

Man Charged In Truck Thefts

BRIGHTON — Provincial police here have charged Jim Lahti, 19, of RR 6 Trenton with arson, and break, enter and theft following a weekend series of incidents in which two government trucks were stolen and subsequently burned in a Trenton area drive-shed.

Belleville OPP say laid an additional three counts of theft under the auspices Laird after two canoes and an aluminum boat were stolen on the Trent River.

Brighton police released the names of the men Wednesday and said a warrant has been issued for the arrest of a second man.

Provincial police said three boats were stolen from the Glen Miller area, about 200 yards north of Lock No. 2 on the Trent River.

Police said today the thieves first stole the aluminum boat, and then the two canoes. Previous police reports indicated only the canoes were stolen. Police said one of the canoes was used to gain access to the department of Indian affairs and northern development garage on Highway 33, north of Trenton.

Two trucks were taken from the garage. Both have been recovered.

Police said one was found burned in a gutted Trenton area drive-shed while the second was recovered in 40 to 50 feet of water in the Trent River by Belleville police divers.

John Croskery of Marmora took a 1918 Fairbanks-Morse stationary engine, married it to the transmission and wheels from a Mercury half-ton truck, plus other bits and pieces from here and there and came up with this home-made tractor. The tractor pulled a one-ton load at the Marmora Drawing Matches and is used regularly as a flat and V-belt power source. Here, Mayor Robin Jeffrey and other delighted onlookers question Mr. Croskery, a retired mechanic, at Wednesday's Hastings County Plowing Matches.

Boaters Rescued After Craft Runs Aground

CONSECON — A co-ordinated effort between Stinson Block Rd. residents and the LaSalle Ambulance rescue craft saved a 32-foot cabin cruiser from extensive damage when it ran aground in a small bay between Robinson Point and North Bay here late Wednesday.

The cruiser, operated by Bill Vaughan of St. Thomas, ran into the rocky bay, attracted by the lights of the home of Thomas Short of RR 3 Consecon.

The boat, with two persons aboard, was heading for Kingston when it went off course.

An eyewitness said today the Vaughans were taken off the boat safely.

Stinson Block Rd. residents standing knee-deep in the cold, choppy water, kept the boat from breaking up, after its anchor rope broke.

Efforts to get assistance in pulling the cruiser from the rocks from the coast guard at CFB Trenton failed.

A CFB Trenton spokesman said today the coast guard does not perform salvage operations. Once boaters are safely ashore, the coast guard rents such work over to a salvage company.

A call by LaSalle Ambulance in Belleville brought Sid Meeks and the service's rescue craft to the bay.

A LaSalle spokesman said today the Vaughan cruiser was pulled off shore and taken to safe harbor, sometime after midnight.

Damage to the boat is not believed to be severe.

The LaSalle spokesman said the craft ran through the Murray Canal in its rescue effort. Operating crews from the Murray Canal pulled out of bed by telephone calls, opened the swing bridges.

The spokesman said the rescue effort, in waves reaching some six feet in height, were aided by a citizens band radio operator, Wayne Harvey, a resident of the Murray Canal area.

Plowing Match Decides Area's Top Furrowers

Three county plowmen emerged as kings of the furrows in the Hastings County Plowing Match held Wednesday on the farm of James Mills a mile east of Stirling on the Ridge Rd.

Senior champion was Ross Carlisle, RR3, Stirling, who won two classes and the Esso Championship Trophy. Mary Bell, RR3, Stirling, topped junior competitors with two class wins and the Eaton's Junior Championship Trophy. Rookie plowman of the match was Charles Doornbos, RR1, Foxboro, who had one class and won the International Harvester Co. Special prize.

This year's Hastings County Queen of the Furrows is Wendy Mumby of Stirling, who topped three other competitors in the women's event.

In a special class for county mayors, reeves, councillors and presidents of farm organizations, the finishers, in order were: Ken Mumby, president of the Stirling Fair Board; Belleville's Mayor Robin Jeffrey; Henry Van Winkoop, president of the Hastings County Farm Service Club and Ivan May, president of the Hastings Federation of Agriculture.

Parade Opens Fair

MILFORD — Although the Prince Edward County fair has discontinued its annual parade of school children, Milford fair keeps that tradition alive with a gala march each fall to the South Marysburgh recreation grounds.

The parade, which opens Milford fair, includes decorated tractor and farm wagons, pony carts, bicycles and dozens of other entries. This year's march was headed by the Prince Edward High Stepperettes led by Virginia O-borne.

Winners for the best horse entries in the parade were Mrs. Fred Hunsebeck and Lois Keogh. Real pony entries were ridden by Brenda Way, Christine Hunsebeck and Katrina Sherry.

Subcontractor Fined

TRENTON — A Belleville masonary subcontractor, Robert Collecchio, of 64 Charlotte St., was fined a total of $1,250 on two breaches of the Construction Safety Act in provincial court here Wednesday.

Judge R. C. Jackson found Collecchio guilty on the two counts, fining him $500 for the first and $750 for the second.

Charges against the subcontractor were laid in March and April when ministry of labor safety inspectors found that scaffolding used by Collecchio's bricklayers had neither safety rails on a ladder to give workers access to the 35-foot high scaffold platforms.

At the time of the offences, Collecchio was under contract to Miron-Wiggers Construction Ltd., builder of a townhouse development on Tripp Blvd.

Milford Fall Fair Praised For 'Down Home' Flavor

MILFORD — A school parade to the South Marysburgh recreation grounds Wednesday marked the opening of the 28th annual Milford fair, the only remaining township fair in Prince Edward County.

The one-day show was revived in the mid-forties to welcome home South Marysburgh soldiers following the Second World War. It has continued as a neighborhood get-together featuring horse and pony competition for junior exhibitors, home baking contests, fruit, vegetable and flower displays, arts and crafts and a baby sweepstakes.

The fair was officially opened Wednesday by Prince Edward County warden Keith MacDonald who praised organizers for the event's rural flavor and urged them to continue the tradition. He observed that, in a world that often tends to move too quickly, the fair offers an opportunity for relaxation and a return to "the good old days".

Among exhibits enjoyed by several hundred visitors to the fair was a Macdonald's Farm display including goats, kittens, puppies, goldfish, ducks and geese.

Prince Edward County warden Keith MacDonald praised the maintenance of the fall fair tradition as he addresses his opening remarks to several hundred people at Milford Wednesday. The Milford Fair, in its 128th consecutive year, was the last township fair in the county this year.

Nixon Pardon

Of course there is controversy over President Ford's decision to extend a free and absolute pardon to his embattled predecessor, Richard Nixon.

He has, in the words of one observer, "short-circuited" the legal process and classified the concept of equality before the law.

At the same time Ford has acted with courage and compassion, and with unselfish intent, taking into consideration all of the circumstances. Compassion for one thing is a quality that is conspicuous by its absence in public affairs, and more especially in politics. The mob clamoring for Nixon's head might remember also that he frequently displayed this very quality himself — personally contacting a variety of ordinary citizens who were in extremity of one kind or another.

It is far from certain that Nixon masterminded the Watergate affair. What is certain is that he had one overriding goal in office — that of securing a lasting peace, and of achieving detente between east and west. Watergate, one would have to conclude, must have been personally anathema to him, because of its implications. And what man, caught in such a dilemma, would have felt impelled to tell all?

But pardon or not, it is unlikely that we have heard the end of this matter, all the parties so affected starting (and given Ford's earlier statements) conflicting decision. There is still room though for consideration of the aspects of greatness in Richard Nixon the man, and former president, that led Ford to act as he did.

Reaching Out

A statement that might be pondered in the light of President Ford's decision of recent days. It goes like this: "Basically, people care about each other, although they may lose some of their humanity in the rat race."

The words are those of an American woman voluntary worker and she was speaking to a television program about efforts to secure better living conditions for fruit pickers and farm workers in California, the migrants and others.

California, as it turns out, is not the only area where there are problems for migrant workers such as those from Mexico. The Montreal Gazette in recent days has exposed the appalling living conditions of Canadian farm workers employed across the border in Maine.

The realities of life more often than not dictate that those in less privileged and less protected (say by unions) levels of society remain in this state of inequity, if not outright misery. It is only by constant vigilance, by the active concern of others, perhaps even action by the braver souls among those afflicted, that such conditions are exposed and remedial action taken.

Court Finesse

When it comes to tennis, Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Illinois, is some cracker-jack: a superb exponent of the power game allied with finesse, and too much once again for the aging Ken Rosewall. The score was the U.S. Open at Forest Hills where Connors repeated his Wimbledon triumph over the Australian.

In the women's singles it was Billie Jean King once again. The brilliant but unpredictable Evonne Goolagong had the title almost in her grasp only to see Billie Jean, who is nothing if not a fighter, come from behind to beat the Aussie girl.

No game is as demanding of the inner psyche, so loaded with pitfalls, so intolerant of error — especially in the crunch when either victory or defeat is but a point away. It is the sportsman in a player when he can treat these two "imposters," as Kipling put it, the same. For the spectators too, in such a situation, the sense of involvement is almost as painful, when the end comes after a performance out there on the court verging on greatness — and it is good that from such displays the game is increasing in popularity everywhere.

Increased Interest A Bid to Halt Run on Savings Bonds

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The closest that a good many people come to becoming investors is the annual purchase of Canada Savings Bonds.

Today, the government faces a major problem in trying to retain the popularity of CSBs. It will be trying harder than ever this fall to shore up the CSB image.

The bonds have been popular for more than a quarter of a century, as a safe source of a reasonable rate of interest and as an immediately available source of cash at full par value.

No government of Canada bond has ever defaulted.

This year, however, Ottawa has found that "reasonable" interest and safety of principal are not enough to ensure the loyalty of small investors at a time when other borrowers are competing with CSBs and offer ever-higher interest rates in the current tight-money economy.

As a direct result, savers have been cashing in their CSBs at three times the normal rate during the last several months, and switching their money into corporate bonds, guaranteed investment certificates and the like, all paying the highest yields in history.

Then, at Sept. 4, the public's holdings of CSBs were $8,323-million, down almost $1,300-million from a year earlier.

Finance Minister John Turner is naturally anxious to stop the erosion, since CSBs represent a considerable part of the government's outstanding borrowings. Ottawa wouldn't be able if redemptions continue to climb, not replacing the redeemed CSBs with new short-term borrowings would be expensive.

In its latest bid to encourage small investors to retain their CSBs, the government is increasing the average annual yield to 10.5 per cent on all bonds currently outstanding — provided they are held to their full maturity.

Just two months ago, Mr. Turner made a somewhat similar move when he announced various series of CSBs to a flat nine per cent yield-to-maturity, a figure considered by many little to persuade a good many CSB owners to hang on. The new 10.5 per cent rate could be more successful — provided that other investors' hopes that rates doesn't continue to go higher and higher.

With their 10.5 per cent yield, the unmatured bonds will still have a premium value over the new 1975 CSB series, which will pay a flat 8.75 per cent interest to maturity in 1984.

Today's Big yields have brought a discernible revival of public interest in bonds and other debt instruments. Not long ago, bonds, banks seemed to be the preserve of the wealthy and the aged, while most other investors sought their fortunes in common stocks.

That has all been changed by the stock market's collapse and the public's fears of inflation, recession and unemployment — fears which have driven the treasuries of the oil-producing countries, the price of energy-dependent goods and services has gone up. There has also been a decline in the purchasing power for industrial purposes in all importing countries, bringing a substantial decline in real economic growth and in employment.

Not all of the current troubles can be blamed on oil. Inflation was a substantial problem even before OPEC's price increases, with the cost of food and numerous other commodities rising sharply.

But the sudden jump in the price of oil, which fuels much of the motor industry, enables countries to cope with other aspects of inflation more effectively.

The crisis may prove to be even harder on the non-industrialized countries which have no oil resources.

The expanding populations in such countries, with their demands for better employment and shelter, have imposed strains on many governments.

Apart from the higher prices they must pay for imported oil to operate tractors and factories, the underdeveloped countries are also faced with a lessened demand for imported food and petrochemical-based fertilizers, and have become their best hope for expanding food production.

Oil Exporters Meeting in Vienna And Consumers Feel the Pinch

By PETER BUCKLEY
WASHINGTON (CP) — Despite increasing evidence of the havoc' European oil-fed economies and food supplies by high oil prices, talk in Arab hope in Washington that oil-exporting countries will prevail the price to drop in the near future.

Representatives of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) meet in Vienna that embraces the Arab producers along with Iran, Venezuela and other major exporters — to meet Saturday in Vienna against a background of continuing pressure from oil-pinched countries to ease the burden.

Indications are that the OPEC countries will stand firm for at least three months. Alternatively, they could decide to levy even higher prices to counteract the effects of inflation on the products the OPEC countries must buy. No one seriously expects a price reduction.

A clear indication of OPEC determination has been their reaction to a fall-off in world demand for oil — a subsequent build-up of supplies that threatened to force prices down. Led by Kuwait and Venezuela, the OPEC countries began reducing production. Kuwait's is now down by one-third.

Even Saudi Arabia, which flowed into the treasuries of the oil-producing countries, the price of energy-dependent goods and services has gone up. There has also been a decline in the purchasing power for industrial purposes in all importing countries, bringing a substantial decline in real economic growth and in employment.

Not all of the current troubles can be blamed on oil. Inflation was a substantial problem even before OPEC's price increases, with the cost of food and numerous other commodities rising sharply.

Strikes and Essential Services

By DON O'HEARN

And even the NDP appears to be starting to realize that the public mood is against strikes as never before.

At his party's Sudbury convention the NDP leader hinted that new approaches to bargaining had to be found and put in fact, that no longer should unions be able to hold up whole communities.

Still there is no sign that anybody to date has come up with practical answers.

There is no question of banning all strikes. The only real demand is for a ban in the field of essential services.

But what is an essential service?

And obviously it is the first question to be answered, if not an easy one.

Then there are other problems.

One of these is to make sure that parties actually bargain when they should bargain.

It was clear in TTC talks for three separate days prior to the strike any negotiation was strictly for show and it was only on the eve of the strike that the parties got down to hard bargaining.

Responsibility for this has been cast at one side and the other, but no matter who was responsible there wasn't bargaining.

But how does government force bargaining? Does it make the parties report on progress from the start of contract reopening? Does it insert an overseer in casual industries? As yet there have been no proposed solutions.

Too Late

The grim prospect is that any action will perhaps be too late.

Government hardly will act in this field completely on its own initiative and action.

It will probably first want some form of committee or commission inquiry.

And that will take time.

In the meantime TTC workers defied the law, and apparently no legal action is to be taken against them. They have set a pattern of defiance.

And the government's own employees could be next. The CSAO, representing them, has already turned into a militant union and it is quite reasonable to expect that it will be the next body to flout the law, and fairly soon.

LETTERS

Development Days are Defended

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In response to Mr. Hockley's letter of Sept. 7 entitled Teacher Program, a number of points require clarification.

The address by Alvin Toffler was not to be given at one of the seminars at 9 p.m., Oct. 3 at the Memorial School is not part of the Education Board of Education's regular professional development program. The program is scheduled in the evening to enable all teachers to freely attend the address of their own choice. The cost of the event will be covered by the Ontario Teachers' organization, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, and by the Hastings County Board of Education.

If today's educators wish to remain effective, they must continually upgrade their knowledge in response to our rapidly changing society. The OSSTF members of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington Counties should be commended for their efforts to keep the educator and the public informed, in arriving at a basis for a professional day. It is the views on the future of society and the rate of education that count.

Hunting by Bowmen Draws Criticism

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I regret very much indeed that the Minister of Natural Resources has decided to open bow and arrow hunting for deer for the fall of 1974 in Dufferin County.

There is no shadow of a doubt that bow and arrow hunting exposes the animals concerned to a greater degree of unnecessary suffering than the use of additional firearms. One of the best effects claimed for the development of the firearm was to improve the effectiveness of the weapon it replaced, i.e., the bow and arrow. If the bow and arrow had been an effective weapon, the rifle might not have been.

Obviously, arrows can strike and embed in a non-lethal position and there is plenty of evidence to show that these injuries are carried by the animals for a considerable length of time. In the animal world, basically due from the poison or other long term effects from the arrow.

In the meantime, the animal's suffer to a greater or lesser degree.

I recommend that residents of this area post No Hunting signs on their property and demand that the Minister withdraw his decision to sanction an open deer season, and instead leave Nature with a bow and arrow. Surely we can realize the futility of killing for pleasure, especially when such an inhumane weapon is used.

A New Emphasis on Flood Relief

Cambridge Reporter

A disaster such as the Grand River flood last May is not something to cheer about, but in spite of the property damage and personal hardships, it did have a positive side.

Initially the flood bonded together Cambridge residents in a common cause. Volunteers from throughout the community joined those from other areas to participate in clean-up operations and, donated food and clothing of those directly affected.

These charitable gestures were followed, with cash donations totalling more than $100,000 locally and more than $500,000 throughout the watershed in a flood relief campaign.

But best of all the flood and cash aftermath called attention to a major deficiency in provincial flood relief plans and sparked the government into improving it.

Late last week Premier William Davis announced the provincial government will pay 94 for every $1 raised by the Grand River Disaster Relief Trust.

The $4-to-$1 ration compares with the province's original fund-raising efforts on a dollar-for-dollar basis. The new formula means the province may pay as much as $2.5 million to the Grand River area.

But best of all the flood relief money related to date in the watershed.

Premier Davis said the decision to increase the provincial grant was prompted by a "deep sense of sympathy" for property owners with extensive losses and inadequate flood loss insurance.

Roughly translatedit the premier's remarks should be taken to mean that public outcry reached such a pitch in reaction to the original flood relief formula the government had to make a change or stand convicted of other-board charges of callousness.

Council and Rental Situation

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Councils are elected by the people at large to look after their "interests". "Interests" take in all things from air to earth, parks, roads, traffic, environment and not least of all, interference to live at a rent one can afford.

In this latter category must be some of the most vicious thieves that ever preyed on a helpless public.

In both Trenton and Belleville rents have accounted for a disproportion to the type of accommodation offered to say consumer goods or other services such as normal repairs and upkeep.

Councils lacking in guts and initiative to institute rent controls or investigate the wages and cost of living in such times as these have no business calling themselves for re-election.

It is time NOW that our local councillors addressed themselves to this problem. It's an area of pressing need as many of the less fortunate citizens will testify.

The greed and indifference of the landlord class is reminded in the cause of human decency.

Let's speak out, write and call and, dog legislation and more on people's backs.

Inflation an "Incurable Scourge"

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Despite the theories and cures advanced by economists and politicians, inflation remains the incurable scourge of the free enterprise world.

As the pro and con of controls is debated in every country of the capitalist world, prices continue to escalate toward the inevitable collapse of the economic system.

It should be obvious to everybody that the remedy to price increases is not tar off. Prices continue to rise and will have been priced out of the picture. Such seems to be the basic angles of food and shelter will be beyond them.

Yet, everyday, we see prices increased with only in many cases, the flimsiest of reason, if any, being advanced.

Not long ago we were told there was a crisis in fuel. In this were so, we had a right to expect crisis legislation to be passed to combat the situation. Instead, we saw prices increased, profits jump to a record level, and still the same gas guzzling monsters moving from the Detroit production lines. Bigger and faster and more gobbles capable of nine miles to the gallon still grace the dealers show rooms.

Food prices have now become the sole preserve of the super chain stores who manipulate them with total disregard of the hardship this must cause the people at large.

The excuses offered by the multinational companies run from the ridiculous to the sick about them. The plain fact of the matter is that we are being led all the way along the line.

Governments under our system may well govern the country but the multinational corporations run it.

The inescapable conclusion the average observer is forced to is that the system itself has created the problem and it is the system that must change if it is to survive. That it will ever become controllable.

No blame can be laid at the doorstep of the socialists, communists, or right labor in this instance. The overall problem is the direct result of the uncontrolled greed of the free enterprise system.

Ottawa Ford's committee to monitor wages and prices will have far more effect than Mrs. Plumptre's ineffective Food Prices Review Board. Wages and prices and profit and price controls suggested by Robert Stanfield have the slightest real effect.

The plain fact of the matter is, that despite all the words, promises, theories and platitudes being served out by the enlightened, most of us know, sooner or later the catastrophe of another major depression will be upon us.

New Drunk-driving Penalties Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Better police enforcement and new penalties to catch and punish drinking drivers are needed to slow Ontario's increasing traffic-accident rate, says a special government committee report published today.

The report urges the Ontario government to reassess the penalties now imposed for conviction of a drunk-driving offence and to reassess the rehabilitative role of traffic courts.

It also says more drinking drivers might be detected by assigning a higher enforcement priority to the offence and by increasing law enforcement at specific times and places.

Contents of the report were revealed Wednesday night by Attorney-General Robert Welch at an international alcohol and traffic safety conference.

The report says alcohol-impaired driving is the largest single cause of traffic accidents in Ontario and that government efforts have so far failed to improve this situation.

Mr. Welch told conference delegates "It seems apparent that there is a need to take a close look at law enforcement procedures for drinking-driving apprehension, and to give earlier consideration to our sentencing practices."

He said he is about to begin "an immediate review with Crown attorneys across the province of existing federal and provincial statutes to ensure that adequate penalties are being sought within the framework of existing legislation."

The 167-page report, completed in one year by an interministerial committee set up by the Justice cabinet committee, doesn't call specifically for tougher penalties.

However, it does discuss the advantages and disadvantages of substantially higher fines, mandatory jail terms for first offenders and increased length of licence suspension, saying these three changes would have substantial deterrent effects.

At present, Ontario motorists convicted of a drinking-driving offence can be fined between $50 and $500 with an added three-month jail term for a first offence and a mandatory minimum 14-day jail sentence for a second offence.

Offenders also receive an automatic three-month licence suspension and, if there is injury or property damage, a six-month suspension.

If You Stop Smoking Driving is Impaired

TORONTO (CP) — Most motorists know to drive with extra care immediately after eating a drink or a sedative, but most don't know their driving skills can still be affected 12-to-18 hours later, an international drug and traffic safety conference was told Wednesday.

Dr. A. R. Lelliaert of the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto said recent studies have shown that even after a single exposure to alcohol, driving performance can suffer many hours later.

Though it has not been studied specifically with respect to driving, it has been shown that sedative and tranquilizing drugs also produce disturbances once their use is stopped, said Dr. Lelliaert.

Moreover, people who stop smoking or drinking coffee, whether for health or other reasons, suffer physiological and psychological disturbances that can affect driving skills, he said.

Children's Car Seats Rules Are Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) says the new federal regulations designed to protect children from unsafe children's car seats will actually make driving with infants less safe.

Joy Moon, chairman of the CSA's child seating systems committee, said the regulations, effective November, 1973, will force all children's car seats available in North America off the Canadian market, "and possibly kill many kids."

"They will be back in the arms of their mothers getting injured about in accidents," she said.

Mrs. Moon said officials in the ministry of consumer and corporate affairs took a report dealing with automobile back seats and applied it instead to front seats. But a ministry spokesman said Wednesday that engineers made extensive tests on both front and back seats.

The report, requested by Mrs. Moon in June, 1974, was labelled Knee Room in Rear Seat Compartment for 1967 to 1971 cars, she said. Officials misinterpreted it, and reached the conclusion that 85 per cent of the cars on the road would put a child's head into the dashboard," she said.

The consumer department criticized the CSA's suggestion for a 24-inch movement by a child in a restraint, Mrs. Moon said. In its new regulations, the government reduced allowable movement to 12 inches.

James Black, director of the ministry's Product Safety branch, said Wednesday that the new standard was reached after studies by engineers and were consulted with a pediatrician on the danger factors involved.

He said United States engineers are proposing the same standard for their government, and he expects manufacturers to be able to meet the new regulations.

Mrs. Moon said some seats that have been proved safe in severe accidents are included in the banned group.

Angry Man

STOCKTON, Calif (Reuter) — A man with eight sticks of dynamite strapped to his waist held an Internal Revenue agent hostage for nearly four hours here Wednesday, threatening to blow himself and the agent up.

Police said Victor Lester, 45, a plastics manufacturer, was angered by a tax lien the agency had put on a property he owned near Sonora in the Sierra Nevada foothills. FBI agents talked Lester into giving himself up.

Miss Cormack, who worked four years as a switchboard operator with the Glasgow fire department's telephone exchange, Pitt Chief David Forgie the day after arriving here and was told the department did not hire women.

Parole Board Head Pleased with Report

OTTAWA (CP) — A Senate committee report calling for fundamental changes in the system of paroles, including the provision for the first time of rights for parolees and parole applicants, has won praise from the chairman of the National Parole Board.

William Outerbridge said Wednesday the report is a careful, thoughtful and integrated study which contains ideas that are being given careful consideration by those concerned with parole reform.

He said he hopes the report of the Senate committee on legal and constitutional affairs has been released in time to affect a legislative package affecting reform that now is in the works.

The report follows two years of public hearings and calls for wide changes affecting parole, starting from the sentencing procedure.

Among the most drastic of its recommended changes is a call for creation of a category of a dangerous prisoner, which would include everything from murderers and rapists to members of organized crime and hijackers, who would receive indefinite sentences.

These people would be available for parole after no more than 10 years and in effect would be on lifetime parole after release.

A Critical Look At Wedding Gifts

By the time the wedding season is over, cars are loaded with a few lethers with sentry pockets ... the guests are broke too.

As one Loyalist student says it: "Having a lot of friends at this stage of my life is just too expensive.

"This summer I decided that all I did was go to showers and weddings. Once I went to one, I had to go to the others. I couldn't just say clearly that.

"But let me tell you, next summer I'm having my own wave, and I'm giving no presents. Except my address. I'm really sick of being used."

She's understandably bitter, because of the way her savings have been spent. But the gifts she's been required to "kick over" caught in the normal course of life.

The rules of proper behavior decree that when invited to a wedding or shower, you're obligated to bring a present whether you attend or not.

This means that even if you haven't seen cousin Helen since the mid-sixties, you've invited or her wedding (to some lesser you've never met) you must spend time and money selecting a gift.

Why? Are we brainwashed that the only way we can demonstrate our feelings is by material means?

And what are those feelings anyway?

Can you measure your emotions on a currency scale? Of course not, you say, don't be absurd. Yet the fact remains that you'll spend probably three times more on a present for a close relative as on a distant one.

Somehow there are relationships that are worth more — in plain cash terms — than others.

And these relationships have been established by intricate as everything else has. A gift shopping gift must be presented for the near and dear. Now that's the price you pay for a token, present to the third and ugly daughter of a boring business acquaintance.

What are we doing when we give a wedding gift? Is it that we are making our presence felt in the new way things. We feel, as we have and loved when we get a thank you note that begins "Dear (blank). Thank you so much for the (blank). We will use it in our (blank)."

In another way, the wedding gift is a prize, a stamp of approval for the couple who are entering our feeling society. You don't hear about showers for a girl who's decided to live with her boyfriend without benefit of clergy.

Ah, you say, but living together is that they don't last. Yet one out of four marriages ends in divorce, and at least one other is unhappy. Your $42 silver tray doesn't mean a thing. Those are the words for good behavior don't bear permanent weight.

It had to be admitted that gift-giving has a good deal to do with social prestige. Although few brides-to-be still follow the barbaric practice of displaying their "trophies" in the yard, the custom does prevail. Some gifts are clearly a cheapshots and who's well-bred.

The bride's status goes up to direct proportion to the number of presents acquired. The prouder the wedding guest the more she'll give. The bigger the wedding reception will be. The more elaborate the present to buy an equally impressive gift.

Helping the young couple get started is the kindly motive of many gifts. But it is accompanied by possession the best way to start off marriage?

How many items have you heard couples receive that they don't use for many days of married life were the early ones when we had nothing?

Why not give nothing the next time? It's a big step in breaking a constrictive chain of social behavior that really does no one any good.

Successful Living

What to Say at the Wedding

By DORIS CLARK

"As the bride's mother, what do I say in people during the reception line?" "As a guest, what do I say to the bride and the attendants when I am going through the receiving line?" Questions like this come to me all the time.

Actually you can't get many words in edgewise, because that line usually has to keep moving. It is likely to be a long one, too.

When you say has a good deal to do with how well you know the person you are speaking to, whether you are being introduced, and a few other things related to the situation.

Often all you can manage is "How do you do?" or "It is wonderful to be here. Your daughter made a beautiful bride!" Or, from the bride's mother, "Mary, how good that you were able to drive all that way and get here."

I thought I had heard everything, but the other day I attended a wedding at which Grace Arrell (Major Grace Arrell at the Second World War and in charge of the WAC's in London, England in 1945-45) was mother of the groom. She was elderly, wore beautiful white gown. She took my hand and whispered in my ear as she kissed me, "I'm in my stocking feet."

I replied with a twinkle, "Perfectly proper." During the interval at these grand affairs, arriving from the church, she had been given her bouquet of flowers, constantly on her feet, which just had to be kicked off and tired as that sticky, warm day.

Dear Doris: I would appreciate receiving the leaflet titled "How To Get Started In Writing". I am seriously working at becoming a free lance writer. I am also ready to become disillusioned by rejection slips, but so far I've the avenues I have explored, state they're not accept free lance writers!

I am sending two poems written recently while in hospital, just for your perusal. Perhaps you can advise me on with any idea of publication; merely as a form of occupational therapy.

Pen-Happy.

Dear Pen-Happy: The leaflet is on its way. Not only does it give you good ideas about writing, but also some resources for further help.

Writing as therapy is used fairly often these days as a means of expression to organize one's thoughts on paper, whether they ever get to be a best seller or not. Good Luck!

Dear Doris: I am 38 and a bad-cooker. I don't even know I'm doing it.

It is embarrassing to go to a friend's home and discover in the middle of the night that you are rocking back and forth in your friend's bed. My parents think I will outgrow it if and when I get married. I am on the nervous side. Would that have anything to do with it?

Embarrassed.

Dear Embarrassed: Your nerves probably have a great deal to do with your bed-rocking. Crib-rocking in babies is not considered to be abnormal, and usually disappears in a year or two. Since your problem has lasted so long, you'll have to work on it a more deep-seated need. Humans have various ways of changing out their frustration and you may well outgrow it, (Means B. with your family doctor.

It may also help you to join Recovery, Inc., an organization which helps people to overcome their nervous problems. To find out if there is a branch in your city, write to Shirley Harding, 113 Brunswick Street, Stamford, Ontario.

Dear Doris: I have just read the letter from "Learning Problems".

There are sounds like our son who now has his B.A. Reading was difficult, spelling atrocious, yet he was bright in other ways.

We had him checked by teacher-psychologist. — I.Q. 136. When he was in grade 10, he had a really rough time, and I suggested he go to a technical institute. The answer was, "I'm going to get my grade 12 if it takes me 15 years."

It took him five years to do it, but he graduated from Recreation and Parks Administration.

So I would say to that mother, don't give up. Work with your boy and encourage him in every way you can.

Happy Ending.

Dear Happy Ending: It's nice to hear success stories! Hope Learning Problems' story will have a similar ending, too.

Your Problem Girl is writing from Bethesda Naval Hospital, Md., a member of the American Medical Association's delegation traveling through mainland China.

We are visiting Shanghai's largest hospital where 2,000 outpatients are treated daily. About 500 are given acupuncture. These people are not being operated on. They are receiving needles for everything from stuttering to bed-wetting to arthritis and cancer. After visiting hospitals in Peking, Shenyang, Harbin, and Nanking, we were convinced acupuncture is for real. I could set up a clinic and insert the needles myself. Ally: (If I lived in Nevada, it would be perfectly legal for me to do so. Heaven help us if other states pass such legislation!)

Dr. Don Wood, internist of Indianapolis, and Dr. Claude Davis, Wetch, Harvard Prof. of Surgery and President of the American Medical Association were busily photographing the acupuncture procedures. Fourteen procedures were in progress in a single room. We were first shown a toddler with ear needles protruding from his face and head. "He was brain-damaged at birth," the doctor said. His mother proudly boasted: "My girl to get a picture of this case."

Acupuncture can make a few signs now. When we carried him in he was barely using his little legs."

A nine-year-old girl was lying on a table. She had two needles in her lower abdomen and two needles in her ear. Her doctor said: "Frequent urination is the problem." The nurse told our urologists, Dr. Charles Hoffman of Indianapolis, and Dr. Edward Dy, of Minneapolis, that the girl was both past presidents of AMA).

A pretty 11-year-old child with a needle in her ear. Her doctor said: "Her needles in her elbows as we speak." Another child had three needle into her neck. "Does it hurt?" we asked. "No," she replied. "It is making me well."

Dr. Jay Arena, the famous pain specialist from Duke University, asked if the child was receiving any anesthesia. The daughter, she might be getting "Novocaine" to ease the pain. (Not true. Novocaine would not work.) "No," was the reply. "She is doing it herself."

Dr. Kenneth Sawyer of Denver had a long, sharp stainless steel pharyngeal, middle-aged woman who sat quietly with two needles sticking out of her face. She grinned at me and said, in English: "Glaucoma," he said, as the teacher of his doctor. "My girl to get a picture of this case."

The most startling sight was a man in his mid-40s lying face down. He looked like a human porcupine with at least 30 needles protruding from his back and buttocks. Some of the needles were 13 inches long. "Arthritis," explained the doctor. "He will feel much better soon." Dr. James Sammons, executive vice president-Designate of the A.M.A., whispered to me: "No doubt, that patient is receiving Demerol."

As we left the ward, the patients applauded—their customary manner of showing feelings visitors and bidding them farewell. Joe Miller, AMA staff member from Chicago, noted that not a single patient showed signs of discomfort. Moreover, they all seemed confident that the acupuncture treatments were helping.

At dinner that evening, our delegation discussed what we had seen. Dr. Edward Dy, of Long Beach, Calif. president of the AMA remarked: "Acupuncture has been used for centuries to treat a wide range of complaints, but there is no scientific evidence that it has much value as a cure."

Dr. Richard Palmer, pathologist from Mansfield, Va., added: "Unfortunately, when people are in pain they'll try anything.

Antiques On Sale

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will present its eighth annual antique show and sale on Saturday September 28 at the church.

The show, which is open from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. includes the display and sale of antiques and fine jewelry from around Ontario. Glassware, furniture, china, silver jewelry and clocks will be featured.

Mrs. Phillip Bonkowski, a display of books dealing with antique subjects, will reappear at this year's show.

A tearoom will be available.

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

... an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.

Getting Into the Act

This year, you can really see something different at the Hotel Belvedere, 169 Front St., quite a few things in fact. The hotel which is performing in the John Cabot Lounge is really performing . . . they have a pantomime act as well as their usual fare. And if you have any suggestions or other wise, you can perform too, on Saturday afternoons from 2 p.m. 'til 4 p.m. when it's amateur time in the John Cabot Lounge. Perform and display your talents, you'll spend a good Saturday afternoon at the Belvedere.

At The Quinte Ex

Making the Very Best of It

The recent crisis in Cyprus has forced some changes in the cruising schedule of The Royal Viking Sky of Royal Viking Line. And the where and when of the changes is somewhat confusing. However, Royal Viking is now your hostess for three one-week cruises to the Caribbean leaving on Oct. 6, Nov. 3 and Dec. 1. Ports of call are Nassau, San Juan, St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands. Because of the quick change in schedule, we have had certain events cancelled. We regret the inconvenience this has caused and ask all the questions you want. See you at the fair.

Lovely Furniture on Sale

I walked into Wrays Home Furnishers, 240 Front St., to see what sale items I could find. The kind of sale now on at Wrays is really unique. Their entire showroom is devoted to the length of time they've been on the floor. In order to make way for the new collections, there is chair for a month, a sofa for a month, traditional sofa and chair by Frankcraft which is a six-month sale. This sale is hard to describe . . . it's something like oyster with green and gold highlights. I just know it's going to look lovely in my living room. Dining room with two pillows and arm covers as well. It's magnificent and so are many other items still on sale at Wrays. Go and see for yourself.

New Face at Roblins

Carl Rabbit Real Estate, 117 North Front St., is pleased to announce the appointment of a new staff member, Mrs. Edith Robson, who has had years of experience and will bring this experience to helping you buy or sell residential housing, Mrs. Rose has lived in the area for a number of years, is married and has two children and raised children. So, she knows what a good residential neighborhood ought to be. Why not give Mrs. Rose a call at 962-9676. Phone number is 962-9676.

Getting at the Walls

Today, we'll examine our course in interior design with Paul Bernard of Bernard Paint Centre, 474 Campbell St. We've already picked out our floor coverings and are ready to decorate the walls. There are a number of ways of approaching wall decor, says Paul: painting, papering, panelling, patchwork and mural. Murals are usually created on large wall or mirrors. (One needn't restrict oneself to just one method in one room, of course.) Paul's own bedroom is panelled, but in quite little skill and can be perfected with practice! One can do it yourself, but it is time consuming and messy. Next is covering. Now paint is being used in changing, says Paul, creating a textured survey by the Scotland Paint Group. Trends are away from pastels such as antique white and tend more to the use of bold shades. Colours such and olive chocolate, even black used as accent. More about walls next week. But for any decorating question, call Bernard Interiors at 962-4976.

Get Down To It

Now, you have no excuse . . . the children are back at school and the weather has cooled off. And there are all those luscious tomatoes, green peppers, onions, beets and cucumbers at the Sidney Street 365 Metro St. West, just waiting for you to pick them up and make wild sauces or pickles. Also at the Sidney Metro, everything you need from raw to finished product. The vegetables, the spices, and the Mason jars. And the Sidney Metro is open every night until 11 p.m. So you really don't have any more excuse do you? So . . . get busy.

An Advantage Worth Taking

It's Only Common Sense

I don't know about you, but I've made some pretty firm resolutions about the family budget. And I'm going to quit anything that remotely resembles a career. And remember Aquadine Water Softener just might help you with your budget considerations and give you info, ideas, and water softener, you can save $20 on an Elec-o-Trol bowling machine. And there is a 19 per cent saving on all options in the store. The coupon assures you of cash way of getting the full and balanced materials are in. With a new owning machine from the Quinte Bowling Centre now, you'll beat the prices on Labour Day — and beat the weather too. Visit the Centre and the mall now. And don't forget your coupon!

The Time Is Now

This column has a a fair amount of preaching in it, as I read it over. But it's something like the fable of the grasshopper who kept on playing his fiddle as everyone else was getting ready for winter. And I'd hate to see anyone's violin broken. So, I'll keep on preaching. Now, about those new aluminum windows and doors you've been saying you were going to put on this year . . . the people at Belleview Glass and Mirror, 214 Pinnacle St., can do them for you alright. And give you quick service and top workmanship. But don't do the job if you don't tell them to do it. Call them now at 968-3731 so that when you're going to fiddle around this winter, you'll at least be warm and cosy doing it!

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lea

Lea—Donald

Christ Church Campbellford, was the scene when Jane Anne Donald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Donald, Campbellford, became the bride of Michael Joseph Lea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Lea, Bayside. The Rev. Keith Adams officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length gown of polyester with a wedding band collar and fitted bodice adorned with a sheath of flowers on the bodice and skirt. Her full length fitted sleeves ended with a flounce which complemented her waltzaul train trimmed with daisies. She chose a headdress of daisies highlighted by a four tier nylon illusion veil with a scalloped edge.

Maid of Honor Deborah Scott wore a turquoise and white full length gown of polyester crepe with a short cape sleeve. She wore a matching turquoise picture hat and carried a nosegay of white daisies and yellow pom 'mums with white ribbon trailing.

Best man was Steven Campbell of Wellington.

Married in St. Gertrude's Catholic Church in Oshawa, recently were Eleanor Ann Walls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walls and Ronald Pickell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pickell of Oshawa. The matron of honor was Aileen Hackett, and bridesmaids were Rydie Pickell, Lois Cuthbert and Janet Reid. The best man was William Hackett, and the ushers were Bill Walls, Arley Anderson and Rudy Boettcha.

Griffin — Matthews

Dianne Elizabeth Matthews became the wife of Peter Gordon Griffin in a service conducted by Rev. Alexander McDowell in Eastminster United Church, August 17.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Matthews, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Florence Griffin and the late Col. Philip Griffin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a palyellow gown of French cotton chiffon over taffeta. She made it herself. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and shasta daisies.

Frances Watson was maid of honor in a gown of white cotton piqué woven with tiny orange flowers and green leaves.

Julie Haggerty and Nancy Bastedo, the bride's nieces, were bridesmaids in similar gowns but with long orange sashes. All three attendants carried wicker baskets of country flowers.

The groom's best man was Peter Kraszl of Toronto, and his ushers were John Bastedo and Mark Haggerty.

The reception was held at the Elk's Lodge, followed by an evening party. The newly married couple will reside at Sun Dance Farm, Rt. 1 Petrolia.

JEAN WALSH

MARY LLOYD

Jean Walsh was the recent recipient of the Belleville General Hospital Medical Staff prize and Mary Lloyd was the prize for the runner-up in the Gold Medal. Both students are graduates from the School X-Ray Technology at Belleville General Hospital and received their awards at the annual Graduation Exercises of the Eastern Ontario Regional School of X-Ray Technology held in Kingston.

Mrs. Lloyd has accepted a position on the Radiology Staff at R.G.H. and Miss Walsh is joining the staff at the Oshawa General Hospital.

People and Events

The fifth Jeffrey Reunion was held Sunday, September 8, at Minto Community Hall. The main business conducted after a pot-luck dinner was the nomination of officers for the upcoming year. The results were: President, Jack Johnston; Vice-President, Bob Jeffrey and Secretary-Treasurer, Essie Reid.

The current president, Wilbur Hoteman will council every one, especially the three pro-questors: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jeffrey, Belleville and John B. Hagerman, Spring.

Colmar — Evans

Rev. Alexander McDowell officiated at the Aug. 17 evening wedding of Joyce Marie Samuelda Anne Evans and John Phillip Colmer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Evans of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Colmar of Scarborough.

Mrs. Reta Hough, a cousin of the bride, was soloist during the ceremony in College Hill United Church.

The bride wore a gown of embroidered crepe, with puff sleeves and skirt of chiffon. The square neckline was trimmed with flower petals and a Juliet cap of embroidered crepe held her cathedral-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

The bridesmaids wore gowns the same style as the maid of honor's but in different colors. Nancy Burke of Singapore, sister of the bride, were maroon; Mary Donaldson of Toronto were blue and Susan Colmar, sister of the bridegroom, were peach.

The flower girl, Lisa Merola of Bay Ridges, wore a dress of pink chiffon over crepe and carried a basket of white mums and pink roses. Ring bearer was Elwin Hoot of Belleville.

John Rogers of Toronto was best man and the ushers were Mac Ryder and William Donaldson of Toronto and Robert Sherrard of Unionville.

Czech Refugee Flyer Now Dusting Crops

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Frank no longer does it for a living but Frank Skaley still buzzes the countryside in his crop-dusting plane.

Skaley, who flew a Czechoslovakian military plane to freedom across the Austrian border in a training plane belonging to the Czech air force, Mr. Skaley has flown aircraft of his own and flies his crop-dusting airplane in southwestern Ontario.

He developed a love of flying at an early age and enrolled in the Czech Air Force Academy where he learned the basic skills.

But he was reassigned to ground crew when a security check revealed the Skaley family had "capitalistic" tendencies—his father operated a barber shop and employed four people.

He spent 27 months in the Czech air force and then became an officer in the air reserve, allowing him regular access to training flights.

"By this time, I was fed up with the whole system and decided to defect," Mr. Skaley said.

He was 23 years old.

On a pleasant August afternoon he strolled into a government-operated flying school and checked out a plane for a training flight, filing out a flight plan that called for an easterly course.

With a student friend hiding in the grass, he cut telephone lines from the airfield and warmed up the aircraft. The student jumped aboard and they took off and headed west.

They flew over Bratislava, 50 feet above street level, and followed a major highway toward the Austrian border, 30 miles away.

"I had to hop low to avoid radar detection and I kept near populated areas so that if I was pursued by jets they wouldn't try to shoot me down," Mr. Skaley said.

As they approached a border checkpoint on the border, he turned the craft on its side and flew a few feet over the heads of the startled border guards.

His original destination was West Germany but an overheated engine forced him to land at an airfield west of Vienna. He had no maps, no radio and no papers and spoke no German.

Rental Housing Pushed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is injecting another $50 million into rental housing and will invite project proposals from developers immediately, Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Wednesday.

He said in an interview that he assumed the money from the housing budget and is pouring it into rental housing to fit some of the pressure on the apartment rental situation.

He had spoken to developers who said the plan to stimulate the limited, dividend type budget this year was a reasonable move. He said they were unhappy with provisions under the program that rents would be controlled for 15 years but that was part of the deal.

The urban affairs minister was commenting on criticism by Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party parliamentary leader, of government handling of the housing problem.

Mr. Broadbent told a news conference that the government has done little to ease the housing crisis even raising interest rates recently for second time in month to province.

CMHC chairman confirmed that interest rates on profits and student housing, land assembly and sewage treatment loans were boosted to 10 per cent from 9% per cent July 29 without a public announcement.

Mr. Broadbent said this was extraordinary at a time when over-all housing starts were down sixty per cent in the first seven months this year from the corresponding period last year.

Mr. Danson said that CMHC now borrows money at 9% per cent. The new rate provided early one quarter of a per cent to cover administrative costs.

If rates were kept at 9% per cent the government would be subsidizing interest payments. But the government had to cut spending priorities.

Civil Servants Refuse To Use Their Own Cars

FOREST, Ont. (CP) — A decision by provincial civil servants not to use personal cars on the job has slowed investigation of last week's warehouse fire here, The Sun-Times says.

Robert Kentman, investigator for the Ontario fire marshal's office in London, said Wednesday he is "very, very" pushed for transit and he has not had time to complete an investigation into the $200,000 fire at the Lambton Cartage warehouse.

The Civil Service Association of Ontario, which represents civil servants such as Mr. Kentman, told members to take their cars off the road, Tuesday.

The civil servants here claim they could lose their job using their cars at a loss because of high expenses.

The province pays them 15 cents a mile for the first 5,000 miles driven in a year, and eight cents a mile after that. Transit is about 30 miles east of Sarnia.

Canada May Curb Exports of Coal

CALGARY (CP) — Coal industry representatives based in Calgary welcomed Donald Macdonald's announcement Wednesday of a federal policy on coal as an integral part of the plan for achieving national self-sufficiency in energy.

The 28th Canadian conference on coal also discussed, in its first day of sessions, the economic viability of producing synthetic natural gas from coal.

Canada's goal of energy independence, with coal playing an important part, is identical to that of Britain, a representative of the British National Coal Board told the conference, attended by more than 700 delegates.

Mr. Macdonald, in his keynote address, said a national transportation program for Canada's coal reserves is underway and, contingent upon the findings of the inventory, export controls may be deemed in Canada's interest.

But co-operation in the private sector has been lacking from Alberta and British Columbia, and Mr. Macdonald called for a conference with Canada's two leading coal-producing provinces.

Alberta produced nine million tons in 1972, followed in second place by British Columbia with 4.5 million tons.

A substantial part of Mr. Macdonald's speech was on Ontario's need for western Canadian coal in view of the price increases and energy threats in the United States. Most of western Canada's coal reserves have been going to Japan while Ontario has been relying on U.S. coal.

The minister recognized the need to upgrade the coal transportation system and lower freight rates through the introduction of express coal trains and possibly coal pipelines. The existing system is only handling 1.5 million tons annually from west to east.

Ontario Hydro alone has contracts with U.S. suppliers amounting to nine million tons a year, a lot of coal for the transportation system if and when western coal is needed in Ontario.

Norbert Berkowitz, head of the fuel sciences division of the Alberta Research Council and a member of the Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board, chairman of the panel discussion on coal gasification, said gasification has become economically feasible because of higher natural gas prices and declining reserves. Prices for synthetic natural gas produced from coal would be competitive to prices for conventional natural gas delivered from the Arctic to eastern Canada.

U.S. Labor Demands End to Tight Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States labor leaders at a President Ford's second economic conference Wednesday called almost unanimously for an end to tight money policies which have pushed interest rates to record highs.

The labor leaders echoed the thoughts expressed by economists at a conference Sept. 5 But a change in tight money policies has been resisted by U.S. administration officials.

The labor leaders told Ford the government's anti-inflation policies are not working and may plunge the U.S. into a severe recession with high unemployment.

At the start of the conference, Ford announced an effort to reduce unemployment by creating $5,000 new public jobs.

Ford said he will spend $415 million for jobs to be created in both local governments and another $1.3 billion will be available to local governments for manpower programs.

About 5.4 per cent of the U.S. work force is unemployed.

George Meany, head of the 13.5-million member AFL-CIO, said the U.S. has been "going downhill for 5½ years under present economic policies."

"We believe that budget cuts, high interest rates and tight money policies are not going to work in today's inflation."

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, called for an easing of monetary policy, saying the "credit to hard-pressed industries such as housing, utilities, and state tax reform and income maintenance."

Murray Miller, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Union, said he considers high interest rates to be the principal cause of inflation and warned that he foresees a "crippling depression" unless policies are changed.

Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board said he would take the labor leaders' views on tight money into consideration in setting the nation's money supply policies.

Fine Fishing Found In Rhodesian Lakes

The fish eagle cries overhead and elephant and antelope graze on the lush growth of the waterline of a huge manmade lake, teeming with countless fish.

King of these is the tiger fish, beautiful, bewildering and menacing. It bits the lure like an express train and flings itself out of the water in its battles to throw the hook.

In Kariba Dam the tiger fish average seven to nine pounds but much larger ones are taken regularly. The record is 34 pounds three ounces.

Each September a three day international tournament is staged for this creature with its prissiive head and long sticklocking teeth, so sharp they can take a finger off a careless hand.

Kariba is also well stocked with a number of varieties of what the locals call bream, a misnomer for many fish of the Cichlidae family. These fish are found throughout Rhodesia and records for a number of species are in the seven and eight-pound range.

In all, there are more than 100 species of freshwater fish.

There is trout fishing in the eastern highlands of Inyanga, where anglers are restricted to using dry and wet fly in their quest of rainbow, brown, American brook and tiger trout, the latter being a locally bred hybrid of a brown female and a brook male.

Records are seven pounds for the brown, eight pounds seven ounces for the rainbow and four pounds three ounces for the tiger trout.

Three species of black smallmouth and spotted—are found in most dams and lakes. Current record for the largemouth is eight pound five ounces.

The heavyweight of the Rhodesian fishing scene is the vundu, a giant catfish found in the Kariba Dam and the Zambezi River. The average weight is between 60 and 70 pounds and the Rhodesian record stands at 105 pounds.

Mirror carp, although not native here, have found conditions to their liking. The local record of 53 pounds 12 ounces is the second largest carp ever taken.

Other records are 27 pounds for the cornish jack, 32 pounds for the bottlenose, 25 pounds for the sharpnosed barbel and 13 pounds four ounces for the mottled eel.

"Trout is the only fish for which there is a season in Rhodesia. In the rivers and streams in vests from May 1 until May 31 while in the well stocked Mare Dam it's from Sept. 1 until May 31.

Trout fishing licences vary from $2 to $4 a week or 50 cents to $1 a day, depending on the location.

Outside the trout area most lakes and dams in national parks have a charge of 50 cents a day or $1 a week. Longer-term licences covering a month or a year are also available.

Ducks Unlimited Began in Thirties

BROOKS, Alta. (CP) — In 1938, Canada and the United States were in the grip of a depression, Canadian farms were blowing away and so were people, the word "conservation" meant "saving pennies" and the flies were a day to day.

A few farsighted hunters, however, laid the groundwork in that year for what was to become a $3-million-a-year program to save and create habitat for the dwindled numbers of North American waterfowl.

They created Ducks Unlimited, and in the process helped create hundreds of thousands of acres of nesting lands across the three Prairie provinces.

It began as "More Game Birds in North America and was probably the first international conservation and environmental organization on the continent.

"Who knows, maybe we played a role in helping people to think about their environment and the ecology," said Fred Sharp, Alberta manager for Ducks Unlimited (Canada).

Ducks Unlimited has built hundreds of lakes, ranging in size from 50 acres to the half-million-acre Tom Lamb Wildlife Management Area near The Pas, Man.

A third of the $3-million Canadian budget is spent in Alberta and half of that goes into 200 projects spread between here and Manna, Alta., about 70 miles to the north.

"Because surface water here is so non-permanent we put a great deal of effort into using runoff from the snowpack," said Mr. Sharp. "You need two inches of rain during the summer to make a creek run so you have to depend on the snowpack."

The area is in the warm and dry Palliser Triangle, which covers much of Canada's central grasslands.

This year, the snowpacks in the area were good, leading Ducks Unlimited officials to predict a good year—perhaps even for a record year—for duck production.

Ducks Unlimited uses about 25 per cent of its budget for habitat preservation and creation, said Mr. Sharp.

"We don't ask the provincial governments for funds because they provide us with a great deal of land and some engineering assistance in joint projects. We can't ask for more."

Ducks Unlimited is winning the battle to maintain a waterfowl habitat in the Prairies, said Mr. Sharp, despite encroachments by farmers and the expansion of urban life into the countryside.

"The situation is still critical sometimes because some people say we are serving duck food for the Americans," he said.

"That's baloney. The hunters in Canada benefit directly because these projects are all open to hunters, unless provincial governments designate them as sanctuaries.

Ducks Unlimited draws most of its financial support from the United States, where many individual states send a portion of their revenue from duck-hunting licences to preserve the waterfowl habitat.

California is investigating the possibility of supporting Ducks Unlimited's work in the Pacific flyway areas of Alberta and British Columbia.

In addition to providing water fowl nesting grounds Ducks Unlimited projects have helped irrigate fields in southern Alberta and provide flood control in farming areas.

Many projects are financed jointly by Ducks Unlimited, the Alberta government and county governments.

"Many of the county governments say 'We just don't have the money to build a dam for flood control,'" said Mr. Sharp. "In many cases, we see the province paying part, the county paying part, and us the rest.

"We don't care who gets the credit for a project as long as it helps provide habitat for waterfowl."

Mr. Sharp said Ducks Unlimited isn't content to stand on its laurels.

"People down in Mexico are starting Ducks Unlimited (Mexico) to work with the wintering grounds," he said.

"There's even a group in New Zealand that wants to start a Ducks Unlimited group there."

CP News Roundup

Building Strike Possible

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Haywood, general manager of the Construction Labor Relations Association of Ontario, says Ontario will be "severely harmed by a mammoth strike" unless labor and management in the construction industry is eased.

Addressing a merchants association, he said the construction industry is in bad need of cause, attention and understanding.

Mr. Haywood said the vast majority of union contracts in Ontario will expire in eight months, with negotiations on new contracts getting under way in about four months.

"The bargaining spirit of '75 is going to be strained and I am frankly worried about it," he said.

"I also believe many responsible union leaders are worried about it. The industry is set up for the kill. And if the unions don't take advantage of it, they're going to have some very shocking to do to their rank and file."

Park Hunting Jeopardized

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Waterfowl hunting at Holiday Beach provincial park near here are in jeopardy for this fall's season because a couple living near the park's game sanctuary refuses to sign a paper to allow food to be put out for the birds during the 15-week season.

Under the Migratory Game Birds Act, food cannot be put out for birds during the season opening Sept. 28 without the consent of persons living within a quarter-mile of the feeding area.

Five of the six home owners living within that radius of the sanctuary have agreed but Mr. and Mrs. Stan Jarlet have not, says Gord Greenwood of Ducks, fish and wildlife superintendent with the Ontario resources ministry.

The Jarlets, who would lose the right to shoot from their own property by signing the consent, last fall held out until near the season opening and then signed up.

Mrs. Jarlet confirmed Wednesday that they had received $200 from hunters for doing this.

"It's not enough to make us sick—but we took it because we were giving up our hunting rights," she said.

Draft Plans

TORONTO (CP) — Development control regulations for the Niagara escarpment are in the hands of provincial and municipal lawyers for final drafting, a Niagara Escarpment Commission official said.

The commission was aiming for an August introduction of the controls on development within the 1.3-million-acre escarpment, but now is hoping for a fall completion.

Cat Barred

TORONTO (CP) — Helen Farr of Toronto, found guilty of violating a no-animals by-law in a condominium in May, is under orders to remove her cat from the building by the end of the month.

ALEX CAMPBELL

PEI May Tighten Rules On Land Sales

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island said Wednesday several measures will be taken to curb land speculation in the island province.

He said protected rules are strictest, but they may be tightened further to protect "our land and the people who work that land."

Speaking to a Canadian Club luncheon here on the eve of the 15th annual premiers' conference in Toronto, Mr. Campbell said he wants to preserve land for the people, especially land suitable for recreation.

Later, in an interview, he said the current policy of requiring cabinet approval for land purchases greater than 15 acres by non-residents may be expanded.

Not Alarmed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A General Motors spokesman said Wednesday the possibility that anti-pollution control devices on 1975 U.S. cars will create a health hazard is remote.

"That degree of alarm just doesn't exist," Gary Dickinson, a member of GM's environmental activities staff said in response to charges last week by John Moran, director of a federal study on auto pollution.

Moran said catalytic converters on many 1975 cars will cause a pollution problem of health even by producing emissions of sulphuric acid. He said studies had shown that the converter-equipped cars give off .5 milligrams of sulphuric acid per mile in a fine mist from the exhaust system.

Prices Rise

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler and American Motors complained car manufacturers increases for 1975 models Wednesday but announcing sharply higher prices for the new cars soon to be on the market.

Chrysler said its 1975 car prices will go up 4.9 per cent, or $400, and AMC said its new car prices would be up 7.7 per cent, or $300.

Nominate

CORNWALL (CP) — The New Democratic Party and the Progressive Conservatives have set nomination meetings to select candidates for the Oct. 17 provincial by-election in the electoral district of Stormont.

The NDP is to choose a candidate Sept. 15 and the Conservatives meet Sept. 20. The Liberal riding association has not decided on a date. Nominations close Oct. 2.

U.S. Asks Canada Get Pilots on Job

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. transportation department has asked the Canada government to intervene to get striking Great Lakes pilots back to work, it was learned Wednesday.

The 66 Canadian pilots, members of the Corporation of Professional Great Lakes Pilots (CPGLP), have refused to handle ocean vessels which went through the Welland canal, until a dispute with the United States counterparts is settled.

A source in the transportation department here, who asked not to be identified, said the department sent a telegram Wednesday—through the state department—to Canada's external affairs department urging the Canadian government to "arrange to restore pilotage services in the Welland canal as soon as possible."

The source said the stoppage has affected many U.S. industries dependent on shipping using the St. Lawrence seaway and the Great Lakes system.

The canal opened Monday after being blocked for two weeks by a rammed bridge, an accident that left the waterway choked with wreckage.

The U.S. source said the U.S. had been keeping in touch with Canada to raise pilotage fees

NDP Says Ridings Distorted

TORONTO (CP) — The 19-member provincial New Democratic Party has submitted a brief to the electoral boundaries commission criticizing the proposed redistribution plan for the Ontario legislature.

Donald MacDonald, MPP for York-South, said the commission's use of 1971 census figures in determining redistributed will place too much emphasis on rural votes.

The census said the redistribution process is deliberately being used to bolster the Conservative party in Ontario.

Mr. MacDonald said if the votes cast in the 1971 provincial election were redistributed within the new boundaries, the government would be "way out of the popular vote—would win 55 seats instead of 78. The NDP would have 22 instead of 13 and the Liberals would drop to 15 from 26.

The three-man commission is to hear objections to its proposals until Sept. 13, before producing its final recommendations.

The initial proposals were made in the spring.

Mr. MacDonald blamed Roderick Lewis, one of the three commissioners and a chief of the legislative assembly, for the distribution proposals.

"He considers himself a servant of the government," he said of Mr. Lewis. "Even as clerk of this legislature, he considers his job to be to serve the needs of the government."

Whale Dies

RIVER JOHN, N.S. (CP) — Day-long efforts to save a 35-foot whale stranded on a nearby beach failed Wednesday when the mammal died after being towed out to sea.

North York Alderman Acquitted

TORONTO (CP) — John Knox, a Borough of North York alderman, was acquitted Wednesday on charges of fraud and breach of trust in connection with $76 in borough funds he received in December, 1972, to study roads in Alabama.

Although the trip was never made, Mr. Knox told the court he had still intended to go to Alabama.

A fellow alderman, Jack Belcher, testified Monday that Mr. Knox and his wife went to the Bahamas with him and his wife from Dec. 28, 1972, to Jan. 6, 1973, the time Mr. Knox was supposed to be in Alabama.

Mr. Knox testified Tuesday that he lied to Elaine Carey, a Toronto Star reporter who was studying borough convention spendings when she asked if he had taken the trip.

He said he was frightened of a publicity about convention spending and intended to eventually go to Alabama and study roads.

It took the jury less than six hours to acquit Mr. Knox.

Council Backs Labor

A resolution to this effect was passed by council this week asking that the Ontario Legislature consider amending the Labor Relations Act to provide that no employer or person acting on the behalf of an employer shall use, authorize or permit the use of a professional strikebreaker or an organization of professional strikebreakers.

The resolution also asks that the federal government consider legislation by way of a n amendment to the Criminal Code which would have the effect of prohibiting persons not members of a bargaining unit from participating in picketing in a labor dispute between the unit and its employer.

The resolution was passed as a result of a request from organized labor representatives and following a review of Kitchener's strikebreaking resolution by the city manager.

Champion Babies

The champion baby boy and girl of the Tiny Tot Show at the Fall Quinte Exhibition were presented with silver trays Wednesday. The champion baby boy was 7½-month-old Edward (Teddy) Payne, right, held by his mother Mrs. Edward Payne of Brighton. Chosen champion baby girl was 14-month-old Julienne Rose Gubb, held by her mother Mrs. James Gubb of Belleville.

Burns Receives Award

R. (Dick) Burns, vice-president of Belleville's Dale of Kitchener Unit 31, AMAV, received an Amity Award for distinct work between Canadian Army, Air Force veterans and their American counterpart at the 1974 Memorial convention in Halifax in late August.

Syer Named Head

Director of parks for the city of Belleville, Mr. Lloyd Syer has been re-appointed executive director of the Ontario Parks Association. The re-appointment was made at the Association's annual convention held at Kitchener during the latter part of August.

Tape Deck Taken

The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating the recent theft of a tape deck from the car of a Belleville man visiting in the Consecon area. The tape deck, valued at $50, was taken from a car owned by William Stewart of Belleville. The vehicle was parked at a residence at RR 1, Consecon, when the theft occurred.

Kenny to Regina

Bert Kenny, director of planing for the Quinte Planning Board, leaves for Regina at the end of this month to attend the Community Planning Association of Canada convention. Mr. Kenny is the only delegate to attend the conference representing the Quinte area. The conference lasts four days beginning Sept. 29.

Mill Historic Site

The Bancroft Woollen Mill will be declared a historic site and refurbished as a tourist attraction. The decision follows a visit to the village and inspection of the mill by Claude Bennett, minister of tourism.

Up, Up and Away

Three lucky visitors to the Quinte Fair were treated to an airplane ride Wednesday in a plane piloted by Hastings MP Jack Ellis. While Mr. Ellis helps Helen Martin, replacing Mrs. Jenny Brooker, who was unable to come, into the plane, the two other winners, Jo-Ann Stanley, 14 and Bradley Miller, 7, wait to board.

Quinte Fair Opening Draws Large Crowd

With the mayor arriving in a horse drawn landau, the Fall Quinte Exhibition was officially opened Wednesday night.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey in opening the fair said whereas last year there was just the one fair to enjoy now we have two in a year to take part in.

And aided by Quinte Exhibition and Raceway president, Doug Rollins, the mayor assisted in unfurling a banner that proclaimed the fair open. Gates, however, were open to the public Tuesday.

Wednesday night ceremonies also included the presenting of silver trays to the parents of the champion boy and girl baby in the Tiny Tot Show.

Taking the prize for champion girl baby was 4-month-old Julienne Rose Gubb, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gubb of MacDonald Gardens in Belleville.

Edward (Teddy) George Payne, 7½-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Payne, of Baldwin St., in Brighton, was judged best baby boy.

Fair officials report that since the gates opened on 1 p.m. Tuesday there has been 10,300 paid visitors. Of that 2,500 came on Wednesday alone.

While Mrs. Jenny Brooker of Eas St. in Picton was unable to make it the other two winners, seven-year-old Bradley Miller of RR 6, Belleville and Jo-Ann Stanley of R.R. 3 Grade 9 Quinte Secondary School student, were eager to go up.

Exhibition Take 3

Filling in for Mrs. Brooker last night was Mrs. Helen Martin. The three went up with Mr. Ellis, for a 20 minute flight over Belleville the fairgrounds the bay and other areas.

While Jo-Ann had been up in a plane before although not in a small one, it was the first time seven-year-old Bradley had ever flown.

And he said he wasn't at all nervous.

Upcoming at the fair Friday is the Dairy Princess competition and Hastings County Black and White Cattle Show.

Quarter Won't Go Far At This Year's Ex

By JIM SNELLE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Exhibition Fall Fair is a good place to spend a lot of money. It is also a good place to spend a lot of money.

A random survey Wednesday revealed that the average fair-goer should bring about $10 to properly see all the events.

As in any cross section, however, there will be exceptions. Some people will come to the fair with a five-dollar bill and after paying a $1.50 admission fee still leave with a dollar after spending a full day.

And at the other end of the scale there will be those who come with $30 or $40 and after playing the games, taking a fair share of rides and filling a healthy appetite will leave with only last fare.

Graham Burvis of Belleville, who visited the fair with his wife and family of four ranging in age from six to ten, said he estimated it will cost his family about $15 to take in the fair.

"With some rides in kiddieland costing two coupons apiece (60c) and with us going on the ride that amounts to $1.80 for the one ride," he said.

"I think the rides are too expensive," he added.

A teen-aged couple estimated they would spend about $10 between them.

Mark Street, 18, said he thinks the $1.50 admission rate is okay but adds the rides are too expensive.

His companion, Laurie McCarron, 17, agreed with him saying the fair needs a bit wopen sive.

The cost of admission to the exhibition is $1.50 for an adult $1.00 for a student and handicapped people and 50 cents for children.

From 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., there is no admission charge for elementary school children and prices of many of the rides are reduced.

The rides are paid for in coupons, which may be bought singly for 30 cents. A ride is advertised as costing two coupons or 40 cents or three coupons or 60 cents.

Many of the games cost 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, depending on the prize and skill involved.

One of the workers at a game on the midway said she noticed that fair-goers have weren't spending as much money as was spent in other places she carried her pitch, out.

Grant Fleming of Madoc was at the fair Wednesday with his wife and 2½-year-old daughter Angie Lynn. He estimated it will cost them about $15 to see the fair.

Brenda Hessel of Frankford, was visiting the fair with her husband and two children. She estimated it will cost them $10 to see the fair.

"It cost us $3.50 alone just to get in," she said.

And to those who get the most enjoyment out of a fair but unfortunately are in the position of having more time than money to spend here is what they think.

Resolution Wins Approval

A resolution to link the communities of Frankford and Batawa for the "proper use of planning" won approval in Frankford Village Hall this week.

Sidney Township Reeve Gord Wilman said after the meeting, the resolution — written by Batawa staff — was passed with the exception of one article.

The last article calling for a Quinte planning staff study of the new area was left out, said the reeve.

The resolution and its implementation will require provincial approval.

Former IAPA Head Says Accidents Reduce Profits

Frank A. Lehmann in a notice sent to the president of the own 70-employee company in Toronto, past president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association (IAPA) Sam Powering knows business and knows nothing can do it more harm then on-the-job accidents.

"Accidents can and a complete breakdown of production," the Intelligencer following a speaking engagement at the annual meeting of the IAPA Wednesday night.

He told Hastings and Prince Edward County executives that "the name of the game is profit and your job is knowing how to make it".

"You can't prevent accidents before they bring loss of assets and shredding profile," he said.

The IAPA has more than 200 member firms in the two counties. All firms pay an annual levy to the Workmens Compensation Board as an insurance policy against employee accidents. About ten per cent of this levy covers the operating costs of the IAPA.

Mr. Powering said, "you might as well use it," referring to the benefits capacity of the association.

Mr. Powering said the IAPA can show a safety record that saves from increased assessments from the compensation board.

"If a company, he said, has accidents costsuming 83 percent of the assessment, the next year's bill could be "doubled or tripled".

He said good safety practices are an "integral" part of the product and that it is management's responsibility to ensure safety awareness and the manufacturing of a good product.

"Accidents are a sign of poor management," he said.

The IAPA was originally formed through a volunteer effort and later became a professional association with management personnel interested in reducing accidents, thereby increasing profits.

The IAPA has professional staff stationed across the province, providing information to local businesses wishing accident prevention advice.

The IAPA, Mr. Powering said, is strictly a teaching body.

"We have the tools and the ideas."

The association runs special safety courses in its Toronto offices and is in the process of printing an extensive manual on work safety and loss control — an aspect of the accident - profit relationship.

Safety Brings Profit

Past provincial president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, Sam Powering of Toronto, told local IAPA members Wednesday night, management is responsible for a profit and safety among workers, reduces costs and increases profits. He spoke at the annual meeting of the 200-member Hastings and Prince Edward District of the IAPA.

Mohawk Reserve School Opens In Time for New School Year

Tyendinaga Reserve's 240 elementary school pupils went back to school in style this month.

Their new school, built by the federal department of Indian affairs, was completed in time for the opening of school this year.

"The contractors tell me it's built to a high school design," says principal Howard Alton.

Carpeted throughout, air-conditioned, with a full-sized gym-auditorium and stage, the school replaces three smaller schools on the reserve. It is located in a central location, a quarter-mile west of the fair grounds and band council office.

The school has 10 classrooms, including a kindergarten, and a large library-resource centre. Staff includes the principal, eight classroom teachers, a Mohawk language teacher, a physical education teacher and a secretary - librarian. A music teacher visits the school twice a week. All but three of the teachers are native people.

Grade 8 pupils are offered Mohawk language instruction for 20 to 30 minutes a day. The kindergarten pupils receive about 10 minutes instruction a day.

Following criticism last year of the amount of time devoted to native studies, Mr. Alton did a survey of the timetable and found native studies occupies an average of 35 minutes a day in each class.

YMCA Director Outlines New Winter Programs

Registration at the YMCA this week has encouraged Director Brian Bentley to believe new programs will soon get underway.

"There are two new areas we're going to stress this year," says Mr. Bentley.

"For youth, the emphasis will be on competitive sport. For adults, we'll have regular fitness tests administered by experts to test muscular and cardiovascular endurance."

The move toward competition in sports has been made for two reasons, Mr. Bentley explains.

"At the moment there are no swimming or diving teams in Belleville, and we want to provide that opportunity.

"Secondly, competition raises the standards in any sport, and we want this to be done at the "Y". We hope to have a high quality program here."

Mr. Bentley said there will also be "house league" competition basketball, volleyball and water polo.

In addition to these activities, there will be a new course in canoeing skills and safety.

Continuing from a successful start last year, Mr. Bentley said cross-country ski instruction will be given during the winter.

"Y" aerobic classes for women will be held again and Mr. Bentley hopes to offer the same water-fitness class to men if enough are interested.

New School Opens

Tyendinaga Reserve's new central school is now occupied by the reserve's 240 pupils. The elementary school has 10 classrooms, a gym and library and is air-conditioned. Accordingly, the school has exceeded expectations. "I've never been in a building so quiet," says principal Howard Alton. The Grade 2 and 3 pupils of Mrs. Linda Belch settle down to seat work in front of a bulletin board already decorated with their art work.

Roslin Doctor Acquitted of Any Wrongdoing

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge overturned a finding of professional misconduct Wednesday against a Roslin, Ont., physician disciplined by the College of Physicians and Surgeons in March, 1972.

Mr. Justice Thomas Callon ruled that the college's hearing into charges against Dr. Andrew Hosein was not in accord with the principles of a fair hearing.

The college accused Dr. Hosein of falsely claiming to have rendered services to 18 patients within one day, but at lawyer conceded at the hearing that the doctor had seen that number of patients in hospital, his office and during house calls between 5 a.m. Oct. 7, 1970 and 7 a.m. the following day.

The disciplinary committee found Dr. Hosein guilty of not rendering services in accordance with accepted professional medical standards and performing services not medically necessary.

It suspended Dr. Hosein for three months and ordered him to pay costs of up to $1,500, but the orders were held in abeyance during his appeal.

Mr. Justice Callon said he was unable to find "any evidence whatsoever" in the transcript of the committee's proceedings "which could support a finding that the services rendered by the applicant (Dr. Hosein) were not medically necessary."

"As this was conceded by counsel for the respondent (College of Physicians and Surgeons) at the conclusion of the respondent's case, it is indeed difficult to understand how the disciplinr committee could have reached the finding it did," the judge said.

Expos Take Two

Cards Win Marathon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The longest night game in major league baseball history ended at 3:13 a.m. EDT today with St. Louis Cardinals the winners by a 4-3 score over New York Mets after 25 innings.

Duke McBride opened the 25th inning with an infield single and moved around to score on two Mets' errors for the winning run.

The Mets had played for seven hours and four minutes, amid a major league record 41 players and recorded 34 hits. The 34 players used by the Cardinals also was a National League record.

The game fell just one inning short of the major league record for the longest game ever played, that being a 26-inning battle between Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves in 1920. But it did beat the record for a night game, the longest previously being a 24-inning match between the Mets and Houston Astros in 1968.

Shortly after the game which finished today was 19 minutes short of the longest game by time recorded in a Metropolitan Francisco Giants contest - in 1964.

Ken Reitz of the Cardinals hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth to tie the score.

After the opening crowd of 12,480 had dwindled to about 1,000, McBride led off the 25th with an infield single. Relief pitcher Hank Webb, trying to pick McBride off first, threw to wide and McBride raced to third.

First baseman John Milner received the ball and threw home but catcher Mike Sadek dropped it for another error and McBride scored.

In other National League games, Philadelphia Phillies stopped Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4, Los Angeles Dodgers beat San Francisco Giants 4-1, San Diego Padres defeated Houston Astros 2-0, Montreal Expos swept Chicago Cubs -1 and 12-4 in a twi-night doubleheader, and the Atlanta Braves defeated Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

The Cardinals' victory string was ended at 10 with the Mets' win.

As pirate umpire Ed Sudol signaled him safe, McBride lay on the ground, seemingly stunned that the tie-breaking run had finally scored.

"There was dirt in my eyes, dirt everywhere," he said. "I was tired."

If he thought he was tired, he should have checked Sadek.

The plate umpire has been through this before. He was behind the plate for the 23-inning Mets-San Francisco game in 1964 and the 24-inning game between Houston and the Mets in 1968.

"My legs feel like a couple of lead posts," he said. "The player may look cunning up and sailing. 'How're you standing?' and I didn't know what to say, because I didn't know how I was standing."

The Cards victory moved them to within 2½ games of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League's East Division.

The Pirates not only lost the game, they lost their ace pitcher when a line drive by Philadelphia's Willie Montanez struck Dock Ellis on the right hand, fracturing a bone and knocked the Pirate star out of the lineup for at least three weeks.

The other damage done by a Philadelphia bat was Bill Robinson's three-run, eighth-inning home run, which broke a 5-5 tie and sent the Phillies to victory.

Centre fielder Gerry Maddox made a diving catch to end the Cey's ninth-inning live drive, helped the Dodgers break a 2-2 tie and record their victory over the Giants.

Rookie Mike Iviz hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning to break a 2-2 tie and give the Padres victory over Houston.

Rain washed out the contest at Cincinnati in the fifth inning, and Atlanta was given the supposed complete as part of a doubleheader today, although the statistics counted toward the regular season records.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos have been four runs in the first inning and six more in the fifth to cruise to a 12-4 victory over Chicago Cubs and sweep of their National League baseball doubleheader Wednesday night.

Willie Davis's homer after Ron Fairly opened in the first inning got the Expos started in the second game. Ken Singleton and Tim Foley chipped in with doubles and Foley added a double into the right-field corner to score Singleton. Barry Foote followed with a run-scoring double.

The Expos got their six runs in the fifth on only three hits, including Foote's three-run double, but were aided by shortstop Bob Sperring's error.

Larry Parrish led off with a double and was a sale at third on a late throw by Cubs starter and loser Ray Burris. 3-4, as pinch hitter Jim Northrup reached base.

Warren Cromartie ran for

WILLIE DAVIS

Northrup and scored up at second on Larry Lintz's RBI single. Dave Lemche relieved Burris and Tim Hosley sacrificed the runners up. One out later, Ken Singleton was walked intentionally to load the bases for Jorgensen, who drove in a run with a walk.

Sperring then threw badly to first attempting to retire Fairly and Lintz came home. Foote then doubled to centre to end the lengthy scoring.

Ron Dunn's first homer of the year in the Cubs second scored Bill Madlock, who had singled, and Dunn doubled in the fourth to score Jerry Morales, who had reached on a force out and moved to third on George Mitterwald's hit.

With the first game, Jorgensen drilled a pair of two-run homers to carry Steve Renko, 10-14, to victory.

Both Jorgensen's shots, giving him nine for the year, came off Cubs starter and loser Bill Bonham, 11-12. Foti stole home on the first in the first inning and Singleton was aboard in the sixth.

CLARK PRAISED

LONDON (AFP) — For the first time the British boxing board of control has praised a fighter for his service to the sport. English boxer Johnny Clark, forced to retire as European heavyweight champion because of eye trouble, received the tribute.

Baltimore Wins in 17th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Their 'tell-tale' doubleheader lasted nearly seven hours, but managers Bill Virdon of New York Yankees and Earl Weaver of Baltimore Orioles both came away happy.

Doug Powell's run-scoring pinch-single in the 17th inning of the opener gave Baltimore a 5-4 victory and made Weaver happy, but Ross Grimsley's five-hit pitching led the Yankees to a 2-1 triumph in the nightcap and brought a smile to Virdon's face.

The split of the doubleheader, which lasted six hours, 53 minutes from start to finish, kept the Yankees two games ahead of second-place Baltimore in the hot American League East race. Cleveland beat Boston 3-1, dropping the Red Sox 3½ games off the pace and putting the Indians just five games out.

"It was a big game for us," said Virdon of the win in the nightcap. "It meant the difference between being tied for the lead or two games ahead. Am I happy? I guess so, but we had a chance to win them both and we didn't."

Weaver, too, was pleased.

"I'm happy about tonight, the Baltimore skipper said. "We could have gone back all-out out of it."

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota Twins beat Oakland's A's 5-2 in 10 innings, Texas Rangers defeated Chicago White Sox 6-2, California Angels edged Kansas City Royals 3-2 in 10 innings and Milwaukee Brewers blanked Detroit Tigers 2-0.

Gura, purchased on Aug. 18 from Syracuse of the International League, raised his record with the Yankees to 3-1.

"I'm going to use at least four starters from now on," Virdon said, "and Gura's likely to be one of them."

Gura yielded a run in the first inning, then shut the door on the Orioles. The Yankees went ahead with four runs in the second when Sandy Alomar and Jim Mason hit RBI singles, Elliott Maddox was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and Lou Piniella hit a sacrifice fly.

Grimsley's relief was four hours and 12 minutes, ended when Powell singled following two walks and pitcher Cle Colt Upshaw, 1-4.

The hit was only the third over the last 10 innings by the Orioles, who had tied the score 2-2 on Andy Etchebarren's first home run of the season in the fifth inning.

Harmon Killebrew hit his 13th home run of the season in the 10th inning, a two-run shot on the first pitch from Darold Knowles that gave the Twins the victory over Oakland.

Jim Bibby pitched a four-hitter for his 18th victory of the season and Jim Spencer drove in two runs with two singles as the Rangers moved to within 9½ games of Oakland in the AL West.

Nolan Ryan stopped Kansas City on four hits and struck out 15, outdueling Kansas City's Al Fitzmorris. Mors's Nettles led off the 10th with a single, was sacrificed to second, stole third and scored when Bruce Bochte beat out a single to shortstop.

Jim Slaton stopped the Tigers on five hits, Milwaukee got a run in the first inning on Don Money's single, made it 2-0 in the seventh on an RBI single by Tim Johnson and got its final run in the eighth on two walks and George Scott's run-scoring single.

Wings Place Two On NLL All-star Team

TORONTO (CP) — Philadelphia Wings placed two players on the National Lacrosse League first all-star team announced Wednesday while Paul Suggate of Maryland Arrows won the league's most valuable player award.

Suggate, a 24-year-old from Toronto, led the NLL in scoring through most of the season and finished with 115 goals, 139 points in 40 games for a shooting average of 31.3 per cent.

The 5-foot-10 141-pounder, Arrows No. 1 pick in the draft, is rated by most as the best all-round offensive player in the game today with his running, checking and scoring abilities and his leadership qualities which are unusually at a high level.

Lynch, who didn't play junior lacrosse until 1973 when he was named most valuable player by Victoria Shamrocks, scored 61 goals and had 137 points for Les Quebecois last season.

Desert Vixon Wins Maksette Handicap

NEW YORK (AP) — Desert Jr. and paid $15.60, $7.40 and Vixen, flashing for the first time under her three-year-old filly champion in 1973, overtook Quadrangle La Prevoyante in the stretch Wednesday and won the $30,750 Maksette Handicap at Belmont Park.

The filly ran the mile in a stakes record of one minute and 34.3 seconds to best fast-closing Fonta Vecchio by 1¼ lengths, with Poker Night another half length back.

La Prevoyante, owned by Jean-Louis Levesque of Montreal and ridden by Ron Turcotte, was second favorite behind Fonta Vechio. La Prevoyante wrested the lead on and ran the first six furlongs in 1:09 4-5. Desert Vixen stayed a close second and took the lead away from a tiring La Prevoyante with about an eighth of a mile

Argonauts May Get More Than They Bargained For

"Fingers crossed in the morning, cash down," exclaimed the 7 a.m. arrival as he burst in the Belleville sports room on the newsroom, Wednesday.

Temporarily disregarding his wax paper-wrapped treat and familiar "coffee to go", and pausing only long enough to put Boston to a "safe" cigarette, he followed up his opening remarks with:

"Is Jackson going to Toronto, or!"

Informed that Russ Jackson (used he be introduced here) was indeed giving some thought to an offer from Toronto Argonauts, this concoction of breakfast entrepreneurial wizardry exclaimed:

Talk about hell freezing over.

This guy has been rooting for Ottawa Rough Riders against Tiger-Cats since the initial opposition on the "golden boy" and, more likely, heartbreaker that.

He'd have bet a bundle on Riders if they were matched against the Green Bay Packers when that accomplished group was chewing them up and spitting them out, under the guidance of the late great Vince Lombardi.

But, come to think of it, this disciple of Grant Cale has been something less than eager to wager on his club of late.

When approved on the subject, he's been known to break into song(?), warbling something which sounds like "Hand me down my walking cane..."

One gets the impression Riders' image has become tarnished of late when the unofficial president of their fan club (Bay of Quinte Chapter) is heard to mumble the morning after an Ottawa loss, "That Cassels, He did it again."

And, more recently "How Keating's doing it."

But who would have dreamed he'd switch his allegiance to Argos!

Perhaps he'll reconsider. There's one thing sure.

Russ Jackson calling the shots in Toronto?

Well hey that.

Come on now.

SLICES — Those two 19-year-olds with the Kingston entry in the New York State Baseball League, Greg Orr and Ray Bailey are still impressing Montreal Expos' brass, according to Leo Brad-[illegible] ley, the National Baseball League club's representative in Eastern Ontario.

Expos held their closed tryout camp at Jarry Park last weekend and Leo reports the two Kingston products were batting their own.

Forty-eight players were invited to the camp and 20 of them were pitchers.

Leo hopes to run indoor training sessions for pitchers and catchers in this area, early next year. More on that, later.

Incidentally, the same Leo Bradley has been named coach of the year in the Belleville Minor Baseball Association. He coached Mulcahy Sunoco in the bantam house league.

From the better late than never department, in answer to the question I posed a week ago concerning Ontario Amateur Softball Association classifications, the following.

Population 100,000 and over, Senior A; 30,000 - 100,000, Senior B; 15,001 to 30,, Intermediate A, and so on.

Belleville has a Senior B entry (Dewolfe Motors) so this year, Bellville entered a team in Intermediate A (Hollins Construction), and it follows that an AA team is allowed (Howard and Robert Printing).

How do the teams decide which will enter what classification?

Dewolfe and Hollins hooked up in a playoff with the winner (Hollins) earning the right to first choice. The Construction team chose Intermediate A, leaving the Motormen to go Senior B.

It appears as if Herb Colbourne's SACO powerhouse will have to wait until September 27 to battle Ontario Amateur Softball Association semi-final play.

SACO is waiting for the winner of the Sarnia-Grantham tilt.

Word has it Sarnia took the first of that playoff 3-2 with Game 2 scheduled for Grantham, Saturday.

Janet Smith, Belleville, Broadloom's centre fielder, attempts to avoid the grip on her by Simpsons-Sears third baseman Heather Sinclair in Wednesday night's Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League game at the Alamite. The Broadloomers broke out of their slump with a 17-4 win over Simpsons. The teams are in contention for the league's B Championship and the series now stand at 3-1 for Simpsons.

Broadloom Bounces Back
Purina-ettes One Away

Purina-ettes moved to within one win of the A playoff championship in the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League, Wednesday, turning back Belleville Yardmen Dewolfe Ford 16-4 to take a commanding 3-1 lead in games in the final.

In the B section title series, Belleville Broadloom came to life after dropping the first two games of their best of five set, registering a convincing 17-4 win over Simpsons-Sears to get back in the hunt for the crown.

Both series continue next week with Broadloom and Simpsons-Sears hooking up Monday at Centennial at 6.15 p.m. while BYBF matches skills with Purina-ettes, Tuesday in Madoc, at 8 p.m.

Whenp pitcher Sandra Fleming scattered 15 hits while gaining the nod over BYBF. She struck out one and walked six.

Shirley Gulliver worked four innings plus for the losers, touched for 13 hits while fanning five and walking one. Sue Morton finished up. She allowed seven hits, struck out one and walked one.

Sue Wright paced the winners at the plate with a double and four singles. Jane Bailey was right in step with a double and three singles and Rosanne Chapman supplied two doubles. Karen Bailey checked in with three singles.

Joyce McFarlane was BYBF's top hitter with a home run and three on-base knocks. Sheila Smith, also honored, had one added one single. Gulliver collected a pair of singles.

Broadloom broke out for 12 runs in the first three innings and added five in the sixth to tame Simpsons-Sears.

Mary-Anne Sills got the win, spacing 11 base hits. She retired four on third strikes and walked five.

Starter Joanne Gervin and Hazel Gerrevreet, who took over in the third, were nicked for 20 Broadloom safeties.

The big bats for the winners were by Mary-Anne Sills who clouted two circuit blasts, and Norma Fisher and Chris Smith, a homer each.

Taylor, Goegan Signed

Everything is beautiful go the world of a popular song.

And although that may be a frilly way to describe a Junior B Hockey Club, it fits general manager Jim (Gaspe) Matthews' outlook on the Bobcats combine's progress for the opening of the Metro Junior B Hockey League.

About the only thing causing Gaspe any degree of concern right now, is the weather.

"It's need some cool weather. It would help with the ice making at Memorial Arena," he advises.

And with Bobcats scheduled to embark on their pre-season schedule, at home to Kingston Voyageurs, Wednesday, ice at Memorial is a definite necessity.

Dwelling on player personnel for a moment, Gaspe declares that defencemen Dave Taylor and Stewart Greer. Goegan have signed with the club. Johnny Baldwyn Rob Foster and Mike Watt, and announcer Wayne Culberry from Trenton on the roster.

"It's amazing what a year will do for three players," he[illegible]," observes the GM, referring to the added weight and height and expertise being displayed by the recruits at that section.

"We go again tonight (Thursday) at Dick Ellis Arena from 7-9 o'clock and I expect we'll sign some more players at that time," stats Matthews.

Etter Calls Shots As Cats Dump Stamps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Hamilton Tiger-Cats acquired Don Jonas from Winnipeg Blue Bombers last week as a quarterback swap, it was assumed Jonas would become the Ticats' No. 1 passer.

The way things are going, it might not be able to crack the lineup, Jonas said Wednesday night after Bill Etter led the Ticats to a 27-6 win over Calgary Stampeders.

Etter, in his second year as backup to Chuck Ealey, who departed to Winnipeg, won his second Canadian Football League game in a row with a strong display of passing and running.

Etter started with a six-yard touchdown pass to Tony Gabriel in the first quarter, and then hit the same receiver on eight carries and his passing led to two touchdowns runs by Dave Fleming, one from 11 yards and one from two.

"He's got confidence now," said coach Jerry Williams told of the sophomore quarterback from Notre Dame.

"You can see him improving in every game. Don't forget he didn't play that much at Notre Dame. He even sat out one year because of injuries.

"He's fast. He's not as good a runner as Ealey, but he has good speed and I think, in fact race, he might take Ealey."

Jonas got into the game for a couple of plays late in the fourth quarter.

The Stampeders, with Pete Liske at quarterback most of the way, showed little spark and gave up four fumbles. Calgary's total offence was 171 yards while the Ticats gained 397.

The Stampeders with only one win in eight games, move on to Ottawa for a game Saturday afternoon against the Rough Riders.

Tonight British Columbia Lions visit Toronto Argonauts in an 8 p.m. EDT encounter that is to be televised on the CBC national network.

One of the television commentators will be former Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson who was announced Wednesday as Toronto's new head coach, starting Jan. 1, 1975.

The Argos announced he will sign a five-year contract to replace John Rauch who was fired last week.

The Argos, with only three wins in eight starts, have a number of injury problems. Defensive tackle Granville Liggins has a bruised leg and defensive back Larry Highbaugh a rib injury. Both are doubtful starters.

Argos announced Wednesday that defensive end Ed Herring has been released after he came off the injury list, leaving rookie Farris Scott from Young-stown State at the defensive end position.

National Fivepin Champions Decided

OTTAWA (CP) — Four divisions competed in sudden-death finals on the last day of the national youth fivepin bowling championship Wednesday.

Chris Abrossom of Edmonton defeated Charlene Lizotte of Gatineau, Que., in the bantam girl's singles 192-184 to take the gold medal. Both girls had ended regular competition with 12 wins and eight losers.

In junior boy's singles, Hervis Pocza of Lethbridge, Alta., defeated Leonard Leveille of Kentan, Ont., 291-225 in the rolloff breaking a 26-7 tie, to win the gold medal.

Cornwall, Ont., captured the gold medal from Vernon, B.C. in the senior girl's team event with a 1115-1081 win in the roll-off. Both teams had tied at 13-3 in regular competition.

In singles action, Paul Sawyer of Vancouver won the gold medal in the bantam boy's single event with a 19-5 record.

Prince Albert walked off with the gold in the bantam girl's team event with 14 wins and only four losses and Cathy Harms of Surrey, B.C., captured the junior girl's singles title with a 20-7 record.

Ed Nordvall of Calgary, won the gold in the senior boy's singles at 21-3, Regina taking the senior boy's team gold with a 13-5 record.

Buchanan Starts Trial

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dave Buchanan, leading rusher in the Eastern Football Conference in 1972, will join Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western conference today to begin a five-day trial, East Lossburn, Bombers' general manager, said Buchanan signed Wednesday to report to Winnipeg for the trial. Buchanan was obtained by the Bombers Monday in a trade with Hamilton Tiger-Cats for Winnipeg's first-round draft choice next year.

Gary Player Would do it Differently

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — "If I had it all to do over again, I'd change many things," Gary Player said.

"I'd devote myself to golf and exclude everything else."

The little South African, a candidate for Golfer of the Year honors, made the comments before leaving off today in the first round of the $300,000 World Open golf tournament.

It will be Player's final appearance in the United States this year, and he ranked high among the favorites for the $60,000 first prize, the biggest in the game this season.

Player, winner of the Masters and British Opens this season, is now inducted in the World Golf Hall of Fame and one of only four men to win all the world's major titles, is one of the most successful and highly respected performers the game has seen.

But Player said he'd still change things if he had a chance.

"If I could go back 20 years, I'd do many, many things a great deal differently," he said.

"I would try to target myself differently.

"I would try to devote myself to the game more . . .

"The thing is that we become too money-conscious," Player continued.

"We go to exhibitions, golf meetings, breakfasts, lunches, dinners, banquets, meetings, appearances.

"It becomes too much sometimes. It takes so much time, so much effort. It's just because we sometimes get ourselves in places where, suddenly, the money become overwhelmingly important.

"But think what you could do, think what you could accomplish, if you could concentrate, if you channel your energies."

Still, Player admitted the lure of the $60,000 first prize here was attractive, a prize that would advance his total winnings for the year to about $200,000.

Soviets Triumph

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet Union made it two in a row over Finland with a 7-3 triumph Wednesday in the Izvestia Cup hockey tournament. The Russians won 8-1 Tuesday.

The International field of 180 is probably the strongest international lineup of the season.

Exhibition Series Ends

Harris Gets Final Look

EDMONTON (CP) — Team Canada '74 ends its five-game exhibition series here tonight, giving coach Billy Harris a last chance to evaluate the World Hockey Association players who will take part in an eight-game series with the Soviet national team.

An impressive performance Tuesday at Saskatoon, where Team Canada beat the Western Canada Hockey League All-Stars 6-1, lifted some of the concern off Harris' but several questions remain.

Despite encouraging medical reports on Bobby Hull, the knee so injured Sunday in Calgary has not been tested in a game.

"I'm as concerned about having him as a leader as I am about having him play—and it's obvious how much we need him just as a player," said Harris. "He is so keen about this series that it rubs off on everybody."

During the eight periods he played before his injury, Hull was the dominant figure almost every time he stepped on the ice.

Hull will start against the Russians in the opening game Tuesday night at Quebec City.

Even without Hull, Team Canada played its best game Tuesday night.

The spearhead was Gordie Howe, 46, who scored three goals. He also used his elbows without regard for the skill and style of his young opponents.

Overshadowed by Hull and Howe so far, but excellent nevertheless, have been forwards Ralph Backstrom, Johnny McKenzie, Rod Gilbert, Yvan Cournoyer, Rejean Houle, and defencemen J. C. Tremblay, Pat Stapleton and Paul Shmyr.

Harris had expressed concern about some of his forwards. Part of this concern also appeared when Mike Walton scored two goals at Saskatoon to his best performance since camp opened Sept. 1.

Mark Howe, the hard-shooting son of the hard-shooting father, has not found his stride and it is Paul Henderson, who suffered a slight shoulder injury at Saskatoon, and Tom Webster have been productive, but unspectacular.

Frank Mahovlich, hampered in the early stages of camp by severe hay fever, said Wednesday he feels better than a week ago and much stronger than at a comparable stage of workouts with Team Canada '72, which edged the Russians in the first summit meeting of the world's top hockey powers.

Houle and Bucyk and Marc Tardif and Serge Bernier have worked hard in preparation for the series. Tardif and Houle have said that the line—known as 'The French Selection'—feels it is representing French Canada.

Wings Win After 2nd Overtime

LANDOVER, Md. (CP) — Philadelphia Wings took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Lacrosse League semi-finals, defeating Maryland Arrows 13-12 after two periods of overtime before 6,712 fans Wednesday night.

The fifth game is set for Philadelphia tonight.

It was the second time in the series that the Wings have defeated Maryland in overtime. Like the first game, John Grant got the winning goal. The 6-foot-6 Grant, a 78-goal scorer during the regular season, scored the winner at 1:23 in the second overtime period.

Grant broke in all alone on goalie Roger Willems, rifled a shot at close range which bounced off Willems' shoulder pad and dropped in for the win.

On the night, Grant had three goals and four assists and now has eight goals in the playoffs. The Arrows, who led 5-3 after the first period of play, had to rally on a late third-period goal by scoring champion Paul Sugg to force overtime.

Maryland outshot Philadelphia 67-58.

Anka Releases Hits of Sixties

OTTAWA (CP) — Early recording hits by Paul Anka, who at the age of 33 is already a 15-year veteran of show business stardom, are going to be released within the next few months.

Anka told a news conference he has bought back the rights to his earliest hits in 1969 at a cost of $750,000 because he knows his voice and style were changing and he wanted to keep the earlier records off the market.

However, they became the subject of black market and bootleg operations, he said, so he has leased the rights back to an agent for five years. He said he did not know what recording company would release the oldies, but that he expects they will be on the market this fall.

Anka is here for a week's engagement in the 1,800-seat opera house of the National Arts Centre, and to record a television special for the CBC.

Anka said it was good to be back in Ottawa — "Nice to see a clean city again" — after building his career in the U.S.

Seventeen years ago, when he was 16 and breaking into the popular music business, he had to go to the U.S. to make a career. There weren't the recording studios and show places in Canada in which he could make a living.

Now he lives in Las Angeles, owns a lot in Las Vegas, and tours the world.

But he is still a Canadian. "There's been no reason to change. I invest a lot of my money in Canada."

Flying Dutchman Delights Toronto Opera Fanciers

TORONTO (CP) — Heinrich Bender, conductor of the Bavarian State Opera in Munich since 1959, led the Canadian Opera Company and the Toronto Symphony in Richard Wagner's tuneful and dramatic opera, The Flying Dutchman, Saturday night and drew sustained applause.

The second production of the company's new 29th season, the three-act opera first performed in 1843, is regarded as the masterwork of the German composer's most approachable work. Written in Leif Rear of Dusseldorf's Deutsche Oper am Rhein sang the lead role as the Dutch captain condemned to sail the seas of the world endlessly until he finds a girl whose perfect love will free him from the devil's curse.

British-born Anna Green, a Canadian Opera Company debut, proves her case for him in perfect by throwing herself into the sea—shemargan the Dutchman's cursed ship sinks and the captain and the girl are transfigured and raised to heaven.

Wagner's operas are replete with such dramatic stage directions, and though the Canadian Opera Company had the full facilities of the O'Keefe Centre's stage at its disposal, it hesitated to attempt Wagner's flights and levitation. Instead, Senta throws herself over the back of the stage set, the Dutchman collapsed on stage, and a beautiful sunset lights up the scene.

Veteran opera-goers said this was one of the Canadian Opera Company's most perfect productions, with Series Wirsen of Guelph directing the chorus, Suzanne Mess of Toronto designing the costumes, Wallace Russell arranging the lighting, and Murray Laufer in charge of projections.

Actor Doesn't Seek Star Billing Status

MONTREAL (CP) — British actor Richard Harris, preparing for his 34th film role, says he does not think star status and top billing go hand in hand.

Harris is to play a secondary role in the film, The Last Castle, due to begin a four-week shooting schedule Wednesday in the unlikely setting of Chester Bay, N.S.

"This film is really a Labor of love for me because I've wanted to do it for such a long time and Hollywood producers don't seem to want to touch this kind of thing," he said at an interview.

"Maybe it's too simple or too honest, or maybe it's too believable."

In Montreal to talk about the $800,000 production which also stars Barbara Harris and Jodi Foster, the actor said he is pleased that in Canada the film will get the treatment it deserves.

"I'm not knocking Hollywood, but they always seem to be thinking in a one-dimensional way—like taking a successful script and turning it into garbage."

The film, produced in association with Astral Bellevue Pathe Ltd. of Montreal, is based on a Broadway play written by Robert L. Joseph. It tells the story of a child faced with death.

Scope, said Harris, is one of the things that drew him to the part, which might be considered a secondary role.

"So what? I can make it happen in this film, or I think I can, and star billing isn't that important."

The eloquent, grey-haired star of Camelot, Cromwell and A Man Called Horse said Canada is at the stage where it can be an important testing ground for films.

"Living so close to the giant American film industry, you can't help but feel a little bit inhibited.

"But the day will come—and I don't think that it's far off—where Canadians will say they have an industry to be proud of."

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, September 13th

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're going to find it's a task someone for not doing a task that you're supposed to do at this time, it will be left undone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you try to mix pleasure and business now the results will be very complicated. They'll be difficult to unravel.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If cloaking a luxury item as necessary, be sure it can be returned if you're not satisfied. It won't be as attractive at home as in the store.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A situation that you're complacent about is circling in the wrong direction. Act promptly when you spot the flaw.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This could be another one of those expensive days because of the impractical way you manage your material affairs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let your guard down in a situation that requires polite poise and tact. You will make a poor lasting impression if you do.

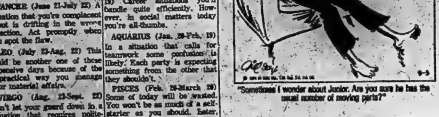
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to be composed and poised in a clandestine situation. It could get rather sticky if you have to explain peculiar repercussions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't give too much time to friendly interests at present. It will cut down your momentum for the more important issues.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take a moment to think about what's really of value to you now. If you've drifted in for is full of empty promise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Career situations you'll handle quite efficiently. However, in social matters today you're all-thumbs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In a situation that calls for teamwork some confusion is likely. Each party is expecting something from the other that they shouldn't.



PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Some of today will be wasted. You won't be as much of a self-starter as you should. Later, you'll double your pace.

IN MEMORIAM

ALBERT — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away Sept. 12, 1972.

Two years have passed since that day
The world looks on but we pray
Our one true comfort is to know
He is resting in God's rest.

The parting was hard to bear,
We never could have said good-bye,
So we just bowed at the throne
And commended Albert by with
His loved ones prayers.

Lovingly remembered by wife Ethel and family. 37-1-p

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Reid would like to express sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our mother. Special thanks to Father R. Smith, Dr. Ferguson and Dr. Hall and the staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

The Reid Family.

Jackson Makes Comeback As Argonaut Head Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Russ Jackson, former all-Canadian quarterback who says he has run out of challenges as a high school principal, will become head coach of Toronto Argonauts next year.

The Eastern Football Conference club said Wednesday it had reached a verbal agreement with Jackson, 37, on a five-year contract that is to take effect Jan. 1, 1975.

"It was one of the biggest decisions of my life," Jackson said at a news conference.

"I always considered myself to have two vocations—education and athletics.

"But I'd come to a point where I'd gone through the stages of being a teacher, vice-principal and principal and I asked myself where was I going from there.

"I needed a challenge."

The Argos had sought Jackson after they fired head coach John Rauch last week, blaming him for not making full use of offensive talent available to the Canadian Football League. Owner Bill Hodgson and general manager John Barrow indicated that Rauch's replacement would be named this week.

RUSS JACKSON

Jackson, quarterback with Ottawa Rough Riders for 10 years before retiring after leading the Riders to the Grey Cup championship in 1969, was named the outstanding player in the CFL three times and the league's outstanding Canadian four times before retiring after leading the Riders to the Grey Cup championship in 1969.

Barrow said Jackson's contract, to be signed by both parties in about a week, does not take effect until next year because both parties agreed it was not desirable for Jackson to take over in mid-season.

The Argos, who face British Columbia Lions here tonight, have won only three of their first eight games and are tied with Ottawa for last place in the EFC.

Barrow also said he has offered former CFL quarterback Bernie Faloney, a close friend of Barrow's since their days with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a job as an assistant offensive coach with the argos.

Jackson will become the first Canadian head coach in the CFL since Annis Stukus was fired by B.C. in 1955. He also becomes the Argos' 10th head coach in the last 20 years.

Riders Drop Foster

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders made room on their roster for another lineman Wednesday by dropping running back Gene Foster.

As a result, Riders will move Charlie Brandon from defence to offence for Saturday's Canadian Football League game here against Calgary Stampeders.

With Brandon going to offence, Riders are expected to insert defensive tackle Carl Taylor into the lineup. He was dropped a few weeks ago.

SETS HAMMER RECORD

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuter) — Russia's Alexei Spiridonov set a world hammer throw record of 251 feet, six inches at an international track meet Wednesday. Spiridonov's throw bettered the nine-week-old record of 251-3¾ set by Germany's Reinhard Theimer. Ahead Hoffman of Toronto finished fifth in the women's 800 metres with a time of two minutes, 8.12 seconds.

Welland Misses Message

WELLAND (CP) — Welland Sabres apparently didn't get the message from the Ontario Hockey Association.

It is a Southern Ontario Hockey Association club's exhibition game against Buffalo Sabres' rookies of the National Hockey League was halted Wednesday night with 10 minutes and 35 seconds left in the second period.

The reason: A brawl near centre ice brought players from both benches over the boards and just about everybody got into the act.

The OHA announced last week that any player in its Jo-

Muhammad Ali Admits to Tired Blood

N'SELE, Zaire (AP) — Muhammad Ali admitted Wednesday to having multicolored blood and said he had called in a doctor because he was worried about feeling listless during total training for his Sept. 25 heavyweight boxing championship fight with George Foreman.

After sparring briefly at his headquarters by the Congo River, and completing a run as a "mummy" and an "elephant," Ali grew serious-looking and began talking about his medical problems.

"They found that my blood sugar level was low two weeks ago," he told reporters. "I've been having it checked every other day since then, and I'll do it every couple of days until the fight."

Ali said he was eating cheese every hour during the day to bring up his sugar. His diet also included cakes, pies, sweet rolls and other things that ill-prepared fighters prepping for world championships usually consider death traps.

Fog Again Forecast For America Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (Reuter) — The possibility of fog threatened today to postpone the second race in the America's Cup yacht series for the second day in a row.

After American defender Courageous won the opening race Wednesday over Australian challenger Southern Cross, the second race was called off, when dense fog Wednesday settled over the 24.5-mile course on Rhode Island Sound.

Fog was forecast for early this morning but was expected to turn to haze by late morning. The event was scheduled to start at 12:10 p.m. EDT but could begin as late as 7:10 p.m. under the rules of the race.

Winds of between 10 and 12 knots were forecast, which could hold well for Southern Cross, believed to be at its best in stronger wind conditions. Tuesday's race was sailed in light air, a condition which favors Courageous.

Both yachts went out for brief runs Wednesday around the fog-shrouded Newport harbor, mainly to evaluate sails and to keep the crews busy. Southern Cross later was hauled out of the water so that its rudder could be repaired. A small piece of the rudder was chipped off Tuesday night when a protective covering was being placed around the yacht.

BAYLOR PICKED

Orleans Jazz said Wednesday they have selected Elgin Baylor, No. 5 all-time leading scorer in the National Basketball Association, as assistant coach of the NBA team. He was a forward with Los Angeles Lakers for 13 seasons.

Former Pilot with Luftwaffe Builds Canada's First Airship

TRENTON (CP) — There was the Ralph Schneider who was a German fighter pilot in the Second World War.

There also was the civilian who handled British flying lumbers in the Berlin Airlift of 1948-49.

And the one who became a captain in the United States Air Force and flew Mustangs in the Korean War.

Also, the one who won two European motorcycle-sidecar championships; worked as a dishwasher and theatre usher in Montreal for a grand total of 72 cents an hour; and lumberjacked around Manitwadige Qua.

Then there's the one who married the British admiral's daughter, after first getting the nerve because the old salt thought he was an American.

Finally, there's the Ralph Schneider who's building an airship—Canada's first—and this community just north of Metropolitan Toronto where his firm manufactures all-terrain vehicles.

Along the route, he picked up a degree in naval architecture—going to university after leaving the USAF—and he designs the vehicles produced by Hoverjet Inc., which he founded here three years ago.

Engineering faculty members and students of McMaster University at Hamilton and University of Toronto's Institute of Aerospace Studies are working with him in fabricating—with the help of computers—a prototype airship which they hope will usher in a resurgence of the long-ignored lighter-than-air vessel for freight haulage.

It's going to take two years or more from start to finish, which will make this the longest time the fast-moving Mr. Schneider has been around one place in quite some time.

Son of a master boat-builder on Germany's North Sea coast, he left the family yard at the age of 13 and by the time war broke out had been through engineering studies and was working with an aircraft company. Drafted into the Luftwaffe, he fought most of the war over Russia but was shot down in 1944 by Allied forces in the invasion of Europe. He came down behind his own lines with a bullet in his knee.

When he got out of hospital in early 1945, he was switched to testing an early-model jet fighter, whose unstable fuel had a propensity for blowing up.

"We lost more pilots that way than I care to remember," he recalled in an interview.

"The whole darn mess was made out of plywood and was disposable. So were the pilots. They were trained between 15 and 18 hours before going into combat, but most of them never made it. We used to say the survival potential for a pilot was 17 days, provided he didn't fly for 18 days."

After the war, he was working with the British occupation forces in Germany as a civilian engineer when the Berlin airlift began, and he was offered a flying job. As fliers with only German licences were still "a little bit socially unacceptable," he went to Switzerland and got a commercial licence there.

After a spell of motorcycle and automobile racing, he decided he wanted no more of Germany—"politically, they were still marching in goosestep" — and headed for Canada.

"So, after some time in Canada, being a full-fledged engineer and pilot, the best job I could get was to a lumberjack camp," he said. He lasted just two weeks in the woods and left for Montreal to wash dishes and usher until an American officer he had known in Germany got him a job at the Goose Bay, Labrador, air base as a ground stooge.

Along came the Korean War and, "with a little bit of twisting and hassling," he got into the USAF and spent 18 months flying ground support for his former enemies. Afterwards, he was shipped to Washington; as an instructor in Houston, Texas, and then to England where he met his future wife, the admiral's daughter.

"I remember the first time she took me around to see the family," he laughed. "He was me standing in the door in American uniform and he gave me the dirtiest look I have ever received. He said to his daughter, 'These God-damned Yankees.'

"After she told him I was actually a German, everything was all right."

Mr. Schneider left the USAF in 1958 and returned to boat-building in the early 1960s, after getting his naval architect's degree. Then he got interested in hover-type vehicles and set up his firm here in 1971. It assembles and sells them; farms out patents on a royalty basis, and does engineering work for other companies and the federal government.

"We're small (nine employees) but we're making a buck," he said. Hoverjet Inc. is moving to a larger plant in Metropolitan Toronto this fall, taking airship CAS-1 along.

It will need some elbow room. So far, construction has proceeded only on the frame work of the gondola, but the gas bag is to be 320 feet long by 49 in diameter. Its 90,000 cubic feet of helium will carry a planned payload of 1,-850 pounds.

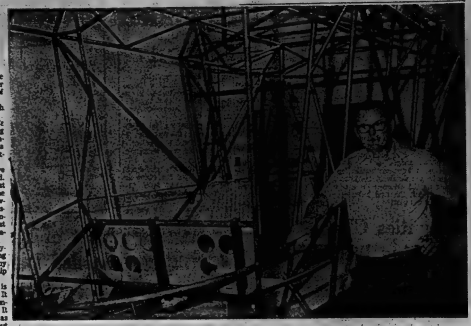
"It's not a cargo ship," its sponsor said. It's primarily for training of flight crews, scientific purposes, route research and things like that. We might rent it out for advertising and movie-making.

"We've working now on the conceptual design of an airship to carry 100 tons, which would come to about 700 feet and get lift from 10 million cubic feet of helium. The cost would be in the region of $10 million. But I would think from our studies the best vehicle would be 500 to 700 tons, about 1,200 feet long."

If built as a commercial basis, CAS-1 would cost about $500,000. But all the work is being done free—both by the sanddancing and by the Hoverjet enthusiasts—so Mr. Schneider said there will only be a bill for materials of around $150,000 for the non-rigid (blimp-type) craft.

The financing has been arranged with private sources, Mr. Schneider said, and the Canadian Airship Development Corp. has been formed to put the project through.

"While we may not get a direct return on this little ship at the moment," Mr. Schneider said, "it's laying the groundwork for the larger ones. We'll be a step ahead of competition."



He sees the airship—which pretty well died in the 18-hole canasta of Germany's hydrogen-filled Hindenburg with the loss of 36 lives at Lakehurst, N.J.—making a comeback in the air warhorse of the future.

"Fixed-wing aircraft have become communist," he said. "When you consider the cost of real estate for airports, the cost of runways, control towers, air traffic control systems, ground support personnel and equipment, it's almost impossible to fly cargo at reasonable rates.

"If you have to ship anything today, you're paying through the nose. In many cases, you can't even ship heavy high-density cargo.

"And this, in my opinion, is where the airship comes in. It doesn't need prepared runways or air traffic control. It can land anywhere as long as you have gas clearing about three times as long as the ship. Theoretically, you could winch up a cargo from a Toronto factory and fly it to, say, the Arctic and dump it right on the site."

Another consideration, Mr. Schneider said, is that all of a lighter-than-air vessel's fuel is used to push it along—"while it takes about half the consumption of a heavier-than-air craft just to keep it airborne. "And whether we believe there's an energy crisis or not, the price of fuel has soared."

Airships Coming Back

Ralph Schneider stands beside the framework of the gondola of an airship he is building at his plant in Thornhill, just north of Toronto. Mr. Schneider believes the airship will make a comeback in the future because of the high cost of flying cargo aboard fixed-wing aircraft. (CP Photo)

House Session Demanded To Deal With Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) — A one-per-cent jump in the consumer price index in August has brought a cry from opposition parties for an early parliamentary sitting to deal with inflation problems.

The latest increase in the first eight months of the year inflates the price index well past the higher declared 1974 than most economists expected.

Food price increases contributed to the dominant factor — pushing the index up one and in August the food index rose by 1.4 per cent.

Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said the report, from statistics Canada on August index levels reinforces "assessments of party spokesmen that the government has not called an early sitting of Parliament to deal with inflation.

The government is to start sitting Sept. 30.

"The government is not facing up to its responsibilities. . . . It is wallowing in rotten complacency," he was referred to in a recent disclosures that millions of eggs have rotted while in government storage facilities.

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said the report shows inflation is as bad in Canada as in most other Western countries.

Most predictions by economists early in the year were for a gain of about 10 per cent in the consumer price index during 1974.

Up to August the eight-month rise was 8.8 per cent above the 1973 average index level. The 12-per-cent predictions were on year-over-year averages and monthly increases for the remaining four months of the year would have to be about three-tenths of one per cent to keep the annual rate to about 10 per cent.

There have been reports of severe frost damage to Prairie grain crops in recent days but the potential impact of these developments on consumer prices is not yet clear.

Meanwhile, in a separate report, the statistics bureau said total cash receipts to farmers during the first seven months of the year jumped more than 41.1 per cent from the corresponding period in 1973.

Cash receipts to farmers jumped in all provinces to total $5.808 billion, up from $2.681 billion in the January-July, 1973, period.

As well, prices paid to farmers for their goods rose 8.2 per cent during the same seven-month period.

Mounties Charge 23 Working Illegally

HAMILTON (CP) — A five-week crackdown by a special RCMP detail on workers working illegally in Canada has resulted in 23 persons being charged with Immigration Act violations.

Four persons have been convicted so far, Cpl. Wilfred Lee left the country and the rest are subject to immigration review of their status.

The two-man RCMP team said as they changed five weeks ago about seven people.

RCMP and immigration officials insist that the crackdown is a local action and does not mean regional or national investigations.

The charges all relate to immigration regulations which forbid visitors from working without a permit and receive a declaration of attested status.

Manuel Pereira Da Silva, 34, of Portugal was fined $200 in mid-August and left the country 10 days later.

Marcial Da Cruz Alcantra, 33, of Lisbon, Portugal, was fined $300, Paul Antonio Portela, 31, from El Salvador Central America, was fined $200. A deportation hearing was scheduled for Sept. 17 for him before the charge for working illegally was laid.

Sarbhajan Kaur Gidda, 27, who came to Canada from India to join her husband, was fined $100. Her husband is a landed immigrant and she will probably be allowed to stay, an immigration officer said.

Reporting Kidnappings Is Problem in Ethics

MONTREAL (CP) — The news media should be careful "not to make heroes of thugs," Reg Murphy, editor of the Atlanta Constitution and a kidnap victim, said Wednesday.

Mr. Murphy told about 500 delegates to the Radio Television News Directors Association annual international convention the reporting of kidnap stories is a dangerous responsibility.

Mr. Murphy was abducted Feb. 20 by a person who claimed to be a colonel in the American Revolutionary Army and released unharmed after $700,000 ransom and Mr. Murphy released two days after his kidnapping.

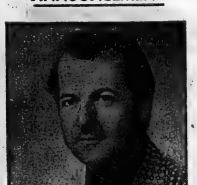
A. H. Williams, 33, was sentenced last month to 45 years for the abduction.

Merilyn Baker, who reported on the Patricia Hearst kidnapping for the San Francisco television station KGED, told the convention "I look at terrorists as criminals, and I don't intend to change our coverage to suit their political motivations.

"The media do not have the right to censure, lie or mislead the public to save 40,000 lives or one 13-year-old girl."

Ron Handberg, news director of the Minneapolis television station WCCO, said in cases where officials ask the news to withhold information when a life is at stake, such requests should be made and the FBI jointly decide how information should be reported without endangering the victim's life.

Warning System Inadequate



CAMBRIDGE (CP) — City administrator Les Wilson testified Wednesday at the provincial inquiry into the Grand River floods last May that an inadequate flood warning system and poor communications within city hall added to the magnitude of the flooding disaster.

He said the city engineer had some warning of the flood, but the information was not passed on.

Mr. Wilson said he only learned of the flooding as the water reached the downtown area.

He said officials could have evacuated equipment and dates raised the crest of the flooding if more information had been available in advance.

Most of Bad Ballots Spoiled Deliberately

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 163,861 voters spoiled their ballots in the last general election and all but "a few dozen" did so because they wanted to, says Chief Electoral Officer Jean Marc Hamel.

The decision of Parliament to change the ballot was a good one," Mr. Hamel said in an interview Wednesday.

Changes in the ballot for the July 8 election included providing a bigger circle for the voter to mark his choice and elimination of any white space between the candidate's name and party affiliation.

The general form of the black and white ballot, first used in 1972, was set by legislation. Candidates' names are printed in a white oblong space and beside each name is a white circle in which the voter makes his mark.

Excluding the figures from Quebec, which for obvious reasons tend to distort the picture, the spoiled ballots were fewer than in the last two elections.

Quebec voters were urged by the separatist Parti Quebecois to spoil their ballots in the July 8 election in protest against federalism. In the 1972 general election, it was the Quebec ballot leaders who urged the same type of protest.

Computerized System Able To Give Diabetics Pancreas

NEW YORK (CP) — Two Toronto doctors have seen seven years' research pay off in the development by a U.S. firm of a computerized machine that may lead to a portable or implanted artificial pancreas for diabetics.

The advance comes 53 years after two other Canadian researchers, Frederick Banting and Charles Best, first succeeded in extracting insulin from pancreatic tissue.

Diabetics suffer from a failure of the pancreas to produce the necessary insulin needed to control the breakdown of body sugar.

Doctors Michael Alsbaer and Bernard Labbé did the all-important mathematical work on insulin-glucose control incorporated in the machine's programming.

Dr. Alsbaer has a doctorate in engineering and is director of medical engineering at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Dr. Labbé, an MD, is with the Banting and Best Department of medical research at the University of Toronto.

Miles Laboratories of Elkhart, Ind., announced Wednesday the development of the computerized system that simulates the performance of a normal pancreas.

Known as the artificial endocrine pancreas, the machine in its present stage is too bulky for anything but hospital use.

The Canadian doctors developed the key programming. The budget of $150,000, "We got to first base on general reality," Dr. Alsbaer said in a telephone interview in Toronto.

Both want to start work right away on developing a portable device, possibly as small it can be implanted.

Development would cost about $1 million and probably take more than five years, Dr. Alsbaer said, but "we definitely think it can be done. We've demonstrated it can."

He said he and his colleague applied to the Canadian Medical Research Council for money to carry on development and were refused. They intend to apply again.

If the pair received $1 million now five years "we are confident we can solve the problem."

The device would give diabetics now on insulin freedom to eat what they want and on stages to any activities they desire, Dr. Alsbaer said.

The first commercially available unit was sold to the University Medical Centre at Ulm, West Germany, where it has been successfully in use since 1972 in the management of several brittle diabetics, who are insulin-sensitive, and those in coma.

A second unit now has been completed for delivery to the Toronto research team, and others will be available by the end of the year, the company said.

Seek Top-level Conference

PM Angers Premiers

TORONTO (CP) — Despite an advance cold shoulder from Prime Minister Trudeau, the federal government likely will receive today a request from the provinces for a top-level meeting to talk about inflation and other problems of the economy.

The 10th annual provincial conference headed in this direction as its opening day on Thursday, and Premier William Davis of Ontario said later there are several points the provinces can usefully explore with the central administration.

"Not a confrontation," said Mr. Davis, acting as spokesman for the conference with reporters. "But I just didn't see how you can lose in having the heads of government discuss what is of chief concern to the vast majority of Canadians."

Speaking with the "most famous" voice of the multi-party conference, Mr. Davis also dealt out a stiff rebuttal in a statement attributed to the prime minister Thursday to the effect that the provinces want firm economic action by Ottawa because "they probably don't want to take tough measures themselves."

The conference—nine premiers and acting premier Peter Nicholson of Nova Scotia—expressed "regret and concern" that Mr. Trudeau should have spoken this way while they were trying to deal with the state of the economy and find ways of effective co-operation.

It "hardly demonstrates the leadership that we are seeking from the prime minister and the federal government," the provincial statement added.

Several other premiers individually indicated anger in talking to reporters. Premier Dave Barrett of British Columbia called Mr. Trudeau's attitude "sad," and Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick called it "impudence."

Premier Davis indicated it wasn't pretty sure but that the premiers, if a federal-provincial meeting is called, would want to discuss with the Trudeau administration the way the federal government proposes to deal with taxation of natural resources.

The proposal—included in Finance Minister John Turner's budget that did not pass when the Liberals were overthrown in the Commons—was to disallow the federal tax deductibility of provincial corporation taxes in this field.

Mr. Davis said this had been done, without consulting the provinces and had created a difficult situation for them. premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba also brought up the subject at the conference and expressed "serious concern."

"I expect there will be something on that before we adjourn," Mr. Davis said.

Watergate Case Still on Docket

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District John Sirica has decided the pardon granted Richard Nixon is insufficient reason to throw out Watergate cover-up charges against the former president's subordinates.

Shortly before Sirica ruled the cover-up trial will go forward, the White House indicated there will be no pardons for Watergate defendants while they still face trial.

The Senate also voted 55 to 24 Thursday urging President Ford not to issue further pardons until all the Watergate trials have been completed.

And Democratic members of the House of Representatives Judiciary committee said they have begun the special prosecutor make public the evidence against Nixon. But Chairman Peter Rodino (Dem. N.J.) said he does not agree with proposals by Gerald and try Nixon despite the pardon which precludes any penalty.

Although Sirica rejected requests from three cover-up defendants he dismissed of charges against them, he indicated some sympathy with problems of a pre-trial publicity.

The judge set back the start of the trial he presided over in a so a new pool of potential jurors can be selected.

Sirica had indirectly told a special group of 460 potential jurors that they would be judging the Watergate case. Sirica said because of publicity surrounding the Nixon pardon, the trial jury will come from a completely new group.

Lawyers for former White House aide H. R. Haldeman had said the original group of jurors would have prejudged the guilt of the defendants, if only because they would have paid more attention to Watergate developments than other citizens.

At the White House, acting press secretary John Hushen, asked whether any Watergate pardons would be delayed pending completion of court trials, answered: "I believe that is true."

Ethiopians Seek Arms

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — Ethiopia's new military rulers have warned the United States that unless it increases its supply of military equipment, shipments of tanks and MiG jets to neighboring Somalia, they may look elsewhere.

The warning was reported by diplomats today in the wake of the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie.

The U.S. has given Ethiopia about $500 million worth of military and economic aid since the mid-1950s, making it by far the more than any other African country received.

Oil Producers Freeze Prices

VIENNA, Austria (CP) — The world's major oil-exporting countries will announce a six-month freeze of posted prices—the basic yardstick for oil costs—for three months to the end of this year, Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar of Iran said today.

Amouzegar spoke to reporters as senior ministers of the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) assembled for the second day of a conference.

The ministers still were discussing proposals to raise taxes and royalties paid by international oil companies.

The conference is intended to fix price levels for the three-month period starting Oct. 1.

The Iranian minister did not indicate whether OPEC was likely to extend the price freeze in 1975.

Some members of OPEC favor the idea that the way to maintain or increase their huge revenues is by cutting production rather than raising prices.

The OPEC economic commission has recommended they increase their posted or tax-reference price 14 per cent.

But Amouzegar and others indicated the push for higher posted prices is weakening, apparently because less oil is subject to the posted price due to increased nationalization of foreign holdings.

The posted price is an artificial figure on which the producing countries calculate what the oil companies pay for the royalties and taxes of the oil they produce. It has been $11.65 a barrel since Jan. 1, meaning that the oil countries collected about $6.60 a barrel.

Armed Forces Get Raise

OTTAWA (CP) — Most of the more than 82,000 men and women in the armed forces will receive pay increases averaging 11.13 per cent Oct. 1, the defence department announced today.

When the $500-a-year increase the government gave public servants earlier this year to cover cost of living increases is considered, the 1974 increase for the forces is 14.31 per cent for officers and 14.86 per cent for other ranks.

Home Taxes Going Up

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer John White said Thursday that homeowners and tenants in Ontario will face higher property taxes and rents next year because of recent settlements with the province's hospital workers. In an interview, Mr. White said there will be somewhat higher mill rates next year because the hospital wages will reduce the money available to municipalities and school boards.

The 486-foot liner was carrying 309 crew members but no passengers when the fire erupted early Thursday. Most of the crew was transferred to a passing naval tanker.

Foreign Investment Concerns Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Federal and provincial co-operation is essential to develop policies to cope with foreign investment, says an Ontario government report.

The paper was prepared by the office of economic policy in the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs for use as background material for Premier William Davis at the current 15th annual provincial premiers' conference here.

About 35 per cent of the foreign investment in Canada comes from the United States, the report says. Its share of the total foreign investment declined slightly between 1967 and 1970, but at the same time U.S. investment increased in dollars by 38 per cent.

In contrast, the amount of investment from Britain has dropped steadily since 1940 and now stands at about nine per cent of the total. Japan is the fastest-growing source of funds

Iceland Inflated

PARIS (CP) — Prices in Canada rose by 11.3 per cent in the 12 months ending last July, before the average 13-per-cent rise for the 24 member countries of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

Japan had the highest price rise among the leading non-Communist industrial countries with a 25.2-per-cent increase in the 12-month period.

Hardest hit was Iceland with a rise of 49.6 per cent.

Lowest increase was reported by West Germany with a modest 6.9 per cent.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — New Post says Vice-President designate Nelson Rockefeller has filed a preliminary report with Congress putting his personal wealth at $33 million but the figure may be revised upward later.

Previous published reports have put Rockefeller's wealth as high as $200 million.

'Get the Egg Marketing Board!'

Wasted Egg Omelet Would Cover Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The way the eggmen tell it, 30 million eggs are not at all that many when compared with annual production of about 5.7 billion.

But 30 million, roughly the number that will be buried this year by the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency because they were left to rot in improper storage, adds up to a lot of eggs.

Laid end-to-end, for instance, that many eggs would stretch from Regina to Vancouver, a distance of more than 1,800 miles.

Or they would make an omelet big enough to smother the core of Ottawa, including the Parliament buildings, an area of about five square miles.

It would take the average chicken 133,333 years to produce 30 million eggs, based on yearly production of about 225 eggs.

Kiss 28 Million Eggs Goodbye

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) announced Thursday that by the end of the year about 28 million rotten eggs will have been destroyed.

Taken from inadequate warehouses and buried in open pits, the eggs were bought by the federal agency to protect farmers against falling prices declared CEMA having no market for the eggs and too little temperature and humidity-controlled storage in which to keep them.

Criticism of the agency has mounted steadily since late last month when it was announced that nine million Quebec eggs had to be destroyed.

Bob Harrison of Montreal, hired recently as a financial adviser to CEMA, and James Fisher, a public relations consultant, told a news conference Thursday the destruction of the eggs was unfortunate, but that it represented only a small portion of the 5.7 billion eggs produced by about 30,000 farms each year.

Both agreed mistakes had been expected in the first year of CEMA operations and that a smooth operation had not been anticipated for about five years.

They said the destruction figures had been obtained from a detailed study of individual eggs purchased from provincial marketing boards.

Beryl Plumptre, chairman of the food prices review board, called the news shocking and James McGrath (St. John's East), Progressive Conservative consumer affairs critic, said the egg destruction "is tantamount to criminal negligence."

Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet renewed his demand for consumer representation on CEMA and Mhyron Brechin, marketing board spokesman for the Consumers Association of Canada, suggested that the total of eggs destroyed will be closer to 40 million "if we ever get the full total."

James Johnston, chairman of the Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board, said a claim by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan that agency people are financial aid and federal is not true.

Mr. Johnstone said each member of the agency represents a provincial board but that the agency reported to the National Farm Products Marketing Council which is Mr. Whelan's direct responsibility.

Police Escort Empty Buses

BOSTON (AP) — Motorcycle police escorted nonfull empty buses today as they brought black pupils to schools in white South Boston on the second day of court-ordered busing.

There were four arrests for disorderly conduct as police lined both sides of the bus route for about two miles through the blue-collar Irish section.

No crowds assembled near the schools, obeying a city ban on assemblies imposed after angry crowds of whites stoned several buses in the area Thursday.

Helmeted policemen standing about five yards apart encircled South Boston High School. A police spokesman said 300 to 400 policemen have been assigned to the area.

Eight black children were hurt when buses were stoned Thursday, when about a third of the city's pupils stayed home. But officials called the opening of school successful.

The Weather

Synopsis: Clearing will begin in the northwest this afternoon and follow through the northeast tonight. The leading edge of cooler, drier air is moving into southern Ontario and by afternoon temperatures will have dropped about 10 degrees. Showers and thunderstorms can be expected today. Clearing and continuing cool Saturday with northerly winds of 20 to 25.

Preparations Complete For 21-Mile Walk-a-thon

TRENTON — Parent need not fear the loss of children on roads west of here next Saturday when Scout-A-Thon '74 walkers trek 21 miles to raise funds for scouting activities in Trenton.

Walkers, expected to be mostly scouts falling under the banner of the Trenton District Council, will be under the watchful eyes of a host of volunteer organizations.

About 300 walkers are expected to take part in the day-long event.

Preparations for the walk, the first in five years, now are almost complete. Playing a big part in the council's operation is the Trent Valley Five Walters Radio Association, a group of about 25 ham radio operators.

Green Convicted In Crash

KINGSTON — A Deseronto man, driver of a car that last December, was involved in a two-car collision that killed five persons, including his parents, was found guilty Thursday of dangerous driving.

Robert W. Green, 48, was sentenced to a reformatory term of nine months definite and six months indeterminate after the charge was reduced from criminal negligence. The jury deliberated almost three hours before returning the verdict.

President Ben Long Jr. said 13 club members still be searching walkers next Saturday.

The monitoring will be extensive. So extensive, that organizers will know where each child is along the route.

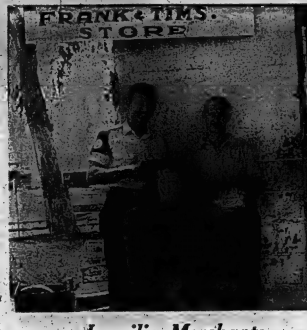
Each club, now with 12 walk-a-thons under its three-year belt, will base its operation at the finish line at Trenton Community Gardens. Thirteen checkpoints will be spread along the route Eight consecutive stations will be each manned by checker and a radio operator who will report to the Gardens the number carried by each walker.

As a walker passes a checkpoint, his number will be plotted on a large board. At a glance, a walker's progress can be seen.

Two radio -equipped cars will patrol the route in case a roadster develops a problem between stations.

Mr. Long said Thursday this once happened: "And we had to go and look for a lost child who wasn't lost."

Weary walkers will only be picked up by clearly marked official Scout-A-Thon cars. Organizers say they hope this practice will discourage parents from picking up children between checkpoints.



Any other problems that may come up will be handled by provincial police, or St. John ambulance, both on standby duty.

Driver Escapes Injury

MADOC — The driver of a pantech truck that landed upside down in a creek about 20 miles north of here Thursday afternoon walked away unharmed.

Kenneth Armstrong, 36, of Madoc escaped injury on a forest access road with a load of railway ties when the load shifted, throwing the truck out of control.

The truck flipped over the side of the bridge over Beaver Creek, landing on the cab roof. Armstrong managed to scramble from the partly-submerged cab and go for help. Damage to the truck is estimated at $1,000.

Scouts Appeal For Sponsors

TRENTON — Scout program co-ordinators here are pushing to increase the sponsorship of walkers in Scout-A-Thon '74, actives aimed at ending what the Trenton District Council terms a "desperate need of funds."

Council work, funded by a similar walk-a-thon five years ago, is currently costing more than $1,000 annually. This year, an additional $500 went towards improvements in a camp for scouts north of Trenton.

At present says Scout-a-Thon co-ordinator Cecil Paul, efforts of the council are nearly empty. A photo copying machine, needed for reproduction of leadership training material, cannot be used since funds are not available to buy paper.

Such problems would end if the walk-a-thon, scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 21, is successful, said Mr. Paul.

The push for sponsors for walkers was stepped up Thursday during a meeting to which all service clubs in Trenton were invited.

Only three club representatives — the Rotary, the Knights of Columbus, and the Odd Fellows — attended.

The appeal for aid was met fawnishly and organizers said they expect new sponsors will be found among the many members of the service clubs.

Picton Man Honored For Saving Man's Life

PICTON — A Picton truck driver, John Huskinson, has been nominated for the top National Truck Hero Award following his rescue of a Bloomfield man pinned beneath a farm tractor.

Mr. Huskinson, a truck owner-operator under contract to the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, was driving along a Hallowell Township road this spring when he passed an overturned tractor with its driver trapped beneath. R.

Mr. Huskinson drove his truck into the ditch, and backed up against the tractor until one side could be lifted, allowing 18-year-old Cecil Rawlin to be dragged to safety.

He was recommended for the award by Constable R. L. Boorman of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The award will be presented during a luncheon of The Ontario trucking Association convention at the Royal York Hotel in November.

Arena Nears Completion As Supports in Place

WELLINGTON — A milestone in the construction of the Wellington District Community Centre was reached Thursday as cranes hoisted the first of its T Beams into position.

Despite a driving rain, a number of village residents turned out to watch the first of the giant beams swung into place.

There are 23 beams to be positioned, each 99 feet in length and weighing 21 tons.

Delbert Boyle, chairman of the arena management board, said target date for the centre's completion is late 1974.

Actual contract price for the arena was $294,373 but several minor changes in plans have raised this cost figure to more than $300,000. Also, there will be additional expenditures for engineering costs, demolition of the old arena, destroyed last year by fire, a community hall, furnishings for the new building, canteen equipment, time clocks and a sound system.

Prince Edward County council contributed $154,000 toward the cost of the centre in its 1974 budget and provincial government grants to the project total $75,000.

Community service groups, organizations and private residents have contributed net monies of $32,512, according to figures compiled in late August, 1974.

Mr. Boyle said funds still are required and the management board is continuing its campaign to raise money.

Auxiliary Marks 40th Anniversary

PICTON — The Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Prince Edward Memorial Hospital will mark its 40th anniversary with a "ruby" party at Inn on the Bay, Wednesday, Oct. 16.

The WHA was organized in October, 1934, with founder president Mrs. Frank Minaker.

Other events planned for the anniversary celebration include a luncheon October 4, at the Parish Hall with guest speaker Mrs. George Raymond, chairman of volunteer services, Brockville General Hospital.

A tea, honouring the WHA will be held by the PECM hospital board in its boardroom Oct. 16.

A Look Back

If a discussion of the political events — in particular the rise of Hitler — that led to the outbreak of war in 1939 borders on the anachronistic in the seventies, it can prove otherwise from a first-person eyewitness standpoint and when hitherto unknown facets of that time are revealed.

Belleville's Mick Mika has made a success of two careers since coming to Canada in 1948: the silk-screening business he established here and the publishing company through which he and his wife Helma have authored many books on the historical background of Belleville and other Ontario communities.

As to the hostilities of 1939-45, the Ukrainian-born Mr. Mika can speak with some authority. As a young journalist he was on assignment in Berlin in 1938. At various times he served with both the Polish and German forces and he was in Warsaw the day war broke out in 1939 with the German bombing of that city.

Mr. Mika was telling fellow members of the Rotary Club about these events when he addressed them earlier in the week, his audience including Finnish exchange student Taina Boman whose homeland is synonymous with courage in the face of outside attack during the very same period of which he was speaking.

How Hitler was motivated in his quest for European domination is told of course in his book Mein Kampf, but some facts also emerged from this talk locally which undoubtedly were unknown to most of us.

"For one thing Hitler is said to have acquired his hatred of the Jews from the fact that two professors who turned down his work at art school in Vienna were Jewish. Then again, Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria, ended up cleaning latrines for the German S.S. in Vienna. And the ground attack on Poland, according to Mr. Mika, was sparked by the killing of civilians by German troops dressed in Polish uniforms.

All memories of a traumatic period in world history, which was to change the course of events for all time and which is still fresh in the minds of many. There is a new book for instance on the sinking of the pocket battleship Bismarck by British ships and aircraft. It is by writer Ludovic Kennedy. One dramatic event of many in those stirring days.

Cleaning Up

A reader whose letter became dated with the ending of the school custodial staff's strike nevertheless submits herein some suggestions that are worth passing on.

John Svoboda, who lives in Prince Edward County, expresses the thought that students as well as teachers might be given the opportunity to clean up for themselves after school.

Speaking of the return to school when the strike was still on, Mr. Svoboda wrote: "It is bad enough that we find it harder and harder to get our children into the intrinsic value in menial tasks — like cleaning up after themselves. But when they see and feel this breakdown in communication in those very institutions where communication IS . . ."

The final thought is left unspoken, although it is clear enough. The writer had gone on to suggest, in addition to the customary academic courses, "exercises in running the cafeteria, cleaning up the premises, taking out the garbage, keeping up the grounds and all those other jobs that people are beginning to find 'beneath them.'"

It is not a bad idea in these days of "make-work" programs. Here are some plain, ordinary, but necessary tasks that have to be done. It is not suggested, now that the strike is over, that children and teachers take over the custodial staff duties, but rather that a practical acquaintance with such work, when circumstances allow, would not be a bad thing.

Leadership A Fickle Commodity: Many Have Gone from World Scene

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson Newspapers

TORONTO — Perhaps unnoticed in a year of ceaseless change since the late Chilean Marxist president Salvador Allende was assassinated in the bloody army coup of Sept. 11, 1973, has been the disappearance of about 20 of the world's leaders along with him in the intervening 12 months.

A few were to go like Allende, toppled by military takeovers but who lived to tell the tale. But most went as a result of other fortunes, death, in one case through personal scandal; old age and an invitation to quit, or knocked out by the electorate.

In many cases their removal has often been a result of one of the world's several international crises since last Sept. 11 in Santiago. These included the Yom Kippur War of last October, the fourth Arab-Israeli conflict which Israel came close to losing, the oil crisis and inflation it sired, both still with us, the bloody Cyprus civil war, the end of tough military regimes in Portugal and Greece, elections in France and Britain, and the crisis of the world's longest-lasting leaders, Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain (81), Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China (87), and Emperor Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia (82), appeared to be near the end.

But Gen. Franco has recuperated from a severe phlebitis attack to take back his powers as Chief of State, temporarily given by him to Prince Juan Carlos. Chiang Kai-shek is in fine health too. So says the latest official news bulletin from the Taiwanese Government.

Only Haile Selassie's future appears in doubt as a new era dawning army officers close in on his once supreme power and feudal control over his African imperial state.

And what of Chairman Mao approaching 81? Unlike his Premier Chou En-lai, chronically ailing from heart trouble, he is feeling right as can be believed still in fine health.

And as have once firmly-seated Portuguese Premier Marcelo Caetano and Greek general Ioanides in their "youthful" 60s and 50s.

The latter two men went in ways always promised by the term of tough dictatorships, often despaired about in the long wait.

Portugal's spring coup overthrew Caetano almost bloodlessly, opening the doors to free institutions for Portugal after nearly half a century of oppression and promising the end of colonial rule.

General Ioanides and his tough military rule were gone almost in a twinkling after their Cyprus policy backfired and former Greek Premier Karamanlis was invited back to set up a civilian government.

But it was the likes of Pompidou (who died of a long, debilitating disease), Willy Brandt, unseated by personal and spy scandals attached directly to his name and Edward Heath defeated by the ballories.. who let the scene in many more familiar to us.

You could be brutal and call it normal attrition of leaders in the few democratic countries still around. Elections change who is in power at the check in office or removal for the harsh reasons which unseated both Willy Brandt and of course Richard Nixon.

In Israel Prime Minister Golda Meir, tired out at 75 and weary of attacks for her less than-victorious handling of the Yom Kippur War also went all the way of the ballot box, replaced by an unsteady coalition and a new premier trying to follow in her tradition, if not exactly in her footsteps!

In Latin America, other than Allende's tragic passing, new forces have come on the scene through the more placid ways familiar to Europe, but definitely unfamiliar to the Americas.

Juan Domingo Peron of Argentina at last succumbed at age 78, his second Peronista era curtailed by his physical frailty and a radically-changed social structure in the Argentina of the 1970s from the one where he ruled supreme to the early 50s.

Elections in the Caribbean returned the Dominican Republic's cool and composed leader, President Joaquin Balaguer for a limited term and raised up a new president in Venezuela who was once interior minister to that country's greatest reformist president of the Twentieth Century.

Only in Eastern Europe was there any real shuffling at the top. The Communist rulers of Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia appeared more entrenched than ever, their names hard to remember.

But in exotic Rumania which played host to the World Population Conference that country's President Nicolae Ceausescu went up front and centre greeting the many visitors from the socialist and capitalist worlds.

Guess who did not change roles but expected to, our own Pierre Trudeau!

Educational Program Recommended

Economics A Blind Spot for Many

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

"Funny thing about money. Most people are willing to be interested in reading and learning about sailing because to them they are about staying healthy."

Money is the lifeblood of economics. Yet, nobody could say that Canadians are keenly interested in economics.

On the contrary, most people seem to think it's enough only to form a few firmly fixed ideas or prejudices. Beyond that, economics is too dreary for them.

According to a growing school of simplistic folk economics, today's social problems begin and end with business—corrupt, inefficient, profiteering corporations that grind the workers down.

Whatever the objective truth about business may be, corporations do have an impressive and obvious effect on the daily lives of most Canadians. Less obvious, but equally significant, is the role of corporate taxes in helping to finance the social services that the public expects governments to provide.

Last year, Professor Calgary school economist Herbert Watren, interviewed 227 teachers at 13 high schools in the 10 provinces—and found, he says that four out of five teachers complained that young people graduating from high school knew far too little about economics.

As a result he recommended the establishment of a joint council for economic education in Canada, to include businessmen, economists, unionists, teachers, farmers and consumer-group representatives.

The new body, called the Canadian Foundation for Economic Education, has been established with the objective of promoting "economic awareness" from its national headquarters in Toronto (33 Yorkville Ave.) and provincial councils to be set up in other parts of Canada.

It plans to produce educational material—in print and on film—and to provide these and other resources to help in the teaching of economics and related subjects.

"Inflation, unemployment, regional disparities, foreign investment and ecological problems are examples of issues requiring greater understanding," the Foundation says.

"At the personal level, lack of economic understanding results in faulty judgments about many financial and other decisions. Mismanagement of money matters and lending credit can be disastrous."

Sponsorship of the foundation and the research leading to it, came from four Canadian trade associations—life insurance, bankers, manufacturers, and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

To some people, that will immediately suggest the beginning of horror of the business sector, but the foundation says it will insist on objectivity and impartiality on all sides of a specific question in order to present a balanced view.

If it does that—and no more—it will be helping to fill a lamentable gap in education in Canada.

There is no shortage of textbooks or instructors specializing in verification of business economics, but it's doubtful—while ignoring the shortcomings of state-run economies.

Canadians don't have to look behind the Iron Curtain to observe these shortcomings. The current scene in the Canadian car trade—big price increases, over-production, lower consumption, the spoiling of millions of eggs—is ample evidence.

Any educational campaign that can promote a better understanding of the things that governments do, how best, and of those that are best left to the private sector, is all to the good.

'Deal' Theory in Pardon of Nixon

By BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — The question of whether a deal was involved in the pardoning of former president Richard Nixon—as there was in the case of his disgraced vice-president, Spiro Agnew—is the talk around Washington, a city made cynical by the years of Watergate and related scandals.

Agnew agreed to plead "no contest" to charges of income tax evasion in return for his immunity from prosecution. He was fined $10,000 and sentenced to three years of unsupervised probation.

The tactic is known in United States courts as "plea bargaining," and generally it involves negotiations between the prosecution and the defence resulting in the defendant pleading guilty to one charge to avoid prosecution on others.

The tantalizing question now is whether a similar deal of any kind was involved in the pardoning of Nixon for crimes undoubtedly far more serious than Agnew's.

Perhaps even more sensitive—at least it might such bargaining have taken place?

Nixon, for his part, and critics of Gerald Ford that it was Nixon who raised Ford to the vice-presidency vacated by Agnew and that it was Nixon who then engineered his handpick Ford the key to the White House.

Whatever the motive, critics are saying that Ford's decision—which cost him his popularity rating almost overnight—may also have sealed the president's honeymoon with Congress.

The degree to which his relationship with Nixon may have figured is not yet known, but Ford has said he won't be directly involved in the politics of political opinion polls.

"As one columnist puts it, however, neither can he ignore such findings without paying a price in the strength of the leadership he can exert as president.

One of the columnists who has been critics of Ford's pardon is columnist Mary McGrory of the Washington Star-News.

His statement is worthy of Watergate, she writes, and could have been written by Nixon. . .

"Ford assures us that he is a humble child of God. He is. Richard Nixon's humble servant first. He has plunged the country back in the morass where it toiled for two years, not knowing whether its first citizen is a fool or a knave."

The New York Times calls the "premature grant of clemency" a "profoundly unsettling act of faith" and says the president has "alienated the constituents and the American system of justice."

One of the most severe critics of Nixon is the one who is politically favorable to his successor, The Times says Ford has "moved secretly and suddenly to block the normal workings of justice."

"It is an act of flagrant favoritism. It can only outrage and demoralize millions of Americans who have seen the highest law of the nation invoked and enforced without fear or favor."

Sewage Disposal Ups Land Costs

By DON O'BEARN
Sewage.

One of the important factors in spiralling costs of land for housing is the need to have sewage.

In those areas where prices have really zoomed the reason most experts first put a finger on is the cost of serviced land.

And the big hold-up in servicing land is the cost of sewage facilities.

It is usually not too difficult to provide power, water and roads. But sewage disposal is the costly trunk and secondary systems is almost always the main cause of delay.

This is the situation in urban areas.

Then in rural and recreational areas, where land costs may not be involved there is the shortage of usable land for another reason.

These areas have handled sewage for years through the expensive central sewage system not on individual unit basis using septic tanks.

However septic tanks can cause pollution and as the environmental conscious society of today they are now being curtailed and building on much otherwise suitable land, particularly in recreation country, has been stopped.

The Ontario Research Foundation has been studying several more efficient ways for years now and it has developed two portable units which could make substantial contribution to answering the problems.

Both make use of the fact that the oxygen in air introduced into sewage it can be purified.

The first project is developing a unit for small sewage which would be large enough to serve a subdivision of 50 homes.

The principle is to recycle waste so that it can be fed back as pure water.

The ORF, in co-operation with Ontario Hydro, Consumers Gas has been working on this project for two years and a test plant in operation for a couple of years and it reports some signal successes.

It apparently has settled the two problems involved in producing drinkable water. However it still has to work out a system of absolutely safe controls. And ORF officials say it is probably a year or two away from practical usage.

The second project has produced a unit which is in use now.

This unit takes the place of the old septic tank and is being marketed as a home sewage treatment system by Walker Industries Holdings Limited (Bramalea) under the trade name Aquarobic.

The ORF developed this system and then tested it for a year.

It consists of a tank containing baffles and facen-fed air by an electric motor with the effluent being fed into a small tank.

The whole system takes up a land space of only six feet by 8 feet, is totally enclosed in a septic tank and tile bed, and has the advantage that the effluent is pure and therefore can be used anywhere.

The system is being sold in Ontario for $1,200 with a $200 installation charge and $100 a year for servicing. It will handle the needs of a 16-person house.

It is not expensive perhaps, but it will mean that many formerly unusable sites, particularly on islands and the shores of lakes and streams can now be built on.

Whether or not they systems will answer disposal problems in urban centres.

They could do a lot for perimeter areas and recreational land.

Praise for A Campaign Chairman

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Without wanting to become embroiled in never ending exchange of words with the regular contributor to this column I would like to offer an opinion which I have practiced many times at my place of employment. The opinion is that although last year's United Way Campaign did not reach its goal, the campaign chairman, Mrs. Sisson, did an excellent job under very trying circumstances. In fact her contribution was in no small way responsible for whatever success the campaign enjoyed. She is a fine lady with an able organizer and leader.

With the emphasis on female contributions to the United Way also making which have previously been male strongholds such as unions and business, I think it commendable that Mrs. Sisson be taken a more active role in the essential affairs of her community.

Presidential Pardon Controversy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

President Gerald Ford has done three things.

He has, by granting Mr. Nixon a pardon, presumed his guilt; otherwise there would be was nothing to pardon him for.

Second, he has created a double standard which will return to haunt him in the next election. If it is good enough to pardon the former chief executive, he should also pardon the sort of scoundrels who made up many of his top advisors. In doing that he can hardly, then, refuse to grant a full and complete amnesty for draft dodgers, deserters or those who refused to be drafted because of a matter of belief or conscience.

Third, he has aroused the defeat of the Republicans in the next election and given the Democrats all the ammunition needed (if any were needed) for victory.

Mr. Ford has failed to recognize . . . have many politicians before him, the way the people feel.

Church Asks Police Dossiers Of Acquitted Be Destroyed

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur politan Toronto police heard a Maloney's review of complaint plus Thursday from the Church procedures against the Metro of Scientology that persons acquitted of criminal charges should have their police dossiers destroyed or turned over to them.

William Trudell, a lawyer who helped the church prepare the brief, told the Maloney commission many individuals have complained of police harassment based on information they feel is inaccurate.

More than 60 cases of police harassment investigated have involved false information, Mr. Trudell said.

The Maloney commission was established earlier this year following citizen complaints of police brutality and poor handling of the police's complaints bureau. Mr. Maloney is a Toronto lawyer.

The city's West Indian community called for the establishment of an independent review board, alleging that blacks and others are being harassed by police officers and then not reporting the incidents to the complaint bureau for fear of reprisals.

Melbourne Thompson, representing the Jamaican-Canadian Association, said there was a "fairly frequent incidents of police beating up blacks and then black sents of police cars.

He also complained about the complaints bureau and interrogation of black men driving relatively expensive late-model cars, the insulting of our decent women who might by chance be on a lonely street and the pardest investigation of motor-car accidents involving white and black drivers."

He said many of those involved are warned by the police that "if you complain then we will get you."

Car Buyers Clean Out '74 Models

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Car buyers anticipating increased prices for 1975 models have almost cleaned out the 1974 stock, dealers say.

Customers thronged new lots in August, usually a slow sales month, and now dealers are wondering whether they should have stocked up with more 1974 cars.

There is little difference between 1974 and 1975 models other than the price.

Only American Motors (Canada) Ltd. dealers have unsold stocks because the model year has been extended to Nov. 15, allowing the company to sell cars at 1974 prices for six weeks longer while other dealers are selling 1975 models.

Residence Rule For Housing Is Advocated

TORONTO (CP) — People will have to live in Metropolitan Toronto for at least a year before applying for Ontario Housing, if Metro Council approves a motion passed Thursday by the Metro social services and housing committee.

Alderman Michael Goldrick told the proposal in Gaby Lowrey's needy people to Metro is like putting a "great iron curtain" up around the city.

"It's unrealistic and absurd, you're dropping a wall around Toronto," he told fellow committee members before the motion passed. "Toronto is a tremendous magnet. People are becoming encouraged—even—by employ policies to come to Metro."

Betty Niddrie, director of the housing ministry's Metro branch of housing operations, said half the people applying to Ontario Housing for public housing have lived in Metro less than a year, a full third of whom came from outside Canada's borders.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), has found itself on the opposite side of the bargaining table—its own 16 office employees are threatening to strike.

Re-united

NEW YORK (CP) — A beaming, cracked Christine James flew into New York Thursday and was spirited off to a secret rendezvous with the husband she has not seen since he was taken hostage by Ethiopian guerrillas six months ago.

In a brief interview at Kennedy airport, she turned aside all questions about precisely when and where she would meet her husband, Clifford, released Wednesday on the Sudanese-Ethiopian border with Ethiopia.

Dogs Hazard

OTTAWA (CP) — Children who keep with their faces buried in their pet dog's fur run the risk of developing serious eye disease and even blindness, says Dr. Frederick [illegible], University of Iowa. He told an international ophthalmology conference here that 70 per cent of pet dogs in North America harbor a parasite called toxocara and a child can easily swallow some dirt containing the larvae.

Convicted Slayer Cheers Jury's Verdict

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Marvin Wayne Chernault, who applauded and blew kisses to the jury which convicted him Thursday, was on the death sentence for the slayings of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a church deacon.

"My name is Servant Jacob. I was ordered here by my God, my Father and my Creator," Chernault, who is black, told the court after the judge set Nov. 8 for the execution.

Rate Raised

TORONTO (CP) — Eric Winkler, chairman of the management board of cabinet, released a statement Thursday saying that the bargaining unit of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) has rejected an offer to allow civil servants who use their cars on Canada government business to claim payment of 18 cents a mile.

The new rate, which applies to the first 5,000 miles, is set 2c cents of three cents over the previous rate set in April.

Mr. Winkler said that in response to a CSAO question, the government has confirmed that a car will not be a condition of employment.

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The ultimate goal of programs designed to help retarded adults should be to get them living in a community setting, Camille Lambert, a professor at the University of Toronto's School of Social Work, told delegates to the final session of a two-day Oxford symposium on adult mental retardation.

Mr. Lambert presented a paper prepared by the ministry of community and social services on the problem of adult retardates living in the community.

Buses Blocked

MONTREAL (CP) — Pickets set up by striking garage and maintenance workers blocked the municipal bus depots today, preventing about 250 buses from going into service.

A Montreal Urban Community Transportation Commission (MUCTC) spokesman said buses did not leave one of the garages because women, presumably wives of striking workers, blocked exits by lying in front of the buses.

Ship Adrift

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's first nuclear ship, the freighter Mutsu, is drifting in the Pacific with 426 miles east of Mutsu Bay with its reactor shut down, and denied all landing rights and its destination uncertain.

The Japanese government ordered the 8,314-ton ship to shut down its engines and discontinue its test last run after radiation leaked from its reactor Sept. 1. Tuesday. Japan is reluctant to admit the ship, fearing nuclear contamination.

Boats Sunk

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two motorboats of Palestinians have been used by Palestinians were blown up today at Sidon, on the Lebanese coast 25 miles south of Beirut, government sources reported.

There was speculation that Israeli frogmen may have planted the explosives with time fuses during the night. Israel has said that several groups of guerrillas in the last year set out from Lebanese harbors to raid Israel's towns and villages.

CANADA SAVINGS BONDS
THE GREAT COMBINATION

New Canada Savings Bonds are a great combination of security, income and flexibility. They're a secure investment backed by all the resources of Canada.

They pay 9¾% a year, guaranteed to you year after year for 9 years. (A compound interest option is not included with this offering). Canada Savings Bonds can be bought for cash or on instalments wherever you work, bank or invest in amounts from $50 up to $50,000. And, as always, they are cashable anytime at their full face value plus earned interest. Buy this great combination of security, income and flexibility. New Canada Savings Bonds go on sale September 30.

9¾% EVERY YEAR FOR 9 YEARS

GOOD NEWS ABOUT THE CANADA SAVINGS BONDS YOU NOW OWN!

If you are one of the two million Canadians who already own past series of Canada Savings Bonds here's good news for you. The cash bonus payments announced last May have been increased to produce, from September 1, 1974 to maturity, an average annual yield of 10½%.

1. When a cash bonus becomes due, simply present your bond to any Bank or authorized Trust or Loan Company and Caisse Populaire and you will get your bonus immediately.
2. For tax purposes, the Government of Canada proposes to permit taxpayers to treat cash bonus payments either as interest income or capital gains. As a result, if holders include such interest under the proposed $1,000 deduction for interest income, the bonus payments will become exempt from tax. Alternatively the holder may find it to his advantage to include the bonus under the favourable tax treatment accorded to capital gains.
3. The cash bonus payments are in addition to all the other outstanding features of your Canada Savings Bonds. Bondholders who are taking advantage of compound interest privileges may continue to do so and will continue to be paid compound interest in the amounts specified at the time of issue of each series.

Everyone who owns unmatured Canada Savings Bonds, dated on or prior to Nov. 1, 1973, will be entitled to receive the new, higher cash bonus payments on the dates payable, provided that the bonds have not been cashed in the meantime. Here are further details.

Weavers Exhibit at Library

Technically, she's right, but admirers of the craft know there's a wide gap between the simple act of mending and the colors and textures that work from Alma's loom.

The two-week show is not the first for Alma Gassenbeck, a weaver of some experience who moved to Belleville with husband Len last year.

Always "taken" by crafts, she began studying weaving more than eight years ago in Kingston. Through the years — and a series of business moves around Ontario — it was her fortune, she says, to be able to study with two of Canada's four master weavers.

"From the beginning, I was fascinated with textiles and design," Alma says.

By the time she began her second weaving course, she bought her first big loom.

"A fairly big investment, Alma admits, for a novice, but she "it doesn't cost any more than an electric dryer and when you think about what you get in return — they're cheap."

Now Alma has three looms and several small looms to allow her to experiment and work on several projects at once.

For Alma Gassenbeck, as for many weavers, the opportunity to experiment, to try techniques and patterns, without actually producing an object is important.

"Sometimes I try to incorporate an experiment or a sample into a project of my own or an order from someone, then I get twice as much for my time," she says.

Those kind of precision for this weaver, who spends as much time researching and studying the craft as she does weaving.

"There isn't a day that goes by that I'm not weaving," she says, "in my head if not on the loom."

Her work makes that apparent.

The finest cashmir stoles, Swedish loom knot, multi-colored and textured drapery fabrics and coasters are some of the goods she produces; some for giving, some just from interest, some for sale.

Stoles and placemats, runners and cushions are produced to be sold at places like the Deer in the Wall and the Mary L Boutique. She doesn't produce enough to be self supporting, nor does she really want to.

"I suppose if I put a big campaign on, I might make more money at it but then I'd have to work all day at things because they sell well or because they've been ordered."

She doesn't, for example, produce wall hangings of the kind so popular right now, "the kind all jazzed up with shells and bike tires."

She adds "I'm just plain tender and over weaving and that's what the weaver kind does."

Instead she concentrates on using natural fibres — wool, linen, cotton — to produce beautiful objects as functional as they are attractive.

Alma Gassenbeck works on a bell pull at her portable loom. She's one of many local weavers who will display their work at the Corby Public Library beginning Monday until the end of the month.

Chippy: A most kind Belleville reader sent along the following, dedicated to a small black and white dog known to all Rotarians, she says of her day, as the "sentinel of the south-door" of the Quinte Hotel. There he waited every Monday noon the arrival of his master — Charles Spalding. The poem is entitled Chippy, it reads:

Chippy is our little dog,
He came to us one day,
His coat is white with big black spots,
He's really just a stray.

I don't know who his parents were,
I don't know where he's been,

And when folks ask what breed he is
I laugh and say 'Holstein.'

He's really quite remarkable;
And smart as he can be,
Every single Monday noon
He goes to Rotary.

You'll always see him waiting
Outside the Hotel door,
I guess to get a nice big bone
Is what he goes there for.

He's been there every Monday
From June right through December,
Perhaps he thinks they'll make of him
An honorary member.

Everybody calls him Chippy;
He's really quite well known,
He even has a special place
To get an ice-cream cone.

And he's most affectionate;
He's quite a dandy pet,
If there are any smarter dogs
I haven't seen them yet.

P. L. Roughton.

Isn't this an adorable tribute to a little pet? Does anyone remember seeing Chippy "outside the Hotel door"?

Visitors from San City: During Belleville shop hours: Charles Street, were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Warnbold, former Bellevillians, now living in San City, Arizona.

"Yes, we like our home which ranks also as a golf course and is most pleasant amidst gardens of geraniums, petunia, flowering trees, poinsettias and palm trees," says Mrs. Warnbold, when asked how she enjoys living in the Supermarket and warmer climes of the communities of the South West, where, we have read, there is little if no crime, the bosses are paid for, the speed limit is about 30 miles per hour, and people say "Hello" to total strangers in the Supermarket and even at sewage cars.

"One thing puzzled me though. For when we first went to live there, I wondered what people meant when they kept referring to their lanais. It took me a little while to discover Lanai is an Hawaiian word for sun-room. Now I've gotten used to it, when I come to Belleville I speak of our lanai and everyone then wonders what I'm talking about!

"In search of better health, my husband has found it there. One may live as quietly or as busily as one wishes," Mrs. Warnbold concludes. "There is golf, bridge, pot-luck suppers, cocktail parties, all kinds of church classes — carpentry, needle work; shuffle board, swimming. It's a wonderful life!

Something of a record we told Miss Lorna Riggs. She is the first person we have met who has been on the beautiful Chinese Exhibition now on at the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto! The first time as when she was in Fredericton last year, and it happened to be on exhibit there.

Speaking of exhibitions: Did you know a group of sculptures by contemporary Canadians was installed on the CNE grounds near the bandshell, which included Belleville's Alan Berkley's sculpture entitled Canadian Goose Lost to West. (1971)?

"It has unusual calligraphic grace in its thin leaning vertical contrasted with supporting curves," writes Kay Kritzwiser in August 24, Globe and Mail. She points out that Alan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Barkley, Bleecker Ave., is Belleville-born, whose love of sculpture led him to become assistant to sculptor Walter Bieler, where he worked in Toronto. He then worked and studied in London, England and now lives in Guelph.

For many years, Alan's sculpture is more of an analogic (pain reducer) than an aesthetic, and it is not likely to become widely used at Western surgery.

As Dr. Michael DeBakey pointed out when he visited The People's Republic several months ago, only about one third of the surgical patients are suitable candidates. They must be stoic in nature, have a suggestible kind of mind (in the same sense that some people are not suitable subjects for hypnosis) and they must be in reasonably good physical condition.

It should be remembered that acupuncture has been used as a "cure" in China for centuries, but as an anesthetic it has been in use only since 1958. Moreover, it was virtually discontinued in 1966 when Liu Shao-ch'i and other counterrevolutionists deemed it "unscientific and of no practical value." In 1966, Mao ordered the technique revived and used in all hospitals and rural areas.

Dr. Orlando Welch, the distinguished surgeon from Miami, General in Chief and president of the American College of Surgeons, is a leader in the very large and the surgical team was doing a fine job.

We witnessed many acupuncture operation, however, which did not go so well. The patient was having part of her lung removed. Dr. Paul Jenkins, of Portland Hospital in Dallas and former President of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, stood at the elbow of the doctor in charge of monitoring the equipment. Midway through the operation, it became apparent that the patient was in serious trouble. Dr. Jenkins immediately became part of the team. He helped administer the oxygen and the patient was given an injection of Demerol, the classical letter that day and learned that she had "made it" but it was a very close call.

Much has been written about acupuncture as the new miracle anesthetic. The members of our delegation agreed unanimously that it has merit in selected cases, but they believe acupuncture is more of an adjunct to anesthesia rather than a substitute.

Acupuncture Anesthetic for Surgery

By ANN LANDERS

Today I saw it for the first time. As a delegate of the American Medical Association, I witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture. It was a thyroidectomy. The patient was a woman of age 52. She had one needle between each thumb and index finger, and one in each wrist, all connected to an electric stimulator. The operating room was air-conditioned and the patient was perspiring. A registered nurse periodically mopped the patient's face with a damp cloth. Although I was dressed in surgical garb and mask, they allowed me to carry a camera so soon one I had used the previous day when we were in Calgary in a commune.

I was standing less than a foot from the patient's head and proceeded to fan her. She gave me a pleasant smile and said in Chinese: "Thank you very much." I said: "You're welcome," in my pale. She replied: "No, just a little nauseous."

Plenty of Choice In Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (CP) — Bulky styles are back in fall and winter, coats but there are plenty of alternatives. You can find ship, tweed trench and clutch types.

The bulky coat last year, today as it sounds. Generally it is loosely belted, not the hour-glass silhouette of the 1950s. The length is mid-calf. And high leather boots have returned to complement the longer skirts.

The bulk is supplied by flare-skirt yardage or bias cut rather than by the material. John Anthony, for example, has cut nearly all his coats and capes on the bias.

The wrap coat also adds a suggestion of bulk and wraps were prominent at the American Designer Showings for the fashion press. Anthony showed an oatmeal Donegal tweed wrap with boldly contrasting armholes and fox cuffs.

Most designers included a bit of fur trim. Geoffrey Beene used sable or fox cuffs on his big coats with rippled fullness falling from a yoke. At the Montreal Mode showing, designer Leo Chevrier of Montreal Coats used Russian raccoon for deep cuffs on a mid-calf oatmeal cashmere coat and an enormous self-tie tent coat of black cashmere-and-wool.

The steamer coat, originally a big wrap coat for transatlantic travellers for promenades on deck, is back, usually with fur trim. A few designers carried the wrap to waistline refinement so that the wearer seemed to be shedding only the fabric.

The big coat was popular at the Montreal Mode. Morty Gerofsky of Nat Kaplan Inc. took a tent shape, the fullness falling from the shoulders in front and back or the back only.

Auddie Sash's fuller coats were designed with different sleeves and fur trimmings to create a balanced silhouette. Dolman sleeves

Classic But Relaxed — Men's Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — The Men's Fashion Association of America says there will be a relaxed freedom in fall clothing for the male. But while it will be more comfortable, the styling will remain classic.

"These are the kind of fashions that give you enough space to live his life in," says Chip Tolbert, association fashion director.

"They are for that increasingly prevalent breed of man who takes his fashion seriously, knows what he wants and enjoys wearing it."

This relaxed look has taken the place of the "return to elegance" promised a season or so ago but which never came off.

"Instead," says John Weitz, designing a collection for Palm Springs, "clothes grew shorter, more comfortable, more tasteful and more useful."

This has brought into fashion the leisure suit—a plain act way to look on the weekend but not intended for business. However, designers have taken on this more relaxed feeling through their real suit jacket does remain shaped, with choices of either soft or tailored shoulders.

Lapels are wide with a balance achieved by generous flaps on straight or angled hacking pockets. There's an interest in the European-styled jacket with high armholes and close-to-the-body fit.

"It's aimed at fashion-minded young men and forward-looking older men who are fortunate enough to have young physiques," Chip Tolbert. However, casual suits and jackets are more likely to be tailored with a British accent.

Donegal tweeds are universally popular fall in every category—suits, topcoats and jackets. Plain donegals are a good fall fun tailored shirts and ties.

There are also such colorful donegal tweeds as a green-rust-and-red plaid. In keeping with this revived fall look, country tweeds can be dressed up for the city with a shirt and tie for leisure time with a sweater.

Vests are making a comeback for fall, usually black with wide or grey stripes or brown with camel. One handsome costume consisted of a black-and-grey glen plaid vest. Incidentally, flannel is popular, both wool and worsted. And they aren't just in the traditional grey. Shown in flannel suits were a tan diagonal weave and a bottle green with tattersal vest.

Vests are real fashion news for fall. Many match the suit. Others are contrasting. Some vests are reversible. There are even sweater vests with fabric suits. Vests are dignified additions to town suits and lend a casual smartness to leisure jacket-and-slacks outfits.

This leisure or casual field includes the popular Western look, the safari, the waist-length blouson and the jogging suit such as a green-white-and-navy knit in a combination of dacron-cotton-acrylic-and Lycra Spandex. Also seen at the press showing was a yellow tennis shirt jacket in nylon-and Lycra Spandex that reverses in terrycloth.

Says the Men's Fashion Association:

"Colors for tailored clothing and sportswear are straight from the fall fashion-earthy outdoor tones such as russet brown, brick, deep forest and bottle green, camel shades and a lot of multi-colored heather mixtures. These are often accented with wine-or-bright colors as yellow, burgundy, orange, strong greens and the like."

It is there a distinctive Canadian look as opposed to an American

No, says the Men's Clothing Manufacturers' Association of Ontario.

"American and Canadian men are, generally speaking, on the same fashion level. There is a slight difference to preferred eyes, much like an accent that is easily detected by an experienced ear. But most Canadian manufacturers are more concerned with quality than with a distinctive Canadian 'look.'"

The association also says that the Canadian retail look is noted for being a bit ahead of the United States markets.

Incidentally, the Western Canada man usually orders a coat or hat-size larger than his eastern counterpart. Western Canada prefers a looser-fitting garment. Ontario and Quebec prefer stylized and close-fitting clothes.

Fake Fur — But Real Advantages

MONTREAL (CP) — Technology, which gave man the bomb, the Edsel and the common pointer now seems to have the hot tip for Canada's bracing winter months.

Fake fur, a man-made fabric that can look and feel just like the wild animal variety, has manufacturers and retailers looking forward to an expanding market and conservationists applauding a break for canada's dwindling wildlife population.

Often: it's warmer than the real thing.

"a fake fur coat is much warmer than many real furs," said Jim Berg, managing director of Berg Textiles Ltd., of Elmira, Ont. It's real key.

"We don't think of it as 'fake' fur," said Berg's Mary Stephenson. "They're not fake anything—they are real Berg."

Berg says pile fabric can be made to resemble any animal fur but, to lend an air of authenticity to his product, the company invented its own animals.

"Nobody wants a fake leopard, so we made a real Zocrina," said Miss Stephenson. "It has brown and white stripes."

Several Canadian companies are producing clothes of "real Berg," including Croydon, Nicolet and Jeaher. The fabrics are used as complete coat materials, as trims for collars and cuffs, in combination with wool or suede and as linings.

Incidentally, the man behind the furs is the same Berg as in Berg-Warner automotive supplies. He invented the furry material while looking for a new buffing cloth, a short time after he invented the clutch.

'Career Apparel' Really Uniforms

NEW YORK (AP) — A clothing revolution is taking place in hundreds of American businesses. The firm involved call it co-ordinated clothing or corporate identity apparel—they never call it uniforms. But what they are talking about is generally known as "career apparel."

A typical female career apparel outfit includes skirt, pants, tunic, blazer and dresses, all in the company's colors and sometimes inscribed with the company's logo. Accessories such as jewelry, scarves, handbags and hats can also be part of the ensemble.

A man's outfit consists of a blazer, several pairs of co-ordinated slacks, matching tie and several shirts.

Career apparel is used primarily by retail, white-collar workers in a wide variety of businesses including oil, auto, airlines and car-rental agencies but also insurance companies, realtors, automobile dealerships, financial institutions, administrative personnel and even funeral directors and some kitchen farmers in New Jersey.

Nearly half a million American men are wearing this type of clothing today and spending between $50 and $80 million on it. By the end of the decade, more than a million people will be wearing such clothing and the market will be between $150 and $200 million, predicts the Career Apparel Association.

"More and more companies are realizing that wearing career apparel is a highly successful way of presenting a distinctive look to each other organization to the public," said Howard A. Wolfe, executive vice president of the association.

Businesses have found that the apparel can be an aid in company recruiting, especially with women entering the business world for the first time, since it ensures employees can avoid the major expense of "working wardrobe," Wolfe said.

Fabric must be durable to stand up under normal cooking conditions and must be economical for mass purchase. Synthetics, Skicks, pantsuits and blazers are primarily made of 100-per-cent polyester double knits that are completely washable. Shirts and blouses are generally 65-per-cent polyester blended with rayon or cotton fabrics that are permanent press.

Another saving to employees is that when cleaning and maintenance costs are incurred they are tax-deductible.

Clothes competition, with one employee spending more than he can easily afford to keep up with another, is also avoided by the use of company-supplied outfits, Wolfe noted. Still, there is little fear of regimentation.

"Employees are encouraged to mix and match the different pieces of wardrobe in order to maintain a sense of individuality."

Private Eye Lillian Is Tough Old Lady

By BRUCE BUSSELL

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (Reuter) — Crabbing in this Los Angeles suburb know better than to meddle with Lillian Roark, one of the state's yet, seven private detectives.

The 5-foot-2-inch woman, barely five feet tall, has one 38-calibre revolver presented to her waist under her coat when she is on patrol and keeps a second on by her feet on the floor of her car.

She got into the "private eye" business, tracking down husband of spouses and looking for missing people, when she married John Roark in 1931. He already owned the business.

Her husband died in 1947 and she decided to keep the agency. At that time she employed 25 people, and was making $2,000 a week.

Today her grandsons Robert Graham and three other employees help her run the agency which mostly deals with patrolling homes and offices.

She sat at the telephone in the whitehouse home which she bought with money she earned from one of her cases and discussed clients' problems.

"Sadie's" she scoffed. "The life is too exciting. I enjoy the accomplishment of doing something. I guess I will stop when I can't do it any more."

One of Mrs. Roark's main jobs when her husband was alive was to do divorce checking on adulterous couples and shadowing them by car to their place of assignation. Once she had the place staked out she would call either the police or one of her staff and hand in on them.

She said that although there were some aspects of divorce work she did not like it was her job and she felt she had to do it well.

"At times the job gets you down," she said. "But I have always tried to keep my nose clean."

Her husband was a crack shot although he was nearly blind in one eye. He could not drive a car, so Mrs. Roark did the driving for him.

She said she was especially

Family Control Missionaries Have Trouble Making Converts

BOMBAY (CP) — When a government family planning official called at a Bombay suburban home she was politely shown the door.

"The number of children I should have in my business," the official was told by the housewife. "This is top secret and a matter to be discussed with strangers."

The official then tried a different approach. She befriended a woman who was a member of the same club as the sensitive housewife. The latter then started receiving informative leaflets on family planning.

"Within weeks the housewife agreed not to have any more children," said Rohini Chitnis, an active worker in the Indian family-planning movement.

"Persuading women to use contraceptives is often a hard-breaking business. We have to adopt different approaches depending on the type of women we are dealing with."

Government officials said even highly educated women often resent visits by family planning workers.

The wife of a wealthy businessman—she is a graduate of Bombay University—received a call from a family planning worker: "When I want to limit my family, I will talk it over with my doctor."

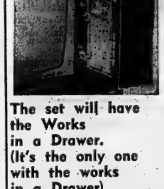
But officials of the Indian government's ministry of family planning said that on the whole educated wives are easier to handle than the wives of industrial workers or peasants.

Currently, dozens of family-planning workers are visiting villagers' homes.

Apart from giving public lectures and holding exhibitions, they spend two or three days a week on door-to-door "persuasion campaigns."

Laxmi Gopalaswamy, a science graduate at the University of Madras, said she has sold the idea of family planning to nearly 1,000 village women in the last two years.

"But this is nothing. There are family planning workers who have been trying to convert us to their credit."



As a rule, she said, peasant women are not rude to family planning workers. "They just sit and watch you with silent fascination. One is often left wondering whether they have understood even a tenth of what you have heard."

Often, said Mrs. Gopaswamy, it may take anything from 19 to 30 visits to convince a village wife with six or more children about the need for family planning.

"But the message is reaching more and more women."

It's a Fact

Children learn from what they see around them, not merely what they are told. The Ontario Association of Optometrists reminds parents that a young child may never complain about something being wrong with his vision because he does not know how well he ought to see.

To ensure protection of his precious vision, the Ontario Association of Optometrists advised that every child who wears glasses should be fitted with lenses of shatter-resistant glass or plastic.

The following symptoms in the school-age child may indicate a need for vision care, according to the Ontario Association of Optometrists: frustration& scowling, tilting or forward thrusting of head while reading or writing, moving head rather than eyes when reading, losing place in reading.

Royalties to be Reduced

WASSINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. Senate is expected to soon a controversial plan to require radio stations and jukebox owners to pay royalties to performers when their records are played.

Senator John Pastore (Dem., R.I.) told the Senate Friday that entertainers like Frank Sinatra andDean Martin make enough money without the pub-lic, through radio stations, having to pay more.

The provision is one of the most controversial parts of a major copyright bill before the Senate.

Senator Sam Ervin (Dem., N.C.) has offered a proposal to strike out the performance royalties, and his move is expected to be successful, Senate sources said.

At present, only composers get copyright fees from radio stations, and jukebox owners pay royalties to no one.

Even if the Ervin proposal succeeds, the jukebox industry still would be required to pay an $8-a-box annual royalty fee that would be divided up among composers of the records.

Canada Fine for Films

MONTREAL (CP) — A major film venture and a major theatre project got off the ground this week.

Astral Bellevue Pathe Ltd., the country's largest Canadian-owned photographic organization, announced plans for the production of four full-length feature films with an over-all budget of $4 million.

Harold Greenberg, Astral president, said Canadians have everything we need to make films right here—excellent technical facilities, exciting locations, creative talent, co-operative unions and government aid.

The films are scheduled for production this year and next.

Mr. Greenberg, who has helped in the financing of several Canadian films, including The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz, U-Turn and Lies My Father Told Me, said Canadians only see the creation of a Hollywood. In it with Summer by Hugh Leonard, the story of three married couples who decide together on two occasions six years apart.

Also unveiled was the Centaur Theatre's offerings for the coming season, a program which runs the gamut from Hamlet to Frankenstein.

Centaur, the only full-time professional English-language theatre company between Fredericton and Ottawa, is entering the end of a $1-million expansion of its quarters in the former stock exchange building in Old Montreal.

Six plays are to be presented during the season which begins

Preparations for Next Year's Tax Forms Already Underway

While local federal tax officials wrestle with incorrect tax returns from this year, planning already is advanced for next year's filing process.

Preparation for returns system is an ongoing, complicated process, says Laura Gendeson, public relations officer at the national revenue ministry's Belleville district office.

Locally, the task of correcting returns filed earlier this year is still taxing work ashelter in Belleville — more than three months after the filing deadline.

Nationally, planning what goes into income tax returns begins at least nine months ahead of time, said information official.

One reason is that information on the returns to be filed must be programmed for the ministry's data centre computer in Ottawa.

The computer programmers, she said, must have at least a six-month head start and must have a "pretty clear idea" of any changes to be made.

Normally, such information is needed by the end of June for the return to be issued the following January. Discussions usually begin as early as March.

Politics obviously can complicate such a process.

For instance, this year, the budget introduced in May was followed by dissolution of parliament when all proposals were suspended for the July 8 general election.

In such situations tax officials have "to make some educated guesses and draw up contingency plans," the information officer said.

With an estimated 26 million returns to be printed, paper must also be ordered well in advance — particularly when shortages threaten. It takes approximately 1,500 tons of paper to produce Canada's tax returns and guides. Printers must have the needed information by September, the revenue ministry said.

Tax guides, schedules and information guides are printed separately in English and French. Bilingual forms would produce too bulky a package, taxpayers, therefore are asked to specify the language of their choice. And the following year the forms are automatically sent in the language designated.

The system, however doesn't always work, says the information officer.

The national tax office has one complaint on file from a Calgary taxpayer. After receiving his return in French he wrote: "Would you please have this written again in English as I do not understand a word of French. A friend of mine filled out my income tax form for me and he used the French form as he wished to practice his French for university."

Denturists to Discuss Provincial Examinations

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Denturist Society will meet in Toronto Tuesday to discuss provincial regulations controlling their trade and the mandatory provincial examinations denturists must now take.

Jerry Goye, Belleville's only denturist, today refused to make any comment surrounding his Dundas Street denture business. His secretary told The Intelligencer "Mr. Goye passed the examination (in August)... he did very well."

Mr. Goye is one of more than 320 Ontario denturists to submit to the testing administered at the Ontario Dental College.

Ben Sweet, a Toronto denturist and president of the Ontario society, said during a telephone interview today "the examination was conducted as fairly as can be expected."

"They (exams) weren't difficult at all," said Mr. Sweet.

The examinations followed a story protest by the provincial denturists asking for direct control over denturist practices.

After successful completion of the exams, the province allows denturists to work "independently" making full, upper and lower plates and some repairwork.

Mr. Sweet said this work constituted 75 per cent of a denturist's business. The remaining 25 per cent is made up of partial plate manufacture, he said.

Mr. Sweet would not comment on the upcoming executive meeting, saying only that partial plate business "will certainly come up for discussion."

"I won't discuss the meeting because don't want to jeopardize everyone," he said.

Asked about discussions surrounding partial plates, he said: "It's not just a question of a lucrative market. It's a matter of taking care of the public. There aren't enough dentists to take care of all the business," he said.

When asked for his opinion on the provincial exam, Mr. Sweet said: "I can't answer the question at the moment."

"If I answered that question, I feel I might be jeopardizing other denturists," said the provincial president. "A few denturists did not pass the exam ... we have some things to discuss."

The minister (Frank Miller) has "done everything in his power for a fair exam," he added.

Mr. Sweet promised he would contact reporters immediately following the Tuesday meeting to give details of the discussions.

Campbellford Man Stabbed In Argument Over Girl

A Campbellford man is recovering in Belleville General Hospital today from surgery for a lacerated liver received in a stabbing incident Thursday night.

Police said Frank Yukonbold, 24, of Queen St., Campbellford was in an argument just before 8 p.m. with Robert William Cone, 22, over a girl friend. The incident took place behind Green's Drug Store on Front St.

Fire Hall Gets Carpet

Carpeting is replacing the original worn out tile at the city's No. 2 fire hall.

City council this week voted to accept the tender of Stradwick Interiors for the installation of approximately 1300 square feet of carpet in the upstairs common room at the firehall. The tender price is $1,299.

Council was told the new carpeting is cheaper than new tile and that maintenance cost would be less.

Fire Chief Leo Collene said fire had offered to install the tile underlay themselves but the installation would still have cost several hundred dollars more than carpeting.

Truck Rolls

The trailer of a tractor-trailer received $3,000 damage early today when the truck rolled on Highway 401, four miles east of Belleville. The transport, driven by Ernest Baldi of Smiths Falls was at the eastbound lane when the accident occurred.

Council OKs Chicken Claim

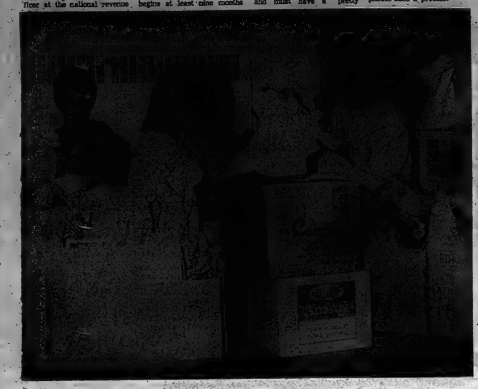
Councillors briefly debated how much 12 pullets weighed after receiving an damage claim from a township resident.

Tom Gillett said he lost the poultry after a stray dog broke down the cage of a shed on his property.

Provincial law says any claim for less than $25 may be dismissed. Nonetheless, council decided to award Mr. Gillett $25.



Councillors also agreed dog control was a problem in the area.

Rain Hurts Fair

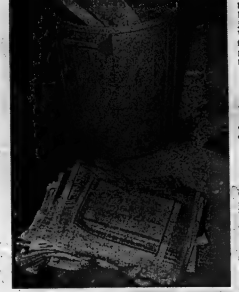
Wednesday's total attendance was 6,300 but these dropped to 7,600 Thursday under dripping skies. Including Tuesday's opening night crowd, total attendance to closing time Thursday was 19,100.

The fair continues today and this evening with the feature event being the last full card of harness races of the season, topped by the $700 Bud Zebedee, R. Yankee Wam Memorial.

Aid for Vietnam

A mound of boxes, filled with clothing and medicine for Vietnamese orphans, accumulated at Sir John A. Macdonald School this week as pupils brought in their donations. The school undertook to help Mr. and Mrs. Norm Rickaby, who are in charge of the annual drive in Belleville for supplies for Vietnamese orphanages. Packing the donations are Leigh Court, Karen Boisvert, Shannon Haggerty and Janine Curley.

Children Collect Clothing To Aid Vietnamese Orphans



A Boeing 707 will lift off from CFB Trenton soon, laden with clothing and medicine for Vietnamese orphans.

The project is operated by a Montreal - based group, Families for Children, whose representative in Vietnam, Rosemary Taylor, distributes the donations.

Handling the project in Belleville are Mr. and Mrs. Norm Rickaby who took over this year from Bill and Jean McMaster, originators of the project in Belleville.

For weeks, the Rickaby's have been collecting clothing and medicines suitable for youngsters from birth to six years old. After sorting and repacking, the donations are flown to Vietnam in a Canadian Forces airlift.

This week, children at Sir John A. Macdonald School on Hayder Dr. decided to aid the project. They collected donations at the school and Thursday afternoon a teacher delivered the boxes to the Rickaby house.

Forgotten

All alone in the drizzle, this bundle of paper was put out Thursday — the right day — to be collected for recycling. It was still there Thursday night. Now it's back in the house again to await the second Thursday of next month. Both householders and drivers are having difficulty adjusting to collection dates, but Alderman Jean Smith, co-ordinator of the recycling program, credits a "faithful core" with supplying an average of 20 tons of paper a month for recycling.

Sister Leaves England to Visit Long-lost Brother's Grave

The last time Mrs. Florence Galliers saw her brother William Kerrigan he was one of hundreds of Canadian troops filing on already crowded London, England streets in 1915.

This week — at 82 years of age — Mrs. Galliers arrived in Canada to visit her brother's grave in Ottawa.

The trip might never have been made had it not been for the enterprise of her niece, Windsor resident Mrs. Florence Friars.

In 1972, Mrs. Friars — the daughter of William Kerrigan — set off for England to find her aunt. Her only clue was that her aunt was staying with wealthy ship builders in Hull.

This Sept. 1 — two years after her first meeting — Mrs. Galliers, accompanied by two cousins, was re-united with the Friars' family.

Since their arrival, the trio of women, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Friars have travelled across the province — the tour's highlight so far being Niagara Falls.

The Kerrigan family had strong roots in Canadian National Railroad — all spent several years in Belleville.

The Friars brought Mrs. Galliers and her cousins to the city Wednesday to renew acquaintances with some of the railroaders who knew her brother.

Saturday, the family hopes to arrive in Ottawa to visit Mr. Kerrigan's grave.

Family United

Team Canada Wins 8-0; Next Stop Quebec City

Belmonton (CP) An 8-0 victory over the Western Canada Hockey League All-Stars Thursday night finished the first of the beginning for Team Canada.

BILLY HARRIS

Johnny McKenzie scored three goals and linemates Andre Lacroix and Mark Howe picked up three assists in a brilliant display of puck control. Howe also scored a goal, his first of the series.

Other Team Canada goals were collected by Frank Mahovlich, Tom Webster, Paul Henderson and Marc Tardif.

Team Canada also scored four goals in the second period before cruising through the third.

McKenzie had no ready explanation for his consistent play during training camp which began Sept. 1. "Everything is going well. I just hope the bubble doesn't burst.

Team Canada goaltender Don McLeod had to block only 13 shots while Western goalie Larry Hendrick turned aside 44.

Meanwhile, Ottawa announced that defenceman Pat Price will take part in the Russian series.

A capacity crowd of 8,300 gave Team Canada the warmest reception of a five-game Prairie tour in which the National Hockey Association players won four and lost one against the more speedy junior rivals. The last minutes was played amid loud applause.

The team hopes to better the record of four wins, three losses and a tie achieved by Team Canada in the 1972 series. Coach Billy Harris said the team is where it should be in preparing for the series.

"Our conditioning is good and our timing has continued to improve," he said. "We've had some things yet to work out, but we will manage to concentrate on them when we leave Saturday for Quebec City."

Lead Junior Final 3-0

PCOs Issue Challenge To Mann Cup Champs

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Peterborough PCOs moved to within a game of their third straight-year Canadian junior lacrosse championship Thursday, but Peterborough coach Ben Floyd said he wants to go one step further.

The PCOs beat Kentucky Cables 13-12 to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final for the Minto Cup. Peterborough can sweep it up when play resumes Saturday.

"We want to play the Salmon-Kings" said Floyd referring to the New Westminster team that thrashed Windsor Warlocks a week ago to win the Canadian senior lacrosse title and the Mann Cup.

"I would like to put the Minto Cup and the Mann Cup at centre floor and challenge the New Westminster Salmonbellies to see if someone take both cups," Floyd said.

Paul Parnell of the Salmonbellies, all-time leading Western Lacrosse Association scorer, said:

"I understand every machine in Peterborough has been preached and all have agreed to play."

"I can't wait to get on the floor," added the Peterborough native who moved west in 1965.

The Canadian Lacrosse Association, the national governing body of senior and junior lacrosse in Canada, is to make a decision today regarding the proposed merger.

But before meeting the Salmonbellies, Peterborough will have to beat the Kentucky Cables. They didn't have much trouble with the western representatives Thursday, despite being tied 11-11 near the mid-way point of the third period.

Peterborough scored six consecutive goals to tie the game but Peterborough rallied 21 seconds later when Brian Evans scored on a breakaway.

Bob Wasmer was the leading scorer for the PCOs, beating Barnaby goaltender Gary Green four times. Jim Johnston added three while Evans and Don Green scored twice each. Greg Lustic, Mark Zierwill, Steve Dowdall and Gord Duncan had single.

Peterborough led 7-2 after the first period and were ahead 11-8 after 40 minutes.

PCOs goaltender Tim Barrie stopped 44 Barnaby shots.

Floyd is anxious to see how Peterborough champions would do against the country's best senior team. The Peterborough Salmonbellies also went a short

Southern Cross Is in Trouble

NEWPORT, R.I. (Reuter) — Australian challenger Southern Cross, beaten in the first two races and with its hopes fading fast, goes after its first victory today against American defender Courageous in the America's cup yacht series.

Another defeat would put the Southern Cross in the almost impossible situation of having to win the last four races in the best-of-seven match in order to capture the oldest silver trophy. Courageous is seeking to retain the cup for the United States for the 23rd consecutive time.

Fairly brisk southwesterly winds of between 10 and 20 knots were forecast for today's third race, scheduled to start at 12:15 p.m. EDT.

Similar wind conditions prevailed Thursday when Courageous came up with a measured Southern Cross after two miles of the first leg and hold the lead the rest of the way over the 24.5-mile triangular course on Rhode Island Sound. The American defender crossed the finish line about 100 yards ahead of the Australian 12-metre, with a winning margin of one minutes and 11 seconds.

Courageous won the opening race Wednesday by about a half mile, finishing four minutes and 54 seconds ahead.

The yachts boasted protest flags about seven minutes before Thursday's race began as they manoeuvred for starting positions. But Thursday night, after a three-hour meeting, a three-man international jury disallowed both protests.

Spokesmen for both the American and Australian syndicates refused to discuss the nature of the protests which arose after Courageous and Southern Cross came close to colliding just before the race began.

Quebecois and Arrows Hanging on in Series

by THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Quebecois and Maryland Arrows have records of elimination with victories Thursday in the National Soccer League semi-final playoffs.

Maryland built a 4-0 first-period lead and defeated Philadelphia Wings 13-12 to force a sixth game in their best-of-seven series.

Philadelphia leads 3-2, with the sixth game scheduled for Landover, Md., next Monday. If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played here Sept. 18.

Montreal beat Rochester Griffins 12-0 to snatch Thursday's lead to 3-2 in that series which has the sixth game scheduled for Montreal on Saturday.

A crowd of 9,255 at Philadelphia saw Paul Bugeste score three goals and pick up three assists for Maryland. Vic Gennaro added two goals for the Arrows and Greg Marchen and Guy Cote collected two each.

Wayne Grainger, Don Vann, Ken Henderson, Gord Kastee and Bill Cahill were the other Maryland scorers.

Jim Lynch scored 3 goals to lead the Quebecois before 1,134 fans at Montreal.

Sandy Lynch and Dave Lismenberger each scored two goals for the Quebecois, who were outshot 41-25 in previous games in Rochester this season.

Resurgent B.C. Lions Pin Loss on Argos

TORONTO (CP) — British Columbia Lions made all their potentials count Thursday night and then rallied while Toronto Argonauts saved their worst efforts until the last.

LOU HARRIS

The result was a 36-34 win for the Lions with running back Lou Harris knocking two fourth-quarter touchdowns.

The Lions took advantage of the Lions early interception two Don Moorhead passes and turning them into a touchdown by Doyle Orange and a field goal by Zenon Andruszyszyn.

Toronto continued to dominate and had a 24-13 lead after Andruszyszyn's third field goal of the game early in the fourth quarter. But then he B.C. offence came alive and their defence rallied to stifle the Argo attack.

"We were too tight at the start," said Lions coach Eagle Keys.

"I don't know why, but we were. Then the defence went in cold and they ran all over us. But we looked good on the blitz late in the game.

Joe Moss, Argos acting head coach, was disappointed with the poor effort his club showed late in the game.

"I fully expected them to go out and win that one," said Moss, who directed the club in his second defeat since head coach John Rauch was fired last week.

"The guys are going to bitch because we're going to do a lot more classroom teaching and try to eliminate things before going on the field."

The Lions' defence set up the late rally by stalling the Argo offence at a time when it needed to keep Ra drive alive and run out the clock. The B.C. defenders threw fullback Ed Shuttleworth and then quarterback Mike Rae for a total loss of 26 yards and Toronto had to give up the ball, setting the stage for Harris' heroics.

The Lion halfback first combined with Moorhead on a 35-yard pass-and-run play and then ran 17 yards for his second touchdown with the Argos still maining in the game.

Slade Willis got the other Lions touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Moorhead in the first quarter. Ivan MacMillan converted all three touchdowns and kicked a field goal and two singles.

Shuttleworth got Argos' other touchdown on a one-yard run in the third quarter and Andruszyszyn provided two converts and a single besides his three field goals.

Lions running back Johnny Musso aggravated a knee injury when he was tackled by Wayne

JOHNNY MUSSO

Allison in the second quarter and sat out the remainder of the game. Musso should go back on the injury list where he has been most of the season.

Along with Ra two touchdowns, Harris piled up 101 yards with four pass receptions and added another 51 yards on 14 carries.

Tim Young Will Play Junior A

OTTAWA (CP) — Centre Tim Young of Ottawa 67s has decided to play one more season in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series instead of accepting a five-year, $200,000 contract with New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association.

And 6ft-4½ pay him only the going rate of about $25 a week.

"I can honestly say that he won't be getting any more pay than any other last year player," said Ottawa coach Brian Kilrea.

Proposed Rule Changes Designed to Speed Play

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League plans to implement two proposed rule innovations designed to speed up play during one eight of the game exhibition schedule which begin Sept. 19.

The NHL announced Thursday that one proposal limits player changes to any time when play is in progress except when there a stoppage in play for shooting a goal or as a result of a penalty. Changes also could be made when penalties create an inequality of playing strength on the ice.

The other proposed rule creates a free shot for the non-offending team whenever a stoppage in play is created by a goaltender holding the puck for more than three seconds. A free shot would be awarded if a goaltender deliberately shoots the puck on the goal mesh or should any player hold, freeze or play the puck with his hand board in such a manner as to cause a stoppage, unless he is actually being checked by an opponent.

The referee would place the puck on the centre spot of the face-off circle on the side on which the infraction occurred.

Any player on the non-offending team who was on the ice at the time of the infraction would be allowed to take the free shot but he would have to take a normal face-off position with his stick touching the edge of the face-off circle.

All other players must be outside and only the player taking the free shot is allowed inside the face-off circle.

The goaltender must remain in his net and when the referee blows his whistle, the player taking a free shot may go in any the direction of the net. Play is then continued in a normal manner.

For violation of the free-shot rule—offside or the shooter not taking a proper faceoff sequence—the attacking team forfeits the shot and the resulting face-off is in the neutral zone.

If the defending team violates the rule, the shot is recorded as a violation occurs again, the shot is repeated and a minor penalty is assessed against the player who commits the second violation before the second shot is taken. If a goal is scored on the second shot, the penalty is nullified.

The two rules will be in effect in exhibition games in which all or one or both rules are approved they will become effective with the start of the 1974-75 NHL schedule.

Following the experimental time period, a vote will be taken of the NHL governors and NHL teams are involved until Oct. 1.

Pulford – Shoots for Second

Coach High on Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Pulford said Thursday he couldn't pick his Los Angeles kings to win their division in the tough National Hockey League, but "everyone would laugh at me."

The third-year coach's of the Kings said he must be realistic; Montreal Canadiens this season will be too strong for the Kings.

Under NHL realignment, the Kings are in a division with Montreal, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh Penguins and the expansion Washington Capitals franchise.

"We don't think Washington is a threat, but certainly our rival is stronger than we are. Being realistic, they will finish in first place.

"I believe three teams (Los Angeles, Detroit and Pittsburgh) will make it close for second place.

"There's no use saying we're going to beat Montreal. I think Montreal will win the Stanley Cup, or at least have a tremendous shot at winning it.

"We've come a long way in two years, but to say we're in the same class with Montreal . . . people would laugh at us."

The Kings last season qualified for the NHL playoffs for the first time in five years, bowing to Chicago Black Hawks in the first round.

Pulford said the Kings lack a super star of the calibre of Bobby Orr or Phil Esposito who could make them a bonafide Stanley Cup contender.

"If we had that type of player, with the players we now have, we'd be a Stanley Cup competitor," he said.

Maybe They Should Learn To Forgive and Forget

Some Ontario Hockey Association members teams are not all that pleased with the new rule pertaining to fighting.

At least two OHA Senior A clubs (Orillia Terriers and Barrie Flyers) have gone on record, through their presidents, as being opposed to the rule which calls for a player receiving a five-minute penalty for fighting to be ejected from the game.

Terriers' Wes Scales is reported to have told OHA secretary-manager William Hanley, via the mails, that the rule should be eliminated. Apparently Scales had this to say on the matter:

"A player of inferior calibre could be sent into the ice with the intention of becoming involved in a fight with one of the top stars of the opposing team."

Of course, there's nothing new in that method if getting rid of a player who has been filling your net with pucks. But now, the whole thing takes on more importance.

Instead of losing your gunner for five minutes, he's gone for the duration.

Can't you see these "inferior calibre" types at training camp.

While the other guys are honing their hockey skills, the club's heavie specialist will be taking a course designed to improve his capabilities as a mugging creep.

Meanwhile, all "top stars" head this way.

These blinders may raise blue blazes with your peripheral vision but you're less likely to see the opposition's needlework coming (your bosom do with thread, understand) when he gives you the high ball.

And those rabbit ears. Can't you hear them under your hair

Vital you don't hear won't hurt you.

And anyway, sticks and stones may break your bones but hamms will never hurt you.

Seriously, wasn't it just the other day that Team Canada Coach Billy Harris was saying he hoped a fight between one of his men and a Western Canada Junior All-star had taught the WHA selects something.

Harris tried to emphasize that his players had to learn to refrain from retaliation. And they might better have the lesson drummed home now as during the series with Russia.

The Soviet swifties aren't above trying to bait the opposition into retaliatory acts which so much of the time lead to trips to the penalty box.

OHA teams which can't stand still for this new fighting rule should be told to hire the type of player who will not be drawn into a senseless brawl because someone questioned his ancestry.

-Isn't it time managers and coaches took charge and learned to control their players.

If some in senior ranks are too old to learn new tricks, better, they should take up some other winter pastime.

Let's face it. Times. They are a-changing. Hockey had better face up to it and meet the challenge.

Goncalves Pots 2 In Millers' Win

Two goals from the penalty spot, both coming off the toe of Tony Goncalves, supplied Golden Mile Restaurant Olympics with the margin of victory in a 2-1 Trenton Challenge Cup match with Belleville United at the Ontario School for the Deaf pitch, Tuesday.

First round Bay of Quinte Soccer Association Challenge Cup play continues Sunday when Trenton Spartacus visits Canadian Forces Base, Trenton for a 3 p.m. match.

Corcoliver played for his first goal to open the scoring early in the game, after he was tripped in the penalty area.

Tony made it 2-0 when United was called for handling the ball but Pasquale Sardo set the lead to one when he connected from a difficult angle to make it 2-1 at the interval.

Golden Mile will now be competing the insurance marker. In the second half's first minute, Petros Vlahakis connected the United defence and was in the honour of on goalkeeper Joe Cordeiro, a solid performer all the way through for the losers.

First round Challenge Cup play continues Sunday when Trenton Spartacus is at CFB, Trenton for a 3 p.m. match.

Next week, Belleville Charity Cup action resumes with Parsons meeting Brigden and CFB at Centennial Park in Trenton in a game with Whitley's, both on Wednesday, Sept. 18. Kickoff at 6 p.m.

Wednesday, at Warkworth Institution, Brighton ran into a red hot squad and bowed 10-0.

GOT FOURTHS

MUNICH, West Germany (CP) — Two Toronto athletes competing for the Wilhelmin Braun Memorial track meet entered fourth place finishes in their respective events Thursday. Joe Jacques compiled a 5,000-metre steeplechase, had a time of eight minutes 47.2 seconds. Michael Karst of West Germany won the event in 8:29.2, followed by another West German, Gerd Frahmcke, and Dusan Moravick of Czechoslovakia. Diane Skrower Ahn Roost's beave of 195 feet four inches was more than 15 feet behind first-place Mac Wilkins of the United States.

Obstruction Call Hurts

Howard and Robert Forced to 3rd Game

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Howard and Robert Printing lost their first Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate AA game in six games that they shot out Tuesday night at Alemite.

For that matter it was the first time in six games that a team had scored any runs on them.

The Printers knocked off the Quinte Metal Leaders two game straight and did not give up a run. In their second series they shut out Peterborough two games straight and in the first game of their final series they blanked Etobicoke.

Thursday at the Alemite, though, Etobicoke evened the series at 1-1 with a 3-2 victory over Howard and Robert.

The next time around perhaps the Printers should get three umpires for the game. A plate umpire and one base umpire just aren't enough in one of these playoff games.

The third run Etobicoke scored was on a questionable obstruction call.

In the seventh inning Etobicoke's Merve Mellish cracked a ball into deep left field. While rounding third base and heading for home he threw an elbow into Scott Reid who was covering the bag. Reid was not blocking the base path nor was he interfering with the runner's course.

Whether or not Mellish knew he was going to be out at home plate is a good question, but with the throw outfielder Terry Gray made the runner was tagged out by a good three steps.

Reid was the losing pitcher facing nine batters and giving up 10 hits.

Howard and Robert got a run in the third and a run in the fifth. Both were the result of errors caused by alert base running.

For Etobicoke, Mellish had a triple and a single and Gord Hawkins had a pair of singles.

The third and deciding game in the series will be played in Etobicoke at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Minor Lacrosse Crowns Champs

Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association has completed another season and has a new list of division champions.

In novice, Quinte Mall and Dairy Queen battled their way through 4 close playoff series before the Mall was crowned the champion team. They won the best of three series 2-1 and took the deciding game in the series by one goal. Darrel Shiels was the big scorer for the champs coming up with 12 markers in the three-game series. For the Dairy Queen, Scott Edwards had seven goals in three games. Both goalies were Keith Semark and Dave Potts, played strong games.

Dairy Queen's peewee entry won their division semi-final beating out the Police Association two game straight, but lost the final series to Woodland Cleaners by the same total.

Danny Hounslow was top scorer for Woodlands and Jamie Robertson was tops for the losers. Brian Slaughter allowed only two goals in the two games for the Woodlands.

Bantamline Builders captured the bantam title. They knocked off Towers Ford City in a close two-game total goal series. The clubs were tied at 11 at the end of regulation time in the second game, but after an overtime period Cornerstone came out on top. Danny Duffy, Steve Ruddell and Howard Graham were the big guns for the winners while Jeff Runciman, Larry Inwood and Hugh Graham were tops for Towers-Food City.

A and D Enzo walked away with the senior championship. They knocked off Trenton Roofing in the semi-final and defeated SEIU 183 in the final 23-11. Brent Walmsley led the way for the winners with seven goals in the final series and John Brinkers replied with three for local 183.

The presentation of trophies and end of season picnic will be held Saturday at Zwick's Island.

Crowle, Hildebrandt Quit Soccer League

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

Peter Crowle announced this morning that he is quitting as president of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association.

At the same time, he said that Harold Hildebrandt, president of the 10-team grouping's referees association, has also called it quits.

Both men were game officials during Thursday's Trenton Challenge Cup match between Golden Mile Restaurant Olympics and Belleville United, at the Ontario School for the Deaf pitch.

Hildebrandt was the referee and Crowle was linesman.

Crowle's decision comes as no surprise to those who know what the man has put up with this season. He had been on the verge of getting out of what he described this morning as "a real rat race", on at least two occasions, earlier this season.

"The animalistic behavior of some players and spectators is unbelievable," said Crowle as he explained the reasons for his decision.

"Both Harold (Hildebrandt) and I were threatened last night and one United player who is not even registered with the league cursed us out.

"We have a disciplinary committee which can handle things like this but what is the sense of working for these teams when they don't control their own players?

"I'm really sorry to have to take this action. Perhaps it should say I'm dissappointed, than anything.

"No one minds working when he derives some pleasure from it. But there certainly is no pleasure in this job anymore.

"What grieves me is that some of the players are simply not playing the game. They get behind two goals and begin laying it on the game officials.

"If these players were as good with their feet as they are with their tongues, we'd have an unbelievable league.

"Perhaps the league is growing too fast.

"Too many players are substituting dirty play and their tongues to try and make up for what they lack in soccer ability."

Crowle also charged that some team officials are putting the emphasis on politics.

The BOSA has a meeting scheduled for Tuesday night. Crowle intends to make his resignation official at that time.

"There is no doubt the league is strong enough to carry on without me," observed Crowle.

Not Claiming Pennant, Virdon Plays it Cool

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Virdon isn't claiming the pennant and New York Yankees' three rivals in the torrid American League East are not conceding it.

"I don't feel any different than when we were tied for first place last week," the Yankees pilot said Thursday night following a 2-0 victory over Baltimore Orioles which left New York 3½ games up on Boston Red Sox, three ahead of Baltimore and six in front of Cleveland Indians.

"Next week it'd be nice to put together an eight-or nine-game winning streak," said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver. "Let's see—that'll be four here against Cleveland, four in Detroit and two in Boston."

The Red Sox, who had dropped three games in a row and 11 of their last 13, nipped Cleveland 3-2 as Bill Lee shortened 10 hits and Dick McAuliffe drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning.

"Maybe this will snap us out of it," Lee said. "It better do something for us or else it'll prove to be a long winter."

Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte said that the loss was not a crucial one in the Indians' pennant hopes. "I don't see how it could be," he said. "We'd like to win it, but it's just another game on the road to the top."

Elsewhere, Oakland Athletics edged Minnesota Twins 2-1, Texas Rangers and Chicago White Sox played to a 2-2 tie in a rain-shortened contest, and Detroit Tigers outslugged Milwaukee Brewers 9-7 in 10 innings.

Unbeaten Mike Wallace pulled out of the Yankees bullpen for his first AL start after 39 relief appearances, pitched seven-hit ball for 7⅔ innings and ran his record to 6-0 with help from Dick Tidrow.

Loser Jim Palmer blanked the Yankees on four hits until Roy White opened the eighth with a single. With one out, Bobby Murcer singled and Yankee baseman Bob Oliver's glove and White breezed to third when Oliver's hurried throw hit Palmer covering the bag get away for an error. Graig Nettles singled the first run across.

Chris Chambliss slapped a run-scoring single and the third run came in on a double by Lou Piniella.

Charlie Spikes homered for Cleveland.

Ed Sanders's sacrifice fly delivered Bill North in the eighth inning with Oakland's tie-breaking run. North reached first on an error by shortstop Danny Thompson, moved to second on a single by Bert Campaneris and to third on Bert Blyleven's wild pitch. The RBI was the 100th of the season for Sanders, who singled home Oakland's first run in the opening inning.

Ken Henderson's 16th home run gave Chicago a 2-2 tie in the third inning against Steve Foucault. Texas Rangers and Chicago White Sox played to a 2-2 tie in a rain-shortened contest, and Detroit Tigers outslugged Milwaukee Brewers 9-7 in 10 innings.

Loser Jim Palmer blanked the Yankees on four hits until Roy White opened the eighth with a single. With one out, Bobby Murcer singled and Yankee baseman Bob Oliver's glove and White breezed to third when Oliver's hurried throw hit Palmer covering the bag get away for an error. Graig Nettles singled the first run across.

EARL WEAVER

Expos Shade Cubs 2-1

MONTREAL (CP) — Barry Foote's base-loaded sacrifice fly broke a tie in the eighth inning and enabled Montreal Expos to nip Chicago Cubs 2-1 Thursday night.

Willie Davis, who drove in Montreal's first run with a third-inning single, opened the eighth with another single off loser Tom Dettore, 1-4. Ken Frailing replaced Dettore and Davis beat the throw to second on Ron Woods' grounder to short. One out later Bob Bailey's single loaded the bases and Foote delivered his sacrifice fly.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead off Mike Torrez, 12-8, in the first inning when Don Kessinger walked, took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Jerry Morales.

The Cubs had a threat going in the ninth inning, putting two runners aboard with one out.

Jose Cardenal led off with his second single of the night but was out when Morales forced him at second. A walk to Bill Madlock preempted Montreal manager Gene Mauch to lift Torrez and bring on reliever Dale Murray.

Playoff Tied

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Les Downing's three-run home run in the sixth inning Thursday powered Newmarket Bay's to a 3-1 victory over Niagara Falls McRaes in Ontario Fastball League semi-final play.

The best-of-three series now is tied 1-1 with the deciding game scheduled for Sunday in Newmarket. The winner advances to play Oshawa Tony's for the league title.

Anderson is Counting On Bats, Pitching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sparky Anderson doesn't feel intimidated as he prepares to meet the lowly Los Angeles Dodgers tonight.

"Don't betray us yet," says the Cincinnati Reds manager.

After a 9-6, 6-2 doubleheader sweep Thursday over Atlanta Braves, the Reds begin an important three-game series with the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

The Reds have no morale problem even though the Dodgers have beaten them 11 of 15 times this season.

"Morale is just so much hogwash," says Anderson. "What you need is a collection of bats and pitching."

The Dodgers, 11-0 winners over San Francisco Giants Thursday night, hold a three-game lead over the Reds in the National League West race.

In the other games, St. Louis Cardinals routed New York Mets 12-5, Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh Pirates 9-4, Montreal Expos defeated Chicago Cubs 2-1, and San Diego Padres beat Houston Astros 4-1.

Al Downing pitched a two-hitter and Ron Cey figured in three rallies to lead Los Angeles over San Francisco. Downing allowed two harmless singles in the Dodgers pounded San Francisco's pitchers for 15 hits.

Cey singled and scored the game's first run in the second inning, added a two-run single in a four-run third and singled in the midst of a three-run rally in the ninth.

Reggie Smith's 22nd home run of the season touched off a six-run, ninth-inning rally that sealed St. Louis over New York. The triumph, coupled with Pittsburgh's 6-4 loss to Philadelphia, lifted the Cards to within 1½ games of the Pirates in the East.

Mike Schmidt hit a three-run homer and Del Unser had a two-run homer in a six-run second inning to give Philadelphia its victory over Pittsburgh.

Fred Kendall hit a home run and Ivan Grief pitched a six-hitter to lead San Diego against Atlanta.

Big Test for Esks

REGINA (CP)—There's no question among Edmonton Eskimos that tonight's Western Football Conference match against Saskatchewan Roughriders ranks high on the list of important games.

"It's the biggest game of the year for us," says offensive lineman Larry Watkins.

Kicker Dave Cutler ranks it "the third-biggest game of the year for us.

Quarterback Tom Wilkinson gave the game no specific niche in order of importance, but said that winning "would give us a little freedom."

Eskimos Coach Ray Jauch agrees. "If we go out and play football we're capable of playing, we have a chance to finish first."

Not in Angels' Plans, Robinson to Indians

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Frank Robinson, a 39-year-old slugger and the only man to be most valuable player in both major baseball leagues, was sold Thursday by California Angels to Cleveland Indians for the $20,000 American League waiver price.

Robinson, who ranks No. 4 on the all-time home run list with 575, was hitting only .251 this season but led the Angels in home runs, with 22, and in runs batted in, with 63, as the designated hitter for the last-place West Division team.

The sale came as no great surprise. The Angels had discussed a trade with New York Yankees early in the season and more recently had placed him on the waiver list, withdrawing his name when he was claimed by Baltimore Orioles.

Boston Red Sox also were reported to be interested in the powerful right-handed batter.

Cleveland, in fourth place in the East, five games behind the Yankees, had a great deal to say about Robinson because the Red Sox are in third place. The games are out of town.

Robinson, in his 19th major league season, joins his fifth league team after Cincinnati Reds in 1956 and was National League MVP in 1961. He was traded to Baltimore in 1966 and helped the American League in batting, homers, and runs batted in, winning MVP honors.

He was traded to Los Angeles Dodgers in 1972 and was displeased to be traded to the next season. He started 1974 with a major league lifetime batting average of .298.

"I'm not happy. I'm not unhappy. Robinson said. "I was hoping to finish my career here, but that wasn't to be.

Your Horoscope

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Saturday, Sept. 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will not be giving your full attention to your work...It's best you attempt less but try to do it well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Having a good time is likely to be your major goal. Some fond overindulgence is likely. Have fun but be moderate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Folks you entertain at your home may have such a good time they won't know who to leave. Stock lots of extra goodies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep your plans flexible so you can make last-minute changes then you won't be disappointed if you can't do what you first intended.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're shopping today you're likely to buy several things you really don't need. Make a list before you go and stick to it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The way you present yourself is still under close scrutiny by others. Be sure to show your most attractive profile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't pass on any information to others unless you're absolutely sure of your source. What you repeat may later come back to embarrass you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Couples anywhere are going to require some stringent budgeting over the weekend. Otherwise, don't pay more for a good time than is wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may get involved in some role-playing where you'll need to conduct your position a bit through some form of pretense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will experience a little disappointment from one with whom you have close ties. Don't let it spoil your day.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a bit too agreeable today. You're likely to make decisions based on that which is easiest rather than that which is wisest.

UN Peacekeeper Not Peacemaker

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has come up with a simple statement on what the United Nations and its military forces can and cannot do on behalf of peace.

The UN forces are peacekeepers, not peacemakers. The peacemaker must be the opposing sides of a conflict, Waldheim said in a speech to the National Press Club in Washington.

Defending his organization during questioning about repeated UN failures and the need of UN troops on Cyprus, Waldheim emphasized that the United Nations is not a world government, only a tool for its member countries to use.

"I would welcome a world government . . . to help us . . . overcome difficulties in many parts of the world," Waldheim said. But there was no chance of having one "in our lifetime."

The UN peace forces, between the Arabs and Israelis on the Sinai and Golan fronts have only "bought time for negotiations," he warned. But they show "how effective the UN machinery can be if, and only if, governments are prepared to use it."

He explained that the most important assumption on which UN peace forces operate is that both sides in a conflict are prepared to co-operate.

"When that assumption breaks down, as in the Middle East in 1967, and in Cyprus recently, UN peacekeeping forces are placed in an impossible position."

Waldheim said many problems are placed on the United Nations only after the big powers are unable to solve them.

"I wish they would give us an earlier chance for preventive diplomacy."

Davis Defends Work Of Boundaries Group

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis defended Thursday the members of the electoral boundaries commission who came under attack from New Democratic Party members Wednesday.

"I am sure the commissioners will carry on in the same independent and objective manner that is not only expected of them, but which they have already demonstrated," Mr. Davis said in a statement.

The New Democrats charged Wednesday that the three-member commission was "doing a job for the government" in its proposed readjustment of the provincial election map.

The commission, under Mr. Justice Campbell Grant, is making recommendations regarding Ontario's ridings and attempting to balance them by population.

Mr. Davis expressed "both regret and concern" that the provincial New Democratic Party caucus had "criticized the integrity of the members of the electoral boundaries commission."

The premier said that practically every member of the legislature, regardless of party affiliation, would like to see changes made in the commission's suggestions for realignment of provincial ridings.

"This is the very reason we have an independent commission," he said.

Kindergarten Pupils Killed in Bus Mishap

SUDBURY (CP) — Two kindergarten pupils and the woman driver of a school bus were killed Thursday when the bus was in collision with a truck on Highway 17 about five miles east of Sudbury.

George Thomson, director of the Sudbury board of education, said a number of children on the bus were injured and were taken to hospital.

Police identified the dead as Brian Elkin, 5, Gary Oldham, 5, and his sister Marie Elizabeth, 6, St. Joan, 32.

Three children were taken to hospital but a spokesman said they are not in serious condition.

Truck driver Real Lalonde of Rosyn, Que., was also taken to hospital and was believed to be seriously injured.

Police said the impact caved in the driver's side of the school bus which was carrying five pupils.

The truck, owned by Continental Diamond Drilling Co. of Rosyn Que., was empty at the time of its crash. It rolled over into a ditch.

Mr. Thomson said the bus was a van-type vehicle fitted with 19 double seats, owned by Harvey Hall of Walford Manitoba and was carrying the pupils to and from a half day of classes at Walhapitae to their homes in nearby Coniston.

Coniston and Walhapitae are communities three miles apart on Highway 17, just east of Sudbury. The children were returning to Coniston following morning classes at Walhapitae.

Nixon's Resignation From Bar is Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — The California Bar Association rejected Thursday a request by former president Nixon to resign from law practice in California.

One hundred lawyers had signed a petition urging the association to continue its investigation of Nixon's activities instead of accepting his resignation.

Association president Brent Abel said the letter of resignation was received early Thursday rejected by the board of governors later in the day on a motion that Nixon had failed to acknowledge bar association investigations of proceedings against him over his involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

He said the final decision on whether the resignation was to be accepted was up to the state Supreme Court, but the court usually acted on the recommendation of the bar association.

More Jobs Unfilled

OTTAWA (CP) — There was a sharp increase in the second quarter of the year in the number of job vacancies, the latest Statistics Canada survey shows.

There was an average of 141,000 jobs going begging for every 1,000 jobs in the April-June period. The rate was 11 for the two previous quarters and 12 for the second and third quarters of 1973.

The average number of vacant jobs in occupations covering 80 per cent of employment was 108,000 in the second quarter, 87,000 in the first quarter and 88,200 in the second quarter of 1973.

The quarterly averages are based on surveys done twice monthly of 455 occupation groups. Not included are workers in agriculture, domestic service, the military, fishing and trapping.

About three-quarters of the additional jobs unfilled in the second quarter were in blue-collar occupations.

The 10 occupations with the most vacancies in the second quarter were welders, weavers, sewing machine operators, car mechanics, nurses, secretaries, barbers and hairdressers, janitors, truck drivers, and mechanics for industrial, farm and construction machinery.

Munro Asks 3-way Labor Discussions

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro called Thursday for formation of a tripartite body to discuss national labor problems.

He intends as soon as possible to invite business, labor and government officials to form a continuing body to study labor relations, the labor minister said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

The minister was in Montreal seeking settlement of a Great Lakes shipping strike and his speech was delivered by Tom Eberlee, deputy labor minister.

In notes for the speech, Mr. Munro said public confidence in the system for settling labor disputes is failing and there is a "growing pressure on governments . . . to play a stronger and perhaps more decisive role in industrial relations."

He said the decline is "undeniable" and is greater understanding of the fact that the onus for improved industrial relations falls plainly on labor, management and government."

Mr. Munro said he sees with invite labor and business "to jointly participate with myself and my department in a thorough examination and debate of our legislation and programs, as well as of the system they are designed to serve."

Although a record number of man-days was lost because of strikes and lockouts in the first half of this year, it was wrong to assume the current system of industrial relations is "on the rocks."

Governments in democratic societies cannot legislate industrial harmony, and "turning Parliament into a labor court . . . would further emasculate the collective bargaining process," Mr. Munro said.

Commune Residents Not Free-loaders

OTTAWA (CP) — A popular view of communal dwellers as sex maniacs and rebels against society is scorned by a Canadian Council on Social Development study.

The study report, released to the council Thursday, says researchers found nothing to justify notions that communal members are "free loaders, sex and drug maniacs and non-conforming members of society."

While there is some sexual permissiveness in communes, sex does not have the "high priority that many outsiders would like to believe," says the report written by Nicola Carter, a council program director.

And commune residents had a "refreshing live-and-let-live philosophy." They did not reject society.

The study of 35 communes in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces was done over a four-month period recently. The communes included rural and urban groups—some concerned with farming, others with crafts and still others with spiritual growth.

Ms. Carter says that most commune dwellers interviewed came from educated and affluent families. Their fathers were professionals or top-level businessmen or self-employed.

Most of those interviewed were on good terms with their families. "They do not consider the adoption of communal living an rebellion against their parents."

The author says that outsiders appear to have an exaggerated idea about sexual activity in communes.

While there often was a casual attitude toward sex in communes, commune dwellers did not stress sex. There were strong and lasting ties between individuals.

Exporters Raise Take

Consumers Will Pay As Oil Royalties Up

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Gasoline and heating oil will cost almost a cent a gallon more as a result of the decision of major oil-producing countries to raise royalties and taxes on crude.

Representatives of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) meeting here announced Friday that all member states except Saudi Arabia are boosting royalties and taxes by 73 cents a barrel on their oil exports, effective Oct. 1.

The increase will raise the average revenue for each government to $9.74 a barrel.

The OPEC ministers said the increase should come out of oil companies' profits, but oil-company observers at the conference said any increase will be passed along to consumers. Most oil companies have clauses in contracts with their customers making such increases automatic.

Jamshid Amouzegar, the Iranian delegate and an unofficial spokesman for the conference, admitted that oil producing governments hope to cause a block in consumer price increases.

In announcing the increase, the OPEC group said that "this adjustment . . . should not be passed to consumers, taking into consideration the excessive margin of profits still being made by the international oil majors. . . ."

OPEC said it will leave the posted price of oil at levels set last January. The posted price is the artificial figure on which OPEC governments compute their taxes and royalties, and leaving it unchanged was evidently intended to put pressure on oil companies to absorb some of the increase.

Amouzegar said OPEC decided to increase taxes and royalties to counter a 14-per-cent inflation rate in imports from industrialized countries.

OPEC warned that as of January the inflation rate in industrialized world will "automatically be taken into account with a view to correcting any future decrease in the purchasing power of the member countries' oil revenues."

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, did not participate in the OPEC decision because it is negotiating partial or total nationalization of the giant American-owned Aramco oil company.

But the OPEC communique said Saudi Arabia has backed coupling any increases in taxes or royalties with reduced posted prices because "the increase in the average government take is justified only on the basis of excess profits realized by the international oil companies."

OPEC also said some unidentified members will reduce production levels to sustain prices. The issue has led to a wide split between poorer members who want full production and members like Abu Dhabi which are prepared to ration their reserves.

The revenues of OPEC governments from oil produced in the 13 member countries is based on a complex agreement with the international oil companies.

About 40 per cent of the standard light Arabian crude oil produced in a country is sold directly by the oil companies. For this so-called equity oil, OPEC sets an artificial price—the posted price—on which it computes royalties and taxes.

OPEC's decision Friday raised the royalty rate—in effect a rental rate for areas the companies exploit—to 16.67 per cent from 4.5 per cent. The standard tax rate, based on the posted price minus royalties and operating expenses, has increased to 65.86 per cent from 55.

The other 60 per cent of oil is taken by the governments directly as the share of production. This so-called participation oil is then sold by the governments, usually back to the companies that produced it, at about $10.84 a barrel.

The weighted average of the royalties, taxes and participation oil sales is the government's average "take" or revenue on its oil.

Under OPEC's new formula, this weighted average will increase to $9.47 from $9.41.

The members of OPEC are Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, The United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Libya, Algeria, Iran, Nigeria, Venezuela, Ecuador, Indonesia and Gabon.

Provincial Premiers Ask PM For Pre-budget Economic Talks

TORONTO (CP) — With fingers crossed, the provincial premiers are asking Prime Minister Trudeau to talk with them on ways of beating inflation without cutting down jobs.

A day after an acid exchange with Mr. Trudeau, the 13th annual premiers' conference decided Friday to ask him for a private and informal meeting to consider "co-operative action" on the major economic issues confronting Canada.

They want the meeting before the next federal budget because they feel that any major measures taken by the central government probably would have to be included in it.

Mr. Trudeau has been cool to the idea of such a meeting, and Thursday he suggested the provinces wanted to see Ottawa act rather than take tough measures themselves. The premiers replied then that this kind of talk hardly demonstrated leadership.

Friday they declared after their two-day session that neither the federal nor provincial governments acting alone can bring down the rate of price increases while creating an adequate number of jobs.

"Both levels of government," their statement added, "must co-operatively to formulate effective measures for the harmonization of short-and medium-term economic policies while at the same time establishing a sound and rational framework within which to pursue longer-term policies."

Premier William Davis of Ontario, spokesman for the conference, indicated to reporters after the conference that he was not ultra-confident of getting the federal-provincial talks in view of Mr. Trudeau's expressed attitude.

"Perhaps there's some possibility he may reconsider," the premier said cautiously.

He added that the premiers' terms would not preclude a meeting "in the not-too-distant future" of federal and provincial leaders and other groups—supposedly including labour and industry—but the provinces felt further discussions should come first.

Premiers Oppose Pay-price Controls

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial premiers have come out against wage and price controls in a manner of describing inflation.

Interviewed Thursday at the annual premiers' conference, Premier William Davis of Ontario said the results of the last federal election show the public is against the idea.

"We're quite prepared now to work with Ottawa to find another solution," he said.

Premier Dave Barrett of British Columbia said wage and price controls would not work.

"It's not what the people want," he added.

Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney said Ottawa should not introduce controls.

"I think the federal government . . . at this time does not have a basis for wage and price controls."

Premier Richard Hatfield of

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued high inflation and food prices have been predicted by cabinet members while a decline in industrial output signalled further stagnation in the United States economy.

Treasury Secretary William Simon joined other top administration economic experts in predicting that inflation will continue at high rates for the rest of the year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told a news conference in Chicago that "the picture's not rosy on food prices."

And the Federal Reserve Board released figures showing a decline in its industrial production index of one-half of one per cent for July and August, meaning there are fewer jobs available in the face of growing unemployment.

Davis Gives Hint Budget Won't Balance

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis gave Ontario a strong indication Friday that there will be no over-all tax increase for the province in his government's next budget.

Discussing the merits of balanced budgets as an anti-inflation factor, he told reporters: "The only way to balance a budget is to increase taxes—and I have no intention of increasing taxes—or to cut down on services.

"Obviously, we don't want to reduce services."

In a statement issued after the 13th annual conference, the provincial premiers promised the federal government's decision—effective in the next year—to adjust personal income taxes in line with changes in the cost-of-living index without compromising the provinces' significant tax revenues would cause them.

With the cost of public services rising, the statement said, "most provincial governments can not sustain any reduction in revenues from this source if the level of quality of provincial services is to be maintained."

Oil War Possible - - LaMarsh

SASKATOON (CP) — If Arab countries withhold oil or substantially increase its price, a military confrontation between the world's major powers and the oil-rich nations could result, says the Right Hon. Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, former prime minister, and Mrs. Pearson.

Miss LaMarsh, in Saskatoon to address the annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, said that while war in the Middle East is not a definite possibility, it is an alternative of which the public should be aware.

"If the Arabs do not make oil available on reasonable terms, nations such as the United States and the U.S.S.R. could "form a coalition to take over the plants," she said.

"If there is no means of negotiating a settlement with the Arabs in the face of possible industrial disaster, a confrontation could develop.

"Very deep negotiations will have to take place during the next year."

She said if a war did start, nuclear weapons would probably not be used, "because there is no point in blowing the resource to kingdom come."

Increased oil prices are destroying countries such as Britain, Italy, and causing serious economic problems for many others such as Japan, Miss LaMarsh said, adding it is doubtful the world will stand by and let this continue because too many countries depend on nations like Britain for trade and military alliances.

While the idea of the U.S.S.R. and U.S. joining forces against the Arab states seems shocking, it is a possibility since the U.S.S.R. is in favor of maintaining the status quo in world relations, she said.

Stanfield Calls Trudeau Stand on Talks 'Cavalier'

HALIFAX (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield accused Prime Minister Trudeau Friday of being "cavalier" in his apparent rejection of talks concerning inflation with the 10 provincial premiers.

Inflation and the downturn in the Canadian economy are the greatest problems facing the country, Mr. Stanfield said in an interview following a news conference here.

. . . Surely it just makes sense for the provinces and the federal government to meet and act in concert."

Manure Disposal System Aids in Hog Production

By CHRISTOPHER ALSEY
Staff Correspondent

A three year search by Donald W. Spafford of RR 4 Stirling for the ultimate design in a hog feeding operation has resulted in a unique barn and manure disposal system.

Mr. Spafford, originally from Oakwood, near Lindsay, travelled extensively throughout the hog country of the United States and southwestern Ontario. Initially the trips were sponsored by a grain feed storage system manufacturer and later, he made further visits on his own, talking to different owners of hog feeding operations.

Last year he sold his small farm at Oakwood and purchased the 150-acre Maclou Dunning farm. He began building later in 1973 and in spring of this year the first pigs were received.

Every two weeks Mr. Spafford receives 68 weaners and once a week ships 30 finished hogs to market. At Today's Digest — about 56 cents a pound — that works out to $1,680 a week. However, the entrepreneur says he will be happy if he gets 1,500 hogs a year to market, allowing for death loss.

Quality Swine of London is the source of his crossbred Landrace and Yorkshire weaners. It used to take up to eight months to finish a hog but the process now takes only five to six months. The hogs are fed to about 210 pounds, dressing out to 160 or 165.

With 90 many animals, manure disposal could be an enormous task. But all Mr. Spafford has to do is "pull a plug" every two or three days, and three or four times a year, through the use of irrigation pipes, dispose of it by spraying the slurry over his fields. This is an innovation for this area.

There are 10 hogs to a pen, scientifically figured out so that each is allowed eight square feet of floorspace including the dunging area. The five-by-15 foot pens have a 24-inch concrete divider between them to prevent corrosion of metal stanchions, another innovation of Mr. Spafford.

For water, the hogs enter the dunging area and place their mouths over a nipple, knocking it aside and releasing the water. This device, originating in Denmark, was introduced here about four years ago.

By using his method, the hogs cannot foul their water supply. Also, by churning up their excrement in their trips for water, they make the average disposal system work:

The dunging area is four feet long with a four-inch stepdown from the sleeping area. The floor where the hogs spend most of their time slopes half an inch every foot; the dunging area is slanted at three quarters of an inch to the foot.

This allows the manure to fall into a concrete gutter eight inches wide by three feet deep.

When the plug is pulled at the end of the 100-foot gutter, the solids would normally remain and the liquid run off.

But by using baffles placed ten feet apart, six inches off the bottom, the liquids must mix with the solids and carry everything away.

The resultant slurry drains into a concrete pit 36 by 64 feet, divided into two sections eight feet deep. After this three year search, Mr. Spafford says he likes this method as opposed to the slat system where the floor of the pens allow manure to drop into a lagoon below.

The slatted floor, he says, allows gases to rise up to the hogs which he feels is detrimental to their health unless precautions are taken for exhaust.

There are two advantages of disposing of manure through irrigation. One pertains to weather and the other cost.

To dispose of manure by hauling a tank through fields requires large delapped acreage especially when you raise 1,500 hogs a year.

In addition a large tank can become bogged down in wet weather. Mr. Spafford says he can now, through irrigation, spread the manure onto his fields down to 20 degrees in the winter.

Looking at the dollar aspect, the 2,000 foot irrigation system comprised of easily transported 30-foot aluminum sections compares in price with a tank.

Pig Production

A well protected hog is held by Donald W. Spafford of RR 4 Stirling. When they go back into the barn they will pass through a "germ killing footbath. There are four in the building. Visitors must wear coveralls and rubber boots and please step into the footbath, not over it.

Potato Crop Expected To Top 1973 Levels

OTTAWA (CP) — The preliminary estimate of acreage of the current potato crop is 379,600 acres, seven per cent more than the 1973 crop but four per cent less than the average of the previous 10 years, agriculture department economists said Thursday in a forecast of selected crops.

Acreage estimates of other crops and relation to previous years were as follows:

Buckwheat: 60,100 acres, 32 per cent less than the 1973 crop and 30 per cent below the 10-year average.

For the potato crop the estimates by provinces and the change from 1973 were: Prince Edward Island, 46,000 acres, up 10 per cent; Nova Scotia, 4,400 acres, up 16 per cent; New Brunswick, 69,800 acres, up nine per cent; Quebec, 23,000 acres, up six per cent; Ontario, 42,500 acres, up two per cent; Manitoba, 35,000 acres, up 17 per cent; Saskatchewan, 1,500 acres, up 17 per cent; Alberta, 23,000 acres, no change; and British Columbia, 14,000 acres, no change.

The report, from economists T. A. Bennett and N. L. Longmuir, said most potato producing regions are experiencing adequate growing conditions and an average to above-average yield is anticipated. The yield might total 50.3 million hundredweight.

Prices during the 1974-75 marketing year are expected to remain below those of the previous season.

Sugar beet acreage projections by provinces were: Quebec, 5,300 acres, down five per cent from 1973; Manitoba, 28,029 acres, up 13 per cent; and Alberta, 35,400 acres, down eight per cent.

Sugar beet production may total 905,000 tons, down about three per cent from 1973.

Dry pea acreage estimates by province were: Quebec, 500 acres, down six per cent; Manitoba, 46,000 acres, up 14 per cent; Saskatchewan, 8,500, up 62 per cent; Alberta, 20,000, up 21 per cent; and B.C., 1,000, no change.

Production might total 1,650,000 bushels, about the same as 1973.

Dry bean production might total 2.6 million hundredweight, down about 33 per cent from 1973. Production might total 765,000 bushels, down about 33 per cent from up about 12 per cent from 1973. the previous year.

Hog Marketing Plan Called New Concept

OTTAWA — The national hog stabilization plan introduced recently represents a new concept in agricultural stabilization.

Called the value added concept, it lets the market follow its normal course based on supply and demand. At the same time, it gives producers an effective means that their returns for labor and equity capital will be maintained at reasonable levels. Producers retain full responsibility for their own decisions to establish a viable operation.

Hog producers are guaranteed a national average margin of $22.41 (adjusted weight between the start of the livestock feed and hog prices. Only the margin is stabilized. There is no interference with either the price of feed or the price of hogs.

The plan covers hogs marketed between April 1, 1974 and March 31, 1975, which index 98 or better under the federal hog grading system. Each farmer can participate up to a maximum of 1,000 hogs.

Most April 1, the federal government will determine the amount by which the average price for hogs across Canada exceeded the standard cost of feed required to bring a pig from 50 pounds to market weight. If this amount is less than the guaranteed margin of $22.41 per hundred weight, producers will be paid the difference based on their total marketings up to 1,500 hogs.

This will be a national payment with all producers receiving exactly the same amount per pig. Thus individual area and regional differences in hog production costs and efficiency are left unchanged.

The producer will need to provide proof of sales such as hog grading certificates.

Agriculture Canada economists who worked out details of the plan offer several reasons in favor of the approach, ranging from intricate complexities of national and international economics to plain common sense reasonings.

A Great Need

The gulf between the haves and have-nots of this world remains like a yawning Abyss, deeper than anything Evel Knievel ever contemplated.

We have nothing against Mr. Knievel — he is one of the doers of this world — but the lack of proportion which the public displays in the presence of such a con-game, overlooking more pressing needs, is what disturbs many.

A crowd of some 20,000 paid $28 a head to get to see Knievel's derring-do — a gathering described rather revealingly by The Christian Science Monitor's Phil Ridordin.

"Much of it," he wrote, "was a Woodstock-type crowd which displayed few social graces, set fires to portable toilets, sunbathed in the nude, and robbed a trailer truck of 4,000 cases of beer."

Meanwhile the inequities that beset the human condition persist and we have before us appeals by organizations which properly concern themselves with these stark realities — appeals supported incidentally by Prime Minister Trudeau and the distinguished British man of letters, Malcolm Muggeridge.

A message from Mr. Trudeau accompanies an appeal by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of the Unitarian Service Committee based in Ottawa. An organization whose administration costs are currently as low as 9.87 per cent, the USC is campaigning for $2,270,000 in funds and gifts-in-kind for needy persons in Vietnam, Korea and the Middle East to name a few of the destinations. Their work covers assistance in the areas of nutrition, food production, child care, health services and family planning, as well as education, training and community development.

With a letter from the Rev. George Kanz, of St. Augustine Church in Sydney, Nova Scotia, chairman of the Co-workers of Mother Teresa in Canada, comes one also from Mr. Muggeridge who in 1969 went to Calcutta to make a film of the work of Mother Teresa and the Missionaries of Charity which she had established.

Contributions may be sent in the case of the USC to 56 Sparks street, Ottawa, K1P 5B1, and in the case of the Missionaries of Charity: Rev. Frank West, Canadian Jesuit Missions, 833 Broadview Avenue, Toronto.

There is a contemporary ballad which speaks of a "never-ending love for you." Here is a work that is never-ending, and motivated by love, remembering that for countless numbers of people in the world the end is premature aging or death, and the survival of others dependent on such contributions as are now being solicited.

Weather Aid

Here is an idea for local United Appeal canvassers when campaign time rolls around again this fall. It comes from Janet Campbell, a volunteer district chairman during Montreal's Federated Appeal's fund drive.

Make the weather work for you, says Mrs. Campbell. Going door to door during a heavy rain or snow storm works both ways, and both benefit a fund raiser. She says more people stay home when the weather is bad. And they feel sorry for the hard-working volunteers, cold and wet and up to the knees in slush, so they give more.

Mrs. Campbell told the Montreal Gazette she considered the bad weather a stroke of good luck when her part of the campaign because it helped her match last year's district total of $5,000 — and this despite inflation and the fact she had lived in the area less than a year.

So, who ever thought of harnessing the elements at their worst, to come up with some fine fund-raising results? Here is one young woman who did so, or at least found out what could be achieved during a stormy or inclement season. The weather may not always co-operate and canvassers should not just wait around for it. But maybe a copy of the Farmer's Almanac should be required reading for every canvasser local-ly!

Lessons of History

Growth of Government A Factor in Runaway Inflation

By JOHN D. HARERON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
President Ford's major problem is the new American federal deficit, and will continue to be the serious state of the American economy and the ever-mounting inflation.

What he can, or cannot do to control inflation and remove the U.S. economically from what New York Times calls a "decade of dilemmas," will affect Canada. This has always been the case with U.S.-Canada relations in good times and bad, and is still true now.

Perhaps the dilemma which Ford-type is all the rage is not quite knowing how to stem the kind of inflation besetting us, or in effect if we can.

The reason for lower taxes, even terror by many of our financial managers in government is that the pattern of this economic crisis is not in the style of 1930 when the whole apparatus collapsed around us, but that of 1982 when two and even three annual rates of inflationary increases could not be controlled.

Before 1933 was over, German hyperinflation, even the wheel-barrows filled with devaluated potatoes/marks just to do the day's shopping. The psychological recession in work, entrepreneurship and savings in Germany then resulted in citizens abandoning the cities, turned to the land, buying real estate.

The same kind of galloping inflation took hold of Nationalist China in the late forties just before the Communists overthrew Chiang Kai-shek, where fistfuls of rmon could not buy a sheaf of rice.

Today the Chilean and Uruguayan rates of inflation at about 225 per cent and 620 per cent, are completely uncontrolled.

Uruguay once the model democracy for all of Latin America is a catastrophe economically, socially and economically. Her populace has been beaten down by the ravages of inflation with the inevitable authoritarian solutions attempted (which also don't work), when the people have lost all sense of concession and allow decision-making have to go.

The Uruguayan example and the much lesser-known Brazilian one tell us about a major inflationary time bomb was not a major factor in the 1933 economic crisis. This is the unprecedented growth of governments and their agencies and their large powers over the productive sectors of a free economy.

In Canada, we are in the same path of inflationary and cashless growth of government. Over the next few years we can expect the federal government to increase even more its size. There is the new crown corporation promised in the last budget to take over railway passenger operations across the country which might need about $1 billion to start.

There is PetroCan, our new national oil corporation which was introduced into the last Parliament and will be raised again in this one through a national oil corporation act giving it $500 million for start-up funds.

Ironically from cost to cost the pattern is the same with the Canada we have left with the Liberals.

Of course the federal government is going to increase even more its size. There is the new crown corporation promised in the last budget to take over railway passenger operations across the country which might need about $1 billion to start.

Although the structure, that is the Limited Company's profits are taxable, the wages of the people working for the Company are not taxable. It has also been stated that the Band Council is acting against the wishes of the people. This is not the case, the Band Council has kept the best interests of the Band in mind by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to locate on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. As it is now noted that Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited and Tyendinaga Mohawk Band Council are two separate and distinct bodies. It is only irrelevant that the two have with each other if the Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited has agreed to the rent free use of a piece of land. It has also agreed to hire as many Reserve people as possible. Perhaps some confusion arose since it was the Band Council who originally started negotiations with its present Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited as Band Owned Company. On the basis of the position that was established for the discontinuance of negotiations with the Bay of Quinte Development Corporation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be located on the Indian Reserve No. 40. A General Meeting was called and it was then that Mr. Rebrendum Vote be taken to decide whether or not Tyendinaga Limited Company. The Referendum Vote defeated that the majority of people did not wish the Band to own Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited and it was at that time that the Band Council stopped negotiations and the Company went under private ownership.

The reason why Mohawk Band Council took the step of incorporated route for business was that they found that a Company would not locate on the Reserve, spending money to construct an industrial or recording oil cost, without some guarantee that their invested money would be returned to them. As it stands now any business located off the Reserve and makes contracts with Band Council must be done so in a trust arrangement as it is a known fact that Indians living on a Reserve cannot be sued.

It must be understood that this Band Council or indeed any Band Council cannot restrict private Initiative. Although the Council formed Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be 49-51ed on the Reserve it did so by allowing full discretion and the majority vote in Band Council.

2. "The Mohawk Band Council is setting Pedagogious precedent by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to exist on the Reserve since the Corporation is governed under Provincial regulations of which the people involved with the Company are subject to."

The Band Council is not setting any precedent dangerous or otherwise as Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited is a privately-owned Company and has nothing to do with the workings of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited like the three other companies that are located on the Reserve is renting space and has its business premises on where possible, Band Members will be employed. It is wrong to point out that Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited on board Band Members are hired and that a higher rent is being charged.

3. "That the Band Council deliberately set out and has implemented the people on the Reserve to the detriment of Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited."

This again is not the case. At least four monthly newsletters mentioned the Corporation and asked each time that if there were any questions I would be happy to answer them or helped find knowledgable people to answer them.

It became quite clear in the two general meetings that were held discussing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited that not all the people who signed the petitions were completely informed as to exactly what it was all about. I would even go so far as to say that the people who circulated the petitions were not completely knowledgeable of Corporations and were hardly in a position to explain to the people on the Reserve to do so in a trust arrangement as it is a known fact that Indians living on a Reserve cannot be sued.

It must be understood that this Band Council or indeed any Band Council cannot restrict private Initiative. Although the Council formed Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be-49-51ed on the Reserve it did so by allowing full discretion and the majority vote in Band Council.

Reduced Spending by Government Is Objective of Jean Chretien

BY RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa — There's a new man in the presidency of the Federal Treasury Board who may have news for the taxpayer.

Good news, and that's a switch.

He hints of news he may be breaking later that the government, foreshing the bad habit that over the years has become an addiction, just might do what he confesses has been "wasteful spending."

He goes even further and speaks of "trying to control overall inflation."

Which could translate into the almost unbelievable prospect that of the government, instead of spending more and more every year — up more than 20 per cent currently to approach the $25 billion mark — could back, or at least holding the line.

It figures that only good common business sense should characterize government, but in these wildly inflationary times it could, if everyone else, lighten its belt.

After all, ever-increasing public expenditures pumped much of the inflationary air into the economy that sent up the balloon.

The idea that the always free-spending feds all of a sudden start economizing sounds like Caesar.

Except that the new boss of the Treasury Board is a young, young (42) French-Canadian, Jean Chretien, from Shawinigan, in what he calls one of Quebec's "blueocalier" ridings where the guys work hard for their bucks, and like losing too much of it at taxes time.

Jean Chretien is a hard-nose who ran his former department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development like a cabinet boss should and like so many ministers who serve as rubber stamps for the deputies reserved for bureaucrats, just might do.

He has only been 11 years in Parliament Hill, seven of them in Cabinet, perhaps not long enough to become captive to the powerful clique of the establishment.

Maybe that's succeeds as Treasury Board boss, Charles M. Drury, was a charter member of that establishment, dating back to the post-war days when he was deputy minister of National Defence and came to know those barons on its payroll, and somebody on every with every and pipe at Petawawa, and even made off with the VIP sparkline into the big military league.

Chretien, a lean and hungry lawyer-politician from blue-collar Shawinigan, is what he calls himself — some of it from the blue-collar guys.

So how is he going to tighten up?

Well, he says, there's that overblown public service with over 400,000 on the federal payroll.

And there's what he calls the serious problem of soaring government spending which takes more and more of the gross national product every year.

"It can't go uncontrolled forever."

But can he stop it?

Next to the Prime Minister, he comes the second with the most power, Minister in terms of power.

So he has the clout.

How is he going to use it?

With discretion, he promises, and with realism.

"Often the people who grab the most spend least are the ones yelling the loudest for more services.

"We have to tell them they can't have it both ways, smaller taxes and bigger benefits."

He says he is going to try to get what he calls "the real from the unreal" to determine what is waste and what is not.

No cinch that, for, as he says, "a job or project is seen small town in the Maritimes in terms of efficiency might seem wasteful in the broad national government spending and, regionally, may be economically productive.

Chief Brant Speaks for Council Regarding Commercial Enterprise

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

There has been much controversy on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve, centering on the issues involved in the incorporation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited and now a privately owned company. I will answer the accusations made against my Council.

The main accusations seem to be that:

1. "The Mohawk Band Council acted or is acting against the wishes of the people on the Reserve in the incorporation, by allowing a foreign structure" i.e.: Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited on the Reserve."

Although the structure, that is the Limited Company's profits are taxable, the wages of the people working for the Company are not taxable. It has also been stated that the band Council is acting against the wishes of the people. This is not the case, the Band Council has kept the best interests of the Band in mind by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to locate on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. As it is now noted that Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited and Tyendinaga Mohawk Band Council are two separate and distinct bodies. It is only irrelevant that the two have with each other if the Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited has agreed to the rent free use of a piece of land. It has also agreed to hire as many Reserve people as possible. Perhaps some confusion arose since it was the Band Council who originally started negotiations with its present Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited as Band Owned Company. On the basis of the position that was established for the discontinuance of negotiations with the Bay of Quinte Development Corporation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be located on the Indian Reserve No. 40. A General Meeting was called and it was then that a Rebrendum Vote be taken to decide whether or not Tyendinaga Limited Company. The Referendum Vote defeated that the majority of people did not wish the Band to own Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited and it was at that time that the Band Council stopped negotiations and the Company went under private ownership.

The reason why Mohawk Band Council took the step of incorporated route for business was that they found that a Company would not locate on the Reserve, spending money to construct an industrial or recording oil cost, without some guarantee that their invested money would be returned to them. As it stands now any business located off the Reserve and makes contracts with Band Council must be done so in a trust arrangement as it is a known fact that Indians living on a Reserve cannot be sued.

It must be understood that this Band Council or indeed any Band Council cannot restrict private Initiative. Although the Council formed Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be-49-51ed on the Reserve it did so by allowing full discretion and the majority vote in Band Council.

2. "The Mohawk Band Council is setting Pedagogious precedent by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to exist on the Reserve since the Corporation is governed under Provincial regulations of which the people involved with the Company are subject to."

The Band Council is not setting any precedent dangerous or otherwise as Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited is a privately-owned Company and has nothing to do with the workings of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited like the three other companies that are located on the Reserve is renting space and has its business premises on where possible, Band Members will be employed. It is wrong to point out that Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited on board Band Members are hired and that a higher rent is being charged.

3. "That the Band Council deliberately set out and has implemented the people on the Reserve to the detriment of Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited."

This again is not the case. At least four monthly newsletters mentioned the Corporation and asked each time that if there were any questions I would be happy to answer them or helped find knowledgable people to answer them.

It became quite clear in the two general meetings that were held discussing Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited that not all the people who signed the petitions were completely informed as to exactly what it was all about. I would even go so far as to say that the people who circulated the petitions were not completely knowledgeable of Corporations and were hardly in a position to explain to the people on the Reserve to do so in a trust arrangement as it is a known fact that Indians living on a Reserve cannot be sued.

It must be understood that this Band Council or indeed any Band Council cannot restrict private Initiative. Although the Council formed Tyendinaga Mohawk Limited to be-49-51ed on the Reserve it did so by allowing full discretion and the majority vote in Band Council.

Spirituality, Humanism, The Church

Editor
The Intelligencer:

A brief but interesting conversion story appeared in the Intelligencer recently of a man who missed flying squad as several occasions and whose religious experience was gained in the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville, sponsored by the Full Gospel Business.

"My encounter with my savior," he states, "removed all hatred from my heart for those who had persecuted us so cruelly, family and friends passed away, and all things became new and wonderful."

Some years later Mr. Goldberg gave up a high position in the Israeli administration to train for the ministry. He has been in well over 30 countries.

"The greatest and most important miracle he says, "is when a person receives Jesus as his Christ and is saved, finding forgiveness of sins, which is the essence of my mission to the Jews and Gentiles."

Gospel Churches and evangelicals agree with Mr. Goldberg that one does not become a Christian by ecclesiastical manipulation or by conversion to vocation but by the new birth, in which Jesus Christ Himself was very defin-

Sadly enough the miracle of that spiritual regeneration is not known these days in many churches. Those who were not called of God, who have not been regenerated by God's Spirit are in charge of God's work and are doing it with cynic consequences. Worse still when religious leaders after stripping Church of His divinity and of His supernatural powers are reducing the gospel to secular humanism, which is subservient to ethics and philosophy acceptable to the modern mind. This is why sincere people sometimes see but leave the spiritually empty pulpits unsatisfied and unchanged.

The tragic blunder of the liberals cannot be dismissed with a shrug. They will have to give account to God for the considerable injury done to people who trusted them as spiritual guides. Any millions of Christians whose God has never been real, to them He is but a historical fact or a principle.

Where Churches are degenerating or dying God in His wisdom is replacing them, and others to perpetuate His church and to carry out His plans.

Although lack of sufficient members to form a quorum resulted in an adjournment of the first day's session of County Council on Tuesday, owing to the fact that nominations were largely held throughout the county, Hastings county councillors were welcomed as their seats on Wednesday morning by Warden Geo Jordan, Hungerford.

I have spoken in 40 meetings, or more, in men's groups, church groups of many denominations, and when I have asked for a show of hands, about half in this audience would have liked to have been aborted" never has one stood up.

Abortion is murder in the first degree. It is the most senseless and cowardly type of murder, because the victim cannot defend himself. It has been written, "Abortion is the ultimate sin of a people with a death wish. It is a suicidal attempt to purchase perpetual pleasure at the cost of life itself."

Little Chief Praying Boss
New Metropolitan of Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Most Rev. James Aurelian Watton, elected Wednesday Metropolitan of Ontario, wasted little time outlining proposed changes for his role as head of the 17-year Anglican Church of Canada archdiocesan province.

Known as Little Chief Praying Boss to hundreds of Ojibwa and Chippewyan peoples in his northern dioceses of Moosonee, Archbishop Watton succeeded Most Rev. William Lockhart Wright, who retired this year at the age of 70 after holding the see for 18 years.

"This is an office I didn't covet," Archbishop Watton told 161 clergy and laymen who chose him on the second ballot. "But I will attempt to carry this honor in the best of my ability.

"I'm not a scholar. I'm not a theologian in the sense of how I would like to be. I'm serious, even though it doesn't always appear that way.

"I'm an activist and not a mystical. I'm just a typical Anglican who's so middle-of-the-road he can't be missed."

Archbishop Watton, consecrated in 1963, was expected to oppose metropolitan because of seniority greater than that of the five other eligible bishops, including diocese Algoma, a vacant because of the retirement of Archbishop Wright.

"The first change in the role of metropolitan was instituted Wednesday night," said the archbishop. The province's House of Bishops adopted a motion to create as six-year term for the position with the holder being forced to call an election in his ninth year.

There will be the option of a second six-year term if re-elected, but one person will no longer be able to remain metropolitan for more than 12 years."

Previously, the metropolitan was appointed until resignation and any change must be approved by the provincial synod. The archbishop said he also hopes to establish a commission to consult the provincial synods and their roles which are tied directly to that of the metropolitan.

"I see two provincial synods having a greater role in the church."

The 58-year-old native of Southampton, Ont., said seniority was needed because the person in need is like for the position. Rt. Rev. William Robinson of Ontario, and been a bishop only three years.

Archbishop Watton, a resident of the working community of Schumacher, is in charge of a 400,000 - square - mile area stretching through Northern Ontario and central Quebec to Hudson Bay.

Belief in Christianity Not Wish Fulfilment

By DR. GORDON C. SMYTH

The attack of certain psychologists, teachers and prophets on the Christian religion is largely unwarranted. They say that Christians retreat from reality into an imaginary world of heaven. Far from it!

Read the stories of great Christians — of the Apostle Paul beheaded on the Appian Road, of St. Augustine of Hippo standing like a tower, unshaken in the midst of the Vandals were hammering at the gates of Rome, of Bishop Otto Dibelius confronting Nazis and Communists to their embarrassment, and of Jean Vanier whose source of inspiration may be found in the concluding paragraph of "Eruption to Hope".

Such individuals are only a few among many who never retreated into a celestial fairy land. The long catalogue indicates that a faith which teaches that time is the workshop of eternity produces a well rounded philosophy of life.

The majestic vision of the final book in the Bible includes the picture of "a great white throne and him who sat upon it, from whose presence earth and sky fled away, and no place was found for them. And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne" (Revelation 20:11-12).

The dead are alive, in the keeping of a Power able to overcome any obstacle that belief in immortality may call to mind. Some report that it took two decades of selling years for a home to be prepared for man on earth. How patiently and marvelously God worked! No wonder the last written words of a famous evolutionist, Teilhard de Chardin, were, "I go towards Him who comes".

The dead are alive, in the keeping of a loving God. Little children are with him. He is developing the bright promise of their human childhood. The diseased and crippled are with him. He is making them whole). The frustrated and disappointed are with him. He is providing them with opportunities for spiritual accomplishment.)

The lonely and sad are with him. (He is supplying their need for companionship).

The dead are alive. In the keeping of a just God. The goal of justice is correction, not punishment. Instinct suggests that it is raging itself on the evil and well with the good is eternity. The justice of God at least includes the hope, if not pledge, of universal redemption.

The dead are alive. In the keeping of One who is the Father of Jesus Christ in whom life and immortality were brought to light. Let us trust the personal experience of a Savior who won victory over sin and the grave. He is sure to be trusted than any theorist who says that the supernatural is merely a figment of our imagination.

A life devoted to Christ is bound to be meaningful and meaningfully eternal.

Billy Graham Says About the New Motion Picture "Time To Run" . . .

There is no doubt that today we are the family unit being attacked from every side, torn apart and fragmented. TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family, about listening, about the silences between people, the unspoken moments, and the moments of anger that don't really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma. I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication. —Billy Graham

Honey Bargain, Instant Compost

Good news for honey fans: buy the golden liquid in bulk in your own containers and you'll save.

For example, you can pay as little as 69 cents a pound this year if you purchase honey from Robert Paul of Napanee. Mr. Paul advises that you bring a large(st) container with a tight fitting lid. Large quantities will stay liquid all winter, he says, if you keep it in the freezer.

Contact Mr. Paul by telephoning 354-0753. The address is 139 Donald St., Napanee.

Gardener Virginia Knaut suggests that city dwellers with little or no room for a compost heap, use their blender to do nature's work. Mrs. Knaut fills her blender daily with kitchen scraps, then, after dinner, adds water and blends. She pours the liquid directly on the garden. After making a recalcitrant rhubarb produce with this method, Mrs. Knaut swears by it.

Something I didn't know — and never thought about - and should have.

Those low-acid tomatoes a sort of orangey-yellow color — are not suitable for the water bath canning used for ordinary tomatoes.

Like any other low acid food, they must be canned by pressure to be safe.

The botulism microbe, commonly present in soil, is counteracted by acid and therefore home canned fruits and tomatoes of the standard variety do not normally become contaminated. All other vegetables, including the golden yellow low acid tomato, must be home processed in the container at considerably higher temperatures than that of boiling water in order to destroy the microbe.

When it comes to canning yellow tomatoes, just pretend they're corn.

Just over a year ago - September 4 1973 to be exact - Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau announced "battle plans for an assault on inflation".

Increased family allowances, higher milk and bread subsidies, petroleum price freeze and proposals for increased pensions, were announced, all designed to curb inflation.

Since that move - designed to guarantee continued NDP backing for the then minority government - we've had an election and, surprise, more inflation.

Now our federal government is talking about curbing government spending and we're all anxiously awaiting the new budget which will hopefully be more effective "battle plan".

Ling — Combs

Margaret Elizabeth Combs and Steven Dennis Ling were wed in August in the Protestant chapel, CFB Ottawa by Padre W. Schwenn.

The bride is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. A. J. Combs, Ottawa. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ling, Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peau de soie gown with lace sleeves. She wore a petal cap-let. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis.

The couple resides in Brockville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gregory Burkitt

Burkitt — Clarke

St. Mary Magdalene Church in Picton was the setting for the summer wedding of Candy Louise Clarke and David Gregory Burkitt in a double-ring service conducted by Rev. Robert Stewart.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Howard Clarke of Picton and the late Howard Clarke and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.F. Burkitt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of organza and imported guipure lace with an attached chapel train. The fitted bodice had a V neckline with flounced short sleeves extending from the shoulder, and the natural waist fell into a full circular skirt. A bandmoon cap of organza and lace held the elbow-length illusion tier silk veil and her bouquet was red roses and lily of the valley.

The bride's sister Virgan McConnell was matron of honor in a floral print gown in shades of green, pink and blue, accented by cape sleeves. Her white wide-brimmed hat was trimmed with matching fabric and she carried pink and white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Karen Miller, the bride's cousin, Nancy Burkitt, the groom's sister and Lynn Martin. Their dresses were like the matron of honor's, but in shades of mauve, blue and green.

Mia McConnell, the bride's niece, was flower girl and ring bearer was Paul Burkitt, the groom's brother.

The best man was Gary Thompson, and ushers were Alan Burkitt, the groom's brother, Alan Tebworth and Charlie Nestorovski.

After a buffet reception at the Prince Edward Yacht Club, Mr. and Mrs. Burkitt travelled to Niagara Falls.

They now live at 34 Union Street.

Books By And About Women

THE TOWER AND THE DREAM

By Jan Wescott

Elizabeth Hardwicke rose from "huge to riches" and at her death was the wealthiest woman in England, second only to Queen Elizabeth I. Daughter of impoverished gentry from Derbyshire, Bess was sent to London to be trained in a wealthy household. There she met young Master Barlow, a lad of fifteen, and the eldest of a wealthy family, and surprisingly married him at his request. Knowing he had not long to live, he wanted Bess well provided for.

And so at the tender age of twelve she became a wealthy widow. For the next fifteen years she found great satisfaction and fulfillment in the ownership and management of land and property. Through her marriage to Sir William Cavendish also a wealthy landowner, she further extended her holdings throughout the Midlands.

They both enjoyed the task of renovating tearing down and building but with Bess drawing the plans for these operations. Although she was mother of six children, her life was devoted to buildings.

After Sir Cavendish's death, she married Sir William St. Loe, another landowner and through his auspices was presented to court.

Because religious strife and intrigue were so rampant at this period, Queen Elizabeth trusted no one. Twice Bess was lodged in the Tower first, because of her innocent involvement with Lady Jane Grey's sister Catherine, secondly, when her daughter married a Stuart.

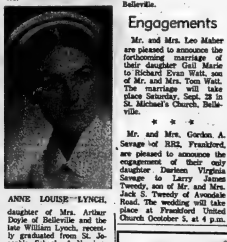
Another marriage followed Sir William St. Loe's death — this time to the Earl of Shrewsbury who was very close to the queen. In fact, she made Bess and the Earl custodians of Queen Mary of Scotland when she fled to England, a tremendous undertaking during this inflammatory period.

Eventually Bess' husband left her, saying being married to Bess was like being married to a building, so building was her passion. Architectural creations, such as Chatsworth and New Hardwicke Hall were all the treasures she collected to adorn them, will always be attributed to this woman's talents and driving force.

A head of her time in so many respects, her life-story makes fascinating reading.

This book is available in Corby Library.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wayne Storms



Storms — Muldoon

Lynne Anne Muldoon and John Wayne Storms exchanged wedding vows in August at St. Joseph's Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Muldoon; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Storms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire styled gown with bodice and cap sleeves of Spanish lace. Matching lace edged her full length veil. She carried pink roses and baby's breath.

Judy Schrieder, maid of honor, attended in a white gown with sky blue rosettes. Maria Macera and Mary Beth Muldoon were attired in similar gowns and all carried nosegays of sweetheart roses with carnations and cornflowers.

ANNE LOUISE LYNCH,

daughter of Mrs. Arthur Doyle of Belleville and the late William Lynch, recently graduated from St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Toronto. A graduate of RCN, she has accepted a position with the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry, Toronto.

They will reside at 47 Grove St., Belleville.

Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Badgley RR4, Shannonville, announce with pleasure the marriage of their daughter Rhonda Carol to Timothy Kember, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Kember, Picton. The wedding took place on Sat. August 24, at the Four Seasons Hotel, Belleville.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Maher are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Gail Marie to Richard Evans Watt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Watt. The marriage will take place Saturday, Sept. 28 in St. Michael's Church, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Savage of RR2, Frankford, are pleased to announce the engagement of their only daughter Darleen Virginia Savage to Larry James Tweedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Tweedy of Avondale Road. The wedding will take place at Frankford United Church October 5, at 4 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Raymond Parks

Parks — Reynolds

Debra Ann Reynolds and Donald Raymond Parks were united in marriage August 3 by Rev. James Seaman in St. Mark's United Church, Cannifton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds of RR 5, Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Beryl Parks and the late Freeman Parks.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white crepe gown with a sheer yoke and full sheer bell sleeves. Lace trimmed the bodice, upper sleeves and cuffs. Her chapel-length veil bordered by daisies fell from a headpiece of organza flowers and her bouquet was red carnations and white daisies.

Colleen McGuiness was maid of honor in an empire-waisted gown of floral sheer over blue lining with a round neckline and puffed sleeves.

Serving as bridesmaids were the groom's sister Sylvia Parks and the bride's cousin Penny Atkins, who dressed identically to the maid of honor. All the attendants carried nosegays of yellow daisies.

The ring bearer was Jimmy Reynolds, the bride's brother.

Best man was Bill Parks, brother of the groom, and ushers were Steve Shepherd and Ken Reynolds, the bride's brother.

Jenny Killian, the bride's aunt provided organ music during the service.

After a dinner-dance reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall, the bride and groom travelled to Niagara Falls. They now live at 22 Wallbridge Crescent.

Ann Meets Doctor - Hero

By ANN LANDERS

I had all I could do today and nearly fell in love. I'm sure John would have called it love at the start. He is Dr. George Hatem, 63, born in Buffalo, N.Y., of Lebanese parents. He lives in Chapel Hill, N.C., and he is the only American in The People's Republic of China.

Our date, in the regal dining room of the Peking Hotel, was arranged by two people who didn't even know each other — Mrs. Edgar P. Snow, a mutual friend who lives in Switzerland, and I. Mrs. Snow wrote to Dr. Hatem, and Dr. Grey Dimond of Kansas City telephoned Peking to my hotel when he learned I was going to China.

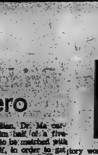
I wanted especially to meet Dr. Hatem because I had been asked to write a column on Sex Among China's Teen-agers. Do They or Don't They? I felt Dr. Hatem would be an excellent source since he is the man who performed the initial operation on the first prostitute ever to be rehabilitated by the People's Republic of China.

Dr. Hatem (affectionately known as Mai Tai-han, which means "Princess One From Heaven") arrived in Peking in 1929 to finish his medical education, then on to Geneva, Switzerland for his degree. He selected bacteriology as his specialty and was invited to spend a year in China studying tropical medicine.

In 1931, "Dr. Ma" went to Shanghai. He was appalled by the poverty and wretchedness of the times and was ready to return to America and set up practice. Then he met the late Agnes Smedley (the only American woman buried in Peking's National Revolutionary Martyrs' Memorial Park). She and her friends persuaded him that Mao's fighters desperately needed medical help, so he cast his lot with them against the invading Japanese and decided to stay.

Working behind the lines as a physician-civilian, Dr. Ma carried out his part-time practice of medicine with his staff of a five-pound note, to be matched with the other half in order to get behind the Kuomintang lines.

He made the Long March in the Great Wall in 1935. (90,000 people started out; only 20,000 made it. It Years later).



Dr. Ma fell in love with a beautiful Chinese actress in 1936 and married her. They now have a son, a daughter and four grandchildren.

The good doctor recounted how "we" (he is so modest he shuns the personal pronoun "I") rounded up the prostitutes, discovered 90 per cent had VD, cured them with penicillin and rehabilitated them by changing their thinking. They were told: "You are not to blame for your plight—you have been exploited" and sold into prostitution. In the new Order you are respected, valuable and hold good jobs. We will help you."

Many prostitutes became nurses, teachers, office and factory workers. "And then," Dr. Ma continued, "we trained doctors to recognize VD symptoms and we undertook a massive survey by drawing 60 centimeters of blood from every 60-house canvassing in search of cases. We held public meetings and educated the people so they would be ashamed of their illness. We pleaded with them to stop forward and be treated. We told them that the cure is sure! Treatment is free! We cannot take anybody and go scorches into the New Order."

Dr. Ma's confidence in this rigid-boggling victory was complete and convincing. He said: "I would invite a group of venereologists from any country to go through our cities and test one million people. I'm sure they wouldn't find more than a handful of cases."

This beloved man still has his American passport, but he hasn't been "home" since 1929. The American Medical Association extended him a formal invitation to escape, the invitation is an open invitation to come to Chicago and the lunch is on me.

Garbageman May Pay You

NEW YORK (AP) — Someday your garbage man may pay for the privilege of carting away your garbage.

If you take a close look at what you are about to throw away, you may see why. Even a ring that cost only $18 to $75 may contain a half-ounce of 10-karat gold, worth about $4 at current market advice.

Obviously, towns may take over the garbage sorting operation for the taxpayers' benefit. But the question is such a project is already unprofitable, or can it return good money to profit. From the standpoint of a sanitary disposal system to dispose raw materials, it would.

The system can handle 1,500 to 2,500 tons of garbage a day and will sort out four basic natural resources—ferrous metals, aluminum, glass and other materials such as cotton rags combustibles such as paper, explained Jack McCarthy, chairman of the regional group.

Even the gummy, non-recyclable paper-carbon or plastic wrapping from meats and frozen food will be mined with oil to be burnt as a supplement to fuel.

The towns have been working for five years at their own expense on the project.

Mr. Mighdoll, executive vice-president of the National Association of Recycling Industries, said the separation processes and utilizes more than 85 per cent of recycled materials reclaimed from industrial fibers and consumer service.

"Strides are being made in everything," Mighdoll said. "One of six aluminum cans is being recovered and that is about half of all copper used in the entire economy of the United States is supplied by the recycling industry."

The average homebuilder may not have the big copper cables, duplex or wire that make up the bulk of such scrap, but he has small amounts of metals as well as paper that may be sold to local dealers. In fact, just mining at home can be profitable.

People dispose of pins, earrings, bracelets, necklaces, pendants and tie pins that contain gold. If a desired piece of metal is recycled it will have the same inherent qualities as the primary metal, the group said. Scrap is a specialty of gold to attach seals and mantlings.

"Scrap is a stepchild of industry," Mighdoll said. "Anything produced has a waste element and the function of the recycling industry is to utilize waste produced—although there is more concern in design engineering now about what happens later to a product—packaging, paper cartons or whatever—but we are trying to minimize the contamination of recoverable elements."

Legislators are trying to bring down the cost of recycled materials which are competing with mine concessions that have depletion allowances.

It also costs more to transport recycled material, another reason many cities plan their leaks so there won't need to rely on it, using the scarce virgin material when they can get it. There are bills now calling for the end of the discriminate on on tax and transportation policies.

Mighdoll said the U.S. is running out of many products and even buying from foreign governments great quantities of such things as aluminum that are found in waste piles. A great deal of the 200 million tons of solid waste that is collected at a cost of more than $6 million should be recoverable.

Successful Living
Philosophy Shaped Life

Dear Doris: Not long ago I wrote you a letter which appeared in the column signed "She Made It." I must write and let you know I have made it!

I didn't have a job when I wrote you before, but I had my mind prepared to grab one. I'll level with the highest marks in typing. Remember? I truly believe that your good wishes have done me more than any encouraging ever could have done. I think that my real problem was a severe case of self-pity.

I am not yet working outside of my home. Right now I have (almost) decided that being the best wife, I can be is my real purpose in life.

I have written down my philosophy to help me teach my own children. Needless to say, it isn't wholly original. I am only the pen. Here it is:

PHILOSOPHY

Accept — each person as he is. Do not try to change him. Remember that each one is a little different in some way.

Be honest — with yourself and all others — this is what builds trust.

Show respect — for all people — even those who disagree with your opinions.

Listen to all others when they speak — they believe they have something to say and you can learn from every one of them in some way.

Be responsible — remember, there is no shirk responsibility. others will follow your lead.

Be helpful — even the smallest favor is greatly appreciated by someone.

Show interest — in all things — it is only by looking at things from all sides that you can see it as it really is.

State your own opinion — but do not argue — the other fellow is entitled to his point of view.

Be your own self — honest with yourself and true to yourself — respecting yourself—accepting yourself—accept yourself. Before you can know one other person, you must know yourself.

Be an example!

Dear Made It: What you made was a new working philosophy and that is wonderful. You were and are carrying a heavy load, as a widow with the responsibility for raising four children. You

Cut-rate Food Store Serves Old and Poor

On weekdays she works as a cashier at a supermarket.

Her salary helps subsidize a food store for pensioners and other low-income customers that codewalks her employers.

Last year Mrs. Sherrett organized a citizens' group to operate the cut-rate store selling goods in small quantities and priced within reach of the pocketbook of a pensioner on welfare-cheque recipient.

When the store opened May 26, Mrs. Sherrett and her assistant, social service department, began sending out monthly prescription cards accompanied by a notice regarding the food plan service. Mothers began to arrive with welfare cheques demanding a month's supply of groceries.

The store did more business last week than in the preceding month.

Only members of the Corner Store Food Fund Committee are permitted to shop in the store. Membership is free, but to qualify a person has to be an old-age pension disabling pension or welfare. There are about 500 members.

Equipment was donated by St. Mary's St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The meat cutter was bought with money donated by Oshawa Council and the city waived the cost of business licences and business tax.

Individual donors have helped but most of the $6,000 start-up money came out of Mrs. Sherrah's personal savings.

The start-up funds have been used. Rent for store space comes to $216 a month and it takes $4,000 to stock the shelves.

Mrs. Sherrah's supermarket job will pay for store improvements but the store still needs a truck for deliveries and an additional meat freezer.

Ghosts and Speed

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

Donald Campbell, the British speed king, was a man who rode with death sitting beside him.

And he believed he had another passenger — his father's ghost.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the racing car and speed boat enthusiast, died in 1948. Eight months after his death, his son, Donald, was trying to set a new speed record on water in the racing boat Bluebird. The sleek craft had been a battleship of Sir Malcolm and his son had inherited it.

The bullet-shaped boat was skimming across England's Lake Coniston at 120 miles an hour when suddenly everything went wrong.

"Scalding oil smothered my face and goggles," Donald Campbell recounted later. "My face was badly burned though I didn't feel it in the terror of the moment.

"As I choked, my foot slipped off the throttle — terrible mistake. The sudden drag on Bluebird was like hitting a concrete wall. The boat skidded sideways for 100 yards and was on the point of overturning.

"This is it, I thought, and then suddenly I was calm and unafraid. Some force, real and own, took control of the boat. Surprisingly, I found my feet was back on the throttle. The speed was rising. The boat was facing the right way and the oil was clearing from my goggles.

"The many hundreds of onlookers thought that I, Donald Campbell, had fought for his life but I knew better. I would swear that it was Sir Malcolm, eight months dead, who saved me, his son and his boat."

In 1964, while Donald Campbell was at Lake Eyre, Australia, making an attempt to crack the land speed record, he had achieved no fame, but another unexplained experience.

Sitting in his streamlined car, he had before he started his run, he looked up at the plastic canopy over the driver's seat. There, outlined against the transparent material, was his father's face, exactly as he remembered him.

He had crystal clear and looked down on me with the kind smile I knew so well," Donald Campbell said.

Then he spoke to me. He said, "Well, boy, now you know how I felt on the morning of Sept. 3 in Utah in 1935."

This was a reference to the time when Sir Malcolm had set a record-breaking speed of 330 miles an hour at the Utah salt flats.

That day, Donald Campbell, encouraged by the sense of his father's presence, set a new world's speed record on land of 403 miles an hour.

Then, in 1967, on England's Lake Coniston which had seen so many triumphs by both father and son, Donald Campbell made his last bid to break the speed record on water. He had a premonition with the bidding in the box. North odds his 17 bidding-point partner in the 18-18 shown by his partner's notrump to get a total of 33-35. He knows that a small slam is a good contract and bids it.

Those players would fail to make the slam. The ace of spades must be led and is over to him three diamond tricks declarer will have to locate the queen of that suit.

Some declarers will get themselves set but the good players will find a sure-fire way to make it.

They win the club opening lead and knock out the ace of spades. Then they cash all the spades, hearts and clubs to come down to three diamonds each in the North and South hands.

Meanwhile, they will have seen East show out on the third lead of each black suit and West follow to all three heart leads. A count will show that West started with nine black cards and three hearts for a total of 12 cards that were diamonds. The play of the diamond suit from dummy will account for the one diamond in the West hand and a frozen against East will be a certainty.

LONDON (CP) — English actress Susan Hampshire, 34, best-known to North Americans for playing Fleur Forsyte in "The Forsyte Saga," was granted a divorce Thursday from her husband Pierre Grasier-Defferre, 45, a French film producer.

The blonde was given a decree nisi in an undefended hearing on the ground of the marriage's "irretrievable breakdown" after her husband's adultery with an unnamed woman.

It was her first marriage and her husband's third.

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of the Metropolitan Opera's most popular operas—but not Madame Butterfly—will be presented on the Met's first appearance in Japan next spring, it was announced Thursday.

The Met will transport 325 persons—including a company of 51, 6ft chorus of 73, ballet of 32, soloists and administrative personnel.

The operas will be Verdi's La Traviata, starring Joan Sutherland, tenor John Alexander and baritone Cornell MacNeil with Richard Bonynge, Miss Sutherland's husband, conducting; Bizet's Carmen, starring Marilyn Horne and James McCracken with Henry Lewis, Miss Horne's husband, conducting; and Puccini's La Boheme.

LAKE KATONAH, N.Y. (AP) — Miriam Young, 52, whose Mother Wore Tights was one of the first of Hollywood's supermusicals, died Wednesday of cancer.

Mrs. Young based her book on the life of her parents, who appeared for years in vaudeville as the team of Hart and Rosedale. The movie starring Betty Grable and Dan Dailey appeared in 1947.

A native of New York City, Miss Young wrote 40 books, many of them for children and teen-agers.

Mrs. Young's husband is the painter, Walker Young. She also leaves three grown children.

LONDON (Reuter) — British rock star Gary Glitter faces a major threat operation which may change dramatically the voice that has sold millions of records in the last few years.

The 30-year-old entertainer's manager, Mike Leander, said Wednesday: "We have been warned that the operation may change Gary's voice, or he might never sing again."

The operation, to take place later this month, will be to remove inflamed and infected tissue in the throat. The operation is considered dangerous for adults.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The movie studios where High Noon and All the King's Men were filmed has been seriously damaged by a fire that consumed about one-quarter of the Barbank Studios, authorities said Monday.

The eight-acre blaze sent columns of white smoke billowing into the air as more than 50 firemen battled the flames Sunday.

Some of the fire was not immediately known.

SKIEN, Norway (AP) — Twelve first editions of Henrik Ibsen's works were stolen Monday from the Ibsen House in the town of Skien, the Norwegian radio reported.

The thieves also made off with a rare English work, Harriet Martineau's History of England, published in 1778 and valued at 34,000 belonged to the Norwegian playwright and is mentioned in one of his plays.

Norwegian police said only 10 copies of the book are known to exist.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm fantastic happy," said Victor Fleischer on his first day in the United States.

Fleischer, 37, one of Moscow's leading concert pianists, arrived here Thursday prepared to carve a new life as a performer and teacher after emigrating from the Soviet Union.

Fleischer said he will join the Philadelphia Music Academy and is scheduled to make his U.S. debut as a performance Oct. 27.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Opera Company, scored a visual triumph Wednesday with sets of Giuseppe Verdi's poignant Parisian love tale, La Traviata.

Splashes of applause and gasps of wonder interrupted the music of the first act as a dazzling display of lavish dress materials, gossamer screens with Art Nouveau designs and revolving sections of the stage were combined into a stunning showpiece.

Canadian soprano Maria Pellegrini sang the leading role of Violetta, the consumptive courtesan whose final love affair with young Alfredo ends tragically as she agrees to the father's request to break off with her affair for the sake of family honor.

Violetta's sacrifice aggravates her condition and she succumbs, dying in the arms of her distraught lover, as his guilt-ridden father looks on.

Her lover was played by Italian tenor Ruggero Bondino.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Point count has made it particularly easy to bid certain notrump slams. If today's hand were played in a duplicate game, the clearcut way to get very pair would bid the slam in accordance with the bidding in the box. North odds his 17 bidding-point partner in the 33-35 shown by his partner's notrump to get a total of 33-35. He knows that a small slam is a good contract and bids it.

Those players would fail to make the slam. The ace of spades must be led and is over to him three diamond tricks declarer will have to locate the queen of that suit.

Some declarers will get themselves set but the good players will find a sure-fire way to make it.

They win the club opening lead and knock out the ace of spades. Then they cash all the spades, hearts and clubs to come down to three diamonds each in the North and South hands.

Meanwhile, they will have seen East show out on the third lead of each black suit and West follow to all three heart leads. A count will show that West started with nine black cards and three hearts for a total of 12 cards that were diamonds. The play of the diamond suit from dummy will account for the one diamond in the West hand and a frozen against East will be a certainty.

What do you do now?

A—Bid six of hearts. Your partner's four notrump is not Blackwood, and always means slam interest. Obviously he holds the king, and not the ace of diamonds, or seven ace of the questions.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has bid three diamonds over your three clubs. What do you do now?

Citizens' Bureau Rejects UCS

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

The Trenton City Citizens' Bureau, financially supported until July 31 by a local Initiatives Program grant, and since then by a grant from the Secretary of State's office and voluntary subscriptions, has declined a $3,180 grant from Belleville's United Community Services.

The vote to reject was announced that the Bureau would be one of the two new agencies to benefit from the upcoming United Way Campaign.

At a Thursday meeting of the provisional board of directors of the bureau, it was unanimously agreed to turn down the UCS offer.

The board is described by Citizens' Bureau spokesman Bert Gerling as "the people who support the Citizens' Bureau concept".

After the meeting a letter was mailed to UCS president Virginia O'Rourke, declining the offer, with thanks.

Charles Hart, Citizens' Bureau staff member, told The Intelligencer: "We decided we would be more effective if we went our own way. Therefore we withdrew our request for UCS support and will continue to look for permanent funding — and we have some prospects."

Mr. Hart emphasized there was no conflict between the Citizens' Bureau and UCS. "We just feel we can do a better job independently."

William Hackley, the third Citizens' Bureau staff member, said he felt the bureau could be put into a conflict of interest position if it accepted the grant. "Some of the largest donors to the United Way are businessmen, even labor unions, who could become our adversaries when we're representing individuals with problems."

When the Quinte District Labor Council requested the grant early this year, on behalf of the Citizens' Bureau it was then supporting, UCS requested the bureau outline its terms of reference, what additional funding it had lined up and the names of its board of directors.

All but the board members' names were supplied.

Until a board of directors is formed, the bureau staff and the "provisional" board have conducted its business.

UCS president Virginia O'Rourke, when she learned of the Citizens' Bureau decision, said: "It's their decision and we wish them well. We're interested in seeing to the needs of the people of this community and we'll have no difficulty finding some place else where the money can be used."

The Quinte District Labor Council, under whose sponsorship the Citizens' Bureau operated through the LIP grant, has threatened a labor boycott of the United Way campaign this year.

The council protests that some UCS beneficiaries get funds from taxpayers two ways: from city grants and from the United Way Campaign. This so-called "double-dipping" issue has not been settled and the boycott threat remains.

Owner Trying to Recover Purebred Pets Already Sold

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A Whitby woman claims the Ontario Humane Society is selling animals it seized from her that are unadoptable as family pets.

The animals were seized from Mrs. Camille Williams on May 29 by Ontario Humane Society inspectors who entered her house when she was absent. The animals were taken to the Whitby shelter of the society where they were examined by the society's veterinarian. They were kept at the Whitby shelter for about two weeks, where some died before being transferred to Belleville.

The dogs and cats were kept in The Quinte Animal Shelter on Avenington Rd. all summer. On Oct. 30, at the request of the shelter manager, Tom Hughes, we ran a feature story on the subject, which, it was told, had just become available for adoption. Because court action over the seizure was completed, The Intelligencer was told, the animals would be sold at a rate of $20 for the purebred males of several different breeds. This newspaper listed the breed and sex of the available animals.

It has since learned that at least three of the dogs and one neutered male chocolate point Siamese cat were sold to people in the Belleville area.

The shelter manager, Inspector Harry Brown of this region of the Humane Society and Tom Hughes, executive vice-president of the Humane Society, will not give the number or breed of those sold, saying their records are not immediately available.

The shelter manager on Friday afternoon that all adult animals have been removed this week to the society's Peterborough facility. However, Mr. Hughes said "not all of them" are in the Peterborough shelter. The Belleville shelter spokesman said the animals were moved because they would be "more likely to be adopted" in Peterborough.

Mr. Williams hopes to regain possession of them, following legal action. They are all, for reasons of uncertain temperament, or inability to be housebroken, unsuitable as house pets, she said.

"But with us they are acceptable," she said.

Animal Shelter Warden Stan Reid with Seized 'Perrier

Mrs. Williams is a former high school guidance teacher whose hobby was the breeding and handling of dogs. Most of her animals were accommodated in a house she rented for $210 a month. She took in, she said, animals that could not adjust to the families who owned them. "It was a non-profit operation. They were purely pets," she said. "They are not just dogs; all are personalities."

Although most of the animals were purebred, only three dogs were valuable, said Mrs. Williams. They were a Labrador bitch and her two pups, born last Christmas Eve. The Labrador stud was with Mrs. Williams when the others were seized and is still in her possession. He said she supported the other "odds and ends" on the proceeds of the sale of the pups.

A tangled web of legalities surrounds the seizure and subsequent events.

Since 1955, Mrs. Williams said, she has had animals seized eight times. She said she had fought, since moving to Ontario from Quebec, the power granted to the Humane Society. Each time her animals were seized she "had to buy them back from the shelter" at a cost of from $400 to $800.

After a seizure, the Humane Society must appear before the Animal Care Review Board to determine whether or not "the animals were in such distress the society was justified in seizing them".

At the Williams case, heard in June, the review board said its counsel, Edward Then of the attorney general's office in Toronto, came to the decision that it wasn't necessary to seize the animals but "the premises could be made unfit habitable".

Mr. Then said in addition to declaring the seizure unjustified, the board ordered the animals returned without charge to the owner, after the Humane Society had inspected the premises. He declared them habitable.

"On the evidence of the society the animals seemed to be in relatively good condition," said Mr. Then of the review board's hearing. "The premises were in bad condition, not the animals."

At least three seized dogs did not belong to Mrs. Williams. They had been left with her to board.

The review board ordered them returned to their owners, also without charge, Mr. Then said.

Mrs. Williams said she had received a bill of $689 for the animals' board in Humane Society shelters.

Following the hearing the Humane Society laid charges of wilful neglect of nine animals against Mrs. Williams. The charges have subsequently been reduced to three, all against dogs that died while in the care of the Whitby shelter. A total of 15 animals, most of them pups, have died since their seizure, said Mrs. Williams.

The trial in Whitby provincial court has been adjourned until Sept. 17.

Contacted Friday night in Whitby, where he was meeting with directors of the Whitby branch of the Humane Society, Tom Hughes said he could see the animals still. He implied that there was a limit on the time given Mrs. Williams to make her premises habitable.

"It would be improper for me to discuss it, (the seizure)" he said. "I don't want to talk about it, until after court action has ended."

Mrs. Williams has appealed for the return of her animals to the Humane Society, from the review board's refusal to grain possession of them.

She is especially concerned about the Siamese, MRI, Perrier, a male cat that Mrs. Williams, possession, is pining for him.

She is high in her praise of the Humane Society veterinarian who examined the animals on seizure — "I don't fault him at all" — and the Belleville veterinarian who cared for them after their arrival here — "he was marvelous".

"They have been cooped up in cages all summer," she said. "They have suffered because of a personal vendetta between Tom Hughes and myself."

Education Beat

Janitors Part Of School Team

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings county public schools got off to an advance educational start this fall. The learning experience was conducted by the custodians and the lesson they taught was emphatic — you can't run a school system without janitors and maintenance men.

Administrators made a valiant effort to keep things running and made plans that would have kept the schools open half days if the custodians' strike had not been settled in the nick of time.

But in the event that most schools, the largest anyway, would have ground to a halt had the strike continued for any length of time. With no maintenance men to repair breakdowns in equipment and services, school would have become inoperable.

At one large country school, for example, the water is supplied alternately by two wells. When one runs out the system has to be switched to the second, and no one but the custodian knew how to make the changeover.

It won't be surprising if principals and teachers develop a sudden interest in school mechanics and the operation of heating plants and plumbing and electrical services.

The strike also pointed up the fact that school custodians aren't just mop pushers and tinkerers. No board can hire just any laborer to go into its schools and live in daily contact with children in their formative years. Janitors in elementary schools are overshoe and snowsuit removers, tear dryers, general confidants and fixers of bruised egos and troubled psyches. They're an important part of the educational team and acknowledged as such by the senior members of the academic staff.

Their example must be as exemplary as that of teachers. It's as much a blow to a parent to be contradicted by a "My janitor says" as by the traditional "My teacher says ...".

In other words, school custodians, unlike those in other institutions, work with people as much as with property and equipment, and they need social skills and talents for the job.

I've forgotten many of my teachers, but I'll never forget the janitor of my high school recruitment 220 and every option available - provided you took the right courses.

We operated from a cubbyhole office behind the boilers in the basement, and he used to let us sneak a cigarette there between periods.

While we puffed, he dispensed information and advice — His cubbyhole, I suppose, was a sort of primitive guidance department long before the department of education formally authorized that service.

We had seen hundreds of students and teachers come and go, he knew all about their families and three generations back and he knew whom to keep quiet and when to intervene if student-staff conflict seemed imminent. He intervened in staff-principal conflicts too. In fact, he and the principal's secretary ran that school and they turned out some pretty good graduates, too.

There are still some of Wes's type around. We're glad they went out and we're glad they're back and I still hope they'll remain part of the teaching team for a long time to come.

Author Talks

PICTON — Mrs. Jeanne Minhinnick, author of At Home in Upper Canada, will be guest speaker at the Oct. 9 meeting of the Prince Edward Historical Society.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Mrs. Minhinnick, an authority on old furnishings has been instrumental in restoration of many historic houses including those at Upper Canada Village, Dundurn Castle and the Grand. She will show colored slides of some of her work.

Students Get Sailing Lesson

A private boys' school and a non-profit sailing organization are co-operating this month to introduce a unique educational concept to North America.

Going to school on board ship is common in Europe and Toronto Delgattie Incorporated and Lakefield College School hope to establish the idea here. During September, they have turned Pathfinder, a 60-foot brigantine based at Weapon Island, into a floating classroom for 19 Lakefield students.

"This is a pilot project," said Lakefield master Douglas James, who is commanding officer of the brigantine operation at Wasaga Beach.

Pathfinder's sister ship, Playfair, is sailed in Lake Michigan this month, with a crew of American university students. They are investigating the school ship concept at the university level.

The first week of the four-week cruise was spent in setting up the educational program and familiarizing the 19 students with the operation of the ship. The captain is Maurice Smith, is a permanent employee of the enterprise organization. Executive officer is Lakefield student Chris Jones, who has sailed on summer cruises with Pathfinder for five years.

Watch officers are all grade 13 students. The seamen are grade 9 and 10 students.

Mr. James was the master responsible for the educational aspect of the cruise during its first week. Specialist teachers in science, history and geography will take over for a week each for the next three weeks to direct special projects.

Last week, the students surveyed old Fort Milford with the assistance of surveyor Ron McKibbon. The results of their survey and a map of the old village will be presented to the Prince Edward county historical society. Next week, the students will undertake a science project, studying at Glenora Fisheries and setting up a weather project at Main Duck Island.

The third week the shakedown will be history. The students will visit the sites of naval activity during the War of 1812 at Kingston. Sackett's Harbor and Oswego. The final week, they will investigate the geography of Niagara peninsula at Niagara - on - the Lake, Hamilton and the Welland Canal.

The boys will live aboard ship for the entire cruise, first getting short shore leaves on the weekends after their homework has been checked.

If the pilot project proves successful, the school now has plans to involve other boys next year.

Pathfinder and Playfair are owned by Toronto Brigantine Inc., a non-profit corporation supported in large part by charitable donations. It offers a summer recreational sailing program to boys between the ages of 14 and 17.

Lakefield is noted for its waterfront program.

Hitting the Books

Lakefield College students sailing on this month's educational cruise on the brigantine, Pathfinder, have a heavy study schedule to work in after stints on watch. Finishing their homework before weekend leave while the ship is tied up in Belleville Harbor are Robert Glassford, Rich Hutcheon, Andrew Nation, master Douglas James, John Lymant and James Stikeman.

Cards Down Phillies In Second Marathon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis Cardinals Dave Rosello worked three in their drive toward the National League East crown and hit a two-run single.

The Cardinals eat Pittsburgh Pirates' East Division lead to one-half game Friday night with a 7-4 victory over Philadelphia Phillies that took 17 innings and at least 30 strategic cigarettes to complete.

It was the second marathon game for the Cardinals in three days. On Wednesday night, they went 25 innings with the New York Mets before pulling out a 4-3 decision.

The game Friday night ended at 1 o'clock in the morning and included a one-hour, 41-minute rain delay in the top of the 17th inning—when the Cardinals rallied for five runs.

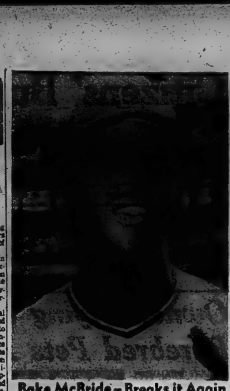
"We haven't been getting to bed very early, but we are winning," said Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst.

We went 25 innings Wednesday, played a 10-hour game Thursday and now this.

"You relief pitching has been sensational. That rut the Phillies scored in the last inning was the first run our relievers have allowed in that stretch of nine games."

Hank McBride's RBI hit in the 17th broke a 3-3 tie that existed from the third inning, then the Cardinals clinched the game with four more runs off relievers Eddie Watt and Tom Underwood.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat ground by stopping a 5-2 decision to Montreal Expos while Cincinnati Reds beat New York and right by beating the leading Los Angeles Dodgers 9-3. Houston Astros beat San Francisco Giants 8-5, Atlanta Braves 4-0 and San Diego Padres 8-5 and New York Mets split a double-header with Chicago Cubs, winning 6-5 before Chicago won 4-3.



The marathon pitched Phillies relief for most players.

Dave Cash opened a rush in the fourth inning after some having been running and drove in three runs before the end of the eighth, carrying Cincinnati Reds into a tie.

The second-place Reds cut the Dodgers' lead to 3½ and National League West race to 9½ games with their victory.

Jack Billingham, 10-9, pitched the Reds to their fifth straight victory with relief help from Clay Carroll. The loss ended Los Angeles' five-game winning streak.

Terry Forster slugged his 29th home run in the Cincinnati second but Don Gay hit his 17th homer in the bottom of the inning and to tie the game for Los Angeles.

Weiskopf And Miller Fined

PRESHURST, N.C. (AP) — Two of pro golf's outstanding players, Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller, have been assessed $1,000 fines for failure "to play in a professional manner," it was learned Friday.

The fines rank among the heaviest in the history of the sport.

The action stemmed from the two players' practice with withdrawal from recent major tournaments. Weiskopf in the PGA national championship and Miller in the new TPD championship.

"Both haves the right to appeal," Beman said. "Our player has indicated he is guilty and will not appeal. I do not know about the other one."

Weiskopf, who won seven tournaments in four countries in 1973, walked off the course on the 16th hole of the second round in the PGA.

He was far over par and had no hope of making the cut for the final two rounds. Weiskopf had five-putted on the 16th, taking a couple of bad-hearted, head-shaking swipes at the ball.

He has told other touring professionals he will not appeal.

Miller, winner of six tournaments this year, withdrew after playing the 10th hole of the second round in the TPD event in Atlanta.

His playing partners in that round have written letters to the commissioner inviting to have also hit a couple of backhand putts.

Both were fined under a TPD regulation that reads, in part:

"In making a decision to participate in a TPD co-sponsored or approved event, player thereby obligates himself to attempt in good faith to maximum golf skill and play in a professional manner."

Texas Makes it Tight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ferguson Jenkins of Texas Rangers tightened the American League West pennant race Friday night by defeating the reeling Oakland A's for the 23th time in as many decisions this season.

Perhaps to within five games of division-leading Oakland, Texas triumphed 11 behind a seven-hitter by Jenkins, 23-11, who fanned 11 batters. A's loser Jim (Catfish) Hunter is also 23-11 now.

Texas, trailing 1-0, scored its first two runs in the third inning on Lenny Randle's triple, the fifth hitting, another Ranger run scored on a sacrifice fly by Jeff Burroughs—his 114th RBI.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit Tigers downed New York Yankees 6-3, Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Brewers 6-4 in 10 innings, Minnesota Twins edged Kansas City Royals 5-4 in 11 innings, Chicago White Sox beat California Angels 9-8 and 9-1 in 11 innings to sweep a doubleheader and Baltimore Orioles beat Cleveland Indians 2-1 in the opener of their doubleheader. The second game was rained out for a carrier with the Orioles leading 1-0 after eight innings.

Despite the Texas victory, Rangers manager Billy Martin said he didn't think Oakland was losing any pressure yet.

"I don't think it's been really evenes it until it gets down to two games," said Martin.

Oakland has been through it all before. But our guys have never choked. We're a veteran pitcher."

Jenkins fell behind 1-0 in the third inning on Reggie Jackson's sacrifice fly but won in the fourth inning when Randle tripled and scored on Jeff Burroughs' single.

Team Canada Win? Many Say No Chance

All those Canadians who predicted a white-wash of the Reds in 1972 have changed their tune as drastically it can hardly be heard.

According to the armchair experts, Team Canada will have their work cut out just salvaging a tie — let alone a win.

In a random, street corner interview, people were asked just how Team Canada, 1974 would fair.

Bruce Lancaster, 20, suggested that our boys might as well stay at home and watch the series themselves.

"They might be able to squeak out a couple of wins," said Lancaster, "but they're going to have to work for them."

The next person asked simply mumbled "Russia — eight straight."

I was beginning to wonder where our patriotism had gone.

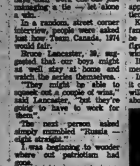
And then along came these two bright-eyed seventh graders to ALMOST restore my faith.

Teresa Croft and Debbie Pederson both 14-year-olds. They were both most explicit in their predictions. Canada will win at least six games."

Then they explained that they didn't really know too much about the series, or hockey, but they were hoping for Team Canada.

Then came the next anonymous comment. "They'll be lucky if they score a goal on that Tretiak."

After a few other moans and groans and uns and ahs — ANONYMOUS OF COURSE — and those guys just don't have it."



Those comments really disappointed me, but what really hurt was when he looked over his shoulder on his way down the street and said, "Better make that eight straight for the Russians, seeing our town's all from the WHA."

With heart in hand I sadly contemplated the final question.

Ken Howard, 41, wasn't too familiar with the team, but he was a hockey fan and he figured Team Canada would win "six of the eight games".

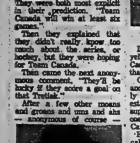
It wasn't much but his comment at least eased the pain.

In case you haven't figured it out, I think Team Canada will probably win the series about 5-3.

KEN HOWARD

I personally don't intend to miss a game. That's unless Team Canada gets creamed and that won't happen.

Even Coach Bobby Hull and Frank Mahovlich certainly aren't nobody's. They're established hockey players, superstars, and they're the ones that are leading Team Canada.



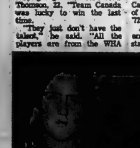
Everyone feels that the calibre of hockey isn't as high in the WHA. Well, most of the players on the Team are ex-NHL players and the ones that aren't are guys who were prospects at NHL teams and would have made their club sooner or later anyway.

This Team Canada knows what to expect from the Russians, and, has to be an advantage.

Something else in their favor — they've been playing exhibition games with Dan Team Canada '72 did. They know each others moves and they won't be floundering for positions or passes.

I think this year's Team Canada has a better chance of beating the Russians than '72s had.

Anyway, break out the beer and pretzels 'cause it all starts Tuesday.



JOHN THOMSON

came a comment from a truly Canadian hockey fan.

"Russia will take seven of the eight games," said John Thomson, 22. "Team Canada was lucky to win the last time."

"They just don't have the talent," he said. "All the players are from the WHA

FIGHT NIGHT OUT

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto fight fans can see the world heavyweight championship fight between titleholder Joe Foreman and challenger Muhammad Ali televised live on CTV (9:45 p.m. EDT Sept. 30) with all the accessories of a night on the town. A downtown hotel is offering the complete program—reception, dinner and closed-circuit viewing—at a cost of $50 a person.

Sliding to a Championship

Quinte Hotel Leaders, Bob Wilson, slides into third base while Bob Henderson, Black Diamonds third baseman, swivels a throw from his catcher. The Leaders won the game at the Alemite 8-4 and thereby won the Industrial League Championship in the best of seven series 4-2. They will be presented with the trophy at the Awards Banquet Sept. 28.

Second Round of Tennis Tournament Goes Sunday

The first round of the Annual Doug Grant Tennis Tournament got under way on the weekend and proved to be somewhat disasterous for the Belleville Tennis Club.

The tournament is held between the top seeded members of Kingston and Belleville Clubs and after the first 19 matches, Sunday in Belleville, the Kingston members had a 15-4 lead.

"The same thing happened last year," said tourney convener, Mike Coughlin, "they took a good lead on us down here, but we went back to Kingston for the second round and won the whole thing."

The Belleville members will get their chance at a second comeback championship in a row this Sunday. That's when they travel to Kingston for the second round of play.

"We do have an advantage," added Coughlin, "up there we'll be playing three more matches than we did here and that will give us more of a margin to catch up."

In Kingston there will be 22 matches comprised of 10 men's singles, four ladies' singles, six men's doubles and two ladies' doubles. Each match is the best of three sets.

"We'd like to enlarge the tournament to include more areas," said the convener, "it all helps to promote tennis."

The second round begins at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Napier St. Courts.

KEY — Belleville player listed first, Kingston player listed second, X or X denotes which city the winner in green, match served by set.

20 TIPS TO BETTER GOLF
by George Knudson
Copyright 1974, Toronto Sun Syndicate

TIP NO. 20 PLAY TO WIN

Taking lessons from a golf pro is an absolute must for every golfer, beginner or veteran.

If you are just starting to play golf, you should take a couple of lessons to go over the basics and make sure you are performing them properly. Close attention to basics will make your practicing more meaningful and your free golf games more rewarding.

The veteran golfer should not overlook the advantages to be gained from some mid-season lessons. When something starts to go wrong, we all tend to try to compensate for it. Little compensations may even be made sub-consciously, and are only indications that we are getting away from the basics of the game. That hook, that slice and those lopped drives, are simply the result of bad habits developing in the grip, stance or swing.

The quickest and most effective way to correct this situation is to go back to your golf pro for a few lessons.

Then practice. I don't think any golfer can practice too much. When I first started playing professionally, I spent an hour on the practice tee for every hour I spent on the course. Remember, you only get as much out of the game as you put into it.

POSITIVE KEY — Get back to basics.

KEHOE TRADED

TORONTO (CP) — Rick Kehoe, who told Toronto Maple Leafs at the end of the 1973-74 season he wanted to be traded, got his wish Friday. The 23-year-old left winger was traded to Pittsburgh Penguins in exchange for right winger Blair Stoughton and future considerations. Earlier Friday, it was revealed that Kehoe had agreed to a new three-year contract with the Leafs worth $400,000 on the condition he be traded.

QER Closes

Jimmy Bing Wins Memorial Doug Brown Top QER Driver

By MARK BRETT
Staff Reporter

Harness racing has drawn to a close for another season at Quinte Exhibition Raceway. Last night's 16-race card also marked the end of the Quinte Exhibition for another year.

The feature race on last night's program was the ninth race for the Bud Zekedee and R. Yankee Wann Memorial trophy and blanket.

All the horses got off to a good start going four abreast into the first turn. Darting down the backstretch, it was the eventual winner, Jimmy Bing, owned by Lloyd McMurray of Colborne and driven by G. Fehr, taking the lead.

With only several lengths separating the first and seventh horses the number 7 horse Minstrop started to move. Minstrop, owned by Albert Defoare of Trenton and guided by Ed Weeks made his move to the outside and by the time the third corner had come up Jimmy Bing was running second behind Minstrop.

At the half-way mark the time for the first lap was 1:04 with Minstrop, Dale Cameron and Jimmy Bing running first, second and third respectively.

Minstrop remained in the lead right up until the three-quarter mark when Jimmy Bing made his move along with the number 6 horse, Dancing Blaise, owned by Grand Farrow and driven by Doug Brown. Brown guided the horse to a second place finish and wound up the top driver of the year. Doug is also one of the youngest drivers on the circuit.

The Bud Zekedee and R. Yankee Wann Memorial is a vocational race as an annual event held in memory of the late Bud Zekedee, son of QER secretary Mrs. Evelyn Zekedee.

R. Yankee Wann was one of the better known horses to come out of the area. R. Yankee Wann had total earnings of more than $1-million in his lifetime and was the fastest aged pacer in North America.

The horse was owned at the time by two local residents Cam Wannamaker and Rejean Roby of Cannington — where the horse is buried.

Wes Slater at the close of the card last night was presented with a memento as the horse raced its last race here in the city. Wes Slater is owned and driven by Shirley Anderson of Belleville and will continue to race at other tracks around the area until the season is officially over at all race tracks.

Wes Slater has, to this point, won over $9,722 after a fourth place finish in the tenth race last night. The horse is retiring at age seven.

Next Friday night will be the presentation dinner for all the drivers and owners and other persons connected with the organization.

Fine Isn't Bothering Miller's Game

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Johnny Miller, facing the possibility of $1,800 fine for failure to play in a professional pro-am "two weeks ago, has the look of the richest golf tournament of the year.

The slender blond, the second son of the pro tour this year, birdied five of the first six holes he played Friday on the way to an eight-under-par 63—just one shot off the record on the famous No. 2 course at Pinehurst Country Club.

"I didn't expect too much when I started," Miller said.

"I was just trying to make the cut. But I can't anticipate my low rounds. When I get it going, I like to keep it going. That's when I attack."

"I try to get all I can."

Miller, already the winner of eight tournaments and more than $250,000 this season, had a 121 total after two rounds of the $300,000 world open. That was six under par and out in front of veteran Frank Beard, who has been in a deep, two-year slump. Beard had a 70 for 127.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and Australian David Graham were another stroke behind at 128. Irwin had another 69 and Graham fashioned his best three holes for a 68.

Jack Nicklaus survived an erratic putter and a poor start for a 71 and 138. Nicklaus overpaired three holes and made double bogey on his first hole, but still was well placed just three shots out of the lead.

He was tied at 139 with Bob Murphy, Gene Littler, Mike Lee Elder and Nate Starks. Hit had a 67, Littler 70, Elder 69 and Starks 71 and Murphy, the first round leader, blew to a 74.

Ian Stood failed to make the cut for the final two rounds. Nelson had 72-158, Stood 73-161 and Player, the British Open and Masters champion, added 76-161. Also missing the cut were Tom Weiskopf 72-158, Stood 73-161 and Player, the British Open and Masters champion, added 76-161. Also missing the cut were four Canadians—George Knudson of Toronto, a 74-146, Phil Giroux of Montreal with a 78-151, WW Greenwich of Wheatley with a 77-153 and Don Kerr of London, Ont., 77-153.

Miller's round was another in his series of extremely low scores and came just a short week after he and fiancee Holly Ann Copeland won the Canadian Open championship Tournament had been announced $1,800 fine by Tournament Players Division (TPD) Commissioner Deane Beman.

The fines are among the toughest in the history of the sport. They were imposed upon those who, last week, were first notified of public Friday in an Associated Press report. Beman confirmed the report.

The disciplinary action came after both Miller and Weiskopf made precipitous withdrawals from the tournament. Weiskopf pulled out after 16 holes of the second round of the PGA National championship and Miller withdrew after 18 holes of the second round of the new TPD national championship.

They were fined under a TPD regulation that reads, in part:

"In making a commitment to participate in a TPD co-sponsored or approved event, a player thereby obligates himself to attempt to exercise his maximum golf skill and play in a professional manner."

Weskopf withdrew after five-putting a green, missing a couple of half-inched backhand swipes at the ball. He has indicated he will pay his fine.

Miller wasn't so sure.

"I really don't think the fine is justified," he said. He said he would submit a written explanation of his withdrawal to the commissioner.

Russia Will Win Says Commentator

OTTAWA (CP) — Russian hockey commentator Vladimir Kirilyuk says confidently he predicted to the 1972 defeat of his country's team by Team Canada and adds that the Soviet players won't make the same mistake this year.

Writing in the September edition of Sports Today, the publication of the Soviet Union Embassy in Ottawa, Kirilyuk said:

"Although the USSR squad has been together with well-observed praise, it proved to be at the time exposed to wage the struggle to the very end against Team Canada, who despite all expectations played every game better than the preceding.

"Confidence to some extent turned into conceit which, as we all know, an experienced opponent does not forgive."

Canada won the 1972 series four games to three, with one tied. They won the last two games on home ice.

Kirilyuk said most Russian hockey experts believed the Canadians would win the first few games and the Russians would bounce back to take the series.

Instead, he said, the Russians were almost always a series win, "allowed obvious mistakes in the last Moscow game."

He picked the Soviets to win the series against the World Hockey Association team because the Russians "will be able to show high-class skills play both at the start of the series on the Canadian rinks and at the end of the series back home."

The Russian writer also said many of the Russian hockey stars, such as Anatoli Firsov, Boris Mayorov, Viktor Kuzkin and Alexander Ragulin, were nearing the end of their careers and could not be replaced at the critical time.

"Now the Soviet team . . . looks more balanced," he said.

He picked goalie Alexander Sidelnikov, defenceman Viktor Kuzkin and forwards Vladimir Repoyev and Sergei Kapustin among the newcomers to watch.

Weather Clears For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (Reuter) — Weather forecasts called for visibility up to five miles today for the scheduled third race in the long-delayed America's Cup yachting series.

Australian challenger Southern Cross, beaten in the first two races by America's defender Courageous, could be helped today by the p... brisk winds of between 15 and 20 knots in her attempt at a first win in the best-of-seven series on Rhode Island Sound.

Southern Cross rated a good craft in strong winds, has been hampered by light winds in the first two races although good tactics, admitted by her crew, also have been a factor.

The third race on the ... mile triangular course had been set for Friday but fog forced a postponement to today. The second race had also been delayed one day by fog.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, Sept. 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very efficient at present in dealing with situations that require an acumen for detail, especially if they're family related matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're going to have an opportunity to build a broader, more advantageous relationship with someone you've only known socially.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A condition that affects your home and/or property is going to be considered in a manner that will make you feel more secure.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The real values of what you've gained from a sticky past experience will become more evident soon when you'll avoid the same mistake.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be too surprised if one who is indebted to you makes a sincere effort to wipe the slate clean over the next month.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) What is happening at present constitutes a new beginning of an important course of action. Use this time wisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The end is in sight for something you've been anxious to attain. Be patient, it will won't be handed to you on a silver platter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good period to tackle new projects, especially if they require some type of knowledge you've gained in the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A situation with another person who is from a different culture is involved is about to produce considerable improvement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone will be coming to you for advice. It may well turn out that you'll both share an interest of mutual benefit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be on the lookout for a business opportunity that has good abilities. It will require hard work but it's something you can handle.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Any new alliance you form at this time is likely to be quite unconventional, particularly if you associate yourself with one who is older.

Monday, Sept. 16

Aries (March 21-April 19) It won't take much to disturb the balance in an association that is of importance to you. Act and speak wisely.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Try to be more patient with your children if they are dangerous for persons who are performing work or service for you. A kind word will go a long way.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Two people you will be involved with socially have to be treated with kid gloves. Make them feel important if you can.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) It's going to be up to you to glaze over a sticky domestic situation so that the irritated factions won't clove each other.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) In ideas you want to get across at present keep your motives hidden or those you're trying to win over will think you're too crooked.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 2) Be alert for something of an unusual nature that will develop. It has material benefits for you.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) No matter how forceful or aggressive you feel about pushing a personal self-interest, for now it pulls don't lose your cool or charm.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The type of people who will be most helpful to you now are those with a compassionate nature. Don't waste time appealing to hard hearts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 1) Some friends are going to be too demanding of you shortly. Gently put them in their place or only you can.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Set definite goals. Put forth your best efforts to make them a reality. Victories now add extra lustre to your stature.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll have a great peace of mind if you assume a more philosophical outlook. Try not to be so uptight when others disagree with you.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) A joint interest looks like it will work out fine even though it has a few kinking points at present.

BIRTHS

WILLIAMSON — My 3rd, Mrs. Dorothy (Hamilton) and Mr. Donald Gerrard, a daughter, Jennifer Lynn, Mrs. Williamson is the daughter of Mrs. Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton of Belleville.

IN MEMORIAM

EMPEY — In loving memory of my dear husband Allen Empey, who died suddenly on Sept. 13, 1962.
Treasured memories of one so dear,
Memories we cherish, memories we share,
Memories return to memory keep
Memories that never die.
Lovingly remembered by son Gary.

EELLS — In loving memory of my dear husband Stanley Eells, who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
It is sad to think, it is sad to say,
That you have left us for ever today,
Left us all there duties to perform,
Left us to battle with life's storm.
You gave us your all, we gave you our best,
Then came sorrow and task,
But you left us heartbroken.
We will treasure through the years,
Thoughts shared, and memories dear,
Until loved, still missed and very dear.
Lovingly remembered by wife Margaret.

MITCHELL — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Ernest Mitchell who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
There is no note in our hearts,
There is no song we can sing,
There is no words we can say
But
Miss you one, miss you all,
Always remembered by Shirley and Sons.

EELLS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Stanley Eells who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
God knew he was suffering,
What the trials were hard to climb,
So He took him home to comfort him,
And wrapped Jesus' arms around him.
Away in the beautiful hills of God.
By the valley of living tears,
Where God, we know not when,
Will call us to meet you there.
Sadly missed by wife Margaret, grandson Ian George and daughter-in-law Jean and Gordon Clarke and Gregory.

EELLS — In loving memory of our dear father, Stanley Eells who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
Dad, you are always together,
Always the same to hold dear;
The love and kindness you gave,
The smile that cheered,
It breaks our hearts to know you're gone,
But in our hearts you live on.
Your part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.
Sadly missed, remembered by grandson Ian and granddaughter Cathy.

IN MEMORIAM

BELCH — In fond and loving memory of a dear brother Gerald, who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
The years may pass, the years may go,
But memories of you we'll always know,
A smile, a laugh, a cheerful face,
A kind heart he was loved by all.
He was taken suddenly by doctor Bible, brother, Clifford and nephew.

BELCH, DENNIS, Gerald Dennis. The sudden entry September 14th, 1971, has suffered in which we cannot. Your spirit did not break.
Your body did not lack courage.
Truth was your strength.
And we your getting weary.
Have you reached the end?
His garden, must be abandoned.
His tools, must be neglected.
His service rendered by Family.

BELCH — In memory of a dear father and grandfather Gerald Belch who passed away Sept. 14, 1971.
We are not within our memory,
Sad memories we cherish,
Dear one the one we loved so much,
We forever think and speak,
Of the one we loved so much,
Sadly missed by Jean and Gordon Clarke and Gregory.
But many short years have sped,
Since you left us,
Lovingly remembered by daughter Jean, son-in-law Gordon and grandson Gregory.

KNIGHT — In memory of my very dear friend, Margaret Knight who passed away suddenly on Sept. 14, 1973.
Sudden was the call to meet her,
Sudden was the shock to bear,
Sudden was the grief that pierced,
Our hearts of an accident, in her 20th year.
Dear as was your think of you,
As always you were to us and to do,
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Sandra, Jean, Fred, Bobby and Grandmother Knight.
Lovingly remembered by friends and neighbours in Ontario.

FERGUSON — In memory dearest of a dear wife Dorothy Gordon Fergus who passed away suddenly September 14, 1963.
Ten years have now gone by,
Since you left us,
But your memory is always with us,
And sweet will be our memory,
Of you dear Mother.
Sadly missed by husband Jack, daughters Donna, Mary, thanks to Wayne and Pierre Fergus, Grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Ida Mae Hall wish to express their sincere thanks for the many cards, floral tributes, friends and neighbours for their kindness and sympathy in the passing of our mother. Also many thanks to Rev. Ross Hamilton, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, Mrs. Mary Ann Hall

New Clot In Nixon's Left Leg

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former president Nixon has a new blood clot in his left leg, but hospital has been ruled out as Nixon's response, his doctor said Friday.

"There is a new venous clot in the former president's upper left leg," Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, Nixon's former personal physician, said in a statement.

Nixon is suffering from "severe stress and physical fatigue, but he is normally quiet and has been working a bit either at or home each day".

"His leg is swollen and painful. He does have an excellent appetite, which is still present, causes the former president problems."

Acupuncture Study Started

TORONTO (CP) — The first two patients to take part in a controlled study of the ancient Chinese practice of acupuncture began treatments Friday at St. Michael's Hospital.

Mirsolaus Kowski, 44, and Stan Jurcsin, 41, are the first of 160 persons to undergo treatment in the study.

The patients, the first of its kind in a Toronto hospital, is financed by a $26,000 voluntary-aid health grant.

New Columnist

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Hellyer, a former Liberal cabinet minister who became a Progressive Conservative, has resigned his membership in the Parliamentary Press Gallery to be a columnist for the Toronto Sun.

Mr. Hellyer, defeated in the July 8 election in the Toronto constituency, served as defence minister from 1963 to 1967 and as transport minister in 1967-68.

He resigned from the Liberal caucus in 1971 after various disagreements with Prime Minister Trudeau over economic policies.

Attack Whelan

Rip-off

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Safety League says bumper bumper now mandatory on all North American cars was the motorist's every day as a rip-off.

Ian Herbison of Toronto, vice-president of the Ontario Independent Damage Appraisers Association, said the bumper's "have proven to be nothing short of a giant rip-off of the North American motorist."

Value Falls

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Canadian International Development Agency says that while the value of foreign-aid budget increased by nearly $120 million this year, the value of support to developing countries has declined.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie attributed the drop in value to several factors, including inflation and rising commodity prices.

Board Balks

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Thomas Wells said Friday he is sending a lawyer to North Bay to investigate the board's refusal to appoint an Indian trustee.

Provincial legislation requires that a board with more than 100 Indian students in its school system appoint an Indian as trustee.

Yet, despite a directive from Mr. Wells last June telling the board it must make the appointment, and a court showing 110 Indian students, the board voted 7 to 5 against the appointment Thursday.

Fraud Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Two former employees of The Globe and Mail Ltd. pleaded guilty Friday to charges of defrauding the newspaper of $50,000 between Jan. 1, 1970 and May 31, 1972.

Louis Mesaia, 45, of Toronto received a suspended sentence and one year's probation. Crown counsel Paul Chiarelli described Mesaia as "a spoke in the wheel" in the scheme.

Harvie McElwain of Mississauga, Ont., accountant for The Globe and Mail's mailing room for the years, was remanded to Oct. 18 for sentencing.

Mr. Harold Jones testified that McElwain supervised 38 full-and part-time employees and put persons on the payroll who were not employees. He said that of those names received cheques totaling $19,000 had never worked at the newspaper.

NATO Takes Gloomy View of Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — The Atlantic Treaty Association took a gloomy view of the world's political and economic problems Friday and issued an appeal for unity among North Atlantic treaty organization countries.

The association concluded a three-day conference here with a 20-point resolution painting a grim picture of growing economic difficulties and recessing international economic problems.

The 14-member group, composed of non-governmental agencies from the NATO countries, said NATO must be united before it is to meet such threats.

The resolution said unity among NATO allies, including Canada and Turkey, and a continued strong military posture in Europe are essential if there is to be a lessening of world tensions.

A big North American military force in Europe is "indispensable" as a counter-balance to increasing Soviet-backed power there, the association said.

The group also called for an early resumption of Cyprus peace talks. "In the name of humanity," A Cyprus settlement must lead to restoration of normal diplomatic relations between Greece and Turkey and an end to the suffering of refugees, hostages and prisoners.

The resolution said Soviet military power, both on land in Europe and at sea, is growing rapidly despite talk of detente. At the same time, there is pressure within some NATO countries for cutbacks.

The action of Arab and other oil-producing states in forcing up petroleum prices has presented severe economic problems within NATO countries, the group said. It called for unified action to deal with the oil problem.

Samson Is Fired

MONTREAL (GP) — Robert Samson, sentenced last week to 60 days in prison for contempt [illegible] has been dismissed from the force, an RCMP spokesman said Friday.

Superintendent J. L. Gaudin said Samson's dismissal from conduct unbecoming a police officer took effect Thursday. Samson was given notice of his pending dismissal last Sunday, he said, but failed to file an appeal within the mandatory four-day period.

The lawyer Frank Shoofey said he was unaware of the dismissal.

"I spoke to Samson myself last a half hour ago," Mr. Shoofey said, "and he told me he was still suspended but not dismissed."

"It could be that he was dismissed but he would have been advised. He hasn't received any notice of dismissal."

Mr. Shoofey said he will try to obtain a writ of evocation or habeas corpus next week to free Samson from prison.

Rocky Sued

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Vice-president-designate Nelson Rockefeller and a group of New York state officials were charged in civil court Friday with abuse of power arising from the bloody 1970 uprising at Attica state prison.

Turner Gives Warning

Trade Retaliation Would Mean Anarchy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Retaliation among world trading nations because of restrictive trade policies would provoke economic anarchy," Finance Minister John Turner said Friday.

He made the comment at a news conference after telling the Vancouver Men's Canadian Club that fiscal restraining act is taken.

Many of individual nations would have a snowballing effect on a world economy that is already sluggish.

The minister said individual governments are no longer in the vacuum and what they do collectively is caused the world "would have a contagious effect" on the world economy at a whole.

Alberta Takes Share In Transit Planning

TORONTO (CP) — Alberta will take a share of Ontario's Urban Transportation Development Corp., a was announced Friday.

The joint statement from Alberta's Premier Peter Lougheed and Ontario's William Davis came at the conclusion of the premiers' conference Friday.

Mr. Lougheed refused to discuss the size of the Alberta investment in the program, which involves financing experiments in magnetic levitation and other forms of intermediate transportation.

"It is something we are looking at in terms of a sound investment," Premier Lougheed said.

Ontario has committed about $35 million for use in research and development of technology.

Mr. Lougheed said Alberta is satisfied with the basic concept of the organization.

The program includes the controversial Toronto-Montreal transportation corridor experiments being conducted in Germany and Japan.

Non-opposition critics in the legislature have questioned whether the system can work and have criticized the government's cosmic-collision-course commitment to the project.

Mr. Davis reiterated Friday that the system is expected to be operational by 1978.

An experimental track is being laid to test the system at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, in Toronto.

Premier Davis was clearly elated by the figures declared to participate in the program.

"The government of Ontario's original announcement of the corporation and its activities suggested that it should be a corporation serving the national interests . . . and Alberta's participation is a significant step toward that goal," Mr. Davis said.

He said Ontario has had discussions with and other provinces on the possibility of their participation in the corporation.

Patty Hearst Rumored In Peace River Area

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — Telephone lines to the RCMP office in this northwestern Alberta city were flooded with calls from across North America Friday night after a hoaxing a story that Patricia Hearst was seen in the area.

"We've been getting calls from Montreal, Los Angeles . . . all four lines have been busy for more than 15 minutes now, but members (of the force) who are in the area now do not know anything about the report," an RCMP spokesman said.

Constable Ken Foster said he, too, had heard the rumor about Los Angeles publisher Randolph Hearst's daughter who was kidnapped earlier this year and has since become involved with the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I said it's a lot of you-know-what," the corporal said, "I don't know where they (people who call) get their information. . . . I'm sure that if there was any truth to the rumor we would know about it."

Car Drivers Cause Cycle Accidents

TORONTO (CP) — About 90 per cent of all accidents involving motorcycles are the fault of automobile drivers, the American Association of Automotive Medicine was told Friday.

Stuart Munro of the federal ministry of transport told more than 200 scientists, doctors and engineers attending the association's annual meeting here that the driver does not see the motorcycle or is unable to judge its speed.

Mr. Munro said he has helped organize motorcycle training courses in every city across Canada, also criticized parents for letting their children operate a motorcycle without safety training and said every legislature was like throwing them into a lake without swimming lessons.

Ontario Vetoes Egg Price Boost

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that the Ontario government has overruled an Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board (OEPMB) price controls decision to increase the price of Grade A large eggs by three cents a dozen.

The newspaper says agriculture ministry officials told the board that now is a bad time to increase the price. Consumers were angry at egg marketing boards because the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency and its affiliates held up the price of eggs.

The OEPMB's price committee will review the prices at its regular meeting Thursday, The Globe and Mail says.

Farmers Fear Egg Foul-up May Harm Marketing Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Farm leaders are worried that the rotation of egg depots will undercut efforts to set up a controlled marketing system for a wide range of farm commodities.

Critics of farmer-run marketing boards have seized on the destruction of 28 million eggs left to rot in improperly stored depots by the Trudeau government.

Jean-Pierre Coallier, Liberal agriculture critic, said the Trudeau government has "destroyed" each other's farmers' right to establish national marketing boards to control supply and price.

"There's absolutely no reason for panic buying and hoarding by consumers," Mrs. Plumptre said in a news release Friday.

She said the board conducted inquiries into the availability of sugar following "a rash of scare" stories carried in the media recently about the possibility of shortages and widely unrealistic prices."

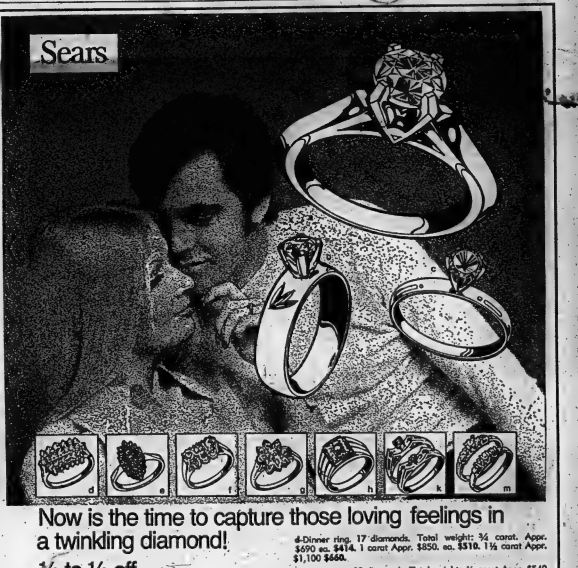
The Liberal majority in the Commons.

Now, however, the blanket endorsement of marketing boards has been shaken back somewhat. Consumer Affairs Minister Andrew Quart has promised Mr. Whelan for criticizing the food prices review board for which that all was not right in CEMA.

He has also endorsed the review board and consumers association position that collusion is the principal problem in marketing agencies.

Despite the counter thrust by consumer advocates, the marketing board system appears to be entrenched.

There are also at provincial and federal levels 21 products and two country-wide agencies — one for eggs and another for turkeys. A third national agency to control chicken production is being set up.



Plumptre Denies Sugar Supply Short

OTTAWA (CP) — Beryl Plumptre, chairman of the food prices review board, has denied reports of a sugar shortage in Canada.

"There is absolutely no reason for panic buying and hoarding by consumers," Mrs. Plumptre said in a news release Friday.

She said the board conducted inquiries into the availability of sugar following "a rash of scare" stories carried in the media recently about the possibility of shortages and widely unrealistic prices."

Board Chairman Makes Prediction

Egg Prices to Rise Despite Ontario Ban

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario consumers can expect a three-cents-a-dozen increase in the price of Grade A large eggs regardless of what the provincial government says, James Johnstone, chairman of the Ontario Egg Marketing Board, said Sunday.

On Friday, the government overruled a board decision to raise the price of Grade A large eggs by three cents a dozen, saying it was not a good time, from a public-relations point of view, for an increase.

However, some Toronto egg wholesalers raised their prices on Grade A extra large eggs by three cents a dozen on the weekend.

Mr. Johnstone said a similar increase in the price of Grade A large eggs is "just around the corner."

The marketing board has no jurisdiction over the wholesale trade, but Mr. Johnstone said producers "won't sit around for long and watch wholesalers get a larger share of the profit margin than they normally would get."

"Regardless of what the government says, the market is the final indicator of prices. . . . Public opinion has no impact on the marketplace.

"And supply and demand for the product merits an increase in egg producers."

William Balaban, a Toronto egg wholesaler, said in an interview he increased his price of Grade A extra large to retailers by three cents a dozen between Thursday and Saturday.

He said his regular producers can no longer meet his demand, "and when they run out I have to go back on the open market and get them (eggs) at higher prices."

Artists on Trial

MOSCOW (AP) — Four Soviet artists and a Moscow photographer went on trial today after being arrested at Sunday's unauthorized exhibition of contemporary Russian abstract art, informants reported. The exhibition was broken up by men with bulldozers and trucks who destroyed the paintings, arrested a number of the artists and spectators and roughed up the crowd.

Montreal Buses Idle

MONTREAL (CP) — About one million commuters were left without public transportation today as the union representing the city's bus drivers decided not to allow its members to cross picket lines set up by striking garage and maintenance workers. A spokesman for the transit commission said no buses left municipal garages.

Turkish Premier Resigns

Talk for 24 Hours

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks adjourned at 6 a.m. today between the Canadian Marine Officers Union representing 400 ship mechanics and the Canadian Lake Carriers Association after 24 hours of non-stop negotiations. Labor Minister John Munro said during the adjournment the two sides exchanged documents and "some progress has been made." It was not known when talks would resume.

Japanese Free Two

THE HAGUE (AP) — Japanese terrorists released two women hostages from the French Embassy early today, but continued to hold nine male hostages, including French Ambassador Jacques Senard.

"We are progressing, but I believe that we are not yet completely in the last hours," French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues said in Paris.

Dutch Premier Joop den Uyl said in a television interview: "There are so many uncertain factors in this that I can't tell you concretely. I have a feeling, but in the next 24 hours a series of very difficult decisions will have to be taken by us."

He said "a matter of special concern" is that the three terrorists and the hostages are getting tired and edgy.

Nixon's Health Very Poor Says His Personal Physician

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Richard Nixon's longtime personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, has added to widespread rumors that the former president's health is seriously deteriorating.

Dr. Tkach said Nixon is under severe pressure and in worse health than he was only two weeks ago. And there were reports today that Nixon knew in advance of plans to form an intelligence unit like the one which broke into the Democratic national headquarters.

The two developments have been linked to President Ford's controversial decision eight days ago to pardon Nixon for any crimes he may have committed while in office.

White House spokesman have indicated that Nixon's health was one reason for granting the pardon. Since then, questions have been raised about whether Nixon's health warranted such action. The former president's doctor and members of his family have granted numerous interviews to emphasize that such concerns are valid.

Dr. Tkach told Newsweek magazine that Nixon's health is "much worse than when I saw him two weeks ago."

"He just has no bounce, no responsiveness at all."

The magazine quotes Tkach as saying "it's going to take a miracle for him to recover. . . ."

IRA Assassins Slay Two Jurists

BELFAST (AP) — Irish Republican Army terrorists assassinated two Northern Ireland judges in separate weekday ambushes executive was reported killed by a bomb at his factory.

The two judges shot to death in Belfast were Roger Conaghan and Martin McElroy, both Roman Catholics accused by the Irish Republican Army of cooperating with the British. The Provisional IRA wing said it ordered the killings.

Politicians and legal figures condemned the slayings, and courts all over Northern Ireland were adjourned to honor the two slain judges.

In Pomeroy, County Tyrone, west of here, informed sources said a bomber broke away from his car when he saw a police patrol coming. The bomb exploded, killing the bomber instantly," one source said.

McElroy, 56, was shot by a gunman when he came into the kitchen of his home in nearby Belmont Road as he was cooking breakfast, police said.

Two Years at Low Pay Price Set for Amnesty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford proclaimed today a clemency program for draft dodgers and United States military deserters and draft resisters "in the furtherance of our national commitment to justice and mercy."

A key feature of the program would require Vietnam-era deserters and draft evaders to spend up to 24 months in low-paying jobs judged to promote the "national health, safety or interest." There would be no minimum period for "alternate service jobs" and reductions from the 24 month's service period would be dependent on military service records and "other mitigating factors."

All those wanting to accept the amnesty opportunity would have to turn themselves in before Jan. 31. Draft evaders would report to the U.S. attorney where an offense was committed and deserters would report to appropriate military commanders.

Ford also set up a nine-member Presidential Clemency Board to handle the cases of those already convicted of draft evasion or absence from military service.

What all three and others like them across the country, have in common is the cause of their accidents: all were attempting to jump over whatever they could find in imitation of stuntman Evel Knievel. Indian music and dancing is a crowd-drawing event at the annual Mohawk Fair on Tyendinaga Reserve. In addition to the children from Quinte Mohawk School, Laurie Class brought six troupes of Indian dancers to the fair, where the drummed and chanted for their performance. Bobby and Kevin Eade of Toronto were trained in native steps by Mr. Claus.

Vietnamese Playboy Blows Up Airliner

SAIGON (AP) — A hijacker described as a wealthy playboy army captain blew up a South Vietnamese airliner and killed all 71 persons aboard after the pilot refused to fly to Hanoi, officials said today.

It was the first hijacking to result in a large number of deaths, and the first time a hijacked plane was blown up in the air.

The officials said the hijacker, 21-year-old Le Duc Tan, bypassed security checks Sunday when he boarded the Air Vietnam Boeing 727 at Da Nang for a flight to Saigon.

Police in Da Nang were reported questioning Tan's wife, who owns a beauty parlor there, and an air force security sergeant who they said helped Tan evade the security check.

Officials said when the airliner was about halfway from Da Nang to Saigon, Tan ordered the pilot to turn back and fly to the North Vietnamese capital. Instead, the pilot prepared to land at Phan Rang, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, and Tan set off two grenades he had brought aboard the plane, the officials said.

Eyewitnesses said the plane made one pass over the airfield, circled back and headed sharply as it approached the runway. They said there was an explosion and the plane crashed some first not far from a minefield.

Davis Visits Italy With Immigrants

ROME (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis landed here today to begin a 15-day official tour which will take him to 21 different towns and cities throughout Italy.

With the premier and the official party on the charter flight from Toronto were about 150 boisterous Italian-Canadians who will act as host on Davis's 1,800 mile trek through the country.

Premier Davis was sent off by 125 cheering Italians but got a mixed reception—25 of the demonstrators were injured workmen who were protesting that they weren't receiving enough compensation from the government.

Davis is in Italy at the invitation of the Federation of Italian-Canadian Associations and Clubs. The Ontario government is picking up the tab—about $15,000—for Davis and the eight other members of the official party.

The government viewpoint is that Davis is recognizing the contributions Italian Immigrants have made to Ontario.

Privately, Progressive Conservative party officials are hoping to woo a large segment of the Italian-Canadian vote in the next provincial election, expected within 12 months. There are about 500,000 Italian-Canadians in Ontario.

Tour organizers said there was a waiting list of Italian-Canadians who wanted to accompany the premier to Italy.

"They consider it a great honor that the head of the Ontario government is visiting the towns they come from," said Rocco Lobranco, of Toronto, who is helping to organize Davis's one-day tour of the Italian town of Pistoci.

Pistoci has 34,000 residents and an additional 18,000 from that town have immigrated to Ontario.

The original purpose of Davis' visit was to officiate at the 38th International Trade Fair "Ex Bari, one of the largest trade fairs in Europe.

Grenade Kills Two In Paris

PARIS (CP) — Paris police are searching for a young man with long hair and a grey jacket who dropped a hand grenade into a crowded drugstore on the Left Bank, killing two persons and injuring 26 others.

Witnesses said the man dropped the grenade from a balcony Sunday afternoon and escaped in the confusion after the explosion. He appeared to be about 25, witnesses said.

Police Chief Jean Paolini said he was told that the blast was completely calm just before he dropped the grenade.

A fire brigade spokesman said the grenade landed under a tobacco counter, and this may have reduced the force of the blast. But persons on the sidewalk outside the store were knocked off their feet.

Asked whether the attack might be linked with the seizure of hostages in the French Embassy in The Hague, capital of The Netherlands, Paolini said: "We have no idea, but what is certain is that we are dealing with a madman and a coward."

French Fire Nuclear Bomb

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — The French approximately set off the seventh nuclear blast in their 1974 test series in the South Pacific Sunday. An announcement in Paris indicated it completed the series.

The governments of Australia and New Zealand announced that they detected evidence of another blast over Mururoa Atoll, the French test site. They gave no details.

Women Show Their Mettle

Old-time tests of skill are a feature of the Mohawk Fair at Tyendinaga. Threwing their energy into the log - sawing are Bernie White and Cindy Bench.

Straddling the log to hold it steady is Bennet Brant, who helped vet the competitions during the afternoon.

Mohawk Fair Draws Large Crowd For Day of Traditional Events

There's no doubt about it the annual Mohawk Fair at Tyendinaga Reserve is the entertainment sleeper of the year in Eastern Ontario.

It has everything for an era in nostalgia — rides, games, bingo, food, horse races and exhibits of all homemade. The Mohawks of Tyendinaga have created a little gem of folk art in their fair.

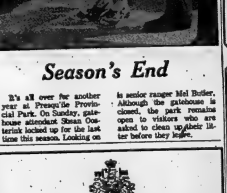
Saturday's fair lacked sophistication, and therein lay its charm. Only hard work and dedication made it go. The vegetables and field crops were all grown on the reserve, the women's fancy work and children's crafts are the pride of their workers. The entertainment, from log sawing to dancing, was all amateur and homemade.

The fair featured step-dancing, rail driving, and old-time fiddling. It also had Tyendinaga's unique contribution to cuisine — Indian flower corn soup — which ran out, as usual, about 2.30 in the afternoon. The day concluded a home-cooked dinner and ended with a huge evening dance.

Main course of the dinner this year was barbequed chicken grilled outdoors; half a broiler a person. Dessert was homemade pie with several varieties available. A total of 477 persons turned up for the evening dance at the Mohawk Community Hall.

Two groups of Indian dances appeared on the outdoor stages. The children from Quinte Mohawk School, all under 11 years old, danced their native steps. Laurie Claus's group from Toronto followed, with ancient dances and modern pantomime.

Audrey Brant won the women's nail-driving contest with three blows of his hammer. Bill McFarland was the oldest person to compete in the nail-driving contest. He is 82.



Fiddler Russell Green won the old-time fiddler's contest, accompanied, as were all the contestants, by Mary Anderson on guitar. All the contestants stayed on to play for the step-dancing. Patricia Senior was the energetic winner of women's step-dancing.

Jessie Brant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brant of Deseronto, winner of the one- to three-months class, carried off the grand prize as best baby of the show.

Marc Maracle, 11, son of Shirley and Elmer Maracle of Ottawa, won the race for Jordan boys under 11 years, and took home the White and Morris trophy.

The Lennox and Addington County Riders ran the horse racing events each year. For out-of-district visitors, the booths of native Indian crafts were a magnet.

Lilie LeFort, fair secretary, said the volume of exhibits increased this year. The judge of vegetables told her the fair offered the largest display he had seen this year.

Citizens Bureau Accepts UCS Grant After All

TRENTON — The Citizens' Bureau, based here, has reversed its decision of Thursday night and decided to accept a Belleville United Community Services grant.

Decision to accept the $2,180 grant from UCS was made on Sunday at a meeting of the Citizens' Bureau's provisional board.

"We are pleased that UCS included the Citizens' Bureau among its organizations and we are looking forward to improved relations and mutual co-operation," said newly-elected permanent executive director Wayne Wickson.

Mr. Wickson said the Citizens' Bureau board now will proceed to complete the regulations for membership in UCS. The bureau had already supplied UCS with its terms of reference and information on what additional funding it has available. Only the names of members of a permanent board of directors could be supplied. At the Sunday's meeting of the provincial board, a plan of organization was adopted and the first four permanent directors elected.

All acting on a volunteer basis, they are: Executive director, Wayne Wickson; executive secretary, Mrs. Mary Stiver and directors Brenda Allen and Peggy Desmond.

A meeting is scheduled for today between representatives of the Citizens' Bureau and UCS. Virginia O'Rourke, UCS president, was informed Sunday afternoon of the changed attitude of the bureau's directors.

Mr. Wickson said an "unfortunate release" was made concerning the Thursday night bureau meeting based on "incomplete information."

Following the Thursday night meeting, it was announced that the bureau would turn down the UCS grant. The Quinte District Labor Council had requested the grant on behalf of the Citizens' Bureau early this year.

The labor council has threatened a labor boycott of the United Way campaign, charging that some UCS beneficiaries are getting funds from taxpayers two ways, from both city grants in lieu of taxes and from UCS' United Way campaign grants.

The Citizens' Bureau was supported until July 12 by a Local Initiatives Program grant. Since then it has been kept going by a secretary of state's department grant and voluntary subscriptions. Dorothy Gerling, Charles Hart and William Hockley are the bureau's employees, working out of Trenton. The bureau originated in Belleville.

Park Closes, But Visitors Welcome

It's all free now.

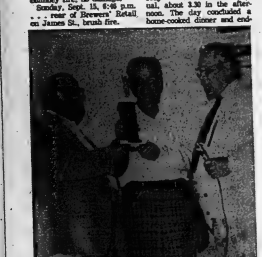
But before the summer ended more than 12,000 campsite permits were sold at the entrance gate to Presqu'ile Provincial Park near Brighton.

Sunday, the park closed its gatehouse for the winter but that doesn't mean that everything stops. The permanent staff stays on, preparing facilities for reopening next spring and duck hunters are poised to move in when the season opens at the end of the month.

The gatehouse may be closed, but visitors are still welcome — as long as they leave the park as they found it and keep it litter-free.

During the fall, park staff will be cutting a new nature trail to replace the old one that is the victim of high lake water levels in recent years.

On Sept. 30, the duck season opens. hunters will move into 35 blinds set up by park staff that are rented for $4 a day on a first-come, first-served basis.



Almost half of the blinds are on islands and, remembering the tragic drowning of two men last November, hunters are cautioned to keep water safety uppermost in their thoughts.

Summer visitors this year totalled 215,756, compared with 256,308, last year. Labor Day weekend, traditionally one of the park's busiest, visitors dropped more than 6,000 from the previous year.

Mel Butler, senior ranger, blames the decline partly on high water levels that have put ice into available beaches. Another factor, some late-season campers said, is the quantity of algae in the lake water and on the beaches.

Algae on the beaches and in shallow water should be reduced next year, Mr. Butler said. A new machine, developed at the ministry of natural resources Maple, Ont., facility, now is in use at the park and is coping with the problem.

Mr. Butler emphasizes that the park is a year-round recreation area and a haven for birdwatchers. Except this year, when there is enough snow on the ground, snowmobilers will make it a winter playground.

Season's End

It's all over for another year at Presqu'ile Provincial Park. On Sunday, gatehouse attendant Shaun Derrick locked up for the last time this season. Looking on is senior ranger Mel Butler. Although the gatehouse is closed, the park remains open to visitors who are asked to clean up their litter before they leave.

An Uncertain Future

You get the feeling these days that we are all running and spending ourselves madly toward some hole that some of us, neither individually nor up there in the rarefied halls of Government, can at present identify, and least of all care.

It is the old eat-drink-and-be-merry syndrome and that never-never tomorrow. You note one of those home truths that affect us all, such as Vancouver humorist Eric Nicol's reminder that: 220 million American cars drive automobiles with prodigal disregard for the fact that they are exhausting the planet's store of oil several times faster than the 800 million Chinese, stoically pedalling to work." And you think vaguely that 1984, let alone the year 2000, has not arrived, take a deep breath, and reflect that I'm all right, Jack.

In July majority government returned to Canada with a flourish and with strong hopes that, even if inflation did not disappear overnight, the Trudeau government would do something about it.

Actually it has done nothing of any consequence, exhibiting merely a vacuity of decision in which a few million rotten eggs have dropped — and forniading us of the fumbles of the federal bureaucracy.

There was Kenora, the problem among the Indians there, which, no thanks to any strong action by the authorities, was resolved in committee. And there have been transit strikes in Toronto and Montreal and cavalier conduct by striking workers. And the grain handlers are still out in Vancouver and Labor Minister Munro is out there making appropriate gestures on behalf of the government — but wielding a big majority government club? . . . No-o-o-o-that is not the Canadian way.

So where are we going, while we await possible recession? Canada remains reasonably solvent. It is peaceable and for the most part stable. Will it ever be thus? The not so distant future should provide some clues.

Bay Bridge

While government and local municipalities dither over the Bay Bridge replacement — high-level or tunnel — it is good to see one small step for man in the provision of new flags at the Rossmore approach, to add a bit of color to these declining days of summer. The old ones representing Ontario and Canada were becoming a little weatherbeaten and certainly needed replacing.

Meanwhile the impetus for the new link, off to a fine start a month or so ago, seems to have splintered somewhat, rather in the manner of Evel Knievel's flying machine.

It would be surprising if anything of a structural nature actually got under way this year. However, a decision, consistent with thorough planning and a correct evaluation of the exact nature of the link, should not be too long delayed.

This is one project that should not be allowed to get lost in the shuffle.

An Artist's World

The old man nearing the end of his time, taking his lonely ease in a sparsely-furnished bedroom . . . the weathered home on a bluff overlooking the dunes . . . faces, portraits, young and adult, that belong to the legends of a place, a community, or an isolated homestead.

These and much else are the world of Andrew Wyeth, the distinguished American artist whose work, courtesy of the Art Gallery of Ontario Extension Department, has been on show at the Corby Library.

The exhibition concluded Saturday, but there is a haunting aura and aspect of quiet strength, that imparts permanence in a Wyeth painting to the things of our world that are transitory.

Belleville had been fortunate in having this opportunity to see an Andrew Wyeth collection at first hand.

Kissinger's Role

CIA Involved in Chile Before Marxist Leader's Election in 1970

The World Today
By JOHN D. HARKSON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

In the first sovereignty of the tragic and bloody overthrow of the late Chilean Marxist President Salvador Allende, Washington has been told of long-term CIA complicity against the dead Chilean leader. So far back as four years before his election in 1970.

This had always been charged by Allende's many friends and supporters throughout Latin America and the world as well as by members of his own cabinet during their administration.

Shortly after President Allende's election as President, the United States decided it had tampered in any way with his election.

"The United States lacks political, economic or military leverage to change the course of events in Chile even if the Administration wished to do so," said a U.S. government release.

The fact is, like so many facts long-hidden by the Nixon administration, the direct opposite took place to what was said publicly.

CIA Director William Colby testified last April before a committee of Congress, that the Nixon administration authorized "more than $8 millions" to help bring down the elected Marxist government, or "to destabilize" it.

What is more, the CIA had made funds available during the previous Chilean presidential elections to tamper directly with entire charity for the former Senator Allende to win against President Eduardo Frei in 1964.

The decision to allocate funds available to our willing anti-Allende group, even in the Chilean Congress, was made by a one-per-secret "40 Committee," in Washington with Henry Kissinger as its chairman.

This was originally created by the late President John Kennedy to co-ordinate CIA activities after the disastrous involvement in the aborted Cuban Bay of Pigs operation.

The CIA had prepared totally misleading information on the Chilean economy which was likely to oust an invasion. It had also helped finance a secret radio station in Chile operated where Cubans and others received what would turn out to be inadequate training.

So far there are no indications, nor admissions from anyone that the U.S. was directly or indirectly involved in the actual military coup of Sept. 11, in which Allende died.

Canada and European Security

By CY FOX
The Canadian Press

The committee phase of the European security conference in which Canada is playing a prominent role, has returned to Geneva, with much tortuous work left to be done by the painstaking diplomats.

The Russians had loudly expressed the hope the committee would produce a draft agreement before Christmas so as to serve as the basis for the final stage of the conference at the summit.

Some diplomats predict the committee will not complete its work by Christmas and that the meeting won't reconvene there until well into the first half of 1975.

The conference was officially inaugurated by the foreign ministers of the participating countries in Helsinki 14 months ago. Their deputies have been wrestling with the intricacies of a draft agreement since last September.

The effort is designed to produce an agreement involving more than 30 states—Canada and the U.S. along with the European—and providing safeguards against future wars by their strengthening of the existing peace.

The area where least progress has been made happens to be that of greatest Canadian interest—the proposals for increased human contacts among participating countries, especially across East-West borders.

Canada's proposal for a detailed pact on ways of permitting freer family reunification split by political rifts in Europe provides another sticking point as emigration from Communist to non-Communist states.

The technical Communist delegates to give ground in this area—more than—at one delegate put it—"each word, each comma, each inverted comma" a matter for prolonged bargaining.

Then there is the question of free exchange of information, both printed and broadcast.

Again, progress is slow, with delegates wrangling over the rights of persons in Eastern countries to subscribe to Western publications or the theory and practice of jamming of Western radio stations.

Progress has proved arduous in the field of improved contacts involving scholars and universities but the all-clear-aid advances made by the conference have been conspicuously unequal.

However, the odds are reported still slightly in favor of an eventual agreement that would justify a summit.

The further proof of how tough the bargaining has become, however, is the continuing cold about two-thirds of the first draft of a text on agreements including the military and general security side of relations among the European states.

Greater advances have been made in the field of economic and scientific co-operation.

As for resenting families, negotiations have dragged over Communist insistence on provisions reinforcing what is euphemistically called a state's power to protect its own laws and customs.

"Risk" is The Name of The Game Where Currency Trading Concerned

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs
The News Service

Quick: Name the most dangerous financial activity in the world, the one with the risk of the biggest losses.

If you've been reading the front-page items lately you'll get the answer: Foreign-currency trading.

So, naturally, the market for foreign-exchange futures in which individuals has just been reopened on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

This will supplement the trading facilities of the International Monetary Market in Chicago, which began trading foreign-currency futures in May, 1972.

The key word is "risk."

Within recent months, faulty judgment in foreign-exchange trading has led to the collapse of West Germany's Bankhaus Herstatt, the loss of up to $56-million by the Union Bank of Switzerland, and multi-million dollar losses by several other banks.

This month's brought reports of a whopping $70-million foreign-exchange loss by a branch of London's Lloyd Bank in Lugano, that Swiss-tabbyed beautiful Swiss city that thrives on a combination of tourism and international money dealings.

Such mammoth losses as these may tend to obscure the fact that foreign-exchange trading—as opposed to speculation—is an established activity of all banks, as a regular service to commercial customers.

Here's how it works:

A store here buys goods from a U.S. supplier, for delivery in two months at an agreed U.S.-dollar price. If the Canadian dollar were lower then, the goods would cost more. So the store buys U.S. dollars now, at today's exchange rate, for delivery in two months.

Canadian banks welcome this kind of commercial trading in foreign-exchange futures just as they welcome any discussion of individual trading for speculative purposes.

"We all try as much as possible to turn down this type of business, because of what the speculator has done to foreign-exchange markets over the past few years," the chief trader for one bank told me.

"But if a very good customer or our bank wants to speculate, its hard to say no."

Individual speculators are given a more friendly reception by certain Canadian investment dealers, especially those that are subsidiaries of Wall Street brokerage houses. Such firms will execute orders on the IMM for clients.

But prospective speculators are warned that foreign-exchange trends are difficult to predict, especially now that the Bretton Woods system of fixed exchange rates collapsed and the nations of the world have, one by one, set their currencies free to "float" in fluctuate in response to supply and demand.

Exchange rates are determined by such factors as world and domestic politics, balance-of-payments trends, and government activities in the currency market.

If experienced foreign-exchange traders such as those at the Westdeutsche Landesbank can be so embarrassed as to lose up to $100-million—as has been reported—the risks facing the spare-time speculator are formidable indeed.

Much Talk and Little Action

Population and Control of The Sea

Montreal Gazette

Two major world conferences, one on population and the other on control of the sea, wound up last week with little more accomplished than talk. Next November a similar get-together in Rome will consider world food problems, the list of other urgent problems — inflation, pollution, control of nuclear weapons, energy, the conservation and distribution of resources. Every major problem in the world today is a world problem.

What do we have to deal with them? Nothing that makes any sense. We have nations with borders and governments of no relevance. We have the United Nations, of immense service in organizing conferences and writing studies but powerless to act. We have foundations and commissions and common markets, and equally ineffective. The only international institutions that actually exercise power over the human condition are the churches and multinational corporations, and the former are fading fast.

Are we all mad? Any one of the major problems could destroy us if not brought under control. We recognize the existence of global problems and cannot see the need for global sovereignty for their solution.

It is evident that world solution will require the loss of sovereignty. This implies — until economics comes forward with a better idea — a world legislature, a world executive and judiciary, and a world army.

The clearest course appears to be to strengthen the authority and to convert the United Nations into a parliament of limited powers. Such a government would inevitably have a lot of rough edges. It would be a bad government, and there would have to be endless checks to prevent the abuse of such great power. But if that alternative is not to be accepted and at least linked with the yielding of power by other neighbors in the progression.

It requires immense mental effort for most of us to think of ourselves and others as components of the world. At the Population Conference in Bucharest, one point on which there was agreed was that each nation should have absolute sovereignty in population decisions. The delegates, of course, represented the nations, not the population.

There are some in this country who have extended their thinking of themselves as citizens of Canada and some, no doubt, who think of their loyalty to neighborhood or village. Still, the trade trials encourage the mystics to think on different levels, for we are all citizens of our locality, our neighborhood, our city, province, nation, and ultimately of the world. And in this order, we must convince our governments that their and our ultimate welfare is bound up and linked with the yielding of power by other neighbors in the progression.

Cameras Intrude on Mennonites

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Camera fans may not like it, but the concerted move to make it harder to use cameras during Old Order Mennonites as less targets on Saturday morning was sound.

Ganging up on the photo enthusiasts are the governmental agencies, Waterloo city council, Woolwich township council and the Elmira and Waterloo Chamber of Commerce. Their purpose is to prevent the many attending services at the Old Order church on Highway 85 just north of Elmira, not be because of their plain dress and horse-and-buggy transportation, constitute unique photo targets.

Since a law banning photographers in a free society would be impossible to enforce, the approach has to be adopted. And it is a reminder urging fans to use roads and road shoulders adjacent to the church. Also, because of its location requires joint action by the province. Waterloo county and Woolwich.

Obviously this is by no means a foolproof guarantee of immunity for the Old Order churchgoers, but it could help discourage the camera-toting fan. The real less flesh, however, it may be the fans are not going to be because of their plain dress and horse-and-buggy transportation, from another age.

In today's world, when almost nothing any more is sacred, the Old Order Mennonites stand as an example of piety and humility. Their determination to keep the world outside and their own community as much as possible is one of their admirable aspects, but their modesty is something even the camera enthusiast should learn from.

This is something which is worth preserving and protecting. All that is needed in essence it is not commercialized and the tourists are not to be allowed to enforcement of the parking bans when they go into effect.

Energy Corporation's Potential

Ottawa Citizen

The Ontario Energy Corporation proposed by Energy Minister D'Arcy McKeough will give the province some of the muscle it needs to bargain both with Alberta and the federal government.

With initial capital of $100 million, the province will be able to give Ontario a powerful tool to influence prices, especially for natural gas export policy, and the development of new supplies, particularly in the Mackenzie River delta. To be most effective, it should not be seen as a partner of other governments rather than an adversary.

Its major concern will be to negotiate a fair price for Ontario at the most reasonable price. It can accomplish that best by co-operating with such organizations as the proposed National Energy Board Association, engaging in both exploration and research.

Government investment in energy supplies has become necessary because the risks and sums required have become so great. Ontario led the way with Panarctic Oil. Ontario is wise to get in step.

Eggs Could Help Feed The Hungry

Editor,
The Intelligencer

In regard to the egg situation I would like to say the following; my feelings toward the egg situation is this.

1 Medically there is enough vitamins in Ontario is starving child's health for 24 hours.

2 Just think how many children could be alive and healthy with the millions of eggs that get thrown out or let rot. Not only in Belleville but in the surrounding area.'

3 Why can't they have to be thrown out or left to rot? I'll tell you why; because of the high price. If the price would go down people would buy the eggs and none would rot or be thrown out.

4 This is just disgusting and many will agree. We all are heading for another depression.

The thing that gets me is, think of all the people who could be alive!

5 Canada is supposed to be a prosperous country and able to feed all its people. There are some in Ontario who are starving. I'm sure everyone dread the thought of ever being ashamed to be a Canadian.

SUNDAY-DULMAGE
(Age 14)

Time for Action on Inflation

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

What is with everything that goes?

Costs are up in the sky. No body seems to be doing anything. Big Bill Davis is absent at the command post.

An egg is fixed at a small thing but when over nine million are allowed to spoil, there goes a very hearty breakfast.

Big Bill suffered no opposition to her rate increase. She couldn't dream of dipping into her "rainy day" fund of millions and millions. So, without much fuss, we are made the patsies

Now we are. I feel badly. They want a raise. They also went enough extra thrown in to let the executive assistant. Glory be.

How to get some work out of them first.

Shoulda't a time come to everyone when he or she thinks enough is enough? Rather than think 'what can I do about it', he or she should realize I can do something about it'.

Your letter has an address in Ottawa and an address at home. Take your pick, Write him and instruct him to get off his butt and do something. He is our representative.

I don't mean con or two letters. I mean a flood letter; let lots of people get on their feet for a change and write complaining. Make it hard to get in the door for the mail slack. You won't have the feeling but enough will make him think and act.

Is not the time overly ripe? I thought so and I wrote. How about joining me?

Mariners' Museum Popular Attraction for Tourists

SOUTH MARYSBURGH — Prince Edward's only commercial museum, Marysburgh's Mariners' Park, continues to draw visitors although its official season has ended.

Opened in 1967, the park originated as South Marysburgh Township's centennial project. The upper portion of the False Duck lighthouse, built in 1828, was re-erected at the park site in an effort to preserve the county's marine history.

The lighthouse provided the nucleus for the inland marine museum where other exhibits soon were added. Among these are displays of a lifeboat from the Greek freighter Protostis and a wheel house from the vessel Acadian.

As interest in the marine museum grew the need for a building to house small artifacts was recognized. Provincial artist William Kettlewell of Black Creek designed a museum building for the park in the form of a ship's loft.

The building is topped by the artist's gift of a copper weathervane shaped like a sailing ship.

The museum building was opened officially in August 1974 during the fifth annual Mariners' Service at South Bay church.

The service long a tradition in Prince Edward County had been discontinued for a number of years but was revived in 1973 by the marine society.

Chairman of the South Marysburgh Marine Society Phillip Dodds, says more than 100 persons have loaned or donated artifacts to the museum. The new building makes it possible to safely store and display exhibits that could not be used formerly in the open air park.

The museum building staff, of weekends this summer by volunteers, is now closed for the 1974 season but the park remains open as a picnic area.

Mr. Dodds said members of the marine society have done "a tremendous amount" of volunteer work this year. He referred to the painting of the museum building inside and out, and mentioned the erection of display cases and maintenance of the grounds.

"Through the Mariners' Memorial park and museum the history of sailing and fishing is being preserved for posterity."

Firefighting Fanciers

Staunch supporters of firefighting service and tradition, more than 30 members of the Ontario Fire Buffs descended on the Belleville area on the weekend. Many members of the group are active or retired firemen. During their tour they dropped in on the Dundas St. fire hall to take a look at the 1946 hose truck. They also went to the Corbyville fire hall and saw a foam firefighting demonstration at CFB Trenton. Among the enthusiasts were visitors from as far as Detroit and Ottawa.

Man Crushed After Farm Tractor Overturns in Field

BRIGHTON — A man killed when crushed underneath a tractor while working in a field was one of a series of police here during the weekend.

Geoffrey Loyd, 53, of RR1, Codrington, died when the tractor tipped and pinned him underneath on a concession eight farm in Brighton Township, two miles west of Highway 30, on Friday.

Police said his body was discovered by his son shortly after 6 p.m. They said one of the tractor's front wheels broke loose, prior to the tractor rolling over.

Also during the weekend, thieves broke into the Brighton Dominion Hardware Store on Main St., and stole merchandise worth an estimated $1,600.

Police said a television set, radio, number of watches, an air rifle and fishing tackle were taken after thieves forced open a basement window some time between Saturday night and Sunday morning.

And during the weekend in Brighton, vandals turned on dry chemical fire extinguishers and sprayed furniture used by the provincial court in the Scotty Broughton Youth Centre here.

Police said the youth centre was ransacked and several flags and boy scout plaques stolen. Minimal damage to the building at the corner of Alice and Dundas Streets was reported.

Rabbi Urges World Peace

Message from the Rabbi to the People of Belleville.

According to Jewish tradition Rosh Hashonah (New Year) is the day of Judgment. On this day all of humanity must give account of its deeds in the past year. to G-D. If they have been good to their fellow men and have lived a life of honesty and kindness, they are more certain of being inscribed for a good year.

But, the Bible tells us, "... no man is so righteous upon earth, that he should always do good and not sin." So, on Yom Hashonah, Jews all over the world assemble in synagogue to ask forgiveness from G-D. They repent for their sins and honestly receive to improve their conduct in the coming year.

But, to insure a good year, there must be three actions on our part: Repentance, prayer and charity. We must repent of our sins to sincere prayer to G-D and promise that in the coming year we will improve in our fulfilment of the commandments. We must show our sincerity by acting justly and doing our fellow man for we are all children of G-D and we all deserve to share in the blessings he has granted.

The Rabbi extends his best wishes for a happy, healthy and successful New Year. May the new year be one which will bring peace to all mankind.

McIntosh are going for 10 cents a pound, or multiples by 42 pounds in a bushel, the cost is half of the $2.75 to $3 a bushel reported in orchard advertisements in other communities.

Bees Bring Award To Stirling Man

STIRLING — Arthur Raymond Mallory has been awarded a Centennial Medal from the Ontario Agriculture College (OAC), one of only 100 such awards.

An apiarist, Mr. Mallory graduated in 1941. He remained as a college lecturer and Provincial head beekeeper inspector until 1943 when he became assistant provincial apiarist for Saskatchewan.

In 1945, he and his wife and two daughters returned to Ontario and Mr. Mallory became a beekeeper.

He acted as local inspector for Hastings County from 1946 to 1958, and was 4-H Club leader from 1948 to 1957.

For 14 years Mr. Mallory was on the Royal Winter Fair judging team for honies and beeswax. He has carried out recent tests for the Apiculture division of OAC, University of Guelph, represented Ontario on the Canadian Beekeepers Council, and been president of the Ontario Beekeepers' association.

Crowded into all these activities, Mr. Mallory was an OAC assistant lecturer for 15 years for short winter courses in apiculture for beekeepers. In addition, he lectured at universities in Alberta, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Mr. Mallory served on the Stirling Public School Board for six years, and on the Stirling — Rawdon District High School Board from 1961 to 1967.

Woman, Baby Found

BANCROFT — A 22-year-old woman and a three-month-old baby reported lost overnight in dense bush in Wollaston Township about 20 miles southwest of here have been found.

A spokesman for the Bancroft detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said today that the two were found shortly before 11 a.m. and both are in good condition.

Sharon Prondgast and her baby were reported missing by police here about 9.35 Sunday night. She was reported to have last been seen about 16 a.m. that day.

Taking part in the search were two provincial police detachments, ministry of natural resources workers, a tracking dog and civilians.

Temperatures in the bush in that area Sunday night were reported to be in the high 40s.

How can you beat higher fares to Europe?

Our new low $321 APEX* fares.
Our what? Our Advance Purchase Excursion Fare. $321* from Toronto to London return, on regularly-scheduled British Airways flights. That's $41 less than the normal 22-to-45 day economy excursion fares but, granted, there are a few differences.
With APEX* you've got to book 2 months in advance of your departure and pay your entire fare at that time. (If you travel in November you can reserve your seat and purchase your ticket anytime in September.) Children under 12 can travel for ½ of the adult fare. Infants under 2 for 10%. The trick is that if you cancel or change your departure or return dates after you have purchased your ticket, there's a penalty of 10% or minimum $30.
We fly seven times a week to London, Manchester and Glasgow gives you quite a choice, and we've got an incredible number of handy connections to all over Europe.
So, if you can live with a fixed departure and return date, you can fly to Britain, for $41 less than normal 22-to-45 day fares.
If you're interested (and who wouldn't be), you'd better book soon because the number of APEX* seats on any flight is limited. Just tell your travel agent you'd like the new APEX* fare to Britain. And it sees on British Airways.

Quinte Cuisine

Charlotte Hollfelder is a salad fan and one of her favorite recipes is this Louisiana Salad Bowl. Mrs. Hollfelder and husband Fred have resided in Stirling for about a year. Small dinner parties are her favorite entertainment and this active Belleville General Hospital's women's auxiliary volunteer also enjoys bridge and golf.

Louisiana Salad Bowl

lettuce romaine
chicory or watercress
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar
one tbsp sugar
½ tsp salt
¼ tsp paprika
½ tsp dry mustard
¼ tsp pepper

Wash greens, drain and pat dry. Tear and place in salad bowl lined with a few reserved large romain leaves.

Combine remaining ingredients in a screw top jar and shake vigorously. Chill (before preparing greens).

Prepare garnish in advance: hard cook two eggs, fry six slices of bacon and crumble; cube one cup cheddar cheese. Chop egg white for garnish and mash yolks and blend with refrigerated dressing. Pour dressing over greens to coat well and garnish salad with egg whites, bacon and cheese.

Do you know any good cooks? The Intelligencer is looking for cooks in the area willing to share their recipes with our readers. If you're a good cook, or if you know one, write The Women's Department, The Intelligencer. Be sure to include a his or her address and phone number.

Marriage

The marriage is announced of Isobel McColl of London, Ontario and Richard E. Kuntze. The wedding took place Saturday, Sept. 7, at Bridge Street Chapel. Rev. Alfred Poulter conducted the marriage service.

Mr. and Mrs. John McLean

McLean — Keech

Bridge Street United Church was the setting for the summer wedding of Beverley Shirley Keech and John Allen Delbert McLean.

Rev. George Ward officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Keech and the late Kenneth (Tim) Keech, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLean, of RR1, L'Amable.

Given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth Keech, the bride wore a gown of white lace with a crepe underlay and a mock bolero top. The long lace sleeves had pearl buttons at the cuff, and the shoulder-length veil was bordered by lace. Her headpiece was made of roses and lily of the valley, and her bouquet was red roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Linda Winslow, sister of the bride, in a yellow gown with a square neck and long sleeves. Her hat matched the gown's color and her bouquet was yellow and white daisies.

Dave Bridges served as the groom's best man. Ushers were the groom's nephew Glen McLean and the bride's cousin, Paul Bridges.

A reception supper and dance was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall after the wedding, and another reception was given a week later by the groom's parents in Delhi Orange Hall.

After a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. McLean have made their new home at 17 Elvina Gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Williams

Williams — Laviolette

Eastminster United Church was the setting for the August 17 wedding of Suzanne Lee Laviolette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard LaViolette, and Lyle Arnold Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams of Colborne.

Rev. Alexander McDowell officiated at the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Alencon lace with a three-layer hooped skirt and long lily-shaped sleeves. Her elbow-length veil fell from a headpiece trimmed with seed pearls, and her bouquet was yellow roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Tessie Laviolette and Kathleen Pirson were bridesmaids in peach-colored gowns, carrying white baskets of daises tying white baskets of daisies and peach-colored mums.

Lorenzo Ciraitta served as best man and Monte Laviolette and Capt. Robert Pierson were ushers.

The reception was held at the Black Hawk Motor Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams now reside in Belleville.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Thompson are very pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Diana to Robert Eric Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carter. The wedding will take place on Saturday, October 5 at 4:00 p.m. at North Trenton United Church.

Poor Mothers March Against Injustice

TORONTO (CP)—Next spring, said Joan Clark, at least 1,000 mothers will march on Queen's Park to present a list of demands to Social Services Minister Rene Brunelle.

If the Ontario government does not respond to their demands, there will be a second march this time with their children in tow.

"The mothers will have 'em the children will stay," said Mrs. Clark, one of 20-odd Toronto women on mother's allowances who are organizing the Mother Led Union to represent the province's 82,000 divorced, deserted and unwed mothers.

Divorced and with two of her four children still living at home, the 43-year-old grandmother said she is fed up after years of writing to the latter to every level of government in support of her plea for genuine financial assistance to impoverished mothers.

In an interview, she described the problems of trying to make ends meet on the $263 a month the province gives her to raise a family.

She said she is tired of being told that payments are "just as nutritious as red meat and frustrated by the knowledge that her children would rather do without three times as much government assistance if she put them in foster homes.

Poor people—particularly poor women—have become increasingly politicized in the last few years, Mrs. Clark said.

"Poor women are fed up with the whole thing. They are becoming activists, real activists. They see the injustices and they're ready to talk about it.

Over the years, women on mothers allowances have devised a number of ways to cheat the system which is squeezing them, she said.

"They either shack up with some guy to get a few extra dollars or they get a false social insurance number and work under an assumed name.

"They're forced into dishonesty, lies and taking whatever treatment the man chooses to hand out."

They live off people, earning three and four times their annual income, suggesting they should not have had so many children if they can not afford them.

"My answer to that is that it's the poor people's children who supply bodyguards in this country, who drive the garbage trucks."

Poor women cannot understand why governments have money to spend on other things and not on their children, she said.

"Our children belong to us while there are meals to be served and diapers to be washed. But as adults they belong to them, to the labor force and to the army. And they've got to see that they get fed as children.

"You can't feed them macaroni for 18 years."

Mrs. Clark receives $262 from the Ontario ... son. If her son were in foster home she said, he would be ...

A newborn baby placed in a foster home gets $95 a month support; its natural mother receives $23 a month from the province, if she decides to keep it.

Women on mothers' allowances are allowed to earn no more than $24 a month plus $13 for each child, by working outside the home.

The government takes away 75 per cent of any earned earnings—in Mrs. Clark's case, $1.50 of the $2 extra she earns at her $56-a-month part-time job at the St. Christopher Community House.

The women want the allowances raised to $100 a month a mother and $25 for each child in extra earnings.

Since the province only has day care to offer to mothers working full time, the women also want free day care, since they are discouraged from working.

The strike next spring will last "as long as any strike lasts—until there is a negotiated settlement."

Mrs. Brunelle will have the kids; he can put them in foster homes, or he can return them to their natural mothers, but he'll have to pay us as much as he would a foster-parent."

With the help of free legal advice provided by a group of Toronto lawyers and the support of several sympathetic social workers, the group has already formed four locals in Toronto. Women in other cities have approached Mrs. Clark to say they are forming their own groups and plan to travel by bus to Toronto for the strike, she said. The group's total strength would remain a secret until then.

"We're not asking for this money to buy a yacht or fur coat. We're asking to feed our kids."

"The government has $1 million a month to spend on Canadian boys in Cyprus. They've just spent millions of dollars to buy up six pandas or even 10 pounds. Then a shilling was a quarter (Canadian) and a pound was $5 our money. So business was good till the Anatomy Act in North Ireland in 1832."

Dear T. W.: No I feel fine I gather the bodies were prized for their use in medical research.

"And they've given me $3,-100 a feed my family for a year."

"They can get the money. Or they can have the kids."

Rude Bus Drivers Irritate This Reader

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Where does one get accurate information about the yearly increase in city buses? I know the drivers are too busy to be always answering one's queries — and some are downright impatient!

In Winnipeg I asked one bus driver if he went down Archibald Street. His reply was, "Madam, if it did it would say so!"! Well, the bus did swing down Archibald Street, so I was lucky because I had to watch for another street that went off Archibald. Why in the world couldn't he have just said "Yes"?

In Calgary, I asked the driver if he stopped at "The Bay" (the store) and his reply was, "No madam, I can't change the bus route. Goodness, all I wanted to know was where, downtown, he made a stop.

You get the feeling that those who are supposed to know, treat anyone asking for information as if they are a nuisance.

Stranger In Town.

Dear Stranger: I wrote to the Canadian Urban Transit Association before replying to your letter. The manager there greatly regretted the incidents described; hoped they were rare. Much is done to train bus operators in courtesy.

There are route maps, telephone information, information centres in downtown shopping areas. Normally the bus operators are helpful.

When a person is in a strange city it can be a pretty scary feeling to be on the wrong bus or to not know when or where to get off.

I hope she does who are inclined to give way to their own impatience will be reading this. I also hope that those who have many times gone beyond the call of duty will read it too.

Dear Doris: Those of us who went to Western (University of Western Ontario) in the early '30s have fond memories of the song, "The Persian Kitten". We know it as an integral part of the common room, campus parties, and Purple Patches, the annual stage review. The Persian Kitten was introduced to a convulsed audience in the old Little Theatre, by that inimitable and renowned banjo player, "Hutch", who gave our years at Western a unique and special quality.

Hutch, clad only in skimpy plaid shorts, shuffled to centre stage, hitched his banjo up on his naked right hip, and voice hoarse from many performances, burst forth with his raucous and risque rendition of that infamous Persian Kitten. I am sending the poem along in all its original glory.

An Alum.

Dear Alum: Delightful! We have received several versions. Yours (I mean Hutch's) is the longest and I suspect he added that extra final line — "a ratching scratching travellin' man!"

Dear Doris: I have found that being allowed, even encouraged, to talk with you via pen and paper has helped me a great deal; and I know from experience that a burden which is shared is indeed greatly lightened.

I find that writing, along with many other things, helped me to take my mind off myself for a while. There are still times when I become lost and frightened but I find that by looking at things objectively I can usually face my problems.

This may seem like a tremendous change. I haven't really changed at all. I have just realized that I am not alone and I have plenty of help if I look for it in the right place.

Changed Attitude.

Dear Changed: Well, isn't there a little in attitude the only thing that counts? The way we think is the way we are. I know from your previous letter that at least part of your salvation has been in really taking hold of the Christianity which was taught to you when you were little. And now you know you are not really alone.

(Ask Doris about your difficulty, writing her in care of this newspaper. She will discuss it or send you to a source of help.)

Dear Doris: Such a surprise to see me quoted in your column! I hesitated to add to the burden of your reading but there is many need your help.

About the body snatchers: I have a paper clipping from Ballymena Weekly Telegraph of 1961, telling of the Connor Body Snatchers of County Antrim. It shows a picture of one of the half dozen corpse houses still standing there.

But Dr. William Kenny (of our family) was buried in the garden at the family farm and a wake was held for three days and nights. Relatives and friends took turns so there was food and talk and at times music. Not really a party as such.

The body was then given proper burial in Kirkinriola churchyard four miles from Belfast.

In that same write-up the laboring man in those days had a wage of 12 shillings and sold a dead body (or cadaver) brought five pounds, six pounds or even 10 pounds. Then a shilling was a quarter (Canadian) and a pound was $5 our money. So business was good till the Anatomy Act in North Ireland in 1832.

T.W.

Dear T. W.: No I feel fine I gather the bodies were prized for their use in medical research.

Ann Landers

Doctors Top Clergy in Ann's Lechery Contest

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: I am back from China, but my head is still in Peking. I awakened this morning, made myself a cup of tea, and started to do my own laundry.

But now I must address myself to the enormous mountain of mail that has accumulated in my absence. And the first business at hand is to let you know the results of the poll: Confession—Who, make the most pesses—doctors, lawyers or clergymen?

It all started when I printed a letter from a woman who said she had read several letters in my column over the past years from women who claimed their doctors tried to get intimate. The writer declared: "I never had trouble with a doctor, but the lawyer who handled my divorce case propositioned me and I was so eager to get out of a lousy marriage, I agreed to 'cooperate'—right in his office, on the leather couch." She signed herself "Dumb Dora."

I told Dora: "Poor judgment and weak character don't belong exclusively to any single profession—there are bound to be a few rotten apples in every barrel." etc.

I was promptly inundated with blasts and bouquets for both lawyers and doctors, but I was astonished by the number of women who wrote to say they never had any trouble with either and that the one to keep an eye on was the clergyman.

When I printed that letter, several readers suggested I take a poll. So I asked for one-word postcards in response to the question: "Which one has had a pass from a doctor, a lawyer or a clergyman? If so, which one?"

The results were staggering. It was a dead heat between the doctors and the clergymen, with the lawyers edging out the clergymen by a small margin.

It was surprised to learn that dentists beat out lawyers by approximately 50 votes. (Many specified divorce lawyer.)

Here are some responses I found interesting:

From Atlanta: "Bosses are the worst. No doctor, lawyer, or clergymen ever got out of line with me but I had to quit three jobs because of lecherous bosses."

From New Orleans: "College professors lead the pack. I'm ashamed to say I gave in to two of them. It was my first A."

From Chicago: "You are a fine charitable soul. I am a male who has been propositioned by four girls who work in this office and I'm not even big nor schlakes. I'm only the office manager. I'm not sure I belong to accept the fact that women are as aggressive, sexually, as men."

Canton, Ohio: "I am 75 years old and have been propositioned 10 times: two physicians, two lawyers, one minister, one evangelist, three travelling salesmen, one plumber and the mortician who buried my husband."

Memphis: "The most brazen proposition I ever received came from an estimator for a termite control company. Sign me—Bugged in Tennessee."

I received hundreds of cards from women who expressed this sentiment (this one is from Davenport, Iowa): "I am 44 years old, a former beauty queen, and have been considered gold-looking and well-stacked all my life. I've had seven marriage proposals (accepted a navy officer coming. I knew how to head it. 11 years ago) but never a single off in a humorous, but emphatic proposition. Why? Because I've always conducted myself like a lady. Whenever I saw a pass manner. I never lost my cool and I never lost a friend."

Brockville's Bob Hunter churns the water as he heads toward the finish in the last lengths of his swim. Bob was one of 30 boys who competed in the first ever Canadian Tetrathlon. The swimming competition was held at Sir James Whitney School and marked the first event of the two-day program.

Tetrathlon a Canadian First

By MARK SHATT
Sports Staff

Take 30 boys, give them lots of wide open space and four events to complete and you have the first ever tetrathlon to be held in Canada.

A tetrathlon is a series of four different events that each competitor must compete. A time limit is placed on each event and each athlete works down from a certain number of points. The person with the highest number of total points is declared the winner.

The events are such that they combine the endurance of swimming and cross-country running with the skill and accuracy of pistol shooting and horseback riding.

There are three phases of the events, novice, junior and senior, with three winners in each category.

The program got under way on Saturday at Sir James Whitney School (OSD) swimming pool.

Boys from all over Ontario took part in the event which was sponsored by the Highlands of Hastings Pony Club.

The promoters of the program were more than pleased with the interest shown in the weekend event and hope to make it an annual one.

In the junior Class, Gary McIlroy of Belleville took the first place award. Wally Hill of Brockville and Stephen Zajac of King City were second and third respectively.

The Senior competition was won by Bennett Foster of Belthorne Hills. Dick Meredith of Credit Valley was the second place finisher and Don Koval of Kingston was third.

A 17-year-old, Bennett Foster feels that this type of event can catch on big if it is a worthwhile experience.

Rollins Wins 6-5 in Ninth

DeMille Leads Late Charge

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Sunday afternoon the sky was grey and cloudy. The wind carried the smell of rain. All-in-all it was depressing. The weather appeared to be reacting on Rollins Construction.

The whole team appeared apathetic in their attitude about their Ontario Amateur Softball Association Intermediate A contest at the Ainslie.

One of the players on the club commented that there was probably more like at the early morgue.

Nevertheless, something sparked the club in the bottom of the ninth inning and they scored two runs to defeat St. Thomas Empires 6-5 and take a 1-0 lead in their provincial quarter-final series.

Ken DeMille's pinch-hit triple in the ninth with two runners on base, won the game.

Vic (Bill Horse) threw me the first pitch," said DeMille, "and then he turned around and threw me the same thing on the next pitch."

That was Horse's mistake. DeMille, being a pitcher himself, was waiting for it. He connected and it was game over.

"We didn't play well," said Rollins' coach, Bob Boyle, "we just weren't in the game. We didn't hit in the clutch and we've been running wild."

The Empires took advantage of Rollins' doldrum in the first inning. They scored two runs on a couple of errors and two hits. They scored one more in the second, another in the third and one in the fourth.

Rollins got four runs in the second inning and then fell back into a slump until the ninth inning. Paul Goodfellow got on base when he was hit by a pitch and Wayne McTaggart made it to first on a fielder's choice. DeMille then cracked his triple to win the game.

Carl Rosenbower was tops at the plate for Rollins with a triple and two singles. Paul Goodfellow had a double and single, Dale Duval and Ted Wahs each had a pair of singles and Dave Lott, Marv Stacey and Glenn Carleton singled once each.

Rick McCrae had a triple and a double and scored three runs to lead St. Thomas. Harry Bartley singled three times.

Wahs fanned six batters and walked two in earning the win. He scattered 13 hits.

Horne took the loss giving up 14 hits, walking two and striking out seven.

The second game in the best of three series will be played in St. Thomas at 3 p.m. next Sunday.

Trenton Peewees In Final

TRENTON — A 16-13 defeat of Lorden Byrnes at Centennial Park gave Saturday propelled Trenton Legion to the Ontario Baseball Association Peewee C finals.

It is expected the Legion squad will open the Ontario championship series in the Windsor area, this weekend.

Saturday's victory marked the second game in a row that the Trenton team has erupted for 14 runs. After dropped the opener 4-3 at the said at home, 12-4, Legion bounced back to square things with a 14-5 win in London to set the stage for the deciding game here.

Kevin Pistrick and Paul Dicamorco shared the pitching for Legion. Zepfa and Murphy toiled in defeat.

Pistrick had four base hits, including a two-run homer for the winners. Dicrescenzo, Steve Alexander and Greg Howard had two safeties each.

Cats' Intra-squad Game

Reds Meet Whites

Belleville Bobcat general manager Jim (Gaspe) Mallon's football squad will be out on display at the club's training camp, will get a chance tonight to see the recruits under fire.

At Bobcat Skip Rick, the club's intra-squad game, pitting the reds against the whites, is scheduled for 8.15 p.m.

Cats, under coach Timmy Williams, are preparing for their first pre-season match of the season, a Wednesday home date with the Metro Junior B Hockey League's new entry, Scarboro Voyageurs.

The Wednesday match is set for Memorial Arena and indications are everything will be in readiness at the home of the Cats, for the Wednesday contest.

Admission prices this season are: Children, 21; students, $1.25, and adults, $1.50. Those prices will be in effect for pre-season games. Season ticket holders will pay $1 for exhibition games.

Belleville Olympics goaltender; Zoltan Vigh, turns around just in time to see the ball drop to the ground inside the net. Vigh was beaten on a high sharp angle shot by Kingston Ithio Canadians' Abe Nelson. The goal was scored with just a few minutes left in the game and killed Belleville's chances of a comeback. It gave the Canadians a 5-3 victory in the Premier Soccer League contest.

Devolin's Defeated 3-2 in 14 Innings

Devolin Motors travelled to Toronto Weston Park Saturday, but came home empty handed after the first game of their Ontario Amateur Softball Association Senior B series.

Their 3-2 loss to the Toronto squad wasn't for lack of effort however, as they battled their way through 14, tough innings of ball before dropping the decision.

Devolin's took the lead in the first, inning, but, Toronto tied the game up in bottom of the second. The locals went ahead in the fourth 3-1 and that lead stood until the bottom of the seventh when Toronto equalized.

The next seven innings turned into a pitcher's duel between Devolin's, Larry Griffin, and Toronto's, Dan Crowley.

In the bottom of the 14th Winston Park banged out a double and two singles off Griffin to score the winning run. To that point Griffin had allowed only six hits.

Crowley faced 51 batters in taking the win. He struck out seven, walked one and gave up eight hits.

Griffin came up against 54 batters, struck out 13, walked three and gave up nine hits.

Gary Gosnell was the hero at the plate with a double and a single. Eric Maher singled twice, Griffin had a triple and Bruce Sickle, Darryl Kremp and Rick Rombauh each singled once.

The bottom three in the Toronto lineup were kept at the plate. Denny McClinker and John MacDonald, the seventh and eighth batters in the order, each had a triple and a double and Crowley the ninth batter, had a pair of singles. Other hitters were Frank Lavendi, a double, and Ray O'Quinn and Keith Watling, a single each.

The second game in the best of three series will be played in Belleville at Ainslie Park on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. If a third game in the series is necessary it will be played on a neutral field in Cobourg.

Comeback Sinks Riders, Als Take 4-point Lead

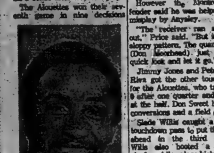
Montreal Alouettes continue to enjoy life at the top of the Eastern Football Conference standings while Ottawa Rough Riders continue to wallow in the CFC cellar after weekend play.

The Alouettes used the only seventh game in nine decisions this season to overcome Ottawa 26-22 Saturday night, coming from behind to defeat British Columbia Lions 21-12 in a Canadian Football League interlocking clash.

Meanwhile the Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, failed to score a touchdown again as they dropped a 16-9 decision to fourth place Hamilton Tiger-Cats.



Johnny Rodgers played what coach Marv Levy termed "the best game of the season" by scoring on a four-yard touchdown run and gaining 167 yards total offence on the Alouettes' 26 offensive plays.

But it was Phil Price's second touchdown of the game late in the third quarter that turned the game around for the CFC leaders.

Price grabbed a pass intended for Brock Anysley and scampered 54 yards down the right sideline for a touchdown that erased a 12-7 B.C. lead.

However Sig Hoestetler, defender said he was helped by a misplay by Anysley.

"The receiver ran a quick out," Price said. "But it was a sloppy pattern. The quarterback (Don Moorhead) just took a quick look and let it go."

Jimmy Jones and Peter Dalla Riva got the other touchdowns for the Alouettes, who trailed 3-0 after one quarter and led 7-4 at the half. Don Sweet had four conversions and a field goal.

Gaele Wilbur caught a 22-yard touchdown pass to put Lions ahead in the third quarter. Wilbur also booted a 70-yard single while punter Don MacMillan had a field goal, convert and a single.

The Lions had 10 first downs as they gained 110 yards rushing and 149 passing. Montreal had 22 first downs with 290 yards rushing and 204 yards passing.

"We never had a chance," B.C. coach Eagle Keys noted. "They're one of the hardest charging teams in the league. They're stronger that way than any other team. It created a lot of problems. We just couldn't move the ball.

"It was gratifying that our defense played as well as it did," Levy said. "Our pass protections was excellent and we had good balance. But the B.C. defence is a very good one against and they made us 10 mistakes."

Meanwhile the Stampeders chalked up their second victory in four of the year with a win over the punchless Rough Riders who have scored one touchdown in their last five games.

The only touchdown of the game was scored by the Stampeders Don Sutherland as he broke a 9-9 tie with a one-yard run with 5:24 minutes gone in the fourth quarter.

Cyril McFall added a convert and three field goals while Sutherland added a convert and single.

Ottawa's only touchdown came on a 10-yard pass from quarterback Terry Evanshen to Jim Evenson.

Evanshen also threw field goals to account for all the Ottawa offensive output.

And if things were not bad enough, Ottawa now has to face the rest of the season without quarterback Jim Evenson. Evenson suffered strained ligaments in his right knee in the third quarter.

"We're doing everything, but we're just not scoring," said Ottawa coach George Brancato.

Asked if some of his players were just not putting out their best, he replied:

"Whether they are putting out or not, some of them just are not good enough."

Veteran Defencemen Hold Key to Series

QUEBEC (CP) — With one day remaining before the opening of the hockey series between Canada and the Soviet Union, the youngest member of Team Canada "It has butterflies."

"It was hard to sleep," said Pat Price, 18, who played his way aboard the club during a five-game exhibition series. "Eastern Canada was a wild game before it gets better."

Price is not expected to play in the opening game here Tuesday, but coach Billy Harris said the brilliant defencemen would see action during the series.

"I don't mind waiting," said Price. "I'm just glad to be here."

Price impressed Harris with his mobility, which may be lacking among Team Canada's eight original defencemen.

"I want my defencemen to defend territory, to retrieve when the Russians have the puck," said Harris. "I've asked them when they're sitting on the bench, to watch Pat Stapleton, who was among the leading defencemen in the 1972 series."

Stapleton and Vic Tremblay are expected to be Team Canada's premier defensive pairing throughout the eight - game series which ends Oct. 6 in Moscow.

"I expect our forwards to use more hobby contact than our defencemen," said Harris. "We won't punish the Russians. They're too shifty and too well conditioned for that. But we may frustrate them."

Price, a Saskatoon junior graduate who signed a multi-year agreement with Vancouver Blazers of the World Hockey Association, was the leading scoring defenceman on the Western Canada Hockey League junior all-star team that played five exhibition games with Team Canada.

"Hard work got me here," said Price, a Nelson, B.C., native. "Hard work will help me be ready when it's time for me to play."

Harris said Sunday he is pleased that many veterans accustomed to the frowsy granted by North American officials, have recognized that things will be different in international competition.

"I watched Johnny McKenzie take a borderline penalty in one game with international officials," said Harris. "He didn't like the call but he didn't pop at the referee and he didn't glare.

"It was the attitude we must have against penalties."

Price drew a misconduct in one exhibition game and probably should have had another.

"It's a great way to learn a lesson—sitting in the penalty box while the parade goes by," said Price. "I can control my temper if I have to; and now I know I have to."

The Russians had two impressive workouts Sunday, while Team Canada had one light session.

PAT STAPLETON

Petty Winner

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Richard Petty, freed of stiff competition when engine trouble forced Cale Yarborough and David Pearson out, eased to victory Sunday at the Delaware 500 Grand National stock car race.

Petty, 37, drove his 1974 Dodge to the finish line a full four laps ahead of Buddy Baker to claim his 16th victory this year on the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) circuit.

Baker, 33, of Charlotte, N.C., driving a Ford, finished ahead of rookie Earl Ross of Alba Craig, Ont.

Undefeated PCO Team Rolls to Minto Cup

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Peterborough PCOs won the Minto Cup Saturday night for the third straight year, but may never do it again.

"We won't have much left after next year," said coach Ron Floyd after the PCOs defeated Burnaby Cablevision 13-11 in the final game of the best-of-seven series to wrap up the Canadian senior lacrosse championship in four straight games.

"This was our big year."

Peterborough became the first junior lacrosse team in history to go through a season undefeated. They defeated Burnaby 16-11, 13-6 and 15-11 in the earlier contests.

The series could have been closer if it had gone to five or more games said Floyd. "The way that Burnaby team was coming on I think they would have started to beat us."

The Peterborough coach predicted the younger Burnaby players would win the Minto Cup in 1976.

Burnaby manager Jack Crosby said Burnaby, not expected to be in Minto Cup competition this year, would win next year when Peterborough loses star goaltender Tim Barrie through graduation.

Barrie was named the series' most valuable player and was credited by Crosby with beating Burnaby.

Peterborough led 6-5 at the end of the first period Saturday night and 9-7 at the end of the second.

Ken Byers scored three goals for the PCOs, two of them in the third period. Dave Carroll scored twice with other Peterborough goals coming from Jim Johnston, Mark Vidrelli, Bob Wasson, Steve Pinchett, Guy Legault, Gord Duncan and Randy Bryan.

Dave Matheson and Mike McLeaughan scored three goals each for Burnaby, while Eddy McLeaughan and Dan Wilson each scored twice. Mike Holden had the other goal and added three assists.

Defences Dominate As NFL Season Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You can grade the National Football League's opening day D for defence.

Don't feel too sorry for Miami Dolphins, upset 34-24 by New England Patriots Sunday. After all, the defending world champions scored three touchdowns and a field goal, and that is considerably more than some clubs managed on a day of defence-dominated openers.

Baltimore Colts were shut out by Pittsburgh Steelers 20-0 and Atlanta Falcons were blanked by Dallas Cowboys 24-0. St. Louis Cardinals managed only one touchdown, but that was enough to whip Philadelphia Eagles, who managed only one field goal, 7-3. Four other clubs scored 10 points or less.

Cincinnati Bengals ripped Cleveland Browns 33-7, Washington Redskins tagged New York Giants 31-10, Chicago Bears defeated Detroit Lions 17-9, Los Angeles Rams beat Denver Broncos 17-10, Minnesota Vikings whipped Green Bay Packers 23-17, San Francisco 49ers shaded New Orleans Saints 17-13 and Kansas City Chiefs stopped New York Jets 24-14.

Dodgers Salvage Win To Stall Reds' Drive

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hershel Bennett, a three-game sweep at Los Angeles Sunday, Cincinnati Reds run into Don Sutton's pitching and Jimmy Wynn's hitting -and had to pull up short.

Sutton scattered six hits and pitched out of two bases-loaded jams and Wynn hit a grand-slam home run in the seventh inning to lead a 7-1 Los Angeles Dodgers Victory.

The Dodgers ended a six-game winning streak for Cincinnati and opened a 2½-game lead over the Reds in the National League West race.

Before Wynn came up with his big hit, Sutton had to come up with a big pitch in the fifth inning. He faced Johnny Bench with a two-out and the bases loaded and went to a 3-2 count before striking out the Cincinnati slugger.

The Dodgers added a safety insurance run in the eighth on Bill Buckner's double, a sacrifice by Ron Cey and Bennett's single.

Sutton, who gave up only seven hits in his 11th victory against 12 losses, was relieved by Mike Marshall in the ninth inning after Pete Rose opened with a single and Tony Perez walked.

Marshall got Dan Driessen on a fly ball to left field, Bench on a grounder to second baseman Davey Lopes and Cesar Geronimo on a fly to right fielder Bennett.

Cincinnati starter Jack Billingham, 15-12, was the loser.

In the first inning, Lopes walked and stole second. He moved to third on Buckner's infield out and scored on Cey's sacrifice fly.

The Dodgers added a run in the third inning when Lopes singled, stole second and scored on Bennett's single.

Wynn's grand slam, his 15th home run of the season, came in the seventh inning off reliever Clay Kirby, 6-8, after Lopes walked and Bennett singled.

Kirby started for the Reds but was relieved by Billingham after Lopes' walk.

Billingham, 15-12, was relieved by Pedro Borbon in the seventh inning after Lopes walked and Bennett singled.

Perry and Ryan At 20-win Level

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry of Cleveland Indians became the fifth pitcher in the American League to record 20 wins this season when he stopped Baltimore Colts 1-0 on five hits Sunday.

Later Sunday, Nolan Ryan became No. 6 as California Angels beat Chicago White Sox 8-5.

Jim Bibby was relied in his bid to become No. 7 when Sal Bando's two-run homer in the third inning fired Oakland A's to a 3-1 victory over Texas Rangers and Bibby, 13-17.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York Yankees have whipped Detroit Tigers 10-2, Minnesota Twins defeated Kansas City Royals 5-3 and Milwaukee Brewers beat Boston Red Sox 9-5.

The designated hitter rule, introduced in the American League last year but not adopted by the National, has changed pitching patterns and increased run production. Last year, for example, 6 of the 12 20-game winners in the majors were in the American League.

"With the designated hitter rule, you go with your starting pitchers longer," Dick Williams, the former Oakland skipper who now manages the Angels, once explained. "That's proven by the higher number of decisions by the starting pitchers."

Perry's 20th victory came on his 30th birthday.

It was his fourth 20-victory season, two with San Francisco Giants and two since coming to Cleveland.

Baltimore's Ross Grimsley, who had pitched 28 consecutive scoreless innings, walked John Lowenstein on four pitches with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to force in the only run of the game.

Ryan, 20-15, struck out seven White Sox batters in reaching the 30-game circle for the second straight year. He now has 327 strikeouts for the season, with a shot at equalling the major league record of 383 he set last year.

The White Sox were without slugging first baseman Dick Allen, the AL home run leader with 32. He announced his retirement from West Coast racetracks.

Bobby Murcer drove in four runs for the Yankees and singled home Larry Gura posted his fourth victory after being brought up from Syracuse in mid-August.

The Yankees now lead Baltimore by 3½ games and Boston by 5½ in the AL East race.

New York got two runs in the first on a run-scoring double by Lou Piniella and an RBI single by Thurman Munson. Murcer's two-run double was the big hit of a four-run outburst in the second, while Graig Nettles' single made it 7-0 in the third. Murcer had a two-run single when the Yankees added three more runs in the eighth.

Al Kaline had a run-scoring single for the Tigers. He now has 2,582 hits for his career.

Gorman Thomas' grand-slam home run in the first inning off Tim Johnson's no-run triple highlighted a four-run third for the Brewers.

Joe Decker fired a six-hitter and struck out eight for the Twins, raising his record to 13-12.

After falling behind 2-0, the Twins tied the score in the third on Rob Darwin's two-run single, then went ahead with two runs in the sixth on an RBI single by Glenn Borgmann and a squeeze bunt by Rod Carew.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals beat Philadelphia Phillies 3-1; Montreal Expos stopped Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2; Chicago Cubs stopped New York Mets 8-4; Atlanta Braves downed San Diego Padres 5-1 and the Houston Astros blanked San Francisco Giants 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second game, 5-3.

Then Dodgers were held to just one hit for five innings by Fred Norman and trailed 1-0 before scoring two runs in the sixth to take a 2-1 lead.

In the seventh, against Pedro Borbon, Los Angeles loaded the bases on an infield single by Steve Yeager, a sacrificed bunt by Sutton, a single by Davey Lopes, who went to second on a play at third, and an intentional walk to Bill Buckner.

Wynn then hit his homer into the left-field pavilion, his 81st of the season, to tie the Los Angeles club record for home runs set by Frank Howard in 1968. Wynn's blast gave him 103 runs batted in for the year.

Garvey then followed with a homer over the centre-field wall, his 33rd of the season and his 103 RBI.

The clubs ended their season series with Los Angeles winning 12 of the 18 games.

Bob Forsch allowed only two hits in eight innings of shutout ball, then Alan Hrabosky provided spectacular relief pitching in the ninth to lead St. Louis over Philadelphia. The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's defeat, gave the Cardinals a 1½-game lead over the Pirates in the National League East.

St. Louis scored two runs in the fourth off Carlton, 14-13, who hasn't won a game since Aug. 4.

The Cards added a run in the sixth on a single by Ted Simmons and an RBI single by Joe Torre.

Steve Dalkowski threw in Chicago's go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly as the Cubs scored twice in the ninth to beat New York.

Phil Niekro scattered seven hits and singled home a tie-breaking run in the seventh inning to lead Atlanta over San Diego.

Seven Straight for Expos

Willie Davis Sounds Off

MONTREAL (CP) — With timely hitting and clutch pitching, Montreal Expos have won seven straight games and moved within 1½ games of the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East.

Saturday, Montreal defeated Pittsburgh 7-2 after clubbing the Pirates 9-3 Friday night.

Outfielder Willie Davis, benched for showing up late for practice Aug. 31, launched a key two-run homer in the fifth inning Saturday and gave Montreal a 4-1 National League baseball victory and a sweep of Sunday's game, knocked in two runs with a single in the seventh inning to lead Atlanta over San Diego.

Romanian Trade Expert Seeking Asylum Here

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that a Romanian trade expert who was part of his country's official delegation to the Canadian National Exhibition made a formal request to stay in Canada last week. His initial request was delayed because a Romanian interpreter was not available, but he was interviewed Thursday and a decision is pending, the newspaper says.

Mr. Mihaescha, in his mid-30s, is in Toronto with temporary immigration status until more detailed inquiries can be done, the Globe and Mail says.

Dangerous Cancer Drug Said Made Safe to Use

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — The director of a cancer research centre at Borgess Hospital says he has developed a safe and effective method of treating forms of lung cancer.

However, an official of the U.S. National Cancer Institute said it is too early to pass judgment on the treatment.

Dr. William Tucker said Sunday he discovered a way to administer a deadly toxic drug that he believes could be effective in treating 50 per cent of all lung cancer cases.

Tucker heads the Midwest Oncology Centre where he said he devised a treatment to overcome the dangerous side-effects of ifosfamide, a synthetic drug used experimentally in Germany in WI.

NDP Picks Candidate

CORNWALL (CP) — George Sands, 31, a bilingual high school teacher here, was acclaimed Sunday as NDP candidate for the Oct. 11 provincial byelection in Stormont riding.

The byelection was called two weeks ago to fill the seat vacated when former labor minister Fern Guindon resigned unsuccessfully run in the July 8 federal election.

Mr. Sands was also the NDP candidate in the 1971 provincial election and placed second to Mr. Guindon.

NDP Leader Stephen Lewis told about 150 people at the convention meeting that the byelection "speaks for all of Ontario."

Economic Solution Needs Time

NEW YORK (AP) — James Needham, president of the New York Stock Exchange, warned Sunday that Americans must tighten their belts and wait three to five years for a solution of their country's economic ills.

He said the biggest mistake that might be made would be to fool the people by believing the problem can be solved in a hurry.

Needham said the first step must be to identify the problem, which he believed can be done through a series of national summit and mini-summit meetings as proposed by President Ford.

"They will identify the problem," Needham said. "Then I'm absolutely certain the solution will be forthcoming."

Asked whether the United States is on the verge of a depression, he said: "I think that's overstating the case."

Trade Cut

DETROIT (AP) — The number of ocean-going vessels plying the Great Lakes this season numbered 327 on Sept. 7, less than the half of the 691 which made the trip through the St. Lawrence seaway a year ago.

Strike Over

TORONTO (CP) — A basis of settlement was reached Saturday night in a strike at Massey-Ferguson Ltd. plants here and in Brantford, a United Auto Workers union spokesman said.

Coon Champ

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Len Hetkey of Clifford, Ont., is going to need plenty of room on his trophy shelf.

His blue tick coon hounds won eight trophies Sunday in the ninth annual Canadian Autumn Open Hunt and Dog Show.

Power Out

TORONTO (CP) — Power was restored early Sunday in a 250-unit apartment building which was without electricity for 48 hours after fire destroyed an electrical panel.

Tenants complaining said management should have declared the building uninhabitable without power and assured tenants they would be compensated for reasonable hotel expenses.

But the company, Cadillac Property Management, has not made clear, however, whether it will pay hotel bills for some tenants who moved into hotels during the trouble.

Couples Slain

DETROIT (AP) — The killings of two elderly couples during the weekend brought Detroit's homicide total to 544 so far this year, compared with 526 on this date a year ago.

The bodies of David McCloud, 82, and his wife Alice, 72, were found by their son just after midnight Saturday night at their home, Police said. The son told police he came in as his mother was being beaten by a man with a pipe. He said the man then attacked him and took his wallet.

The bodies of another elderly couple, Barnes Williamson, 65, and his wife Amelia, 62, were found in their apartment Sunday. Police said both had been dead for some time, and the apartment ransacked.

Flood Kills 2

NELSON, Nev. (AP) — A flood has left two persons dead and seven bulldozed buried under tons of debris at a Colorado River boat landing.

The flood, a 40-foot-high wall of water caused by thunderstorms, roared out of the mountains down the normally dry El Dorado Canyon and wiped out Nelson's Landing late Saturday.

Sublimal Ad Ban Proposed by MP

OTTAWA (CP) — MP Lloyd Francis says he intends to introduce a private member's bill in the next Parliament, which, if passed would outlaw subliminal television advertising.

Use of the technique was discovered in a television commercial aired last fall during the pre-Christmas season on CFCF-TV in Montreal, said the Liberal member for Ottawa West.

The advertisement displayed a toy and flashed "Get it" four times for a quarter of a second each time.

The phrase, which could be seen only when the film was slowed down, was aimed at the subconscious mind. Experts are not yet certain whether the technique is effective.

"This is a brainwashing technique and the ad in question was directed at children," said Mr. Francis. "I think this is morally indefensible."

"There is no government body looking into this situation and self-regulation by the broadcasting industry hasn't worked," he added.

Say Nixon Pledged Aid To Aides, Then Welched

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon promised while president to pardon former aides H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, then refused to sit the last minute to take the action, Time magazine reports.

"You don't have anything to worry about, I'll take care of you," Time quoted Nixon as telling Haldeman and Ehrlichman on April 25, 1973.

The promise came just hours before Nixon persuaded the two men to resign in the face of mounting Watergate charges, the magazine says.

Both men approached Nixon with pleas for pardons just before he resigned Aug. 8, but were rebuffed, Times says.

"This is a brainwashing technique and the ad in question was directed at children," said Mr. Francis. "I think this is morally indefensible."

"There is no government body looking into this situation and self-regulation by the broadcasting industry hasn't worked," he added.

Nixon a week ago.

Haldeman, 47, a former chief of staff to Nixon, was indicted on the count of conspiracy to obstruct justice, one count of obstruction of justice and three counts of perjury.

Whelan Declares He Is Popular

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan says his popularity has not been diminished by 28 million spoiled eggs.

"I've never been so popular in my life," he told an anniversary meeting of the Ontario Soybean Growers' Marketing Board during the weekend.

He did not mention eggs in a brief speech at the meeting, but earlier said in an interview he is not ashamed to defend the record of the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency which last announced the destruction of 28 million spoiled eggs in recent weeks.

"I'm not ashamed at all to be associated with people who produce a surplus," he said. "The trouble is that too many Canadians are not producing enough. That is what is causing inflation."

The minister said he has not changed his mind about the need for marketing organizations.

Canadian farmers have been subject to every whim of fortune, he told the meeting.

"I will do my damnedest to provide them with the same security enjoyed by every other walk of life."

seller, was indicted on one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice, one count of obstruction of justice, one count of lying to FBI agents and two counts of lying to a grand jury.

Gas Rip Off Is Alleged

CHATHAM (CP) — Union Gas Ltd. employees have accused all six Ontario gas companies of "ripping off" consumers.

In a brief prepared during a weekend meeting, union representatives also said the companies' emergency services are endangering customers' lives by tempting them to do their own repairs.

The 29 representatives of the International Chemical Workers' (ICW) and Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (OCAW) unions passed resolutions demanding more government controls on gas companies.

Farmers Rally

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of British farmers on tractors and combines blocked shopping centres in 300 towns Saturday to protest rising food prices and demand a better deal for themselves.

The National Farmers Union, which organized the protest as part of a European-wide demonstration for higher farm prices in the European Common Market, claimed 50,000 British farmers demonstrated.

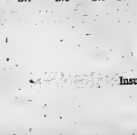
The money your home has gained in value could go up in smoke.

If you're a homeowner, the recent dramatic increases in housing values have probably been one of your few consolations in these times of spiraling inflation.

But this gain could go up in smoke if your home were destroyed by a fire.

Sure, you have insurance. But does your insurance reflect the tremendous rise in home construction cost?

That's what you'd be faced with if you had to rebuild your home. You might be in for a shock. Home construction costs—labour and materials combined—have risen 40.0 per cent in Ontario since early 1971.



The best way to protect the investment your home represents is to get together with your insurance agent or broker and discuss your insurance. You owe it to your peace of mind.

The Insurance Bureau of Canada also has two pamphlets which can help you protect the investment in your home. "Has Your Home Outgrown Your Home Insurance" outlines some of the things you should think about when you are reviewing your home insurance to meet current values.

"Sixty Ways to Prevent Fire in your Home" details some of the common fire hazards around the home. You can use it as a checklist to make sure that your home is as safe as possible from fire.

These pamphlets are available free of charge from The Insurance Bureau of Canada, 170 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario M5H 3B4.

We don't want you to have a fire in your home. But if you do have one, we want you to be fully insured so you are not faced with the prospect of finding thousands of dollars to rebuild your home.

Waiter Dances With Beer on Head

Dave, a native of Fredericton who moved to the Sarnia area from London, Ont., last June, puts on a little show for the customers at the Village Inn.

When the lights are low, the volume is turned up on the John Travolta and Dave soundtrack with a tray of beer glasses on his head and starts to dance.

He performs to swing, rock, polkas, you name it, with a partiality for fast numbers like his favorite, Proud Mary.

Dave developed the act in London, he said, once or less balking himself into it.

"I used to tease the a go-go girls that worked in the bar, saying I could dance better than they could, even with a tray of beer on my head."

They challenged him to prove it, and he did.

He has borne to grief twice, he said, both times when he was harassed by a passing customer. But there are other occupational hazards.

Dave is susceptible to hay fever and, with the pollen season, he must face the possibility of an ill-timed sneeze.

Dave's act surprises many of the customers because of his size. He is six feet two inches tall and weighs 265. But he is as graceful as a ballerina with the tray balanced on his skull.

At Dave's request, the hotel manager is taking steps to improve the act.

The narrow-bottomed glasses in use at the bar tend to slip too easily, Dave said. They are to be replaced with glass with a wider bottom.

Then he will be able to swing the tray more easily and let his whole body go, particularly in a number like Proud Mary.

But he still plans to restrict his performances to four or five a night. He doesn't want to upstage the bar's regular entertainers.

Parallax View At Mall

Parallax View, a sometimes slow, sometimes fast-paced spectacle of political assassination, now is showing at the Quinte Mall's Cine 1.

Warren Beatty heads up the cast as a music-convicting reporter who uncovers the Parallax Corporation — killers for hire.

The film starts off with the murder of a senator and the death plunge of his supposed assassin from the top of the Seattle Space Needle.

Everyone — that is with the exception of Mr. Beatty and his more-than-be-assassinated reporter-type girl friend Paula Prentiss — believes the murder was just an insane act that is way connected with a large-scale conspiracy.

In George Plimpton style, Beatty applies for a job with Parallax to get the goods on the corporation. The interview is the top of the movie. Fast action, still photographs flash on the screen while impulses from our reporter's fingers are analyzed in a computer.

Diane Cronyn plays Beatty's editor, the only man who knows the Parallax story. He plans the part well although he fills the screen for only brief moments.

Beatty gets the job of Parallax killer, but, like all the rest who knew any small segment of the Parallax organization, our reporter's story ends with a big gun blast and not a headline.

TerHorst Says Ford's Aides Object to Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald TerHorst says aides of President Ford, the man he served for a month as press secretary, found it frustrating and even demeaning to have to work through Nixon administration theirs.

Because of the sudden shift of presidential power, TerHorst says, decisions of the new Administration could be translated into reality only because of the organization controlled by White House chief-of-staff Alexander Haig.

"The Ford men naturally find that frustrating and even demeaning," TerHorst writes.

"And it is especially so for ever Ford moved to charge a Nixon-Haig policy."

TerHorst made the comments in a new column copyrighted by the Detroit News and Universal Press Syndicate.

TerHorst resigned as Ford's press secretary a week ago after he promised he granted a full pardon to former president Richard Nixon.

In his column, TerHorst wrote that Haig and his associates were not used to Ford's style, which he described as open and candid and not given to being impressed by lengthy memos and position papers.

TerHorst hit Ford's style of "hands-on" management, wrote. "Thus's preoccupation with Watergate had tremendously limited Haig's authority in the White House and the execution of the programs of the government.

"For most of the final Nixon year, as Haig himself would agree, he was the acting president of the United States. With presidential power growing more and more within his shell, he was keeping everyone in government, with the possible exception of (State Secretary Henry) Kissinger, was working for Al Haig."

Trip into Past

More than 400 Indians camped near Banff, Alta., last month for the 85th Banff Indian Days — an annual trip into what was for many Canadian Indians a happier time. Four bands from southwestern Alberta were represented — the Blackfoot, the Stoneys, the Sarcees and the Crees. (CP Photo)

Griffins In Final

MONTREAL (CP) — Rochester Griffins advanced to the final of the National Lacrosse League playoffs Sunday night by defeating Montreal Quebecois 18-10 to take their best-of-seven semi-final 4-1.

Brian Wilson scored four goals and Glen Neeman added three to lead the Griffins attack. Al Gershenov, Jon Tipper and Dave Wilfong had two goals each with single goals going to Kevin Parsons, Bill Foote, Brian Keegan, Paul Warden and Tom Plate.

Bill Sheehan scored twice for Montreal with Rick Hawley, Dave Tasker, Sandy Lynch, Rob McCarthy, Wayne Schaubroeck, Jim Lynch, Bill Nunn and Dale MacKenzie getting the others.

Montreal stormed to a 5-3 lead early in the first period but the Griffins outscored the Quebecois 8-1 in the second to put the game out of reach.

The Griffins now meet either Philadelphia Wings or Maryland Arrows in the final series. Philadelphia leads their semi-final 3-2 with the sixth game scheduled Monday night in Landover, Md.

No Project too Difficult For Quebec's 'Le Gros Pierre

MONTREAL (CP) — The figures of Pierre Trudeau have pounded the keyboard with French-Canadian rock; titillated the audiences of international jazz and some day will be wowing the connoisseurs of ballet.

The "le gros Pierre", star of the Ville Emard Blues Band, considered one of Canada's greatest jazz groups, no project is too difficult, providing his musical genius can be tuned.

Pierre was former bookshop clerk Quebec superstar Robert Charlebois, the singer who made Paris audiences with a combination of rock-edged crooning and a Montreal Canadiens hockey sweater.

And before that, Nadeau delighted the heavy-bopper set by playing at dance halls with a band called the Vikings.

Now he is considering a respite from rock and jazz to try his hand at music for a modern ballet. It is not out of character, since Nadeau is working towards his doctorate in music at the University of Montreal.

"What good is a doctorate in music going to do me now? I just want to reach that point. Whatever I do, I like to reach the highest point. It's like making love."

Pierre confided in an interview this week from his new Andre, his first love is composing rather than performing.

He favors the romantic composers and said they have influenced the way he writes jazz.

Chopin "played blues, you know, but they just didn't call it blues then.

As for the 15-member Ville Emard Blues Band, Pierre is extremely confident.

"We started in August of last year and now we're the No. 1 band in Quebec.

"People in Gimbsi have been waiting so long for a Quebecois group, and this is really the first good group ever out of Quebec."

Still, Nadeau said the band is the hope for all future Quebec musicians.

"That's why we have to keep working so hard. If we don't make it now, no one else can.

"We have the talent and potential to be the best in the world. All the musicians here have worked for big stars like Charlebois and Jean-Pierre Ferland. You do all the work for them, but you're always in the shadow.

"Now we don't have to say it their way any more, we've taken it our own way."

Out of Nadeau's Quebecois fusion comes a sound they term "funkebec"—not exactly rock and not exactly jazz, but "funk jazz."

But well on his future that he composed a ballet—the opera-glass and won't be quite the same.

Sports Briefs

NASTASE WINS

CEDAR GROVE, N.J. (AP) —Ilie Nastase, of Romania defeated Juan Gisbert of Spain on Sunday in the final match of a $50,000 tennis tournament. Nastase won $10,000 and 40 Grand Prix points by defeating Gisbert 6-4, 7-6. Nastase played brilliantly in the tournament, winning five matches in straight sets. In Sunday's final he bested Gisbert's deep shots into winners time after time.

WINS CHALLENGE CUP

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States won its Davis Bowne Bell Cup tennis challenge Sunday behind playing captain Jaba Reidmann's 6-1, 6-1 victory over Australia's Evonne Goolagong. The straight-set victory brings the gleaming silver bell home to U.S. shores for the first time since the best-of-nine series between American and Australian women was inaugurated here two years ago. The U.S. sweeps all four matches Saturday, after losing the singles openers Friday to jump ahead 4-2 going into Sunday's play.

New Goal For Miller

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Johnny Miller had just clinched the money-winning title, had reached two plateaus attained only by Jack Nicklaus and was looking for new worlds to conquer.

"I'm basically a lazy person," he said. "I need motivation. I need to keep setting myself higher."

He quickly found the new goal. He's within sight of his single-season money-winning record on the pro golf tour.

Miller's first-place victory over Nicklaus, Frank Beard and Bob Murphy on the World Open title Sunday put him less than $5,000 away from Nicklaus's record of $320,542 in 1972.

Johnny, who joined Jack as the only $200,000 winner in a single season and the only player in the last decade to win seven American tour titles in a year, collected $60,000.

It pushed his winnings to $316,352 for the season and gave him an insurmountable head of more than $80,000 in the money-winning race.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

TUES Sept. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19) You don't have much faith in the abilities of others who are involved with you in your activities. It's bad, not to rely on them too heavily.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) It may suit you best to do today is too heavy or expensive to do alone, better wait until you can get help.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You're apt to be somewhat unsentimental—with too free a hand. Remember, if you're on a budget, it will only stretch so far before it snaps.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Even though you may not feel as sure of yourself as you should, put on a bold front. Bluff your way through.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not thinking as clearly as you should where something you're involved in. Double-check everything. Otherwise a large error could slip through.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to get your friends mixed up in your financial problems you may be taking. It is best for you to resolve things through other channels.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If you're going to pasture your activities, be aware of the time to allow for pick worrisome whose schools aren't too harsh or severe.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let another's enthusiasm give you a bad opinion of yourself. You know what you really can do. Then put thinking to work.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Plans that you make for yourself today won't be realized in the manner you envision if you select the wrong teammates.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be able to get a few bumps on your competition if you don't spend too much time on minor considerations.

Aquarius (Jan. 2 0-Feb. 19) Something you've neglected to do is about to catch up with you. Don't make excuses as to why it isn't done. Jump in and do it now!

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a productive day for you. Chances are it won't be humdrum. You'll direct your energies and attention to something frivolous.

Newspaper Ads Still Dominant

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspapers increased their already-dominant share of advertising dollars in the United States in 1973 and the newspaper trade changed some newspaper advertising patterns, two studies show.

A breakdown of money spent last year on advertising compiled by McCann-Erickson, a New York advertising agency, said newspapers obtained $17.5 billion, or 29.2 per cent of total advertising revenues of $55.1 billion. Television received $4.5 billion, radio took $1.7 billion and $1.4 billion was spent on magazines.

Newspapers also took the largest part of advertising dollar growth, gaining $987 million. That compared with an increase of $422 million by television, $76 million for radio and $6 million for magazines.

Yet, newspaper advertising changed substantially last year, said a report on the newspaper industry by Diddel-Childs Inc., a Maryland-based stock brokerage firm.

Newspaper advertising revenues were boosted last year by many ads from automobile and oil companies plus increases in ad rates. These helped offset sharp declines in resort and travel advertising and in classified help-wanted ads.

"Newspapers benefitted from the rise of explanatory advertising in 1973," the Diddel-Childs report said. "For instance, the oil companies, which usually use television, advertise in newspapers spent a lot of money explaining the 'why' of the gasoline shortage last winter.

"Schedules for planes, trains and other transportation were published prodigiously."

Both Diddel-Childs and McCann-Erickson noted a general trend in marketing toward local advertising which benefitted newspapers.

"Most of the major advertising agencies will use television for 'image' ads for their clients and newspapers for the 'nitty-gritty,'" said John Morton, one of the authors of the McCann-Erickson report.

The report said the newspaper's share of total advertising revenues has grown at the rate of one-tenth of one per cent for the last three years.

"Most of this growth has come at the expense of magazines, whose share of total dollars has shrunk sharply to 5.8 per cent last year from 6.6 per cent in 1971."

"There's no magazine around now that can draw the audience of a 'Look or Life,'" Morton said.

Radio's share of total ad dollars has also declined to 6.7 per cent from 7 per cent in 1971, some of which has gone to newspapers on a local level.

HOVE, England (CP) — A cool gunman balked a taxi outside the station in this Sussex coast resort, told the cabbie to drive to a post office and waited then told his pedmaster and climbed back into the cab with a bag containing £500 ($1,500). He asked the driver to stop at an apartment block for a moment, then slipped away without paying his 75-pence ($1.75) fare.

Toronto Guidebook Is Useful Volume

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most Torontonians don't know it, but there's a grocery store in downtown Toronto open 24 hours a day. If a filling falls out of a tooth in mid-night, the Royal College of Dental surgeons has a special telephone number with a list of dentists who are on call for dental emergencies.

If you are looking for a washroom you have a right to use one in any restaurant. That is set out in the Ontario Public health Act.

These and thousands of other facts about the city are published in Toronto Guidebook.

Edited by former Toronto Star columnist Alexander Ross, the book's 15 pages tell not only the visitor but the Torontonian some little-known facts about where to stay, shop, eat, go for a walk, or even find a low truck at 3 a.m.

Editor Ross puts a little farther than most guidebook compilers by recounting the city's history. Americans scoffed it during the war of 1812, burned it in 1813, of the fledgling metropolis and taking the mace from the legislature.

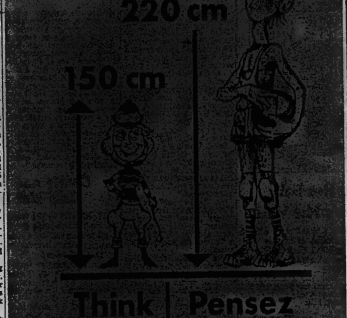
But the mace didn't get back until 1934 when then President Franklin D. Roosevelt dispatched a rear-admiral to present it to the legislative buildings.

The book is tailored for all tastes and budgets. It lists one restaurant where two can dine well for less than $10 and another where even the cheese may soar well beyond $50.

Neill-Wycik College during the holiday season becomes the Neill-Wycik Summer Hotel and a couple can get a double room there for as little as $12 a night. Or a well-heeled couple may spend $250 for one day in one of the Hyatt Regency Hotel's VIP suites.



For the visitor who plans to make his home in Toronto, editor Ross writes that many Toronto home-owners never lock their doors at night.

Another bit of incidental information the editor dredges up is that the city government will plant a tree on your front lawn—for free.

Toronto Guidebook, edited by Alexander Ross; $3.95 paperback, 256 pages, published by Toronto Life magazine.

Inching to Metric

Although Canada is slowly inching toward the metric system, conversion will take a little longer than planned.

This is because a bill was defeated in the U.S. Congress which would have facilitated a similar conversion in that country. (CP Photo)

Pioneering Frontier Spirit Lives in Chinese Oil Town

TACHING, China (Reuter) — The pioneering spirit of a frontier town lives in this remote and harsh place of northeastern China called Taching, a name which means "great celebration."

The cause for celebration is oil, and enough oil is being discovered here and elsewhere to ensure that China will soon large in the world oil trade, probably within a decade.

Taching is China's largest oilfield and a crucial asset to the country which, although it has not been a great producer or consumer of oil in the past, is pledged eventually to outstrip the economic performance of the non-Communist world.

But Taching is much more than an economic plum mark. "In industry, learn from Taching" is a national slogan coined 10 years ago by Chairman Mao Tse-tung. The legend of Taching is enshrined in Communist China's folklore.

Taching symbolizes China's go-it-alone philosophy which shuns foreign aid and foreign debts. It also typifies the spirit of hard work in the face of adversity which Peking strives to instil into the nation.

Taching must also be one of the country's biggest security headaches.

Situated less than 250 miles from the nearest point of the Sino-Soviet border, it would be a prime target if the Soviet Union should mount an attack.

This is presumably why the exact location of Taching was kept a secret for nearly a decade after it opened and is still not shown on most published Chinese atlases.

The Soviet threat was not stressed by visiting foreign correspondents who were taken on a conducted tour of the oilfield but there were weapons were not in battle readiness—some of them still had covers on—and the main Chinese defences remain outside the perimeter of the oilfield proper.

There is little doubt that Taching has earned the thanks of national defence for the hard way. Oil is often found in inhospitable surroundings and this bleak tract of land is no exception.

Taching is located in China's northernmost province of Heilungkiang—meaning Black Dragon River—about a day's train journey north from Peking. It is landbound for nearly five months of the year and when winter temperatures dropping to 46 degrees below zero are the treat, the summer is boiling hot.

In 1959, when test wells showed promising results, Taching was a flat, windswept wasteland patrolled rarely by wolves.

The strike was of vital importance then, with China at the start of a period of severe economic difficulties because of natural disasters and the cutoff of Soviet aid and technicians.

Chinese then living in Peking recall that the first airport sign was so acute that public buses were running on the gas stored in rubber bladders, balanced on the roof.

The reporters talked to Yuan Chien-chong,—now 49 and one of the Taching pioneers. He was here when the first derrick was dragged into position by teams of oil field men guhaing in the early summer of 1960.

Yuan said the 30,000 people who descended on Taching like a 19th-century gold rush lacked many of the necessities of life.

He had to wait a week in bitter weather before drilling equipment arrived, and then it had to be dragged six miles from the railhead to the drilling site.

The transformation of Taching since those early days is dramatic. It is inhabited by 300,000 people and produces approximately 20 million tons of oil—the equivalent of the early pioneers' efforts.

Every work project is depicted in terms of the battle. Even the local Taching paper is called "Battle Newspaper."

There is a great accent on youth with 70 to 80 per cent of the workers in their early 20s and unmarried. Many are former members of the militant Red Guard movement, which played a decisive if unruly role in the 1966-69 cultural revolution.

Taching has the rough-and-ready feel of a place where security development has been sacrificed for speed. The landscape is dominated by power and telephone lines mounted on a motley assortment of poles.

Few drinking rigs are to be seen. Once a well has been drilled, the steel derrick is replaced by two small brick sheds housing the equipment monitoring the flow and pressure of the oil.

There is no central town of Taching. The community is broken down into small settlements as part of the long-standing official policy throughout China of combining town and country, industry with agriculture.

The housewives took the lead in fostering agriculture and fields of corn, winter wheat, sorghum and other cereals dot the landscape between the oil wells. The Chinese passion for planting trees has helped to soften the harsh environment.

But the going is tough for farmers, with a growing period of less than 180 days in the year and a swampy, alkaline soil.

Housewives operate side industries, running a tailoring and clothing repair service. Others run nurseries and look after children.

Most of the housing is long barrack-like structures roofed with fading red tiles. The walls are of double thickness with natural-gas burners between the layers providing a crude form of central heating. The standard road surface within the agro-industrial units is mud, frozen in winter and slushy in summer.

Not do Taching workers enjoy any special benefits. Drillers with the skills to earn a small fortune in the non-Communist world are paid only 150 yuan (about $90) a month, according to the national wage scales for heavy industry.

There are no bars, no nightclubs, and only strictly homemade gists.

But none of this seems to matter to the oilmen here. They show an unshakeable pride in being associated with China's industrial model.

Despite Retreat by U.S., Canada Is Metric Bound

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States may have missed a wrench into the works, but the metric commission feels Canada will continue its push toward metrication, groups and hardware.

The U.S. Congress earlier this year overwhelmingly against a bill designed to facilitate conversion to the metric system. This likely means Canadian conversion will be slightly slower than planned because the two countries' economies are so closely linked.

"We are not controlled by the United States, but we have to take it into account," chairman of the 16-member said Stevarton Gossage," commission.

Canadians and Americans are likely to have a foot on both sides of the measurement fence for some time, but the commission wants the "metrication" as soon as possible because of the economic implications.

Frank Symons, the commission's information and education director, said conversion should be in full stride by about 1977 and that the commission will become extinct once its job is done.

"The faster we can work ourselves out of a job, the better."

Changing to the metric system—actually to a slightly revised method known as the d'Unies or SI—would put Canada more at home in a world that is 90 per cent metric. Aside from the U.S., the only countries not using the metrics, Sierra Leone, Yemen, Barbados, Nauru, Gambia, Brunei and Tonga.

Even in Britain, where much of the present standard measurement system evolved, metrication is well along the road.

The modern metric system evolved in France and was adopted there by law in 1792. The metre was intended to be 1-10-millionth of the distance between the pole and the equator, but doubts about the accuracy of this have made it expedient to define the metre legally as the length of a platinum bar kept in Paris.

"As measurement goes, the metric system is a comparative compared with the standard method in use in Canada, which is based on a weird set of measurements dating back to the year 1,200 years in some cases.

The inch, for example, originated as the length of "three barleycorns, round and dry," laid end to end. And the foot, as late as the 18th century, had as many as 280 variations in Europe, thanks to the diverse sizes of ankles and afflicted who decreed their own feet should be the standard.

Today, however, despite the delays inherent in any bureaucracy, the metric system is eating adople ! piecemeal here and in the U.S.

Many American federal agencies already use it for science, medicine and technology. The agriculture department, in its regular crop reports, includes a summary converting it to metric figures. A number of American corporations, including Ford, General Motors and IBM, have announced their intention of going metric.

Most of these corporations have been converting since at least the beginning of the '70s," Mr. Symons said. "IBM has been working on it since 1963."

He said Canadian subsidiaries of these firms are converting and that with the help of the federal and provincial governments, Canada is ahead of the U.S. in the overall picture.

Conversion is taking place outside the corporate sector. More than 60 per cent of Canadian hospitals are completely metric and schools in at least six provinces are experimenting with metric education at the elementary level.

In Toronto, John Del Grande, mathematics co-ordinator for the Weph York board of education, said all borough schools from kindergarten to Grade 13 will be using the metric system in two years.

"It's working very well as far as the students are concerned," he said, referring to a recent experiment at junior levels. "But obviously the adults are going to have more and thoughts."

Converting adults to the metric way of thought may be more of a problem than the actual conversion itself, Mr. Symons said.

"On bed time shows older people call up and say 'this is terrible' or 'I will never work in the metric world.'

"But they likely will have no choice because of the way metrication is mushrooming in Canada. Little things—such as the proliferation of road signs in Quebec, where the kilometre is fast replacing the mile, and the packaging of all toothpastes in metric tubes—should help convince the critics that metrication is here to stay."

By April 1, 1975, all temperatures will be given in centigrade, which uses the freezing point of water as 0 degrees and the boiling point as 100. The fahrenheit scale has been abandoned in many countries, including Britain.

Adoption of the metric system, says the consumer and corporate affairs department in a booklet, undoubtedly will benefit industry and the consumer.

In the last 20 years, there has been a considerable trend toward improved communications and greater mass trade," it says.

Along with this, there has been a desire for world uniformity in standards to make it easier for both the buyer and seller and the producer."

The declassified metric system will simplify unit pricing for consumers as well as industry, not to mention such things as the bicycle, which has gears that are based on different kinds of threads on its nuts and bolts.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has established a metric resources centre to help ease its members into the metric system. The association says Canada likely will be predominantly metric by 1980.

The Metric Commission, which first met in January, 1972, has 11 steering committees assisting it in over 200 industrial, consumer, service, labor, trade, agricultural, professional and educational associations that have been asked to co-operate.

The commission has handy conversion charts, booklets on such things as how metric symbols look in shorthand, bibliographies of material from other countries that already have gone metric and even posters.

The poster, showing caricoos of a 139-centimetre female jockey and a 220-centimetre male basketball player, says "think metric" in both official languages.

Another, which had to be arranged because of protests from women's libbers, shows a bikini-clad young thing with the caption "Girls measuring 90-60-90 — inevitable." That's about 37-24-37 in standard measurements.

Little Thought Given Lighting

REGINA (CP) — Most homeowners don't give adequate consideration to the amount of lighting required in their homes, says Lillian McConnel, lighting adviser for the Saskatchewan Power Corp.

"They will think nothing of spending $2,000 to decorate a room and then put in $15 fixtures," she said.

Many rooms require both general lighting and special lighting for areas such as reading and piano playing, Miss McConnel said. A central light require "structural lighting," often in the form of a valance or luminous or louvred lighting along a wall.

Good shades, with a white lining to reduce glare, can provide additional lighting.

Quebec Construction Industry Called Crime-filled Jungle

MONTREAL (CP) — A source close to the royal commission investigating Quebec construction industry says the industry is a crime-infested jungle operating under one of the most corrupt and brutal systems in North America.

"The industry is a jungle where tradition has allowed construction is set up on exclusive parallel state, having its own commissions and its own laws . . . permitting the participants to shatter any moral, unlawful of the social, economic and psychological effects," says the source.

The three-member commission headed by Judge Hubert Cliche of provincial court was appointed last April following violence and desecration at the James Bay construction site. It is scheduled to hold public hearings in Quebec City today.

Sources quoted in the Montreal Star say the commission, during its four months of investigation, has been given evidence of extortion, kickbacks, violence, inter-union hatred, vandalism, shylocking, deliberate work slowdowns and an over-increasing rise in construction costs.

The Star says, quoting sources close to the commission, that one of the primary reasons for trouble in the industry is the unique system in which Quebec's labor organizations fight for members.

The sources said the commission investigators had found such incidents as employers being forced to pay off union stewards for "guaranteed productivity," while persons seeking work had been forced to make loans at interest rates as high as 25 per cent from union representatives.

The sources also said that there had been instances of deliberate sabotage, including setting fires and assaulting equipment.

The commission, which has until March 31 to file its final report and recommendations to the government, has been described by Premier Robert Bourassa, the most important royal commission ever named in Quebec history.

Heart Attack Patients Finish Boston Marathon

CHICAGO (AP) — Running a marathon race is not recommended for the heart attack victim, but three doctors at the University of Toronto say it is not out of the question. Some victims are capable of strenuous physical exercise, the researchers say.

There is medical evidence that increased physical activity improves progress after myocardial infarction, the type of heart attack suffered by 28 patients studied by the team.

The doctors say the main activity of the eight men in the Dept. of Medicine have formed the American Medical Association.

The research was done by Dr. Terry Kavanagh. Dr. Roy Shephard and Dr. Jean Cox.

They emphasize that they "do not acknowledge exercise alone as a casual practice" for just any post-heart attack patient, even though all eight of their patients ran in the 26-mile Boston Marathon.

But the good responses to the gruelling event showed that in the absence of complications, the well-trained patient "can undertake as severe an effort as any middle-age man," they conclude.

The eight had suffered heart attacks one to four years before the endurance race. They ranged from 32 to 49 years old.

The runners set out after the 2,000 thousand competitors in the Boston race. One of the eight dropped out midway after developing dizzy.

The others completed the course, with average speed of 8.4 miles an hour as "a jogging pace" rather than a steady pace, where they walked.

The eight were thoroughly trained, running at a slow pace up to 45 miles a week, before taking to the marathon course.

UN Fall Gathering Faces Many Problems

UNITED NATIONS (CL) — The UN General Assembly gathers Tuesday for its second fall session with a formidable list of problems, including two wars a world apart.

Conflicts in the Middle East last fall and in Cyprus this past summer both were brought under temporary, though lasting, ceasefires ordered by Security Council intervention. But they still are far from the political settlements needed to bring lasting peace.

As an outgrowth of the Middle East war, Arabs and non-aligned delegates are expected to launch a full-dress assembly debate on the plight of Palestinian refugees, thousands of whom have been living in UN camps since their displacement after the creation of the state of Israel a quarter-century ago.

A fresh attempt also may be made by African and other non-aligned states to expel South Africa, partly because of its policy of apartheid and partly because of its refusal to relinquish control of Namibia, South Africa governed the territory on the west coast of Africa, under a UN trusteeship and has refused a UN order to give it up.

Prime Minister Trudeau may make his first speech before the UN early in the session, delivering the Canadian statement of policy in the general debate. Ottawa reports said the prime minister may visit the UN about Sept. 25.

President Ford also is expected to make his maiden UN address, presenting the American statement in the early stages.

Turner Hopes Budget Comes by Mid-November

EDMONTON (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner said Saturday he wants to introduce his federal budget before the middle of November.

With Parliaments scheduled to sit Sept. 30, "that would be the latest, hopefully earlier," he told a news conference following a four-hour meeting with Alberta's treasurer, Gordon Miniely, and Don Getty, the province's minister of inter-governmental affairs.

Mr. Turner said the meeting involved "discussions not negotiations" on the federal government's proposals for increasing taxation on the oil industry.

"One of the common denominators that governed the discussions was our mutual concern about the future health of the oil and gas industries in Alberta and Canada."

Mr. Turner said he recognized that decisions affecting the future of the oil and gas industry are being held in abeyance pending resolution of the taxation question.

"I agree with Mr. Getty and Mr. Miniely that the problem is urgent."

The federal minister said he will return to Western Canada in mid-October after he and his officials have digested the "options" that emerged from the discussions. All three ministers refused to elaborate on the options.

Mr. Turner reiterated his willingness to meet any provincial premier to discuss proposals on resource taxation before bringing down his next budget, adding that he also will meet the finance ministers of the other three western provinces during his trip next month.

Shot in Chest Man Walks Out Of 2 Hospitals

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa man with a bullet lodged one-half inch from his heart was resting in Ottawa Civic Hospital Sunday night after refusing treatment at two other hospitals.

A hospital spokesman said Clement James Maloney, 47, was in good condition with the bullet still lodged in his chest.

The man walked out of Toronto's Wellesley Hospital just two hours after being shot outside a camera story Thursday. He ignored warnings by police and doctors that he was endangering his life. He was shot in the chest by an unknown assailant, who was not captured.

Mr. Maloney walked into Ottawa General Hospital's emergency ward Saturday night, but again refused treatment.

"He just came in the emergency ward; they wanted to remove the bullet . . . but he didn't want anyone to touch him so he went away," a woman at the General Hospital's information desk said Sunday.

Mr. Maloney checked-in later Saturday at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

It was not known, when the bullet would be removed and a hospital spokesman said Ms. Maloney had not said how he got from Toronto to Ottawa.

Beauty Queen Has Baby But It's OK, She's Not Wed

LONDON (AP) — Helen Morgan, a 21-year-old Welsh beauty who was runner-up to Miss Universe and elected Miss United Kingdom last week told British newspapers Sunday she is an unwed mother.

But it will make no difference to her status as Miss United Kingdom and her right to challenge for the Miss World crown here in November, contest organizers said.

The Miss World rules ban married women.

"I'm not married but I'm not ashamed," Miss Morgan said in press interviews. "I'm proud of my baby."

She said the child, Richard, 15 months, is the son of her boy-friend, Chris Clode. They share a house in the Welsh town of Barry.

"Chris and I came to an agreement two years ago that marriage wasn't for us," Miss Morgan said.

Major Topics

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Inflation, housing and transportation policy will be the three major topics when Parliament convenes in two weeks, Ed Broadbent, new Democratic Party leader in the Commons, said Sunday.

Eaton United Church Fails To Get Anglican as Pastor

TORONTO (CP) — Clergymen of both the Anglican Church of Canada and the United Church have expressed disappointment at the apparent failure of a plan to appoint a bishop Anglican priest as pastor of Canada's largest United church.

The plan involved a proposal made to Very Rev. Herbert O'Driscoll, Anglican dean of Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, to become pastor in Toronto's Eaton Memorial United Church in Toronto.

Bryan Vaughan, an advertising agency executive who is chairman of Eaton Memorial's pastoral relations committee, said in an interview that he approached the Anglican dean, "to sound him out."

Mr. Vaughan said that Mr. O'Driscoll replied that he was "very interested" but would not consider the offer without the approval of the Anglican bishop of Toronto, Rt. Rev. L.S. Gaynor.

Bishop Gaynor said he never expressed disapproval of the plan and dismissed the words of critics who blamed him for the failure of the plan.

"My door is still open if they want to come and discuss it," Bishop Gaynor said. He added that such an appointment would raise the issue of Anglican rules regarding such matters as communion and the marriage of divorced persons.

"I couldn't decide to suspend those (rules) on my own," the bishop said. "I would have to get agreement between the House of Bishops."

Bishop Gaynor said that such a cross-appointment might be "wrongly interpreted" by both churches as meaning the difficulties over union now remain." He was referring to the position of Rt. Rev. John Wilson of the two churches, a plan which he has publicly opposed.

In a telephone interview from Vancouver, Mr. O'Driscoll said he personally is in the cross-appointment "because I never a possibility, in that situation, of making a bridge between our two denominations."

"Since I was not interested in doing it as a ceremonial act, I was obviously needed Bishop Gaynor's consent," he said he had to give.

Courts and Parole Board Said Not in Conflict

OTTAWA (CP) — The courts and the national parole board do not perform conflicting functions, says William Outerbridge, chairman of the board.

He was commenting on the recent report of the Senate committee on legal affairs which expressed the view that there is some conflict.

The role of the courts is to decree the maximum time that an offender will serve, said Mr. Outerbridge.

The parole board, on the other hand, has the authority to decide what proportion of the sentence will be served on parole.

"I don't see any essential need for this to be a form of conflict," said Mr. Outerbridge.

"But I think sometimes, because of the interpretation that the courts take, that it appears to be so."

CIA Fought Allende

Ford Admits Chile Tie

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has confirmed that the CIA acted against former Chilean president Salvador Allende on a Senate committee considers whether to pursue charges it was misled about those activities.

A Senate foreign relations subcommittee staff report recommends action against former CIA director Richard Helms and three other officials for sworn testimony minimizing the CIA activity, congressional sources say. The report was scheduled for consideration by the full committee today.

There were conflicting accounts whether the report recommends perjury investigations, contempt of Congress charges or some combination of the two.

The report also was said to be critical of State Secretary Henry Kissinger for testifying there was no U.S. involvement in the bloody coup in which Allende died last year, but saying nothing about the previous CIA activities.

Senator Frank Church (Dem.Idaho), chairman of the subcommittee for which the report was prepared, refused to give details but said the full committee will take up both the propriety of the CIA activities and officials' truthfulness about them.

Ford said at his news conference Monday night there is no doubt in his mind that there was no U.S. involvement in Chile's coup. But he confirmed that the CIA supported Allende's opposition in the 1970 elections.

"It is a recognized fact that historically, as well as presently, such actions are taken in the best interest of the countries involved," the president said.

Ford said he would not judge whether such activity is permitted by international law.

He said he has reliable information that the Communist countries "spend vastly more money than we do for the same kind of purposes."

Ford said the CIA activity was in response to what he said was an effort by Allende, a Marxist, "to destroy opposition news media, both the writing press or as well as the electronic press, and to destroy opposition political parties."

"The effort that was made in this case," Ford said, "was to help and assist the preservation of opposition newspapers and electronic media and to preserve opposition political parties."

Mrs. Allende Fingers Kissinger

LONDON (AP) — The widow of overthrown Chilean President Salvador Allende said Monday "Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is the man personally responsible for staging the plot that overthrew Chile's legally constituted government."

The Chilean military overthrew Marxist President Allende a year ago, and said he committed suicide during the coup.

In Washington, a former high intelligence official said Saturday that either resigned president Richard Nixon or Kissinger ordered a $1-million secret expenditure by the United States Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to block Allende's election. He said additional money was spent to bring down Allende's government.

Outlines Amnesty

Draft Evaders Reject Offer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

President Gerald Ford's program of conditional amnesty was rejected Monday as economically unjust by spokesmen for 325 draft resisters living among 25,000 military deserters and draft evaders living in Canada.

"Ford's program is a perpetuation of Amex-Canada, a magazine published by draft counsellors in Canada," said Mr. Ford's plan has been rejected by his group and also by similar groups in England, Sweden and France.

"Most war resisters who want very much to go back to the United States either to visit or to live, are prepared to refuse President Ford's earned re-entry program," said Amex-Canada group said in a statement.

The president's offer, announced earlier Monday in Washington, would require Vietnam-era deserters and resisters to spend up to 24 months in low-paying public service jobs to prove repentance. The national health, safety or interest."

Gerry Condon, a 27-year-old deserter and managing editor of Amex-Canada magazine, called the proposal "unfair and unpalatable" and said that within Canada's U.S. resister community and in Europe across Canada and in Europe "it's probably unanimous" to rejecting it.

He said the exiles could not accept Ford's offer because it amounted to an admission of guilt.

He also said it was unfair to ask those who had already had their lives disrupted to a large extent to accept the further disruption it would take to work for two years at subsistence wages.

The British Columbia spokesman for deserters and resisters in the Vancouver-Victoria area said the clergymen's report will be ignored by the majority of their estimated number of 2,500.

Miles Carley, who worked two years with 14 U.S. resisters group in Victoria and now works for the B.C. Civil Liberties Association, said the conditions offered were stiffer than before.

"After the pardon of Richard Nixon, I thought the alternative service requirement would be about six months instead of the 24 they're talking about," he said.

In Winnipeg, Tim Maloney, one of the founders of the Winnipeg Committee to Assist War Objectors, said he doubts that many war resisters will apply for re-entry to the U.S. under the program.

In Toronto, Mr. Colhoun, a deserter from the U.S. military police, called the offer "grossly unjust."

"It is too much to ask that we accept punishment for justified resistance to the illegal and immoral U.S. war in Indochina which still rages with American tax dollars to violation of U.S. and international law," said the Amex-Canada statement.

"It is also hypocritical to expect people with families, jobs and other personal financial obligations to uproot themselves for subsistence duty hardly sufficient for one individual at these times of rampant inflation," the statement continued.

The Ford clemency program will be discussed at a Canadian-European conference of draft resisters to be held in Toronto Sept. 21-23, Mr. Colhoun said. Groups from Sweden, England, France, Vancouver, Montreal and Toronto are expected to attend.

In Halifax, war resisters questioned said nothing short of an unconditional amnesty would ever get any appreciable percentage of U.S. draft evaders to return home.

Richard Lind and Brad Sorrell said President Ford's conditional amnesty plan has completely missed the point.

"It's like they're taking you back and branding you," Mr. Sorrell said. "The whole thing is ridiculous, totally ridiculous."

"At the price of sophie it's the best we can do, Ma'am"

Work Before Welfare?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration proposed Monday that some poor people be required to seek work as a condition of receiving welfare payments.

The tightening of federal welfare rules will apply in the 1.2 million families participating in the Work Incentive (WIN) program and the same applicants, including the 800,000 whom the government estimating will sign up during the current fiscal year.

Windsor Cuts Off 93

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Windsor subcommittee said Monday 93 people have been completely cut off welfare by the city and another 67 temporarily suspended for refusing to take work in farm fields.

Last month the city notified employable male welfare recipients that they would be suspended unless they accepted work in the fields or had a good reason for not doing so.

The city has made available a bus to take workers to the farms.

Poultry Costs Home to Roost

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Poultry feed prices in the United States have come home to roost, and the farmer who gather eggs for your refrigerator are squawking about it.

A grower with a flock of laying hens pays $2.30 for a 100-pound sack of feed, which cost about half that two years ago.

While that may not sound like much, consider that the chicken farms with 15,000 to 20,000 hens are common, and one rancher here is feeding 55,000 chickens daily.

It takes about 4.5 pounds of feed—corn, soybean, wheat and alfalfa, solid fortified with vitamins—to produce a dozen eggs. A hen will produce about 20 dozen eggs over her 15 most productive months. At the same time, she will consume nearly 180 pounds of feed.

The fall is so that the farmer spend as feed for a single hen is more than he paid for her in the first place. Late this summer, pullets sold for about $2.25. Eighteen months ago, a pullet brought about $1.75. Hatchlings cost the same.

Last month the city notified employable male welfare recipients that they would be suspended unless they accepted work in the fields or had a good reason for not doing so.

The city has made available a bus to take workers to the farms.

That's a $48-40 return on an investment of $11.25. Medium eggs cost 61 cents.

A spokesman for the Ralston Purina Co., of St. Louis, Mo., which sells more feed than any other company in the U.S., says:

"The big thing this year is the increased price of corn. Corn now costs more than the protein ingredients, soybeans and so forth. The price has just about doubled in two years.

U.S. Eggs Allowed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has temporarily lifted restrictions on U.S. eggs imported, the agriculture department announced Monday.

Since U.S. prices currently are higher than those in Canada, the move will probably have little effect on consumer prices.

The restrictions, imposed last May in an effort to protect domestic egg producers against low-priced American imports, were removed because egg production in the U.S. has dropped, raising prices in that country.

OTTAWA (CP) — Average weekly earnings in July were $178.72, up 1.5 per cent from June, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

UN to Face Record Agenda

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly today will face a record number of problems as of unusual interdependence, Kurt Waldheim, secretary-general, said Monday.

Waldheim said many of the problems are of unusual interdependence, like referring to a theme he has sounded often the past month, he said that in the nearly three years he has been secretary-general, the issue has been "not toward better international co-operation but rather toward greater fragmentation and disunity."

He urged governments to show "more give and take" and willingness to "give up some of their selfish interests" and be ready to co-operate on an international basis.

Fur Coats Cut Absentees

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — An Australian firm which offered employees fur coats, electric razors and diamond rings if they came to work every day today reported a cut in absenteeism of only 10 per cent in two months.

The firm which makes car tires and employs about 2,000 persons, reported losing 600 man days a week before the incessive scheme was introduced.

British Live 'Beyond Means'

LONDON (Reuter) — The minority Liberal party today advocated a radical program of social reform as a forerunner to the battle against inflation.

In its manifesto for the forthcoming general election, the Liberals said there can be no compulsory controls on prices and incomes until there has been a fundamental redistribution of wealth and resources.

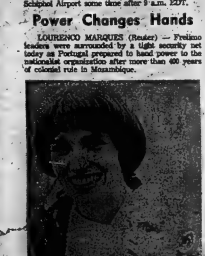
The Liberals, who have 15 members in the 635-seat House of Commons, became the last of Britain's three major parties to publish position papers for election expected to be called for Oct. 10.

"We are living beyond our means and this unpalatable truth must be communicated to the people, whatever the political consequences," the manifesto said.

The next government must be honest with the public and admit that in the present circumstances a statutory prices and incomes policy is absolutely necessary as an essential weapon against inflation."

Prime Minister Wilson effectively kicked off the campaign Monday night with the publication of the Labor party manifesto.

In its manifesto, Labor ruled out a coalition with another party. Saying that "Britain faces its most dangerous crisis since the war," it said the country would not be helped "by a shuffling compromising administration."



On Common Market membership, Labor pledged itself "within 12 months of this election we will give the British people the final say, which will be binding on the government, through the ballot box, on whether we accept the terms and stay in, or reject the terms and come out."

Mrs. Trudeau Gets 'Checkup'

OTTAWA (CP) — Margaret Trudeau, wife of the prime minister, is in hospital in Montreal for what a spokesmen in the prime minister's office termed a rest and checkup.

Although a spokesman at Royal Victoria Hospital confirmed Monday night that Mrs. Trudeau, who celebrated her 29th birthday last week, was in hospital, he would not discuss why she was there. He only confirmed that she had entered the hospital several days ago.

Horsey Caravan

Colin Brown

Three palomino horses and a pony, tied to the bumper of a Humane Society van, made a slow procession through Belleville this morning on their way to the Quinte Animal Shelter on Avonlough Road. The animals were running loose on Haig Road in the east end of the city and were taken to the shelter for identification of the owner and return to him. The horses had an eight-mile walk, with another animal welfare van following behind them.

REAL ESTATE

HOW CAN A REALTOR HELP?

Selling your house through a Realtor will bring you as much or more profit — with none of the attendant problems and headaches you can expect when you try to sell it on your own.

Besides his knowledge of the market and the skill to suggest realistic prices, the Realtor has built up a list of prospects that no homeowner can possibly match ... prospects who are honestly interested in finding a home and financially able to buy . . . and cannot hesitate. He knows how long to hold out, whether to take a second mortgage and how to advise you on trade offers gracefully.

He is prepared to arrange the intricacies of financing and has the "know-how" necessary to close the transaction properly. Listing with a Realtor will save you time and make you money.

Tree-cutting Tender Accepted

TRENTON — Town council Monday accepted a tender from Trenton Tree Service for the cutting and removal of dead and decaying branches and trees from Trenton streets.

The newly accepted town lumberjacks will begin work within two weeks.

Trenton Tree Service submitted a $6,380 bid, the lowest of three, for the job.

Cyclist Hurt In Crash

MASSASSAGA — A Belleville area boy was taken to hospital Monday after the bicycle he was riding collided with a van stopped on Highway No. 401.

Tony Top, 12, of RR7, Belleville, was treated at Belleville General Hospital for head and facial cuts and released.

The child was injured when he struck the rear of a parked van operated by Franklin Duby, 36, of RR7, Belleville. Mr. Duby had halted his vehicle behind a school bus as students were getting out.

Police say the bicyclist hit the van, forcing his body through its rear window. Minor damage was reported in the accident.

Bata Employee Killed

BATAWA — A post-mortem is being conducted today on a man killed in an industrial accident at Bata Engineering Monday.

William A. White, of 6 Fraser Dr. in Batawa, died in Trenton Memorial Hospital. He was in his early 50s, police said.

Constable Robert Burkholder of the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the man, employed as an engineer, was working in the hydraulic cylinder testing area when the accident occurred.

A spokesman for the company said they would comment on the matter after meeting with ministry of labor officials.

Council Delays Action On Store Hours Bylaw

TRENTON — Town council Monday put off action on a comprehensive store hours bylaw in favour of submissions from town merchants and Western Realties Ltd., developers of Trenton's $2.75 million mall.

The bylaw, geared to defining closing times for Trenton retailers, was to be passed Monday in order to end current controversy over another recent bylaw that permits K-Mart, a major mall tenant, 18 a.m. to 18 p.m. store hours.

Town council tabled the bylaw and will make copies available for study to Western Realties and the Trenton Retail Merchants Association (TRMA). All other town merchants may pick up copies at town offices.

TRMA president Lloyd Wells charged Monday that council had acted "high-handedly" in passing the K-Mart bylaw, which he described as a "local Watergate".

He said the bylaw was passed hastily and that Trenton merchants were not asked for their opinions on its effects.

Mr. Wells called for uniform store hours in Trenton. Retailers, he stressed, are not opposed to the mall, but are opposed to the longer store hours.

Also a delegate to council's meeting, Western Realties developer Connon McGregor spoke to explain the need for the bylaw governing K-Mart longer store hours.

In what he called an "unqualified statement", Mr. McGregor told council K-Mart, a department store, will be decided as critical to the mall's success. "If you don't come to Trenton unless the store hour question was settled.

Prior to passage of the K-Mart bylaw, store hour regulatory bylaws were unenforceable.

K-Mart and Western Realties signed an agreement subject to the clarification of the store hour problem, he said.

Mr. McGregor expressed surprise that local merchants had objected that the store hours were aimed not at them, but at K-Mart's competition — Quinte Food City and the Quinte Mall.

Both councillors Robert Warrenmeister and Edward Todd came in support of the mall. Councillor Todd urged council to remain fast and not rescind the K-Mart bylaw, who he described as the solution to "the last stubbing block to bringing K-Mart here."

Council discussions concerning the bylaw will continue at its next meeting Monday.

Hobby Becomes Full-time Career

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Since retirement as a Picton telephone operator several years ago, Gladys Hawkins has enjoyed "raising bees" to fill spare time.

She said she learned her hobby of caning and rush work from a neighboring German girl who spoke no English. Teacher and pupil communicated with head shakes, nods and mixed eye brows.

"I was visual instruction," says Mrs. Hawkins.

To supplement her caning skills, she enrolled in night school classes in furniture refinishing. Here, she met others interested in caning and demonstrated her work.

Through Mrs. Hawkins' enthusiasm and the interest of her practical nurses, the Prince Edward Arts and Crafts Association was organized. Under its sponsorship she instructed her first class in caning.

For two semesters Mrs. Hawkins instructed at Picton Lawrence College, Kingston, and now is teaching for her third season at the Picton College, under its extension programs division.

In Prince Edward County, she works at ARC Industries two or three mornings each week as a volunteer teacher. She suggested caning as a potentially useful occupation for employees there and began to instruct classes. Her first pupils now are employed causing ARC Industries.

In addition to teaching Mrs. Hawkins accepts orders from antique buffs for the restoration of old cane chairs and stools.

Proudly, she refers to her "challenges", an intricately styled desk chair once owned by the Honorable Louis Papineau, in his office and at Montebello.

The chair, with its worn back, was brought to her by one of the many antique dealers in Ontario and Quebec. A brass plate fastened to the rung verifies that its comfort was once enjoyed by Mr. Papineau.

Mrs. Hawkins is studying the pattern of the chair back in an effort to determine the exact type of work necessary to restore it.

The cane and rush worker has completed three chair seats for Upper Canada Village using a rare roll of allspery skin bark. She also was commissioned to work six seats for Emery Creek's Bellaford House.

Although Mrs. Hawkins turned to caning as a retirement hobby it has become a full-time job.

When it became difficult to obtain rushes from Holland for network, the resourceful hobbyist turned to local fishermen for aid in locating her own supply.

Annually, she harvests rushes from county waters and cures them in her workshop's loft.

Bushes gathered in sunny areas of Prince Edward cure to a light straw shade while others collected from shady locations retain green and brown streaks.

Mrs. Hawkins has become expert in identifying the types of rushes suited to her craft although there are approximately 25 varieties.

When refinement occurs, find something interesting to do," advises Mrs. Hawkins discussing her work.

She notes her hobby led her to attend a refinisher job in restoring antique chairs. With each furniture piece is a story of interest to her.

"I meet so many people and this opened to her work of restoring antique pieces.

The Papineau chair is her latest. Next month, when complete will represent still another milestone in her hobby turned career.

"I've had more fun in the last ten years than in the first sixty," quipped Mrs. Hawkins.

A Rush Job

Gladys Hawkins uses native production line to keep stepping old furniture. Sheaf of rushes has been harvested from Prince Edward County marsh and will be used to make cane seat for chair. Result of the old-time handicraft can be seen in chairs already repaired by Mrs. Hawkins.

Lost in Dense Bush, New Couple Found Unharmed

BANCROFT — A 22-year-old woman and her three-month-old baby boy were found in good condition Monday morning by a search party after being lost for a day and night in dense bush in the Wollaston Lake area about 20 miles south of here.

Sharon Prendgast and baby moved to the Bancroft area a few days earlier from Toronto with her husband Reggie and child, because last Sunday morning after returning from a friend's house who he described as the solution to "the last stubbing block to bringing K-Mart here."

Constable Beaubien of the Bancroft detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, said Mrs. Prendgast knew the direction but turned off the path and went further and further west than from where she was supposed to go.

The mother and child continued travelling, coming to a swamp and then walking in circles until dark when they huddled in one spot for the night, he said.

By 10 p.m. Mr. Prendgast called police. Taking part in the search party were 19 workers from the ministry of natural resources, three officers from the Bancroft OPP, two officers from Madoc OPP, one from Apsley OPP, 19 civilians and Constable Ted Arnburn of Belleville OPP and his tracking dog, Sabre.

The two were dressed warmly in the 40-degree damp night air. Mrs. Prendgast had up all night with her child and when morning came began hollering to attract attention, police said.

Authorities said the two were found about 1¼ miles from where they had started out. They required no medical care.

Councillor Urges Bylaw Be Released to Public

TRENTON — It is unclear whether Trenton's proposed zoning bylaw will reach the public before the town council reviews the amended document at its committee of the whole meeting next Monday.

No copies of the recently — completed proposed bylaw now are in public hands.

During Monday's council meeting, two letters from town businessmen called for another public meeting to scrutinize the already amended zoning bylaw, previously subject of angry public criticism.

Councillor John Bean Monday came out in support of releasing the bylaw to the public.

"Let's get it out and see what it's up there," he said. Copies should be made public as councillors said giving further input concerning positions of developers and residents who will live with it once it's passed, he argued.

Councillor Bean recommended that all revisions and amendments be made at the local level before it is forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Such action, he said, would avoid "the rigamarole needed to get anything changed once it's up there."

Quinte Planning Board deputy director Frank Stokman will outline changes in the proposed zoning bylaw next Monday.

The document has recently been the subject of a number of stories in the Intelligencer.

Bank Introduces Plan To Assist Local Farmers

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

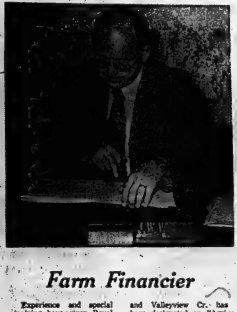
Belleville is the third Ontario centre to have a bank that will go out of its way to do business with farmers.

The "Agribank" concept was introduced at the Royal Bank branch at the corner of North Front and Valleyview Cr. here last April and already farm business accounts for about 15 per cent of the branch's total business.

Branch manager Jim Whipple explains the "Agribank" or "farmplan" approach this way: "We are prepared to deal with the farmer at his home ground, rather than in the manager's office. I spend 80 to 90 per cent of my time outside of my office, calling on clients and potential clients. When I'm not here, assistant manager Ken Coates is ready and able to handle business in the office."

The pilot "Agribank" at Exeter, in western Ontario, proved so successful 2½ years ago, that another was started at nearby Lucknow. Belleville became the third centre last April and a number of others are either established or planned, Mr. Whipple said.

Basis of the service is a form that is filled out by the farmer that lists his assets and expenditures. With this, Royal Bank personnel, who have been trained in farm management, can assess the farmer's financial situation.



"We're not out to tell the farmer how to run his farm, but we'll work with him to help him manage his financial resources most effectively," Mr. Whipple said.

Mr. Whipple, Mr. Coates and branch staff members have had special training in working on farm problems and in farm situations.

Mr. Whipple, although not raised on a farm, says he has "learned a lot by listening" and through the Royal Bank's farming program and series of seminars.

"Farming is a business, just like any other business," he says. "And it should be treated as such."

With six months under his belt, Mr. Whipple is optimistic that at least half his bank's business will be with farmers in the near future.

Farm Financier

Experience and special training have given Royal Bank branch manager Jim Whipple an insight into farm finances. His bank branch, at North Front St. and Valleyview Cr., has been designated an "Agribank" and he hopes to build farm business to between 40 and 60 per cent of the branch's volume.

The Computer Age

Whither mankind in an increasingly computerized society? Tales banking for example. While computers have helped provide improved service to customers, as well as better working conditions for employees, among other benefits, sheer volume, according to the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, "may eventually impede the transfer of funds and make the use of cheques slow and expensive."

The bank in its commercial letter says "it is becoming evident that rising costs, customer demands for expanded services and the requirements of an ever-larger and more complex economy dictate a move away from dependence on paper payments and toward reliance on electronic transfer of funds and electronic accounting for these transfers."

This is the substance of a detailed look at the future of computers as an aid to bank processing. It is interesting to note, however, that a sizeable number of persons are employed in the programming sector. Data processing personnel constitute a substantial percentage of bank employees in Canada — between 7,000 and 10,000 persons. Annual expenditure on computer operations is probably running at between $150 and $200 million annually.

But what of the human element? What effect is computerization having on human relationships, on society as a whole? And what about the computer errors which seem to throw the system into such a state of confusion and often to the disadvantage of the citizen?

Two Globe and Mail writers touched on this theme in related columns the other day. In one Scott Young told of the problems a Calgary woman encountered over payment of outstanding credit obtained on an oil company credit card. The story, briefly, involved late arrival of payments since it took all of a week by mail from Calgary to Toronto, pressure messages, even a telegram, from the oil company demanding payment, and of course the not-so human and tardy operations of the computers.

In another column Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut deplores the Bell Canada hikes, in particular the 25-cents it will cost to obtain information — "since the only personal service left, he says, in an otherwise highly-automated system."

Perhaps we have still some way to go though before the machines take over completely, or psyche the banking staffs out of their usual courteous ways. Perhaps it will never come to that, even by 1984. Let's hope not, but we do know of one citizen locally who is having difficulty impressing on bank credit card personnel in the big city, not to mention locally, that he has made a payment and, being human, will, so-accumulating interest, by periodic letters.

Show of Initiative

A couple of pleasant items to note amid the general uncertainty of politics and economics.

One: the trophy offered for annual competition in the Rotary Music Festival by former Quinte secondary students Dennis Sharpe and Glenn Parsons. Now at university, they raised the funds among their former school friends.

The other: Ten-year-old Laura-Jean Gill of Kingston, calling herself A Future Writer, wrote to her local newspaper explaining that she likes to "write true happenings, little rhymes, puzzles, and stuff" and offered her services as a budding scribe.

"If you need me, you know where to get me," she wrote. The editor, responding to this ingenuous and irresistible suggestion, is going to give her some space weekly.

Smoking Habit

It has been said before but it may be said again: one of the sadder sights in Belleville and other communities is all those otherwise attractive young girls who amble along puffing cigarets.

It is tough on the health girls, expensive, too, and it impresses nobody. It cannot have much to do with equality or "liberation," because the men and the boys on the whole seem to be more cognizant of the benefits of quitting or doing without.

Hearts may be replaceable, for a time at least, but lungs that become diseased are not.

New Twist To Bilingualism Fiasco

Influx of English-Speaking Bureaucrats Annoys Hull

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Maybe it was stepping by you the first time around, the tale of two cities, Ottawa and Hull.

Separated by the Ottawa River, with Hull on the Quebec side and Ottawa on the Ontario shore, but both, by federal decree, now officially twinned as the one National Capital.

That is what the National Capital Commission, among other federal agencies, calls it — to quote from its "Profile of Canada's Capital," which reads, in its introduction:

"Canada's Capital is not big by present-day standards — 31,000 in Ottawa, 64,000 in Hull — and it is therefore relatively easy to get around quickly, access during and after one of its gigantic snow storms."

So there it is, and never mind about the RNA Act says about Ottawa being the capital, the Trudeau government has revitalized Hull's role as part of the constitution to make it "Ottawa-Hull."

There is a big catch, though, no conversation but almost nobody likes to talk about it.

It is that Hull is imposing conditions.

Hull doesn't mind the feds pouring federal agencies, cash it — to quote from its "Profile of Canada's Capital," which reads, in its introduction:

"Canada's Capital is not big by present-day standards — 31,000 in Ottawa, 64,000 in Hull — and it is therefore relatively easy to get around quickly, access during and after one of its gigantic snow storms."

signed to work in these new buildings is either bilingual or unilingual French but not English.

The resolution expressed Hull council's concern that the majority of civil servants moving a thousand — now working there do not speak French. Nor do they.

Simply because they had been working in Ottawa and still live on the Ontario side of the river, and many of them objected to the inconvenience, among other matters, of being shifted to Hull. They are not welcoming because they can not speak French, they know it.

It is all so terribly humiliating, to the well-meaning feds who have been pushing bilingualism as hard in the cause of national unity that the English public servants, no longer can aspire to top civil service jobs unless they learn French well enough to work to what Graham Fraser in The Bill 22 has called is the one official language.

It is all very, very sick joke, for, on the rest of the country, for the feds have been piling up blunder on blunder, bilingualism by now and still going up — to the Quebec side in opposing Hull to Ottawa's standards.

These millions are not being spent just on new federal office towers to house several departments being transferred to Hull and staffed largely by unilingual English employees.

In the costly campaign to equalize Hull with Ottawa in the new two-province National Capital, very many of those millions are being spent on sewers, water mains, roads, and other municipal facilities to service those new buildings.

Other cities — including yours — pay for their own municipal services, don't they?

Hull, surprise, pays no-helping Hull to accommodate all those unwelcome English civil servants and yours who are being moved against their wishes in the same way many of them are being compelled against their will to learn French.

The feds have not said much about Hull wanting it all one way — the money, that is — not your language if it is Ottawa. It is all so humiliating.

But it was too much for Ottawa Mayor Pierre Benoit, himself fluently bilingual.

"It was "too monstrous," he said, "so incredible and ridiculous I am loath to comment."

But comment he has, adding that it is an ignorant understanding as to "damage the cause of national unity and bilingualism."

Despite the defacing of English street signs and the plastering of federal property with separatist slogans on the Quebec side, Hull and Ottawa councils only last year held a historical joint meeting, pledging a new era of co-operation, symbolizing the spirit of it literally: two-province National Capital, and promising to confer on how best to solve, united and together, common problems.

And now this.

Women and Crimes of Violence: 'Liberation' Is Partly Responsible

The Nation

Lizzie Borden took an axe to her mother's parents, so the association of women with violence is not exactly new on the scene. But it does seem that the emergence of roughly half the population from the kitchen as the second sex - a movement that has barely accused up as women's liberation - coincides with a great startling increase in the statistics of violent crime. Kitty Hanson, writing in the New York Daily News, has produced sobering figures: From 1960 to 1973, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, arrests for all serious crimes were up 21.7 per cent for men, but for women 58.2 per cent! Among the young, the picture is similarly grim: violent crimes committed by teen-age girls are up 293.3 per cent; among girls it was up 168.3 per cent.

It is murky sociology to draw relationship between liberation and crime, but one psychiatrist, Dr. Leon Salzman of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, remarks: "There is no biological reason for the female to be less aggressive than a male. It's just that being aggressive had no meaning to a woman's life until she had opportunities a man does." And it is worth noting that the term liberated - whose principles, particularly in the "B" category, are to some degree Jane Bonds (knives and bombs, for the young, and an Ian Fleming hero, for the old) - has followed in fad of black James Bonds with a spate of boomy Jane Bonds (knives and bombs, for the young, and an Ian Fleming hero, for the old).

And Margaret Mead, whose loyalty to her own sex can scarcely be questioned, suggests that as criminals and prostitutes were up until recently quite near in ruthlessness. "Feminine," she points out, have been accustomed over the centuries to fight only to save their young, and so they fight to kill. They have no built-in chivalry."

Female street gangs are a new and particularly terrifying urban phenomenon. Queen Bee, these marauders, usually young, often small, seeming less than formidable to the innocent observer, tend to inflict more pain on their victims than do their male counterparts. One particularly publicized violent females at the recent past do not come off the streets or out of the ghetto; they are developing in the middle class who, having joined communal groups or revolutionary "cells" appear to associate violence with living up to their "principles." Said a woman arrested in a feminist demonstration: "It's a heartening sign that the crime rate is up for women. It bespeaks the fact that the rage women feel is getting translated into some kind of action." That is a constructive way of looking at it, but it might be more heartening still if women, coming late to knives, guns and dynamite, were to reflect on how little social advancement has been achieved by adopting a policy of violence, and decided to express their rage in some less feral form. Of course, the very great majority of them have done just that.

Brockville Mecca for Industries

Brockville Recorder and Times

Once again congratulations are in order for Mayor Bruce Broome for the outstanding job he is doing in locating new industry in Brockville this year. This week, he announced the most-heard, Ehberg Canada Limited, the fourth new industry to be officially confirmed in 1974. Land has been optioned by two other industries and a third industry is negotiating with the city for the remaining lot in the industrial park. It is therefore possible that by this year's end Mayor Broome could have acquired seven new industries in one year.

Mayor Broome's endeavors are highlighted this year in which the city has witnessed the greatest industrial expansion activity in its history in terms of numbers. Indeed, the new industries had located in Brockville of the past 25 years and it wasn't until the industrial park was opened five years ago that industry started taking a look at Brockville. Brockville's history has pretty well been one of selling a new industry and losing it to Ottawa. With Mayor Broome bringing them in at a record pace, the closing of other smaller industries doesn't pose the threat to the city's economy it once would have. For instance the closing of Walkers Biscuit company this summer wasn't the shock it would have been two or three years ago.

Mozambique May See Anarchy And Whites Eye Power in Angola

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

General Antonioda Spinola's reform government in Portugal surely did not expect a completely peaceful transition of the Portuguese African empire to independent states.

In the smallest and least viable of the three colonies, Guinea-Bissau more than half the mandated countries of the United Nations has already declared their support of the rebels in Portugal's capable before the arrival of the reformist regime in Lisbon.

Indeed one wonders why the Portuguese Government, before the Spinola takeover, ever wasted to hold on to such a useless piece of swampy jungle and river property. The expenditure of treasure and young lives by Lisbon to hold it is beyond all greater sin.

But Mozambique and Angola, the largest west and east African colonies, are something else again. Both have big indigenous white populations, Africans like white Rhodesians or South Africans who have as much claim on their country's future as the blacks.

And in Angola there are no less than four feuding guerrilla movements, each one claiming the right to take power from the Portuguese in a colony as large and as rich as Nigeria.

The troubles in Mozambique have already begun with mid-size-style forces of the white settlers seizing the radio station and rioting in the main cities of Lourenco Marques and Beira.

This places the Portuguese Army in the very curious position of putting down fellow Portuguese citizens because the Lisbon government has said political power will ultimately go to the long-standing Frelimo guerrilla organization which they had fought for 14 years before the coup.

Already there are rumblings of a new "Congo-type" situation recalling the bloody and bestial battles between rival white and black factions in that once-chaotic, new African republic in 1960-61.

Complete handover of power from Lisbon to the Frelimo groups will not take place for a year, with a provisional regime proclaimed in the meantime. In the light of this week's events, this means more trouble between black and white Mozambiquans before next fall.

It is in Angola where the hinterland will be even more explosive as a future, Portuguese-speaking, independent nation Angola would be a power not only in Africa but among all existing Third World countries.

This vast piece of West Africa is about 50 times larger than the colonial homeland, much richer by far as a large producer of oil, sugar and rare minerals, with a higher gross national product than Portugal herself.

The Angolan whites are proportionally greater in number with the blacks than in Mozambique, enough of them in effect to either demand or fight for a final government in the hands of local whites and not blacks.

It is possible that the Lisbon government will have to delay handover of Angola for some time if the whites in the colony look as though they might create a new Rhodesia in South Africa. It is also difficult to imagine why General Spinola did not omit Angola from the announced move to independence.

Perhaps it could have been nurtured as a colony for a longer period of time as was Nigeria in the era before British withdrawal from Africa.

What has not been said, is that whether the local groups black or white means more of the same, African governments by groups not necessarily representing the chaos of the population.

It will be interesting to see if Perron in power would ever hold an election.

Belleville's General Hospital Is Again Praised By A Patient

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I have just returned home from the Belleville General Hospital after a spell of surgery.

I would like to thank the hospital and staff for the kind attention and for the generous portion of your paper for the kind attention and outstanding treatment accorded me during the past three weeks.

From the Intercomer to Belleville less than two years ago and against many a good part of my life in hospitals in France, England and Canada, I have no hesitation in stating that it is the equal of and the most friendly and sympathetic staff I have ever experienced.

I was on the 7th Floor and the post operative care and personal attention I received there will always remember.

To the dedicated staff of day and night nurses I offer my heart-felt thanks and deep gratitude. I only hope I may be so much more enjoyable than I anticipated.

I would be remiss if I failed to thank the very well trained doctors for the many attentions they afforded me.

Belleville is indeed fortunate to have such an outstanding institution for the relief of pain and suffering and I feel it also has privilege of thanking the Board of Governors and Management for bringing this all to fruition.

I deserve a tremendous vote of confidence and thanks from all the citizens of Belleville and the vast territory it covers.

Economic Difficulties Plague U.K.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The state of the economy in the United Kingdom had been a matter of concern for the end of World War 2. Its position has probably never been worse than it is at the present.

The British philosophy is such that there is not unduly worry or "something will always turn up".

Something has indeed turned up. In the case of Harold Wilson is currently preparing to form a sort of Communist vigilante group from among a coterie of retired colonels and their military ranks. In the background adding support is the Communist party, who contributed more than a fair share to the country's present predicament.

The suggestion that the Wilson and the Conservative party will do any better than Heath's government to restore Labour party to halt the erosion of inflation is ludicrous.

The concentration by businessmen that they "expect to be taken to the cleaners" is the not too distant future is probably more accurate than most people might think.

The idiotic policy of allowing everyone and his dog admission into the country has built up a cosmopolitan population that has had a profound effect on outlook or viewpoint of the average Britisher.

The influx of hundreds of thousands of immigrants from all over the Commonwealth, most of whom seem to have opposing philosophies and are more interested in plundering the economy rather than building it, presents a problem of horrendous proportions. It is comparatively simple to "fiddle" the average Brit into shape — they still retain much of the docile acquiescence that gave rise to the Bulldog-breed myth. The newcomers are a different breed. They have nothing to lose and everything to gain in the country in terms of roots and family ties. In the long run, everything to gain.

Whatever the problems of the country may be, and the cost of membership in the European Common Market, relations with other members of the Commonwealth, the biggest problem facing the UK is integration of its multiracial newcomers - many of whom seem bent on pursuing their own special interests.

Hastings County is faced with a steadily growing list of the old and a mounting cost for their upkeep. It was revealed by the report of the Old Age Pension Board submitted to Hastings County Council on Thursday by chairman Reeve Jas. Brunsen.

Great Lakes Agreement May Hurt Small Ships

MONTREAL (CP) — A part-time strike during two years, says an industry spokesman.

G. Hardcastle, vice-president of Upper Lakes Shipping Ltd., which represents seven firms, said in an interview Monday that some vessels could become "uneconomical" to operate because of a tentative agreement reached Friday by the union with 625 striking deck officers.

"Hopefully, we will be able to keep larger older operating but it is doubtful that all the smaller ships of about 10,000 tons will be able to continue economically," he said.

The officers, members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, walked off the job Aug. 8 along with 750 ship mechanics, belonging to the Canadian Marine Officers' Union, to back demands for a new contract to replace their last one which expired May 31.

The deck officers reached a tentative agreement during the weekend with Upper Lakes Shipping Ltd. and 17 shipping companies represented by the Canadian Lakes Vessels Association.

A federal government mediator who sat in on the talks said terms of the proposed contract could not be disclosed until agreement was reached with the mechanics.

Mr. Hartford said costs would increase, even more than the 60 per-cent figure some terms were also reached with the mechanics.

Talks with the mechanics were adjourned early Monday morning after a weekend session and labor department spokesmen were unable to say when they would resume.

The strike has tied up shipping on the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes and is delaying shipments of grain, oil, and iron ore.

Magnetic Transit Gets Shot in Arm

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government's controversial Urban Transportation Development Corp. (UTDC) received another shot in the arm Monday with the announcement that McDonnell Douglas Corp. of the United States is to take part in the development process for the magnetic-levitation transit system.

The announcement followed the news last Friday that the Alberta government will take a share in the Ontario corporation.

Monday's announcement said McDonnell Douglas has signed an agreement with Krauss-Maffei, the German company that pioneered the system, for exclusive U.S. rights to the magnetic urban transit technology.

Ontario, through the UTDC is to receive 10 per cent of the royalties flowing to Krauss-Maffei under the agreement with the U.S. firm.

Since the province signed its agreements with Krauss-Maffei more than a year ago, the deal has come under harsh criticism from the opposition in the legislature.

Critics have questioned the system's feasibility and cost.

So far, Ontario has committed about 222 million for preliminary work on the magnetic-levitation system, which will operate rapid transit cars supported by magnetism on an elevated track.

A demonstrator track system is to be built on the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and the first prototype cars are to be running by next August.

The McDonnell Douglas involvement includes a commitment by the U.S. Aerospace Corp. to spend $30 million on technology connected with the system.

Some of the development work—to provide the transition between prototypes and a production system—is to be carried out by Douglas Aircraft of Canada Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the U.S. firm.

UTDC President Kirk Foley said Canadian expertise in linear induction motors and propulsion systems will be merged with McDonnell Douglas's know-how in the fields of computer control and data systems for automated control.

The agreement provides that McDonnell Douglas hold exclusive U.S. rights to the Krauss-Maffei process until 1986, when the field becomes open for competition.

In return, UTDC will get 10 per cent of the Krauss-Maffei royalties.

Mr. Foley said Los Angeles, Dallas and Miami, among other U.S. cities, have shown interest in the system. He said Los Angeles could buy up to $5 billion worth of equipment of which about one per cent would go to the Ontario corporation.

Subway Systems Preferred

TORONTO (CP) — A planning specialist said Monday Ontario's proposed air-cushion transit system would be an eyesore and should be abandoned in favor of underground trains, even if the cost proves to be higher.

Dr. R. F. Legget, a former director of the National Research Council in Ottawa, told a seminar of engineers discussing new technology in underground planning that Ontario's subway system should "give all who want to gather our city landscape with elevated structures cause to think."

It was an obvious reference to Ontario's GO urban program, but he said later in an interview he was thinking only of the aesthetic pollution of the system which would have trains running on elevated 'monorails.

"There is no elevated system that I've ever seen that I haven't hated too," Dr. Legget said.

A part-time lecturer in his retirement, Dr. Legget also is an author and a long-time proponent of sub-surface development.

He told the seminar, sponsored by Acres Consulting Services Ltd. of Toronto which is involved in underground technology, that a British study has shown that subways are only slightly more costly than elevated systems.

In one specific case, the British found that a tunnel system cost about $5 million more than an above-surface system.

Second Woman Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Renaude Lapointe, a 63-year-old former Quebec politician, has been appointed Speaker of the Senate, Prime Minister Trudeau's office announced Monday.

She is the second woman to receive the appointment, Muriel McQueen Fergusson, (L—New Brunswick) was Senate Speaker during the last session of Parliament.

Senator Lapointe, a Liberal, has been in the Senate since November, 1971.

One Remains, One Returns

TORONTO (CP) — A Hungarian agricultural engineer left his country's official delegation to a food conference in Canada and went to immigration offices to defect, immigration officials said Monday.

Farkas Ohsi, 51, left during a side-trip to Niagara Falls on Sept. 9 and made the formal request to stay in Canada the next day when an interpreter was found, the spokesman said. The immigration department is considering Mr. Ohsi's request.

Meanwhile, Nicu Mihalache, 39, a Romanian trade expert who came with a delegation to the Canadian National Exhibition changed his mind about seeking asylum in Canada after speaking to Romanian officials.

Tour Trade To Unite?

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's travel industry is ready to form an association uniting travel agents, tour operators and airlines which would pay into a fund to guarantee that tourists do not lose money when a travel agency goes bankrupt.

George Hoffelt, lawyer for the Ontario branch of the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), which represents about half of the province's agents, said he is "inches away" from incorporation for the group.

He wants to know what provincial government legislation will require before drawing up bylaws for the association.

Frank Drea, minister of the legislature and parliamentary assistant to John Clement, minister of consumer relations, said Monday he is preparing legislation to make the travel industry register itself.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles." It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research institute has found a new healing substance with the ability to temporarily relieve the burning and itching pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. In pure, healing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. In addition to these tests and observations, many sufferers have written us in a variety of Hemorrhoidal conditions.

All this and more is explained by a healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator, Available at all drug counters. Mature Women Series:

Lawyer - Designer Keeps Her Options Open

By ALISON GODDARD

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass. (NW) — "There are periods when you must reassess your life — and this is one of them."

So says Eleonor Brown — a woman in transition. She has had a full but executive career designing post in New York's highly-competitive garment industry to consider the options open to an enterprising 39-year-old woman.

Now that her children are grown and gone, Brown, a fashion-designer and expectant father; Jennifer, 36, is a graduate student); Mrs. Brown feels free to explore "all possible alternatives". She has a lot going for her. Already a lawyer (getting her degree when she was only 20), she is taking refresher courses. As an established designer of women's sportswear, she continues her creative work freelance.

There are so many choices, she reflects in her cozy cottage home in the Berkshires. "Ideally I'd like to practice law part-time. Massachusetts. And I'd like to travel. Of course, there's always the temptation to play it safe — a "designer trouble-shooter". But being female is a field where "a woman must have a stainless - steel spine to get ahead," she discovered she had to fight hard to get to the place where a man is automatically accepted.

"When my boss told me I thought like a man, I knew I was in," she says wryly, "but didn't consider his remark a complement."

Now Eleonor Brown, who sees herself as a "reasonable woman with drive and curiosity", has decided to move in. Husband Ben, "an unremittingly creative artist", supports her decision to change careers.

Her mother inspired her to make this mid-life move. "She's in her 70s and starts new careers all the time," notes Mrs. Brown. Still, she cautions other women who are considering change to "be aware of the perils of throwing in the sponge."

It's not pie in the sky. You suffer a loss of status. There are many anxious moments and few signposts along the way. Should I have had an anchor to a husband, family and children? Yet she concludes, "with all the opportunities available, it's an exciting time to be a woman."

Ann Landers
Right or Wrong—Who Knows?

Dear Ann Landers: I am still somewhat shell-shocked from what has happened to our former president, 18 of his associates, and our former vice-president. I assume the end is not yet in sight. Several high officials are still to be tried.

My children are asking me if this is The New Morality. They want to know what to think and I don't know what to tell them.

The youngest, a boy in second completely bewildered us night after he had listened to a news commentator. His question was, "How can a person tell the difference between what is right or wrong?"

Frankly, I don't have the answer. Do you? — Confused Mother Who Loves Her Country.

Dear Mother: A few years ago I heard a lecture by the beloved pastor of The People's Church of Chicago, Dr. Preston Bradley. He discussed this very subject and quoted Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's famous test for deciding what is right and what is wrong. I asked Dr. Bradley if he would send me his distilled version, and he did so at once. Here it is:

Q: Does the course of action you plan to follow seem sensible and honorable to you? Never mind what anyone else has to say. If it does, it is probably right.

Two: Does it raise the test of sportsmanship in other words, everyone following this same course of action, would the results be beneficial for all

Three: Will you think well of yourself when you look back at what you have done

Five: Try to separate yourself from the problem. Pretend for a moment that it is the problem of the person you most admire. Ask yourself, "How would that person handle it?"

Six: Hold up the final decision to the glaring light of publicity. Would you want your family and friends to know what you have done? The devisions we make in the hope that no one will find out are usually wrong.

Dr. Fosdick's Six-Point Plan should be posted in every home. Bradley is, in my opinion, as fine a guide for decision-making as I have ever heard. If your children will find the answers they are seeking. They're all right there.

Dear Ann Landers: May I add one word to the Pollyanna Plan? Speaking of words, the word is "Ditto."

It's high time someone coined a word for male promiscuity. For too many years we have been hearing some pretty harsh criticism of women who sleep around. They were called writing, "tramps, trollops, pushovers, roundheels, chippies," etc. On the other hand, men who did the same thing were labelled "Lotharios, Romeos"—nothing to suggest that there was anything wrong with it.

Now women are insisting on the same privileges as men. I believe they are justified in demanding the same standards from men that men have been demanding of them. Granted, some women don't fuss about whether or not a woman has had previous sexual experience. But those who are should be free to come to the marriage bed with a clear conscience. If they demand of their brides, If they demand of their brides, If they should keep their mouths shut.

I'm not suggesting that both parties should be allowed to cat around with impunity. What I'm saying is that men who want a virgin should be virgins, also, or lie (and nerve calling) about it. — Ditto, Tampa, Fla.

Dear Sauce: Now it's my turn to say, "Ditto." Thanks for writing.

'Pilot Parents' Program Aids Families of Retarded

TORONTO (CP) — Only the parents of a child who is retarded or handicapped can discover that the child is not the same as other children.

This is why Pilot Parents came into being last May, "I've been in this feeling of loss mind, I'd like to help new parents," says Mrs. Gerlick, founder of the group.

Mrs. Gerick's four-year-old daughter Rachel was diagnosed as retarded at birth.

At the time, her pediatrician referred her to Surrey Place, then known as the Mental Retardation Centre, where a social worker arranged an evening workshop with several other parents.

The 20-member group, part of the community division of the Metropolitan Toronto Association for the Mentally Retarded, has a brochure concerning the project which is distributed to hospitals, public health nurses and family doctors.

"There are also many children in the group whose parents have been told their child will never walk or talk," she said.

"Ideally I'd like to practice law part-time. Massachusetts. And I'd like to travel. Of course, there's always the temptation to play it safe — a "designer trouble-shooter". But being female is a field where "a woman must have a stainless - steel spine to get ahead," she discovered she had to fight hard to get to the place where a man is automatically accepted.

Mowing Lawns—Double Dividends

By DORIS CLARK

A group of high school teenagers calling themselves "Helping Hands" worked all during this summer mowing lawns in Caledonia, a small Ontario town.

They operated on a grant from Opportunities For Youth for the two summer months. Mostly, they got jobs cutting lawns for elderly people or home owners who either did not have the strength or the money to get work done around home. They mowed lawns, cleaned out garages, raked leaves and made a trip to the store for groceries. There was no helping job they would not tackle.

Out of all their experiences they gained not only a knowledge of how to do things, but they also developed a respect for older generations as individuals; other way round, too!

Dear Doris:

Our daughter of 14 is short for her age and has not developed as some of the other girls have. They go out with boys and we do not let her do that. When there is a school dance our daughter is allowed to go, my husband taking her there and picking her up when it is over.

But she is always asking to go to house parties of teenagers with are often not supervised. The kids mean her no harm, but what we are too strict.

She acts and talks mad all the time, but when she wants to she can be real nice. But she always comes back to the fact that she can't attend parties. Both times she will say that we are right and then the next day it's the same complaint.

— Mother of Teen-ager

Dear Mother:

Perfectly normal teen-ager! She is short, small, probably feels she is not holding her own with the other girls and that is frightfully important at her age.

He; personality and physical appearance could change quite rapidly in the next year or two - and you are the one who can help her in this time of turbulence. Let her do more things on her own, but set the limits first at a family council meeting.

Encourage her to have her friends at your house and let her go to their houses. Invite you-do know them. Later she will recognize that you are being just and fair and caring - but I do think you could relax a little and help her gain self-reliance.

Dear Doris:

I would like a poem called "Mother's Job" ... about a mother's job ... and a farmer's wife. Those boys will go a long way ... etc. Thank You.

Dear T.Y.:

Haven't got it. Who has? We'll be grateful and send it on if it comes in from one of our helpful poetry-lovers.

Sexpots No More

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. air line stewardesses' long-standing image of sexpot and bimbo has taken such unglue passengers to the cleaners, one of their leaders said Thursday as the women vowed to fight the sexism—with their own cosmetics.

Stewardesses for Women's Rights (SFWR), a year-old organization, that has enrolled about 1,000 of the country's 25,000 to 40,000 flight stewardesses, ended a two-day conference by showing its first "pro-woman" commercial, aimed at knocking down the "sexpot" image of stewardesses they claim has been credited by current advertising.

In a campaign which SFWR's executive administrator Cynthia Glackett says is aimed at forcing airlines "not to sell seats through sexual innuendo," the group hopes to wipe out slogans like "Fly-Me" and "Up-Up and Away" for good.

The SFWR contends that "sexploitation" endangers the safety of passengers and crew.

Liz Rich, another SFWR officer, cited an example: An emergency evacuation of a plane was ordered and the stewardess had hardly taken her post at the exit door when a male passenger "picked her up and carried her off, saying 'You shouldn't be here, baby girl'." Seventy passengers, were still on the plane awaiting exit instruction.

Their own commercial emphasizes safety and the stewardesses say the airlines play down because it turns people off flying.

In the ad, an actress tells about how stewardesses are trained to carry out safety regulations and handle emergencies.

"I take great pride in my work," she says. "I don't think of myself as a sex object or a servant, but as someone who is capable of opening the door of a 747 in the dark, upside down, and in the water."

A handful or so young stewardesses, out of uniform and modestly wearing jeans, watched as the actress ran through her script and cheered loudly when she declared the scripot image as "as unsafe as any attitude."

Clivus Multrum, No-flush Wonder

ROCKLAND, Maine (AP) — A member of the Rockefeller family wants to put a clivus multrum in every United States home.

It's not quite sure that something bad better replace the flush toilet in the next 10 years, Rockefeller, 31.

The daughter of New York banker David Rockefeller and niece of Vice-President-designate Nelson Rockefeller is president of Clivus Multrum U.S.A. She has started production of the device and says will replace that Victorian invention the flush toilet.

The clivus multrum is the 20-year-old Swedish invention of Rikard Lindstrom for composting human waste without unsightliness or odor.

Clivus is the Latin word for incline, referring to the incline of the bottom of its tank. multrum is a composite word in Swedish meaning composting room.

The clivus requires no water, no chemicals and no energy to operate. It is a large tank in which toilet and kitchen wastes decompose for several years producing a small amount of odorless humus which can be returned to the soil. The liquid part of the waste escapes through a roof vent.

The flush toilet is not a minor environmental offender, said Miss Rockefeller.

"It is doing as much harm to our water as the automobile is to our air," she said. Three to eight gallons of water are used per flush and the water turns the waste nutrients into pollutes that cause eutrophication.

Producing a clivus multrum means here in July at the rate of four a week and they sell for $1,200.

Although the initial cost is high, Miss Rockefeller said the clivus multrum would have long-range economic benefits.

It reduces household water use by 50 per cent and the ensuing parts, so no maintenance is needed. On a community basis, it does away with sewage treatment plant investment. Such a plant in Ferne a community of only 500 people costs about $1 million, she said.

For now, she is concentrating on marketing the clivus multrum in New England.

But the device has attracted the attention of the Environmental Protection Agency and it is conducting tests on it.

AID RETARDED

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The Alberta Association for the Mentally Retarded has received a $41,000 grant from the provincial government to be used in its Cornerey program. The project is designed to help the mentally handicapped live such basic facilities as guidance clinics, health units and services provided in public schools.

Ford Intimates Nixon's Guilt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says Richard Nixon's acceptance of a pardon can be construed as an acknowledgement of guilt, but Ford's unyielding defence of the clemency has not silenced critics of his decision.

Ford also said Monday that there were no secret reasons for the pardon and no secret deals with Nixon.

And he disclosed he is moving to allay concern among Watergate prosecutors about tapes and records Nixon taped as personal evidence.

He said White House aides are negotiating with Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's staff to erase concerns about presidential papers and courtroom use the tapes record logs and presidential documents deemed to be Nixon's property.

Replying to pardon-related questions at his second broadcast news conference, Ford said: "I am absolutely confident . . . I made the right decision in an effort, on honest, conscientious effort, to end the (Watergate) divisions and the turmoil in the United States."

Ford said that the former president has been "shamed and disgraced" by his resignation.

The president also said he had no inside information on Nixon's health at the time of his pardon, and although he was aware of published reports Nixon was ailing, "I was more anxious to heal the nation."

A number of congressional Democrats said they were not satisfied by Ford's reasons for the pardon.

"Tonight, I thought, there might be some light," said Representative Thomas Foley (Dems-Calif.) a member of the House of Representatives Judiciary committee that recommended Nixon's impeachment. "But there was none."

Chairman Peter Rodino (Dem.-N.J.) of the Judiciary committee said it would have been better had Ford "pursued the judicial process to show that all are treated equally under the law."

But Senator George Aiken (Rep.-Vt.) said Ford's explanation was "pretty straightforward and will make an impression on a lot of people who didn't agree with the pardon."

In reports cited by Jaworski said the vagueness of Ford's response to questions about the Watergate documents may only fuel fears that the materials may go to Nixon while they may be needed by prosecutors. The source said there was a meeting on the subject Monday and Jaworski aides last Thursday, but nothing was settled.

Reviewing his decision to pardon the former president, Ford went further than ever before in suggesting Nixon was guilty of impeachable offenses if not criminal misconduct. He said the unanimous Judiciary committee vote for impeachment was "very persuasive evidence" and at another point said, in response to a question, the acceptance of a pardon, I think can be construed by many, if not all, as an admission of guilt."

If the pardon question dominated the 35-minute news conference, the topic of CIA interference in the affairs of other countries seemed certain to stir international controversy.

Asked about CIA action against the since-overthrown Marxist government of Chile, Ford said the United States did act "to help and assist the preservation of opposition newspapers and electronic media and to preserve opposition political parties." He went on:

"I think this is in the best interests of the people of Chile, and certainly in our best interests."

In any case, he said he was informed reliably that Communist nations spend vastly more money than we do for the same kind of purposes." And he said, "our government had no involvement whatsoever" in the coup that toppled the Chilean regime.

Asked to justify such intervention under international law, Ford said: "I am not going to pass judgment on whether it is permitted or authorized under international law. It is a recognized fact that historically, as well as presently, such actions are taken in the best interest of the countries involved."

On other topics, Ford said:

—The United States is not going to have a depression. The economy of the United States is strong. Employment is still high. We do have the problem of inflation," which he said he hoped will be solved.

—Within the next few days, presumably when he addresses the United Nations General Assembly in New York Wednesday, he hopes to announce "a very major decision" involving a humanitarian fund aid to other countries.

A reporter noted the government's agreement with Nixon regarding custody of his tapes and records provides for destruction of the tapes in the event of the former president's death. The reporter asked whether the tapes should not be kept in the White House until Jaworski has no further need for them.

Ford said: "The tapes and documents are still in our possession and we are . . . working with the special prosecutor's office to alleviate any concerns they have as to their disposition and their availability."

Ocean-going tug tows the world's largest oil rig from the construction dock to the field in the North Sea. The rig was towed on its side and upended into vertical position at the site. The British government is pressing with plans to build more rigs and estimates of the total number of rigs needed by 1980 range from 55 to 80. (CP Photo)

Professor Claims U.S. Dodging Water Cleanup

TORONTO (CP) — The United States must stop saying it needs more research and get on with the job of cleaning up its waters, the International Joint Commission was told Monday by a University of Wisconsin professor.

A report by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to be considered later by the congress, estimates $350 billion is needed to meet pure-water goals—11 times higher than that estimated four years ago and six times that of two years ago.

Prof. Vinton said the U.S. program is "a bureaucratic mess and "it seems we're failing further and further behind."

He said problems include the impoundment of clean-up funds by former president Richard Nixon, ever-changing staffs and guidelines by federal and state agencies.

Canada is most directly affected by delays in the U.S. share of cleaning up the Great Lakes.

"A lot of us are hiding behind the dodge that we need more research and development. . . . This is just not true," said Prof. Vinton Bacon of the university's civil engineering department. "I submit that we have today what we need to do this job."

Indians Win Fight In Court

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol Kenneard Monday all five, following charges against two American Indian Movement. (AIM) leaders in connection with last year's occupation of the Indian village of Wounded Knee, S.D.

Nichol dropped his decision with an attack on what he called "government misconduct."

He said Assistant U.S. Attorney R. D. Hurd had deceived him about one government witness and he renewed his criticism of the FBI.

The prosecution can appeal the ruling within seven days, Nichol said.

Nichol denied a defence request for acquittal which would have freed Dennis Banks, Russell Means and Dennis Banks from further trial for the charges, including three counts of assault, one of theft and one of conspiracy.

Nichol's decision climaxed an eight-month pre-trial and eight-week trial of Means and Banks in connection with the 71-day armed takeover of the Pine Ridge Indian reserve village beginning Feb. 28, 1973.

Nichol had said last April in a finding that one government is legally tapped a phone at Wounded Knee that he was almost at the brink of dismissing the case.

On the basis of the defence's renewed claims of misconduct the judge said: "I have been elbowed over the brink."

Nichol's ruling came shortly after Hurd, acting on instructions from the justice department in Washington, refused to go along with an 11-member jury after a doctor reported that a juror who became ill Friday would not be able to resume deliberations. Hurd had called the juror, Theresa Cherrier, 53, the most prone to convict.

Alberta Firm Alters Gas Plan

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. Ltd. (AGTL) of Calgary announced Monday its withdrawal from a consortium proposing a $5.7-billion Mackenzie valley pipeline.

AGTL said in a statement that it notified 27 other members of the Gas Arctic-Northwest Project Study Group of its withdrawal on Friday.

An AGTL spokesman said the company now wants to pursue a $3.5-billion all-Canadian arctic natural gas pipeline through Foothills Pipelines Ltd., a federally-chartered company within the AGTL organization.

AGTL was an original sponsor and operator of the Gas Arctic Systems Study Group to form the Gas Arctic-Northwest Project Study Group.

Two subsidiaries were formed by the new group—Canadian Arctic Gas Study Ltd. to study the feasibility of the proposed pipeline, and Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd. (CAGP) to construct the proposed pipeline.

The announcement said details of the uncertainty of the CAGP proposed line in the fact that it would require the approval of the governments of the United States and the state of Alaska since the proposal calls for the transportation of Alaskan gas along with Mackenzie delta gas to pipelines and markets in the United States.

And while "access to this supply for future Canadian natural gas needs is becoming a matter of high-relative urgency," AGTL said, "there are still many key issues uncovered" with the CAGP project.

On the other hand, the Foothills proposal will not require U.S. approval since it will transport Canadian gas only.

However, AGTL said, the proposed Foothills pipeline "can be expanded most co-operatively to serve Alaskan gas export and can also market to the U.S. any excess in Canadian supply."

Player's Father Tried For Hitting Timekeeper

TORONTO (CP) — Ervin Robert Gray of Mississauga, Ont., was committed for trial Monday on a charge of assault causing bodily harm resulting from an incident where a timekeeper was assaulted during a Canadian hockey game last April.

Court was told that a penalty-bench brawl developed in the dying minutes of the game among players, officials and at least one spectator. Following the game, Gray and timekeeper Lee Thomas Taylor charged each other outside the dressing room.

But in a trial following Gray's preliminary hearing, Provincial Court Judge D. F. Graham acquitted the timekeeper on two counts of common assault.

Mr. Taylor testified at his trial that four of the 14-and 15-year-old players, including Gray's son William, began to fight among themselves on the penalty bench. When he tried to separate the boys, he was punched from behind in the face by Gray, who by this time had jumped from the spectator stands onto the ice, he said.

Gray testified he joined the battle to protect his son who he said was being beaten by the timekeeper.

Socred Picked

CORNWALL (CP) — The leader of the Ontario Social Credit party, Alcide (Sid) Hamelin, 38, of Hamilton was chosen Saturday as his party's candidate in the Oct. 17 provincial byelection in Stormont riding.

The byelection was called two months ago when Labor Minister Fern Guindon resigned and ran unsuccessfully in the July 8 federal election.

Talks Resume

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiations resumed Monday night to end a machinists' strike which has paralyzed public transportation here but Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer said special legislation will be introduced in the national assembly Wednesday unless a solution is reached.

Mandate Given

TORONTO (CP) — The Civil Service Association of Ontario Monday threatened to go on strike if dissatisfied by no-progress negotiations between government and the union are not met, a spokesman said.

G. G. Norman, general manager of the association, said the group which represents about 45,000 government employees, had been given a clear mandate from 18 rallies across the province to call a strike in a bid to raise public servants to a level equal to that of private industry.

Board Appeals

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The rejection by the Essex County board of education of a recommendation to build a French-language secondary school will be appealed directly to the minister of education, a board member said Monday.

Strike Over

TORONTO (CP) — Workers at Massey-Ferguson Industries here and at Brantford voted Monday to end a four-day strike by accepting an agreement negotiated Saturday between the company and the United Auto Workers (UAW).

The three-year contract provides for a 51-cent-an-hour increase in the first year and increases of three per cent in each of the next two years. An improved cost-of-living clause and improved pensions are included, along with a new dental plan starting Nov. 1, 1975.

Present pay rates are $4.69 for non-production workers, $5.49 for "semi-skilled" workers and $6.05 for skilled workers.

Inflation — How Some Local Residents Are Coping With It

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

What are you doing about inflation, if anything?

"Voting Conservative next time," quips a former Liberal worker.

"Nothing; you can't beat it," says a housewife.

"It can't go on forever, can it?" asked several persons quizzed in an informal Intelligencer survey of how people are fighting the spiralling cost of living.

Inflation is increasing the cost of living by almost 13 percent annually, and one man who keeps a close eye on the national and international monetary situation says it is climbing toward a 15 per cent a year.

Ray Ryan works at International Hardware and heads the union there.

"We need a cost-of-living clause in our contract," is his answer to how to cope with inflation. "We've got one now, but it has an eight percent annual cap."

Mr. Ryan, who has three little girls, said $51 for groceries this week is the last two weeks, he says, his grocery bill has gone up by $10 to $15. The cheapest shoes he can buy his 11-year-old daughter cost $17. He's putting a side of beef and a hog in his freezer this fall to see if that will cut his food costs.

His co-worker, Bob Harris said he used to spend $20 a week for groceries. Now it's $30 for two adults and two small children.

He's just rented a house 10 miles outside Belleville for $140 a month because "I won't have money with my beef at 86 cents a pound, but you can't beat that kind of marriage along to the customer. We've increased our retail prices 15 to 20 per cent, so our profit margin has gone down."

Inflation has also increased the administrative load of small businessmen.

"We didn't raise the price of paper goods to our franchises for six years," says Mr. Hunt. "During the last year the price of our boxes alone has increased four times. There's a lot of work involved in changing price lists and notifying our outlets."

Chicken now costs 73 to 74 cents a pound. In the United States the price is 45 to 47 cents.

"The marketing boards in Canada are keeping the price up," says Mr. Hunt. "We have investigated bringing in our chicken from the U.S.; although that offends my Canadian nationalism."

Mr. Hunt says the fact governments have some control over inflation rates is evident by the varying inflation rates of different countries. Canada's is 13 per cent, but in some South American countries the rate is 25 to 30 per cent.

"We can't let that happen here. If you assume there's nothing you can do about it, then it's guaranteed, isn't it?"

Marion Kuipers says she thinks she'll take up sewing for her children, aged one, three and five years.

"I costs $3 to buy one pant suit for a child. I can make two for $8."

Mrs. Kuipers is a housewife with a difference. She and her husband, through the Children's Aid Society, are foster parents of five teen-aged girls.

She switched from butter to margarine two weeks ago, a move she swore she would never make. She pays 73 cents a pound for margarine instead of 99 to 71 cents for butter. Her family uses a pound a day and two loaves of bread just for lunch.

"I believe in lots of hearty food, but not expensive stuff," she says.

Mrs. Kuipers "shops around" for food specials, "and believe me, I really read the weekly supermarket ads."

She hasn't had to pay more than 68 cents a pound for hamburger. Last week she froze 35 chuck steaks bought for 70 cents a pound. Her family never has roasts.

"We don't have desserts around here. I've put a stop to snacks, cake mixes and cookies. I've cut out going to the doughnut store and the girls have toast for snacks."

Mrs. Kuipers has always been a canny shopper who never threw her money around, inflation or not.

"I guess my hobby is shopping. The only time I ever buy clothes is when they're on sale, and I've never paid more than half price. But now I'm getting discouraged when I shop.

"I'll tell you what's happening — young couples are renting lots in the country and raising their own vegetables. They freeze them for the winter, or can them if they haven't got a freezer. Normally, it was other people who did this, but now it's the young people who raise their own," she said.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1974

Two Held Following 75 - M.P.H. Chase Through City and Trenton

Belleville and Trenton police were led on a high speed chase Monday night with speeds that reached up to 75 miles an hour.

Before it was over, police said the car in pursuit had run a series of stop signs and lights, travelled the wrong way down a Trenton street, forced a car off the road and ran into a Trenton police cruiser.

Belleville police said they observed a Cadillac about 11:15 p.m. Monday, travelling south on Front St., which turned onto Dundas St. West and began speeding.

A chase ensued along Highway 2 on the way to Trenton and the air base. Military police were alerted at the air base and Trenton police joined in at the town line.

With two cruisers in pursuit, the vehicle was finally chased through Trenton to the Dossetor Packaging Ltd. yard on Marmora St.

Authorities said the car, once in the yard, hit a Trenton police cruiser causing an estimated $150 damage. Police said the vehicle was finally stopped at the end of a dead-end road north of the plant.

Police said a check showed the vehicle was stolen from Oshawa.

Turned over to Durham Regional Police to face charges of auto theft was Gregory John Brayley, 18, of Nassau St. in Oshawa. Belleville Police chief Douglas Crosbie said driving charges also are pending.

A juvenile passenger in the car was not charged.

Bargains Become Important

Mrs. Gladys Graham weighs the value of a sale offer on Front Street in the light of rapidly increasing prices. She has always made her own clothes, but is now wondering if ready-mades aren't just as cheap. She made the suit she is wearing two years ago when the fabric was just under $3 a yard, but says she couldn't afford the price of the same fabric today.

Fair Attendance Down

The midway has left for another town, the livestock exhibits are back on the farm and the crowds have gone home.

A total of about 97,000 people paid to see the three day, four night event which opened Tuesday evening and closed Friday night. To avoid having this year's fair compete directly with the Mohawk Fair on the Tyendinaga Reserve, held last Saturday, Exhibition general manager Ev. Gowsell decided against having the local fair run that day.

Earlier this year, rain played havoc with the spring fair attendance figures as cheering occurred almost every day of the event. Attendance totalled about 53,000.

Last year when the exhibition ran for four days and five nights, in one stretch, total paid attendance was close to 80,000.

Mr. Gowsell said he is evaluating the results this year and that would determine what format the fair would take next year.

This year's fair featured the Unloyal Thrill Drivers giving three grandstand performances to appreciative crowds.

On Wednesday evening, Mayor Robin Jeffrey officially opened the fair and the winners of the Tiny Tot show were honored with gifts.

Friday, the Hastings County Dairy Princess competition was held. Chosen princess for this year and eligible to compete in the provincial finals at the Canadian National Exhibition next year was 17-year-old Diane Jarrell of RR8, Belleville.

Construction Boom Ups Standard of Living

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Long before a new industry moves open its doors in a production sense, it becomes a vital statistic in Belleville's economy.

The city now is enjoying a building industry construction climate. Six plants are under construction providing more than 250 jobs to Quinte area tradesmen.

Figures released by the engineering and contracting firms responsible for plant construction show more than $10,000 a week is going to Brian Holmes, manager of Cornerstone Construction Ltd. and Cornerstone Engineering Ltd., said this payroll figure is "only the tip of the iceberg."

He said an active construction climate shows its effects across the community, particularly among suppliers.

"We buy more than $100,000 worth of concrete each year," he said.

"This means jobs and revenue in every portion of the community," said Mr. Holmes.

Greg Wyborn, resident engineer on the Frontier and Gamble site in the city's north east industrial park, said more than 125 people are employed in the construction aspect of the plant, drawing an average weekly pay of about $250.

Fred Bamis, the city's industrial commissioner, said this construction employment factor is one of the important factors of industry.

"The very important side benefit of construction jobs is the increased spending power," said the industrial commissioner. "This spending power reflects all the way through the city's retail community."

Quinte Kiwanis Plan Telegram to Team Canada

Want to show your support for Team Canada which starts its eight game series against the Soviets tonight? Well, if you want to do more than just watch it on television the Quinte Kiwanis Club of Belleville is planning to send a telegram of support to Team Canada coach Billy Harris while the team is in Vancouver this weekend for the third game of the series.

Anyone who pledges a quarter will have his name added to the telegram. Money collected will be used to pay for the telegram and to help the club carry on community works in the area.

Already, almost a 100 names have been collected and Quinte Kiwanis Club president, Dick Hurst said he is hopeful of getting as many names as possible to show Canadian and especially Quinte-area support for the team.

For those wishing to add their name to the telegram, club members will be at many strategic points in the city on the weekend to take names.

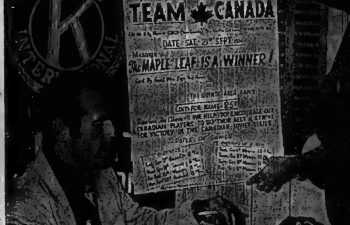
Forms also are available at the Belleville Place Thursday evening, the Quinte Mall and downtown Friday and Saturday morning at the market square and in the afternoon at the Quinte Mall.

Forms also are available at Dr. Hurst, at McCaugh's Variety on Front St. and at the Dossetor store on College St.

Sidewalk Approved

TRENTON — A sidewalk will shortly be laid on the south side of McGill St. between Patrixwe Blvd., and Mirron Ave., as a safeguard for area school children against high traffic volumes, town council decided Monday.

Council's action follows receipt of two petitions — one signed by 14 McGill St. residents against the sidewalk, and another 136-signature petition in favor.



Reports by town police and Prince Charles School principal W. D. Hamilton both favored installation of the sidewalk.

The latest petition, presented Monday by area resident Carole Anderson, urged council to lay the cement.

Sidewalk opponents did not want their lawns cut or the removal of established trees.

The sidewalk will be built on an existing road allowance, and another 136-signature petition in favor.

The general levy, Trees will be removed and placed deeper into lots.

Cheering on Canada

Belleville residents will be invited this weekend to show their support for Team Canada which opens its series against the Soviet Union tonight. The Quinte Kiwanis Club of Belleville is sending a telegram to the team in Vancouver and for 25c anyone can add their name to it. Here Dick Hurst, left, Quinte Kiwanis president, puts down names to the growing list as past president, Clint Vader, adjust the poster.

Weavers Display Handiwork At Corby Public Library Show

An exhibition by the Belleville Weaving Guild opens today in the upstairs gallery of Corby Library.

The first public showing the Guild has undertaken since its formation in 1968, the exhibition includes recent work by 12 local weavers.

Most of the weavings on display are large, often dramatic wall hangings, whose function is purely decorative, with costs ranging from examples of the practical aspects of the craft, such as weaves, ponchos and capes.

Having increased its membership from the original eight to more than two dozen weavers, the Belleville Weaving Guild has become a meeting place where weavers can share ideas and learn from each other.

Although the weavers exchange information, and have a common interest in new materials and techniques, there is no group approach to the craft.

"We're different people gathered together with different ideas," says Marion Casson, one of the weavers whose work is on display.

"Belonging to the Guild keeps up my enthusiasm for weaving," explains Bessie Cornell. "After a meeting I can hardly wait to get back to my loom again."

Most of the Guild members classify themselves as "hobby weavers, but there are professionals among them who make their living at the craft.

The influx of weavers from outside the Belleville area has brought new trends in the attention of local artisans.

"When I joined the Guild 12 years ago, no one wove hangings, but now they've become so popular they make up most of the exhibition, says Mrs. Cornell.

Although some people shy away from weaving as a hobby in the belief that it entails an expensive loom and costly supplies, Mrs. Cornell says that many Guild members still prefer to use small table looms which are inexpensive and easy to operate.

Typical of Guild activities is the workshop planned for later this fall, at which Ruth Rimmer will teach the member tapestry and rug weaving.

Another Guild venture is the donation of hangings and woven pillows they plan to present to the Cheshire Home.

These weavers exhibiting work are Mr. and Mrs. Elgar Hills, Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Nurse, Catherine Reidel, Ben Diamond, Anne Johnson, Alma Gassenbeck, Marion Casson, Ruth Rimmer and Bessie Cornell.

A leaflet provided by the Guild lists the members, their work, and indicates which pieces in the show are for sale.

The show continues through to the end of September, and can be viewed during regular library hours.

Craft on Display

Weavers Marion Casson, Catherine Roulet and Bessie Cornell spend Monday preparing the display of woven work being exhibited in the Corby Library gallery for the next two weeks by the Belleville Weaving Guild. The work of 12 local weavers is on display.

Team Canada Is Ready

Bring On the Russians

QUEBEC (CP) — Optimism increased around the Team Canada '74 camp Monday as the 16 performers began preparations for tonight's opener or an eight-game series with the Soviet Union.

Most of the high spirits resulted from realization that the '74 entry, made up of players from the World Hockey Association, is more prepared than was the National Hockey League crew that defeated the Soviets in the first such bash two years ago.

Father David Bauer, who coached Canada's national team in international competition for several seasons, predicted each team will win three games and two will end in ties.

"As even the most dedicated Team Canada supporters have agreed this team has less pure talent than the 1972 entry," said Father Bauer. "But when I look at the players here, and compare them with those we had, I can only be impressed."

Father Bauer's national team, comprised mainly of graduating juniors and university students, often came close to beating the Soviet Union and other powerful European hockey nations but did not win a world championship.

Billy Hay, former NHLer with Chicago Black Hawks, predicted Canada will win.

"We'll never again beat the Russians," said Hay, now a director of Hockey Canada, "but we're going to beat them this time."

Two years ago, Canada defeated Russia 4-3 in games with one tie.

Three members of that defence-forward Pat Stapleton and forwards Frank Mahovlich and Paul Henderson—are part of Team Canada '74.

Henderson scored the winning goal in each of the three final games while Stapleton checkbeed with Bill White to anchor the defensive brigade.

Father Bauer said many observers in 1972 predicted that Canada would win eight in a row against the Soviets. This time, many have predicted eight wins in a row for Russia.

"I believe this series will be much closer than many Canadians believe," he said.

Canada and Russia each cancelled a scheduled workout Monday morning and held an afternoon drill.

Team Canada coach Billy Harris named Gerry Cheevers to start in goals while Don McLeod will serve as backup.

The defence pairs will be Rick Ley and Brad Selwood; Pat Stapleton and J. C. Tremblay, and Paul Shmyr and Rick Smith.

The forward lines will be: Bobby Hull, Andre Lacroix and Johnny McKenzie; Marc Tardif, Serge Bernier and Rejean Houle; Frank Mahovlich, Gordie Howe and Ralph Backstrom; and Paul Henderson, Mike Walton and Bruce Gingerar.

The Russians did not announce their lineup.

Officials were due to be selected shortly before the game which is begins at 8 p.m. and will be televised nationally by CTV.

Expos in Split with Mets

Montreal Expos bounced Jerry Koosman for a fifth record-tying eighth straight victory, but a rookie broke the string in the nightcap as New York Mets gained a split of their National League baseball doubleheader Monday night.

Randy Sterling, making his first major league appearance, held the Expos hitless for five innings before giving way to Tug McGraw in the sixth as the Mets clipped the Expos 3-2 after dropping the first game by the same score.

Rusty Staub opened the fifth with his 17th home run of the year, and Wayne Garrett singled later in the inning to score Ed Kranepool, who had doubled, and Ron Hodges, who received an intentional walk.

The 3-0 lead appeared safe until Sterling hit Larry Parrish with a pitch to lead off the Expos sixth. Willie Davis, who left the first game complaining of dizziness, delivered a pinch-hit single and Larry Links sacrificed the runners up.

Tim Foli's sacrifice fly made it 3-1 and Mike Jorgensen's single scored Davis. A walk to Ken Singleton kept Expos bases alive.

Sterling, who posted a 13-11 record this season with Tidewater in the International League, left with a sore elbow and McGraw came in with the firebrake.

McGraw walked Ron Fairly but struck out pinch hitter Bob Bailey to end the rally.

Don Carrithers, 4-3, took the loss despite limiting the Mets to three hits through six innings. The Expos were trailing 3-1 with two out in the seventh when Pepe Mangual walked and Foli singled. Ron Woods brought them home with a base hit.

Davis had dropped Ted Martinez' fly ball in the fourth. That error permitted Kranepool to score from first as Martinez' wind up at third.

Arrows Nipped

Wings in Final

LANDOVER, Maryland (AP)—Philadelphia Wings overcame a first-period 8-5 deficit to defeat Maryland Arrows 13-12 and capture the best-of-seven National Lacrosse League semi-final 4-3 before 8,229 fans Monday night.

Philadelphia, regular-season league champions, meet Rochester Griffins in the best-of-seven finals with the first game at Philadelphia Thursday night. Other dates will be released later.

Jim Wasson and Terry Lloyd tired three goals each for the Wings, boosting Lloyd's playoff scoring to 13, tops among playoff contenders.

John Grant and Terry Rowland fired three each for Philadelphia, while Jim Hinkson, Zenny Lipinsk and Larry Lloyd had one each.

Wayne Granger, Paul Sugrue, Jerry McKenna and Bill Coughill had two goals each for Maryland, while Tom Vano, Gord Keatel, Guy Cody and Bob Smith scored one each.

Philadelphia outshot Maryland 45-44.

Northrup to Orioles

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos have assigned the contract of veteran outfielder Jim Northrup to Baltimore Orioles of the American League.

Northrup, 34, acquired from Detroit Tigers by the National League Expos last Aug. 7, has appeared in 21 games with the Expos, batting .341 with two doubles, one triple and eight runs batted in.

Earlier in the season with the Tigers, he batted .237 with 11

MANAGER REHIRED

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Twins president Calvin Griffith announced Monday he had rehired manager Frank Quilici for the 1975 American League baseball season. Griffith said he was impressed with the improvement Quilici has shown as manager this year and thinks it reflects the improvement the Twins have shown on the field in recent weeks.

Messersmith Content To Let Mike Mop Up

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Andy Messersmith, the Los Angeles Dodgers' big winner, apparently thinks that one day off for Mike Marshall, the team's ace relief pitcher, is too much. And manager Walt Alston tends to agree.

Although the Dodgers were holding a four-run lead over Houston Astros after seven innings Monday night, Alston brought in his durable right-hander to preserve Messersmith's 19th victory.

"If Mike doesn't pitch, he gets rusty sitting around—and angry," Messersmith quipped after the Dodgers won 7-2 and maintained their 2½-game lead over Cincinnati Reds in the National League West pennant race. "He hadn't worked since Saturday."

The Reds, meanwhile, battered San Diego Padres 9-2 for their seventh victory in eight games. The Dodgers have 12 games remaining and Cincinnati 14.

In other NL games, Montreal Expos and New York Mets split 3-0 decisions in a doubleheader and San Francisco Giants defeated Atlanta Braves 4-2.

In the only American League game, Minnesota Twins trounced Kansas City Royals 7-2.

Marshall now has appeared in 86 games—four more than the major league record he set last season with Montreal. He has finished 78 games, one short of the major league mark set by Milwaukee's Ken Sanders in 1971. And he is the NL leader in earned run average. Only one other relief pitcher—Mace Brown of the old New York Giants in 1952—ever won the ERA crown, finishing with a 2.45 mark.

Marshall's two scoreless innings against the Astros Monday night reduced his ERA to 2.28.

He allowed only one baserunner—on a walk. Over the season, he has worked 189 1-3 innings and permitted 173 hits and has a ratio of 138 strikeouts to only 46 walks.

The Dodgers capitalized on some sloppy Houston play, including four errors, over his batsman, one wild pitch and one passed ball, for most of their runs. Bill Buckner and Lee Lacy each had two hits and scored twice for Los Angeles.

The government is discriminating against a typist at Queen's Park.

The provincial government, her employer, passed a very repressive law that deprives her of some basic rights.

It's called CECBA (Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act).

It restricts the freedom of government employees to bargain collectively for improved benefits and working conditions.

It forces us to abide by a stacked arbitration board on which the government has two out of three appointees.

It denies us basic rights that other public employees enjoy.

So a Queen's Park typist is worse off than, say, a typist at Ontario Hydro.

We're falling behind others and we're falling behind inflation.

We want this unfair law changed.

We just want the same rights as other workers.

That typist at Queen's Park is just one of 60,000 Ontario Crown Employees.

And that's an awful lot of discrimination.

Free the servants!

Ethier Stops Auger's

Howard and Robert came from behind with a pair of runs in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night to defeat Auger Men's Wear 3-1 and even the Quinty Festival League final series at 2-1.

Bob Ethier pitched for the third night in a row for Howard and Robert. He struck out 13, walked four and scattered eight hits. He also won the game for himself in the ninth when he connected for a double to drive in the second Frontier run.

Bob Richardson was on the mound for Augers. He gave up nine hits, walked five and fanned eight.

Jack Hughes led the winners with 4 doubles and a single and Bob Parsons collected a pair of singles while scoring the winning run.

Other hits went to Ken Gammon, Larry Potter, Dave Skelton and Wayne Woods each with a single.

Dennis Orr was tops for the losers with a double and a single while Al Ferguson and Larry Mavety each punched in pair of singles. Jack Jary and Dave Henry each singled once.

The third game in the best of seven series will be played tonight at 7 p.m. at the Arena.

Bobcat defenceman, Joe Edwards (left), races from behind his own net to beat one of his teammates to the puck. Edwards was part of whizzing red team in Monday night's, Belleville Bobcat intra-squad game at Dick Ellis Rink. Edward's goaltender, Bruce Clark, keeps an eye on the while attacker. The final score of the contest was 9-5.

Bobcats Show Early Promise

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

The Belleville Bobcats drew about 250 people to last night's intra-squad game and most, if not all, the spectators were very pleased with what they saw.

All the cuts have not yet been made for the Junior B roster and everyone on the ice appeared to be looking to get a spot on the team.

It was a rabbity rough game that the reds won 9-5. Scott Samis paced the winners with three goals and two assists and Jim Richardson and Bob Macy of the fans were impressed with the ability and agility demonstrated by the young rookies.

Wayne Cadberry proved to be steady on defence and between he and the returning Joe Edwards and Dave Taylor the Cats should have one of the better blueline staffs in the league.

Most of the rookie forwards were hustling. They were all playing well and their passing was very accurate for this early in the season.

A couple of the new players who stood out were Mike Crawford, John Locke and Sands. They all looked like they are ready for Junior hockey.

A couple of smoothies back from last year who were impressive were Richardson and Al Garrison.

The three goalies working out with the team, Jeff Merrill, Bob Moore and Bruce Clark all looked sharp enough for the time of season. It's obvious that whoever plays goal the locals will probably have one of the better defensive records in the league this year. And the way the offence has been clicking they won't be hurting for goals either.

Thomson each had a pair of markers for the white squad.

The best part of the contest was that it was fast. Most of the players have already whipped themselves into shape for the upcoming Metro Junior B season.

Jeffs Down But Not Out

By CHRISTOPHER ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — Talented 16-year Junior A hockey driver David Jeffs will be going back to school, perhaps for the last time, after his Grade 12 at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

David broke his arm in a freak mishap while playing football recently, and was rejected by doctors at the London Knights on Sept. 1 when his cast was not taken off until a week later.

He already said he would have to walk until yesterday for a verdict regarding playing hockey, and it was thumbs down. His initial reaction was depression, but the 17-year-old seemed in good spirits last night. He has his education to continue.

David is at his best in art and science course and likes the maths. Already he has missed two weeks of school and he does not want to miss any more.

Interviewed 18 days ago while still wearing a cast, David said that if he was good enough in hockey the school was too much of a burden, he would stick with hockey, but would really prefer to finish his education.

Interviewed Tuesday night, David said he did not know whether he would be going to London. He says he wouldn't mind much of a chance since the Knights have started their exhibition games already and the season will start in three weeks.

David's doctor has prohibited him from all sports for the next three weeks.

Coach Bill Long told the Stirling defenceman to come out "every" when his arm is better.

David says if the team needs him and he has a good enough chance to get on the Knights he would go.

If he doesn't go, David says he would like to play for the Belleville Bobcats. Failing that, it will be back to the Stirling Juveniles.

Trainer With NHL Seals

TWEED — Colin LaVallee, son of Mrs. Oscar LaVallee, North Victoria St., Tweed, has accepted a position as head trainer with California Seals of the National Hockey League.

Employed by R. B. Reed and Sons in Oshawa for 22 years, Colin is a past president of the central council of the city's Neighborhood Associations.

He is married to the former Betty Woodley of Belleville.

The LaVallees will make their new home in Castro Valley, California.

Foreman Cut—Fight Postponed

KINSHASHA, Zaire (AP) — A Zaire government spokesman says he will make an official announcement today on the status of the richest fight in professional boxing history, postponed by a small gash over George Foreman's right eye.

The world heavyweight champion suffered a one-inch cut Monday, temporarily knocking down what was planned as one of the biggest extravaganzas in sports history. As a result, the lucrative purse—which Don King estimated at $40 million plus a share of the boxing promoter's profits—is uncertain how long the fight will be on the carvas.

It will be at least a week, and maybe seven.

Foreman was to have defends his title Sept. 25 against Mohammed Ali.

The cut, between the right eye and eyebrow and caused by the jab or elbow of a sparring partner, was clean, looking as if it had been inflicted by a razor. Doctors declined to say if they had taken stitches to seal the wound.

Tshimpumpa Wa Tshimpumpa, the Zaire government press spokesman, said Monday night he "is feeling put off. We don't know how long it will be, but we feel it will be a short time."

But in New York Monday, Hank Schwartz, executive vice president of Video Techniques, which produced the fight, told a national television audience on ABC that the postponement would probably last from a week to two or three weeks, but the delay might also be for a month.

Foreman received the cut while sparring with Bill McMurray Monday afternoon. His manager, Dick Sadler regarded it as too serious to risk it being opened in eight days.

A British TV film maker, who was with Ali when the former champion heard the news of Foreman's injury, said Ali shouted:

"I told you he would cut. That's what I always wanted to know and now I know it."

Foreman and Ali were expected to each gross $5 million from the fight.

In Toronto, Irv Ungerman, a across Canada, who had sold representative of All-Canada about 150,000 seats. Maple Leaf Sports, which holds closed-circuit rights for the fight in this country, said the delay could cost as much as $150,000.

"We're really taking a beating because of this postponement," he said "We had sold the tickets can redeem 30 arenas and theatres them.

Ungerman said tickets for the fight will be honored on the night for which it is rescheduled by those who do not wish to

McRaes Will Meet Tony's

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — A home-loaded walk to Larry Christie in the seventh inning forced in the eventual winning run Monday as Niagara Falls McRaes downed Newcastle Niagara Falls proved was up Bay's 4-3 to win their Ontario Baseball League semi-final series 3-1.

The game was played after a third and apparently decisive game, won 5-4 Sunday by Newmarket violated the designated hitter rule.

Jake Neufeld was the winning pitcher Monday, allowing seven hits while striking out 16.

Niagara Falls manager

Doing his thing, Saskatchewan Roughrider fullback George Reed rushes for yardage. Veteran star needs only 66 yards to bring his career total to 14,000 yards ....eight miles. The only pro football player to come close to that mark, is now retired Jimmy Brown, former Cleveland Browns' superstar who had 12,312 yards, just short of seven miles.

George Reed Nearing Eight Miles Rushing

TORONTO (CP) — Television has its 30-million mate; the Canadian Football League should have its eight-Mile Man sometime this week.

Durable George Reed is fast closing on the unprecedented rushing mark with just 66 yards needed along the ground to reach a career total of 14,080 yards-eight miles.

The 11-year veteran with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference is the first professional player to gain that much running yardage.

His closest rival is Jimmy Brown, the now-retired running star with Cleveland Browns of the National Football League with a career total of 12,312 yards—eight yards shy of seven miles.

Next record, Reed is hoping on is another Brown mark—55 games of 100 or more yards rushing. He entered the 1974 campaign with 48 100-plus games and ran up five to the first half of the schedule.

With 819 yards rushing to his credit this season, Reed is also reaching for his 10 straight years of gaining 1,000 or more yards rushing, adding to his own pro football record.

Brown, the previous record-holder, had seven in a row.

America's Cup

Win or Else For Aussies

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The challenge for the America's Cup reached a climax today. If the Australians don't gain their first victory in the 1974 best-of-seven series, it will be all over and the United States will have made another successful defence in four straight races.

But win or lose, Alan Bond, owner of the Australian 12-metre Southern Cross, vowed he will be back again, after Southern Cross lost its third race to Courageous, the U.S. yacht, on Monday.

"If we lose tomorrow," Bond said at the post-race news conference, "I assure you it will not be the last time you see us."

Bond said he would like to be given access "to the same sails and other materials" which the American boat is using.

The rules say both challenger and defender must use sails made in their own country.

Courageous uses sails from the lofts of Ted Hood, the skipper, and most yachting observers say they are cut better and give the boat the little advantage which enables her to gain time on each of the six legs of the 34.5-mile course on Rhode Island Sound.

Australia's loss in the third race was the worst of the series. Sailmaker Hood challenger was 2:37 behind when she crossed the line after the shiny white American yacht.

Bob Foster Retires

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Bob Foster, world light heavyweight boxing champion, retired Monday after 14 successful title defences, saying he doesn't want to tackle the world sanctioning bodies.

"It's time to retire, I guess," said the 36-year-old Foster. "I still think I can lick any light heavyweight in the world, but it's too much of a mental thing to fight the World Boxing Association and the World Boxing Council, too."

Foster, a sergeant in the Bernalillo County sheriff's department, said boxing "has been a great life for me.

"I will keep close to the ring. I always will. But I intend to stay in law enforcement work for a long while."

Foster leaves the ring as the unbeaten champion, eclipsing Archie Moore's record of 11 successful title defences.

Foster is the first to climb up an unbeaten record against light heavyweights—47 in the pro ranks and 162 in the amateur class.

Foster's only career defeats came against heavyweight fighters, although he whipped four of them. His ring career as a professional was 51-6-1, with an all-time division record of 43 knockouts.

"Bob Foster is the greatest fighter the light-heavyweight division ever had—his record proves that," Foster's manager, Lou Viscusi, said.

"But it's getting extremely difficult to meet the demands of the world sanctioning bodies," Viscusi said. "Bobby doesn't want to fight them, so he's leaving the ring with the same honor that Rocky Marciano had—the unbeaten champion of the world."

Foster ran into sanctioning problems last year when he twice successfully defended his title against Pierre Fourie of South Africa.

The WBA, however, recognized Victor Galindez of Argentina as the No. 1 contender, while the WBC recognized John Conteh of England as No. 1.

Both Galindez and Conteh were in Albuquerque June 17 to watch the Foster-Jose Ahamada title match in which Foster retained his crown on a draw.

Mickey Duff, a London promoter, then appealed to the WBC to name his fighter, Conteh, as champ.

Duff succeeded in having the WBC vacate Foster's title. The group said it would name the winner of the scheduled Conteh-Ahamada bout as champ. That fight was postponed from Sept. 10 to mid-November.

The WBA also issued a 90-day ultimatum to Foster to defend against Galindez. The 90-day period for signing a title bout with Galindez expires Nov. 3.

You could go to Monte Carlo to see it. Or Germany. Or Italy. Or only 50 miles from Toronto.

LABATT'S 50 GRAND PRIX OF CANADA

Mosport Sept. 20.21.22

THE RACE. Grand Prix is the absolute ultimate in car racing. This is the one they write novels about, the one they make movies about. It happens only once a year in countries around the world, and it's happening in Canada at Mosport. September 20, 21, 22.

THE DRIVERS. The best drivers in the world will be here, including former World Champions: Graham Hill, Emerson Fittipaldi and Denny Hulme. Other top international drivers include Mario Andretti, Ronnie Peterson and Jody Scheckter. Niki Lauda, Ronnie's most sophisticated machinery: Ferrari, McLaren, BRM, JPS Lotus, Brabham and Tyrrell.

THE CARS. You'll see and hear the ear-shattering scream of the world's most sophisticated machinery.

THE EXCITEMENT: The points race for the Drivers Title is the closest it's been in years.

THE WEEKEND FUN. You can make it a great camping weekend. Practice and qualifying days are on September 20, 21 with Race Day on the 22nd. Mosport offers free camping, firewood and water. Special SuperTickets include everything for all three days —entrance fees, grandstand and pit passes.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, September 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even after you give what you feel is adequate thought to a change you're contemplating, allow some margin for error.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Advantages will be coming to you over the next few days through partnership associations. Be receptive to mutually beneficial ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'd have less time and later-ever the next few days for unproductive activities. Concentrate efforts will prove rewarding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to take your social involvements too seriously. Have fun without letting yourself get uptight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) More than routine patience will be required to cope with little domestic disturbances this pop up today.

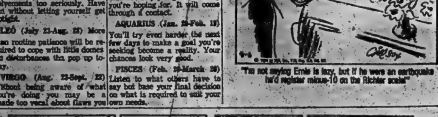
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Without being aware of what you're doing you may be a shade too vocal about flaws you spot in another. Be tactful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'd be wise at this time not to have any financial dealings with another unless you've completely faith and confidence in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The day will mean much more to you if you have an opportunity to do things that let you express your independence. Be sure you can.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Look behind the scenes for the answers you now need. A little spadework will uncover something of interest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A way is coming to you that will help you get something you're hoping for. It will come through a contact.



AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You'll try ever harder the next few days to make a goal you're seeking become a reality. Your chances look very good.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Listen to what others have to say but have your final decision on what is required to suit your own needs.

Myelogram Really Simple Procedure

By G. C. THORSTEON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know how a person is given a myelogram. Are x-rays taken at the time? Who else besides the doctor sees the myelogram? Is a permanent copy kept at the hospital?

Are all the spinal fluids drawn out of a person's body in a myelogram? For how long after it should a person not get up?

I had a whiplash and am being told a myelogram is the only way to determine if I have a ruptured disc. Is there no other way?—E.S.

You've evidently been given some scary ideas about a myelogram. A small amount of spinal fluid is withdrawn—only enough to make room for an equivalent amount of material which is then injected into the spinal canal.

This opaque material makes the spinal canal visible on the x-rays which are taken promptly. This will disclose any encroachment on the spinal cord, whether from a ruptured disc, tumor, or other defect in the spine. Yes, it is the only way to determine such conditions—although "dye" forms may be suspected from other symptoms.

The x-ray films will be read by the physician who is treating you and also by an x-ray specialist. The films then will be kept as a permanent record by the x-ray department.

After the procedure is finished, you will rest for several hours; you will be told when to be up and about.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a daughter, 31, who has had diabetes for two years. Lately I heard in the news that Mary Lou about had a cure for it. Have you heard anything about it?—Mrs. M. B.

There are some interesting theories that are being investigated but there is no cure yet. I fervently hope that there will be, but saying they "about have a cure" is overly optimistic. I can only urge you to see that your daughter's diabetes is kept under control with diet and insulin in hopes there will someday be a cure for her.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about Indocin? My doctor has been giving it to me twice a day for arthritis and it has been helping me. But another doctor told me it would destroy the marrow in my bones. Shall I stop taking it and "enjoy" the pain from arthritis?—L.L.D.

I don't quite understand why this other doctor (is he a physician?) is hoping to destroy your marrow. Indocin may have confused the words "would" and "could." The drug is quite widespread use for arthritis. While it can have various side effects, that is not the same as saying it will. Some patients "scroll greatly" and must stop using it just because somebody said it might be harmful.

Parting Painless

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — Leslie Wall, 18, doing a holiday job as a tea-boy on an express train, fainted on pushing his trolley past a compartment where his small daughter—and saved their lives. Leslie had blocked their way from one car to another when the coupling snapped and the two halves of the train parted at 70 miles an hour. "I had been in perfect pitman and allowed them to get across safely, they would be dead by now," he said.

Coffee Break

CROYDON, England (CP) — Cab driver Zaraki Hussain was stopped by police for not having proper control of his vehicle. He had both hands off the wheel—drinking a cup of coffee. He was fined £19 ($53).

A three notrump contract is preferable to four hearts, but little old ladies like to raise one another. So do some other players. So when today's hand was played in a Swiss team match the LOLs and their opponents reached four hearts.

The three of diamonds was led by both tables and East's king fell to South's ace. The ace of hearts was led and both East players dropped the queen. This didn't disturb the LOL declarer. Little old lady technique pays no attention to possible lost trump breaks. She continued by cashing the king and shortly thereafter had chalked up plus 620 after losing a spade, a heart and a diamond.

The other declarer studied that queen play for a long time. He had heard about safety plays and maybe that queen was a genuine singleton.

He led a low trump toward dummy. East took his jack of trumps and led back a diamond. A third diamond was ruffed and the South had lost his contract, the temper and his partner's confidence.

IN MEMORIAM

SUMMERS — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Ivan Summers, who passed away Sept. 17, 1970.
To some you may be forgotten,
To others you're part of the past,
But to us, who loved you and lost you
You'll always be last.
Very sincerely missed by his wife, Mabel, daughter, Mrs. Gordon (Joyce) Hawley and grandchildren Steven and Susan.

SUMMERS — In loving memory of our dear father, who passed away Sept. 17, 1970.
The house is empty mother dear,
Since you went away,
The world is changed since you left here,
No one can fill your empty chair.
Sadly missed by daughter, Mrs. Mary and George Thomson and family.

LAVENDER — In loving memory of Ernest on a very sad anniversary, Sunday, September 17, 1971.
Dear Father, we loved you dearly,
Loved you more than words can say,
Lasting heart that knew no pity,
Only those who lost can know
Why we ache so many years after,
Why we miss you more and more,
Memories are our treasures,
Time can't take them away.
Sadly missed by wife, Ethel, daughter, Mrs. Ruby Hall and family.

SOPER — In loving memory of a dear wife Kathleen Ruth Soper who passed away Sept. 17, 1973.
The years go by and I remember
I want to know each step you take,
That I love and miss you dearly,
That I long for you always.
Sadly missed by husband Ernest.

We'll call you call your name,
Deeply remembered by husband Wilfred.

HALL, Edward L. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and father-in-law, who passed away Sept. 17, 1973.
Memory dries no tears, sorrow heals no pain,
Time rolls on but memories last.
Deeply missed and sadly mourned by wife, Ethel, daughter, Mrs. Ruby Hall and family.
Gratefully remembered by wife Marjory and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks to Reverend Ferguson, Father Doyle, Father Les Colclough, Father Ken Hall, Father Ed Hall and Miss Hall, Miss Shakespeare for the beautiful service in the Memorial Church, the Ushers, the Choir and the women of McDowell's for serving the lunch, Mr. Bill Hall for the lovely flowers, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Abraham for service rendered to Mother. All the brothers and sisters, in-laws, nephews and nieces, those who sent cards, flowers, and those who came from out of town. We have also come to make the task somewhat easier for us. Mrs. Edward L. Hall and family.

Thanksgiving: Fri., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hall and daughters for all they have done to make the task somewhat easier for us. Mrs. Edward L. Hall and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many relatives, friends and neighbours for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and at the passing of our dear son and brother Tony. Special thanks to Reverend Ferguson, Dr. Dranga and the Belleville Police Force.

The DeSimone Family.

The family of the late Gilbert Thomas Hall wish to express their sincere thanks for cards, flowers, calls and kindnesses received during the illness and at the passing of our dear husband, father and grandfather. Special thanks to Dr. Roberts, the nursing staff of 5th St. Hospital, Reverend Ferguson, Dr. Hall, Dr. Mercer and Dr. Hall, Mr. Hamilton and staff, Mr. Hall and staff, Mr. Hamilton and Reverend Simon Stewart and Mr. Hall for the lovely flowers, the pallbearers and all those who helped in any way. The Smoke That Thunders

A large column of mist — known by Africans as the smoke that thunders — rises above Victoria Falls on Rhodesia's northwest border with Zambia. The falls plunge an average of 304 feet and their noise can be heard for miles. The falls are the focal point of a 2,000-square-mile national park. (CP Photo).

British Government Plans More Oil-drilling Platforms

LONDON (CP) — Confident that more oilfields are to be found in the North Sea, the British government is urgently proceeding with plans to build more drilling platforms.

Eric Varley, secretary of state for energy, said five more building rafts are urgently needed, in addition to the five already in operation, to keep up with the demand.

Estimates of the total number of platforms needed by 1980 range from 16 to 30. Varley officials said some 13 will be ordered by the end of the year with another 12 required between 1976 and 1980.

Most existing gas and oil production rigs are built mainly of steel but Varley said important finds in deeper areas require concrete gravity structures and that the new building sites in Scotland, would concentrate on this type.

At current prices, a concrete structure costs an estimated £90 million ($198 million). Varley said he was confident that the government can meet the largest data for platform deliveries required to meet its production targets of between 100 and 160 million tons of oil by 1980.

So far three British-built steel platforms have been installed in the North Sea. They include the world's largest, towed out during August to British Petroleum's Forties field. The 22,000-ton structure is named Highland Orne and stands in more than 400 feet of water. First supplies from the field are expected to arrive in Britain in a year.

A new oil and gas strike was announced in August by Mobil North Sea in an area about 180 miles south east of the Shetland Isles.

The well, in which British Gas has a 18 per cent stake, was tested on restricted flow rates from several zones and further tests are being carried out to establish its commercial potential.

A reappraisal of data provided by earlier drilling has revealed that there may be a big oil field in the Irish Sea comparable to some of those discovered in the North Sea.

Electric Car Stalled On Threshold of Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The electric car—quiet, virtually pollution-free and energy-efficient — is stalled on the threshold of the American auto market.

Only about 1,000 electric vehicles (EV) now operate on United States roads, most of them experimental utility vans, says the Electric Vehicle Council of New York.

Electric vehicles cannot match the performances that Americans have become accustomed to in their automobiles. Although several companies plan production by the end of '70, industry spokesmen say widespread use is at least five years away.

Edward A. Campbell, executive secretary of the council, said the industry hopes to capture 20 per cent of the automotive market by the year 2000.

"If the gasoline shortage had lasted six more months, it would be a different story," he said. Electric vehicles can run 75 miles for every gallon of crude oil needed to power electricity, double what an internal combustion engine can get from the same crude refined into gasoline.

Clean-air and noise regulations also favor the electric car. But there are many technological and economic barriers:

—The only battery now available for practical use is the conventional lead-acid unit, which is limited in range to 40 to 60 miles before requiring a recharge of several hours. In addition, they're heavy. One pound of gasoline provides as much power as a 100-pound battery.

—Speeds are generally limited to below 50 miles an hour. Higher speeds expend a battery's energy faster, requiring more frequent recharges. One company claims to have a car capable of 70 m.p.h. but only for about 30 miles before requiring a 15 minute recharge.

—Temperature extremes affect battery efficiency. Below 40 degrees, chemical reactions are slow, reducing efficiency and starting power. Above 90 degrees, chemical reactions speed up and the batteries yield their charges quicker, reducing their range.

—Prospects are dim for reducing the high cost of battteries and sophisticated controls because they are not mass-produced.

"I don't believe we will ever be completely competitive with gas engines," said Gilbert Forbes, product director of Sebring-Vanguard Inc., which plans to produce 2,000 electric passenger cars this year and from 12,000 to 14,000 next year.

"When you run out of gas, it takes only a couple of minutes to refuel. It takes hours for us. I don't see the EV becoming a high-way vehicle anytime soon but I expect them to gain wide use as a second car for city use."

Sebring will market for $2,500 a two-passenger vehicle capable of 28 m.p.h. for 50 miles between charges.

Electric Fuel Propulsion plans to produce 1,000 Thunderbolts this year, capable of 120 miles between charges and speeds of up to 70 miles.

President Robert Aronson said Avis Rent-a-Car has ordered 12 cars for an experiment in Chicago.

But the Thunderbolt can only go 20 miles at top speed before needing a 10-minute booster charge.

"It's meant to be a commuter car designed for the guy who lives in the suburbs and works in the city," Aronson said. "It will get him into town and back."

The price, $7,500, "sounds expensive but this car will save up to $1,500 a year on fuel and hundreds of dollars in maintenance."

EV promoters said city delivery and service van markets may be easier to crack.

American Motors has a U.S. postal service contract for 350 electric mail trucks in a pilot study. If successful, the post office would replace one-third of its present vehicles at the rate of 5,000 a year for the next six or seven years.

Harry Yoder, president of Battronic Truck Corp., hopes to produce 476 vans this year for batteries, utilities, dairies, parcel delivery and minibuses.

Otis Elevator Co. plans to produce 400 electric delivery vans that sell for $8,450 by mid-'71. Company officials said it costs one to 1½ cents a mile to operate the van, compared to six to 10 cents for internal-combustion vehicles.

The Ford Motor Co., which industry observers say has the largest investment in the electric car of any of the big auto makers, is predictably silent. EVs powered by the lead-acid battery.

"We could start making a lousy product now, but would there be a market for it?" said a company spokesman.

Ford hopes to perfect a sodium-sulphur battery that has been around 10 years.

Dr. W. Jack Simpson, vice-president of Ford's scientific research, said the battery would last 20 years and would be "very much in line with cost requirements for electric propulsion." He said such a vehicle would compete favorably with the internal-combustion engine.

How ver, the power-to-weight ratio would still only be one-sixth that of gasoline. And a major unsolved problem is maintaining a 675-degree temperature to keep the battery electrodes molten.

Mark Obert, manager of specialty power for Gould Inc., which is providing Sebring-Vanguard with a power pack, said a successful sodium-sulphur battery will not be ready until the late 1970s or early 1980s.

Meanwhile, another battery, nickel-iron or nickel-zinc, is nearing perfection. Within three years, Obert said, it will offer two to 300 times the energy of the same size lead-acid battery.

The biggest barrier facing EV may be public acceptance. An industry marketing survey showed that interest in electric cars plummeted when performance dropped.

People buy for their maximum needs rather than their average needs, said a University of Wisconsin study. Thus, it concluded, electric cars would be attractive only to ecologically inclined urban and suburban families earning more than $10,000.

Bartender Is Blind

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Dick Aregger, gets tired of people who keep telling him how wonderful it is that he has overcome his handicap. He'd rather your there a drink, because he's a bartender. A blind one.

Aregger's regular customers know he'd laugh but cost straighten your necktie. If they do, he puts them at ease with one of his quips about blindness, such as saying that his cocktail waitresses "hand-picked."

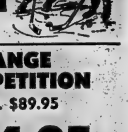
Aregger lost an eye at age 11 in a BB-gun accident. Eleven years ago he lost the other eye in an industrial accident.

Aregger worked as a stock-broker but then bought a bar in California prior to moving to Hawaii and then to Bellingham, where he owns Aregger's Fine Goods, a restaurant and cocktail lounge.

"I love bartending, love the people. I learned bartending from my former employers. I figure what I didn't know I could fake.

Aregger said bartending is "one of the easiest occupations in the world for a blind person."

"You work in a confined space, you put everything in the same place anyway and you get to talk to people."



He said he gets tired, though, of people who want to shake his hand because of his success as a blind person.

"I'd rather have someone get mad and say 'You blind fool' and level me like an equal."

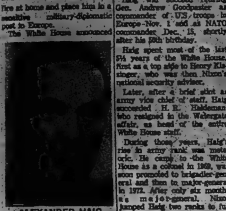
Haig Leaves Political Wars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Alexander Haig's departure from the White House will take him out of the line of political fire at home and place him in a sensitive military-diplomatic post in Europe.



The White House announced the announcement followed formal approval by the NATO defense planning committee in Brussels.

Haig will succeed retiring Gen. Andrew Goodpaster as commander of U.S. troops in Europe and supreme allied commander Europe (SACEUR). The White House announced Haig spent most of the last 2½ years of the White House, first as a top aide to Henry Kissinger, who was then Nixon's national security adviser.

Later, after a brief stint as army vice chief of staff, Haig succeeded H. R. Haldeman, who resigned in the Watergate affair, as head of the entire White House staff.

During those years, Haig's rise in army rank was meteoric. He leap - frogged over hundreds of colonels to make him a major-general. Nixon jumped Haig over a host of full generals.

Nixon's decision to promote Haig to army vice chief of staff over many senior generals caused considerable stir in officer corps. But this irritation abated when Haig was recalled to the White House only two months he then retired from the service.

ALEXANDER HAIG

Monday that Haig will be recalled to active duty in the United States Army and assigned the twin jobs of commander of 300,000 U.S. troops in Europe and supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces there.

Catholic Teacher Protests Board's Rejection

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An elementary school teacher is protesting the action of the Essex County Roman Catholic separate school board in not hiring her because she was not married in a Roman Catholic ceremony.

Jacquine Vachon, was copied during the summer by the board to teach at St. Anatolia school in nearby Tecumseh.

Several days before school started, Mrs. Vachon was told she would not be given a contract because she had not been married in the Catholic church.

Jacques Schryburt, secretary-treasurer of D'Association des Enseignants Franco-Ontarien, the teacher organization to which Mrs. Vachon belongs, said from his Ottawa office Monday that the association has hired a lawyer to look into a possible appeal of the board's decision.

The county separate school board is already involved in disagreements with two other teachers, dismissed for being married in civil ceremonies.

Board superintendent Gerald Dwyer said Monday that the decision in Mrs. Vachon's case was made by the administration because a board motion is not needed if the teacher is not on permanent staff. He added, however, that the board concurs with his decision.

The school board her talks to the position that a teacher who marries in a civil ceremony should not teach in a Roman Catholic system.

Businessmen Get Export Incentive

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is making it easier for Canadian businessmen to sell their goods and services abroad, Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie said Monday.

He said in a prepared statement that the government now will pay 30 per cent of basic transportation costs plus an expense allowance of $78 a day to businessmen for approved sales projects in which Canadians travel abroad or bring prospective buyers to Canada.

Under the old system, in existence since 1971, the government paid 25 per cent of most travel costs, which involved extensive book-keeping, the minister said.

The program also finances Canadian participation in international trade fairs, the establishment of export consortiums for Canadian products and the initial planning costs for Canadian companies launching major projects abroad.

Companies using the program have reported $138 million in new export business in the three years of its operation, Program costs during the same period have been about $6 million.

Seamen Support France's Crew

LE HAVRE, France (Reuter) — Unions are reporting near-total success in a French merchant seamen's strike in support of the crew of the luxury liner France. The crew is protesting a government decision to scrap the liner.

Officials of the CGT trade federation said the 48-hour strike, which ends tonight, has halted movement of French vessels at the ports of Le Havre and Rouen, and all French ships abroad remain.

"Our strike call was massively followed, and only eight to 10 per cent defected," A CGT spokesman said.

About 7,000 seamen were involved in the strike, said the spokesman. But he said he had no precise figures for French vessels in foreign ports.

The 966-member crew of the 66,000-ton liner, who dropped anchor at the entrance of Le Havre harbor Sept. 7-11, have enough food to last until Christmas, but their major concern is fuel for the engines.

The French government wants to scrap the 14-year-old vessel next year because of the mounting financial losses.

New Models Stalled At American Motors

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The United Auto Workers won a raise concession when American Motors Corp. agreed to drop its demand no end a policy which allows employees to reject overtime work, but other unresolved differences led to a strike Monday, the day production of 1975 models was to begin.

The strike made idle about 15,000 workers in plants at Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., and Brampton, Ont., and production was went up with the start of the first shift Monday. Contract talks were scheduled to resume here Wednesday morning, and UAW President Leonard Woodcock may join the bargainers for the first time then.

AMC maintained since the start of the negotiations that the right of employees and Milwaukee employees to turn down overtime work put it at a competitive disadvantage with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Employees of the Big Three had to work overtime whenever it was ordered until last fall, when their new contracts made the 8 voluntary after 40 hours, then offered to stick with the current policy.

Richard MacCracken, AMC's director of industrial relations, said the overtime concession was one of three factors making the offer rejected by the union "the most liberal labor contract in the auto industry."

AMC said its contract offer would increase the pay of assembly line workers making about $5 an hour by 25 to 32 cents an hour the first year. Thereafter, would be a three-per-cent increase in the second year and the three per cent plus 18 cents in the third.

Coins Flawed

MONTREAL (CP) — Austin Pegg, director of the coin program for the 1976 Olympic Games, said Monday between three and five million $5 silver Olympic coins have been mixed with slight flaws in the design.

The coins, part of the second series of Olympic coins depicting the Olympic symbol of five interconnecting rings but do not have the rings linked in the usual fashion, he said.

The difference was so slight only trained eyes could detect the flaws.

Castro's Sister Calls Cuba Regime Tyranny

EXCLUSIVE, Ont. (CP) — Governments which seek to find peaceful co-existence with Communist powers are merely serving Soviet interests, Juanita Castro, sister of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, told a meeting here Monday night.

Miss Castro, 41, recommended that Canadians break its connection with Cuba, saying it was the only way Canadian businessmen can "fight against tyranny" in the Cuban regime. She was speaking to the Kitchener-Waterloo Sales and Ad Club.

Miss Castro, who has been denouncing her brother since she fled exile 13 years ago—first to Mexico and later to Miami where she runs a small gift shop—said hardship among the Cuban people would not be greater if economic ties were cut off between Cuba and other countries.

"Everything that goes there from here never goes to the Cuban people," she said. "It's sent to the bosses in Russia."

She regards present-day Cuba as a "prison colony in the Caribbean rampant with hunger and misery.

"We had the misfortune to go from a dictatorship to a tyranny," said Miss Castro, who defected when she found her brother had "betrayed all his revolution promises, divided the Cuban family and brought Communist totalitarianism into the country."

She said she added her brother's revolution against dictator Fulgencio Batista, but could not abide by what he did afterwards.

"I could not live oppressed by so much shame," she said. "A deep and patriotic duty impelled me to break away."

Chile Role Under Fire

Stunned Congress Seeks to Curb CIA

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Stunned by revelations that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) directly intervened in the domestic affairs of Chile, the United States Congress moved today to assert more control over the agency's worldwide clandestine operations.

William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, called for a full-scale study of CIA policies and Chairman Thomas Morgan of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee said his committee will look into the need for more congressional overseeing of intelligence operations.

Action by the two key committees followed President Ford's acknowledgement Monday night that the CIA spent millions of dollars to prop up news media and political parties opposed to the government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Both Fulbright and Morgan said a close rein is needed on the operations of U.S. intelligence agencies.

Fulbright directed his committee's staff to make a complete report by next week of CIA policies along with a check into the accuracy of testimony by senior government officials about CIA operations in Chile during the Allende government.

Kissinger Will Remain As Security Adviser

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The White House joined the state department Tuesday in denying reports that State Secretary Henry Kissinger might lose his post of national security adviser to President Ford.

Publishing reports Tuesday said Ford's transition committee had recommended recasting the top-evel national security council to remove Kissinger's role as national security adviser.

But White House spokesman John Hushen told reporters Ford had told the transition team specifically not to go into this area of the White House makeup."

Arms Increased By Super-powers

LONDON (CP) — The 1973 Middle East war has spurred a continuing arms build-up by the world's two super-powers, says the latest report by the International Institute for Strategic Studies.

"The war . . . revealed limits to the relationship between the super-powers, later confirmed by their inability yet to agree to further limitations on strategic offensive missiles," the report says.

Both the United States and Soviet Union thus continued to deploy more advanced weapons within the ceilings—effective until 1977 only—set by the agreements reached in 1972, on strategic arms limitations.

Each is matching this by modernizing general purpose forces across the field."

The institute, a private research centre, notes the increase played by the Soviet Union and the U.S. in making possible such conflicts as the Arab-Israeli war last October and in imposing restrictions on it.

Equipment losses on both sides during that war "have been made up by the U.S. and the Soviet Union to something like previous levels," says the report published Thursday.

Dollars Again Fleeing U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government released today that the country's balance of payments was in deficit by $23.2 billion in the first half of the year, due largely to a big outflow of dollars to pay for foreign oil and an increase in U.S. investments abroad.

The second quarter deficit compared with a surplus in the first three months of the year of $1.8 billion and was the biggest deficit since $3.9 billion in the third quarter of 1972.

The adverse shift in the balance of payments, which appeared to be much larger than expected, marks a resumption of the big flow of dollars out of the U.S. that was partially responsible for two devaluations of the dollar in 1971 and 1972.

Psychiatrist Reported Treating PM's Wife

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports that Prime Minister Trudeau's wife Margaret is under a psychiatrist's care in Montreal were dismissed as speculation today by a spokesman for the prime minister.

"She's in for rest and checkups," the spokesman said, when asked to comment on the reports, carried earlier today by radio stations in Montreal and Ottawa.

Reports said that Mrs. Trudeau was being treated by a psychiatrist identified as C. G. Jos.

"It's speculation," the spokesman said. "There's nothing I can say about it."

Mrs. Trudeau, 26, was admitted to Royal Victoria Hospital last week and is in a private wing. Spokesmen at that time said she was admitted for a rest and a checkup.

Tuesday night, before flying to Quebec City, Prime Minister showed no outward sign of concern, smiled at the media and said he is "very" about his wife's

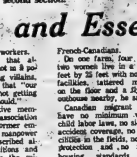
Four Flown to Mideast

Terrorists Free Hostages

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Japanese terrorists who occupied the French embassy in The Hague for four days landed in Damascus today. A government spokesman said they were considering a Syrian offer to surrender in exchange for safe conduct to any country of their choice.

Official sources first said the three terrorists and a journalist whose freedom from a French jail they had obtained with the embassy siege gave themselves up moments after the plane landed.



But the government spokesman said later the four Japanese Red Army members were still negotiating with the Syrians.

The French Boeing 707 jet that carried the terrorists from Amsterdam's Schiphol airport landed at the heavily guarded Damascus airport at 8 a.m. EDT.

Ford Pledges Increases In Food for Poor Lands

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Ford pledged increased food shipments abroad by the United States, told the United Nations General Assembly today that "a global strategy for food and energy is urgently required."

In the text for his first appearance before the world organization, Ford said the alternative to co-operation is confrontation.

"Let us not delude ourselves," he said. "Failure to co-operate on oil, food and inflation could spell disaster for every nation represented in this room."

"The United Nations must not and need not allow this to occur. A global strategy for food and energy is required."

Discussing what the United States is willing to do to help hungry countries, Ford said food aid abroad will be increased this year by an undisclosed amount and the U.S. is "prepared to join in a worldwide effort to negotiate, establish and maintain an international system of food reserves."

Ford said that "each nation must determine for itself how it manages its reserves."

The president said the United States will "set forth our comprehensive proposals" to meet current and future world needs at the November World Food Conference in Rome.

Egg Board Holds Line

KITCHENER (CP) — The pricing committee of the Ontario Egg Producers' Marketing Board decided late last week to hold the line on prices, board chairman James Johnstone said Tuesday.

Mr. Johnstone said the action was taken despite obvious needs for an increase in prices paid to producers because of sharply-rising feed costs.

Mr. Johnstone in an interview denied published reports that the Ontario Egg Producers Board overruled a decision of the pricing committee to increase the price of Grade A Large eggs by three cents a dozen.

Energy Board Objection Leaves Hydro Undecided

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro directors do not yet know what to do about an Ontario Energy Board (OEB) report suggesting Hydro's proposed rate increase is excessive.

Hydro chairman George Gathercole said Tuesday a special meeting will be held next week for a more detailed study. There was no decision on the report, issued Sept. 3, at a directors' meeting Monday.

A Hydro spokesman said the special session will probably last two days and culminate in a letter to Energy Minister Darcy McKeough.

The energy board report, which followed the first public hearings ever held into a Hydro rate-change application, recommended the increase in wholesale power rates be held to an average of 12.7 per cent to municipal utilities and 14.5 per cent to large industries served by them.

Migrant Farm Laborers in Kent and Essex Said Still Abused

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Members of the Migrant Farm Workers Association say the inhumane and intolerable living and working conditions of slave laborers have changed little one year after abuses were described in a federal government report.

William Jackson of nearby Croton said local agricultural manpower boards are mainly to blame for failing to remedy the chaotic conditions and "intra-governmental buck-passing."

Last summer, a federal study group spent a week studying the condition of migrants in Kent and Essex counties and presented its findings to Robert Andras, minister of manpower and immigration.

Mr. Andras promised he would "take every action possible" after the report described the plight of "child labor, sick, pregnant and otherwise unfit adults working in the fields with only the heed of the family being paid."

After one year, the migrant worker leaders in interviews say almost nothing has changed. They are especially bitter that the troubles of migrant workers in California have become a "fashionable concern" gaining financial and moral support in many Ontario cities, while problems in southwestern Ontario are glossed over.

Rev. Robert Lindsay of the United Church, co-chairman of the inter-church group supporting the California farm workers, said the church group also is investigating the conditions of Canadian migrant workers.

Mr. Lindsay said that although the group is not in a position to start ranging villains, first indications are that "our own Canadians are not getting the treatment they should."

Among the executive members of the migrants association is Mike Lemire, a former employee of the federal manpower department, who described alleged crowded conditions and illnesses suffered by the migrants, many of whom are French-Canadians.

On one farm, four men and two women live in a shack 20 feet by 25 feet with no washing facilities, tattered mattresses on the floor and a fly-infested outhouse nearby, he said.

Canadian migrant workers have no minimum wage, no child labor laws, no sickness or accident coverage, no toilet facilities in the fields, no contract protection and no minimum housing standards, another spokesman said.

"It's a chaotic patchwork of housing conditions, wage agreements, guidelines and intra-governmental buck-passing," said Mr. Jackson. "It's a matter of luck if a migrant family finds a farmer who treats them well."

Executive members said foreign workers are better off here because the Canadian government has signed agreements with Mexico and Caribbean countries to guarantee minimum wages and inspection of housing.

The migrant spokesmen say most farmers still refuse to do their hiring through Canada manpower offices or the Canada Farm Labor Pool.

The problem was confirmed by Tom Gleason, Kent County manpower officer, who said that less than 25 per cent of pickers are sent to fields by manpower.

Workers instead make private, verbal agreements with farmers and therefore do not qualify for the minimum housing, equipment standards and travel allowances that farmers must pay to pickers they accept from manpower offices.

Bomb-happy Terrorists Kill Unionist

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — Striking workers disrupted transportation across Argentina on Tuesday after the murder of union leader Atilio Lopez, one of five persons killed by terrorists within 24 hours.

So many bombs were exploded in Buenos Aires and various provincial towns that federal police stopped giving information about the bombings. There have been an estimated 100 bombings since the weekend.

The latest murder victim was Alejandro Bartoch, a Buenos Aires provincial police doctor believed linked to a right-wing Peronist group which the left-ists accused of terrorist attacks.

Silver Cross mothers in the area will be guests at the banquet of the local veterans' council.

The Duke of Edinburgh Unit ANAF Wednesday night house dart league will commence play the first Wednesday in October and interested members are asked to place their names on the list posted on the sports bulletin board.

Unit golfers are promised the best tournament of the season by Sports Chairman Jack Fitzgerald, as he announced Labatt's Brewery would sponsor the Sunday, Sept. 22 tournament to be held at Maryville. Tee-off time is 8 a.m. Entry fee is $5 and includes green fees and a steak and weiner roast following play. Ladies are welcome in the tournament and all entrants should sign the list posted on the sports bulletin board.

The annual visit of the unit to Montreal East 393 Unit has been arranged for the weekend of Oct. 6. Hotel arrangements are in the hands of the entertainment committee and interested members are asked to contact him for details.

Gladys Smith will be providing entertainment for members in the lower lounge this Friday evening beginning at 5:30 p.m. Saturday evening, Sept. 21 Hart and Soul play for the first dance of the fall season which will be held in the Tartan Lounge. Commencing at 9 p.m.

Unit comrades in Belleville General Hospital are: Doug Locke, room 377; G. Baines, room 613 and Casey Shier in room 507.

Resident Suggests Covering Moira River

A proposal first made some years ago calling for the Moira River to be covered over for use as a parking station to relieve the city's downtown parking problem has been revived by a Harriet St. resident.

The suggestion was made in a letter earlier this month to Mayor Robin Jeffrey who referred it to the city parking authority.

The same letter was before the city traffic and light committee Monday and after brief discussion was referred to City Manager Wilbur Purcell.

City Clerk Earl Dafoe told the meeting the idea had been discussed by the city parking authority at its last meeting but the feeling had been the idea could present spring flooding and possible environmental problems.

Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the traffic committee noted that the idea of covering the river for a parking station had been discussed a number of years ago and suggested referral to staff for comment on whether it had any merit.

City Manager Purcell said there are all kinds of problems with respect to downtown development but the question is whether they are economically feasible.

The suggestion of the Harriet St. resident suggested the river be covered north and south of the footbridge with exit from the parking station onto Coleman St.

The city parking authority is currently considering construction of a parking garage on Pinnacle St. and a few weeks ago presented a consultants' report to council on the proposal.

Council referred the plans to the city manager with directions to get comments from the traffic committee and other interested bodies.

Monday, the parking authority report was before the traffic committee but Mayor Robin Jeffrey noted there was insufficient information regarding cost estimates to allow for any recommendation.

Dan Doyle, engineer hired by the consultants called for razing of the present receiver-ship department building on Pinnacle St. and Alderman Ireland Russell said there should be cost estimates for replacement of this structure before any decision is made.

Charges Laid After Mishap

TWEED (Special) — Charges of failing to share the road and of careless driving have been laid against two motorists as the result of separate accidents in the Marmora and Bannockburn areas.

Damage in the two mishaps totalled $2,000. There were no injuries.

Kenneth Francis Scobie, 18, of RR 3 Campbellford has been charged with careless driving following a one-car mishap on Cooper Rd. east of Bannockburn. Police said the Sophia vehicle went out of control after crossing railway tracks, rolled into a ditch and came to rest on its top.

Another Campbellford, Ed. of Toronto has been charged with failing to share the road as result of a two-car side-swipe collision on Cordova Rd. 18 miles north of Marmora. The southbound Bountead car was in collision with a northbound car driven by Vernon Ireland, 39 of RR 1 Havelock.

Arbitrators Endorsed

TRENTON — Town council Monday endorsed a Mississauga resolution calls for the provincial attorney-general to set up a body of professional arbitrators that could be called upon to handle fire-fighter and police negotiations.

Negotiators would be brought in when talks fail to bring a collective agreement at the local municipal level.

Group Opposes Industry on Reserve

TYENDINAGA — Opponents of an Indian-owned industrial corporation on this reserve declare they are motivated by politics.

The denial comes in a statement issued by the group following a meeting here.

Followed is a text of the statement:

Sept. 16, 1974.

Editor:
The Intelligencer:

We who are in opposition to the establishment of a corporate structure of the Tyendinaga Reserve feel in view of the erroneous content of Chief Brant's letter to the Editor of The Intelligencer, dated September 14, 1974, that a reply to his letter is an imperative and highly in order.

Chief Brant lists the accusations in three categories. First, "The Mohawk Band Council acted on acting against the wishes of the People on the Reserve to the Incorporation by allowing a Foreign structure i.e.: Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. on the Reserve." Chief Brant states, "It has also been stated that the Band Council is acting against the wishes of the People. This is not the case ..." We have shown and will now show further that Chief Bill Brant and the majority of Band Council did expressly otherwise! In whatever is to bring all the events surrounding the Corporate issue into proper perspective, I feel Council's handling of the Corporate issue has been laced with irregularities and dictatorial action! During the early part of 1973, a petition was circulated on the Tyendinaga Reserve. The petition read: "For the discontinuance of negotiations by Tyendinaga Reserve Council, Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. an incorporated body of the Government of Canada. We the undersigned Band members of the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band do not wish the Corporation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. to be located on the Indian Reserve no. 38. The reason is that a Corporation is a legal entity under Provincial law and shall not be under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. As all Indians are under British North American Act." This petition bore 218 signatures which represented an overwhelming majority of the Reserve's electorate. Chief Brant absolutely refused to honor the wishes of the majority of the People as expressed in this petition. In a general meeting conducted on the Reserve Chief Brant refused to honor the requests of numerous individuals to conduct a referendum vote on the corporate question. However, later he altered somewhat his adamant position, succumbed and agreed to conduct a referendum vote on the Reserve. We feel that we ought to bring to the attention of the people that the question posed on the ballot was not the question of relevance, namely, "Do you with that a corporate structure be permitted on the Tyendinaga Reserve?" ... but merely one of, Band Council ownership of a factory that is governed by a corporate structure. Furthermore, the Chief and Council contravened the part of the Act giving referendums as the question posed on the ballot was not posted for the required number of days! The majority of the People on the Tyendinaga Reserve cannot comprehend or understand why in view of all the opposition to the Corporate structure that Chief Brant is so determined to push this corporate structure upon the Reserve! An example of the Chief's determination is realized in his actions just prior to the Referendum vote. Approximately one week before the referendum vote Chief Brant in a newsletter to the People stated that the factory governed by a corporate structure had been turned into private hands! If the referendum vote carried in favor of Band ownership of the factory that the factory would be returned to Band Council ownership. Now, Chief Brant's newsletter issued before the referendum would in fact declare his statement to the Editor an untruth, namely, "the referendum vote indicated that the majority of the People did not wish the Band to own Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. and it was at this time that the Band Council stopped negotiations and the Company went under private ownership." Further, if Bill Brant had indeed honored the wishes of the majority of the People of the Tyendinaga Reserve he would have discontinued negotiations at the time of the original petition! Regardless of the wishes of the majority of the People of the Tyendinaga Reserve" Chief Bill Brant intended to see the corporate structure a reality on the Reserve!

In his letter to the Editor Chief Brant states, "... the Band Council has kept the best interests of the Band in mind by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. to locate on the Tyendinaga Reserve." According to me of the best interests of our People. Please permit us to quote Attorney Montgomery's letter of June 25, 1974: "I have also had an opportunity to have a look at the Tyendinaga Reserve news letter from Chief Brant dated June 19, 1974. I might say ... that the incorporation of such a company would have the reverse effect on the stated intention of Chief Brant, "to keep our Reserve free from obligation." Such incorporation would cause a multiplicity of obligations with which the Tyendinaga Mohawks would have to live with in the future. I also might say that I totally disagree with the statement contained in the, ... that there will be absolutely no infringement of our rights as Indian People, and it is definitely not a step towards assimilation." We feel that the Mohawk People's rights and opposition to the corporate structure is based on intelligent and forthright thinking. Under Corporation law the factory is liable to taxation! Then for the first time in the history of our Reserve we would find Natives trafficking in taxes! This would represent a first in the Corporation is incorporated under the laws of the Province of Ontario and is subject to Provincial and municipal regulations! We are opposed to Provincial jurisdiction and intrusion as we felt under Federal responsibilities and further there is no provision in the Indian Act permitting the establishment of a corporation on an Indian Reserve! Any short term advantages of incorporating would in our opinion be outweighed by the long term disadvantages!

Chief Brant states, "It must be understood that the Band Council or indeed any Band Council cannot initiate private initiative." It has never been the intention of those who are in opposition to the corporate structure to restrict private initiative, it is appreciated that the majority of our People are not opposed to Band owned and operated businesses or privately owned and operated business. What we are opposed to are Reserve businesses governed by a corporate structure! There is room for both private and Band owned and operated businesses (e.g. trailer parks, camping area, pottery factory, cooperative greenhouses and others, all of which would not be governed by a corporate structure). Further the Mohawk People are desirous of creating employment opportunities on our Reserve but there are ways of achieving this desired objective without the loss of self-rule, dignity and the violation of our Native Rights!

Chief Brant states, "Although the Council allowed Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. to be located on the Reserve it did so with full discussion and the majority vote in Band Council." We notice here that Chief Brant could not say with the majority of the People on the Reserve because the absolute truth of the matter is that he has never had the majority of the People supporting his views concerning the ... corporate structure and he knows it! On the Reserve! We feel that Chief Brant and the Band Council has been misguided and misdirected in their opinions relative to the corporate structure!

The second accusation Chief Brant lists is, "the Mohawk Band Council is setting a dangerous precedent by allowing Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. to exist on the Reserve since the corporation is governed under Provincial regulations and the People involved with the company are Federal responsibilities." Our contention is just this, that the Band Council acquiescing or permitting a corporate structure to exist on the Reserve they are indeed setting a dangerous precedent! The dangerous precedent has borne out in a few of the many reasons we have given as to the reason for our opposition. Now that the other two factories that Chief Brant is in reference to are non-Native owned and operated and this is totally different than Natives governed by a corporate structure.

The third accusation that Chief Brant lists is "that the Band Council deliberately misled and misinformed the People on the Reserve about the incorporation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd." Perhaps there is considerable truth in this statement but we do know that there was no statement in any newsletter about the pending establishment of a corporate structure on the Reserve before Councelor Cleil Maracle informed the People of the Corporate structure and their dangerous implications for the Reserve! In fact before Mr. Cleil Maracle broke the news Chief Brant already had the Tyendinaga Land Deed in his possession. We should further state that at a Reserve General Meeting Councelor Carl D. Brant rose to his feet and severely rebuked Councelor Cleil Maracle for "letting it out" ... in reference to the corporate structure. Did they know something to hide?

Respectfully submitted,
William Maracle,
Secretary for the People who are in opposition to the establishment of a corporate structure on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve.

Road Shocks

Driving around Belleville is rough on the old bones and on car shocks alike.

Station Street affords an example, and remember it is the route for many a citizen or visitor arriving or departing from the city. In other words, one where first impressions count.

Then there is sidney between College and Bell Boulevard which, if brought up to the standard of recent roadwork on another stretch of this route, would be an improvement.

Of course things are happening on Victoria Avenue and this is a step in the direction of better roadways. However, we are still a long way from the vision of Mayor Robin Jeffrey when as a candidate for office two years ago she declared: "We need a thorough reassessment of our roads, implemented by an ongoing program of recondi tioning."

Mrs. Jeffrey spoke of a need to re-arrange priorities to achieve this end, but this, as well as other projects "to get the city of Belleville moving in a new direction" is notably a revitalization of the downtown area — seems to have fallen rather short of materializing.

"Roads," Mrs. Jeffrey said at that time, "are the arteries of our community and should be kept in A-1 condition the year round."

There have been some improvements, but areas remain that need attention.

Chile's Troubles

On the first anniversary of the overthrow of the left-wing government of President Allende in Chile, it is all too clear that the military regime that has replaced it has no target of admiration either. It is a situation all the more fraught with irony considering the admitted role of the United States in the overthrow of Allende.

The government of Mr. Allende, who died in the coup, may have been democratically elected, but it was bogged down with the usual ideological claptrap of the Communist world and the economy suffered as a result. In short, there was too much concern with trying to get it all together Marxist-style than with scrutinizing the kind of economic progress that comes from free democratic and commercial dealings.

The militarists however are not much better, and they are tyrannical into the bargain. They are deserving of as little sympathy from this part of the world as was Allende for different reasons.

Yet we still hear from the activists in a variety of guises who would have Canada help overthrow Gen. Augusto Pinochet's regime and at the same time open our doors to more left-wing refugees.

At a memorial ceremony for Allende in Ottawa the other day a United Church minister, the Rev. Antonio Gualtieri, who is also press secretary to Anglican Bishop Clarke, condemned the Ottawa government for failing to aid the Allende government during the coup and called for its support in the overthrow of the junta.

At the other extreme, a young Chilean woman who came here with her two daughters eight months ago, has praised Canadians for "anything". She is one of Chilean refugees, and says the church did a lot to help her leave the country. Police went to her home ,seeking to arrest her, but threatened her mother whom they then allegedly tortured. She is in hospital with a broken jaw and cheekbone.

Chile is out of luck these days, whoever is in power, but Canada would do well to let well alone. Gen. Pinochet, incidentally, is offering to release political prisoners, but only if Cuba and the Soviet Union do the same — a reminder that the Communist world has many citizens behind bars.

No Action

Remember when housewives got all worked up about beef prices — and did something about it? True, little was accomplished but it had much of an effect on inflation, but at least it was direct action at the consumer level. Now that prices are going up at every turn, the public voice is mute. Truly resigned mood is one of apathy, or is it resignation? As for the Government doing anything, forget it. Ottawa now sports majority government, and that is more or less synonymous with the public-be-damned.

THE GALLOPING GOURMET

Conspiracy Suggested
Was There a Link with Watergate In Shooting Of George Wallace ?

By AL COLLETTI
The Canadian Press

Two U.S. presidents have tried to seal the coffin of Watergate and failed.

Obviously from the American public's negative reaction to President Ford's pardoning of Richard Nixon, no one man can lay to rest the worst political scandal in the history of the United States.

It has to run its course, and that may take years. And there is no certainty that the full story of Watergate and all its implications will ever be disclosed.

Nixon himself tried to shut off the Watergate tap a half-dozen times and in the end had to quit the presidency or face certain impeachment.

His successor last Sunday granted Nixon an all-inclusive pardon and said he (Ford) would try to write "The End" to the Watergate tragedy of Watergate.

But the tragedy didn't go away with the stroke of Ford's pen.

When word leaked out that Ford was planning to grant pardons to all of the nearly 50 Watergaters the fear of what was so great that he had to back off from any immediate thought of a general Watergate amnesty.

One key figure who has a personal stake in not letting Watergate die is Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, busy laying the groundwork for a presidential bid in 1976.

He had hoped that in the whole mess of Watergate the spotlight would surface Wallace who he thinks was behind the attempt to kill him during the 1972 presidential election campaign. This hasn't happened— yet.

Cornelia Wallace, wife of the governor, says that neither she nor her husband believed the attempted assassination was the doing of one man, Arthur Bremer, now serving a life sentence.

Martha Mitchell, estranged wife of former attorney-general John Mitchell, himself charged in the Watergate investigation, interviewed Mrs. Wallace in the September issue of McCall's magazine.

In the article, Mrs. Mitchell said that she believes more than one person was involved in the assassination attempt.

The bullet shattered Wallace's spine and his hopes for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. At the time, he had won more popular votes than any other candidate in the primaries to pick party candidates.

He is paralysed from the waist down and in constant pain. He will never walk again.

Mrs. Wallace makes several points to bolster her belief in a conspiracy.

She says that neither she nor her husband could believe Bremer, a so-called drifter, Brenner, whose reading apparently was limited to comic books and pornography, kept a diary — parts of which were revealed after the shooting — that spelled out his intention to kill Wallace.

The diary was unreal," Mrs. Wallace said. "To me, it was contrived, it was planned, it was his alibi."

Mrs. Mitchell said the governor told her later that he had also made a study of the diaries of two other political assassins, the late Lee Harvey Oswald, labelled by the Warren Commission as the man who killed President Kennedy, and Sirhan Sirhan, convicted of killing the late presidential brother, Robert, and was "surprised at their similarities."

Mrs. Wallace also heard the rumor that Charles Colson, a White House aide involved over the Watergate cover-up, had ordered Howard Hunt, a Watergate conspirator and former intelligence agent, to go immediately after the shooting to Bremer's apartment in Milwaukee.

"How did they know his address?" Mrs. Wallace asks.

And she questions a visit to her husband by the FBI a full year after he was shot. They said they wanted to brief Wallace on the Bremer case. It was for week it was announced that John Mitchell was going before the Senate Watergate Committee. But when the FBI got there they didn't report any new developments. All they did was sit and assure her husband that this man (Bremer) was not involved in a conspiracy."

Mr. Wallace says while the FBI would come at that particular time, they left the Watergate hearings going on.

The answers her own question: "Because my husband had put any pressure to have the Watergate committee ask questions about Bremer, to ask those people testifying if they knew of any involvement Bremer might have had with anybody connected with Watergate — it might have been very embarrassing."

High Mortgages, Flagging Sales Facets Of Home Ownership Today

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Services

House-buyers looking for mortgage rates that fall will have to look harder than ever.

In most cases the choice is either to pay unprecedented interest rates, or to do without.

Some private lenders are offering mortgage funds at interest rates at most 2 percentage points higher than the chartered banks' prime lending rate of 11.5 per cent (a yardstick against which other interest rates are usually measured).

And while some real-estate developers may hesitate to pay 13.5 per cent interest, they are not resisting rates of 10 to 12 per cent—when the loans are available.

Such developers find themselves squeezed between their financial commitments and their unsold property. This is especially true in Ontario, where the government recently introduced a tax that was designed to discourage real-estate speculation but that has tended instead to discourage all buying and selling activity.

"The prevalent feeling is that while an improvement in inflation performance may not be probable, the prospect of price declines is unlikely," says Leonard Rosenberg of Partners in Investments Ltd., Toronto.

"Builders therefore prefer to hold on to assets, even at these rates, rather than risk losses at even at less than 1973 replacement cost.

Individuals hoping to borrow from chartered banks, for real estate or other major investment, are frequently being turned away because the banks can't cope with heavy demand for loans.

Many banks are advising potential borrowers to go to their life-insurance companies and exercise their loan privileges there.

The insurers, under the pressure of the greatest demand in history for policy loans, are generally unwilling or unable to make new loan commitments to developers planning major property projects.

If a financial institution has already committed itself to a loan to a developer, that developer had better "draw down" the loan on the scheduled date or face any subsequent construction delays he may encounter. Otherwise, the commitment is likely to be cancelled, and would have to be renegotiated at a higher rate.

The outlook for the coming months suggests that interest rates will remain high and loan funds scarce.

Construction activity and the rate of prosperity are likely to continue at a lower level. Despite the reduced demand for loans for these purposes, interest rates will probably remain high because of demand from other potential borrowers and the Bank of Canada's current policy of restricting the growth of the country's money supply.

For the broader economy, the net effect is more bad news. A slowdown in the pace of construction activity sends r's ripple effect over a wide range of industries, trade declines to the rising unemployment rate.

All of which means that the task of restoring growth in the Canadian economy—of avoiding a decline into "negative growth"—is more difficult than ever before.

Expropriation Dogs Government

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The government has taken a beating in the Supreme Court for its land expropriation policy.

The court knocked out an expropriation in the huge pickering project near Toronto on the grounds that the property value report was the owner was inadequate.

That report, which is an appraisal, was merely a two-page standard form valuation rather than the 10-or 15-page report which is the norm in appraisals.

The three-man panel of the court ruled that the report submitted by Pickering was not an appraisal report as contemplated in the Expropriations Act.

And Chief Justice Dalton Wells took a shot at the government when he said "department-al politics should have no bearing on the matter ought to be fearless in dealing with this case."

Will the chief justice's tongue-lashing do any good?

Perhaps it will for the moment.

But chances of it having any long-term impact are probably dim.

From time immemorial governments have been trouble with government and land.

The early days of Hydro and Sir St. Lawrence Seaway expropriations are only among the most glaring example there has been.

The power commission in that case was pulling off sharp land deals in the area destined a Skylock.

And over the years all departments that have gone in for expropriation, most notably highways and public works, have had problems with arrogance and sharp practices.

The essence of the problem probably is that expropriation is handled at a secondary level in the civil service. And the people in charge don't really appreciate that they are "public servants."

They approach their job with zeal to get the best deal possible, and, if not unknowing at least unmindful of their responsibility to public governments-ives to lean overboard to be fair.

Most of the time they operate in the business being humans, and civil servants being civil servants, it will probably always be thus.

Shortages Of Nurses Worries UN

United Church
The United Nations is alarmed over a world-wide nurse shortage which is holding up health services delivery in both developed and under-developed countries.

Yet in Britain some nurses work in striptease joints to supplement their meagre wages.

Right now Ontario is short 50,000 nurses — but poor rations in Bangladesh, South America has a ration of 50 nurses per 100,000 population. In Saudi Arabia, 41; Europe, 28.5 — but Asia has only 5.5 and Latin America and the Caribbean limp along with a bare 2.3.

A United Nations study found that the shortage is prolonged and under-valued with more desertions, fatigue and undue physical conditions.

Yet the UN's own

Police Advise Motorcyclists To Engrave Number on Bike

If you have a motorcycle and don't want it stolen there are certain safeguards you can take, advises city police chief Douglas Crosbie.

For one thing, he says park it in a place where it can be readily seen. A lot of people, the chief says, park it and leave the keys in offering a sore temptation to any thief.

In the first eight months of this year, there were four motorcycles stolen in Belleville. Two of them have been recovered. In the first eight months of last year two motorcycles were stolen and two recovered.

George Olson, of the Motor Vehicle Bureau in Belleville said that he issued 608 permits for motorcycles from the time they went on sale December 1, 1973 to the expiry date, Feb. 28 of this year.

Since that time, he said, he had to order about another 100 permits. He said that of the total number of about 700 permits up to now some came from out of town to places where there is no bureau.

Chances of recovering a stolen motorcycle are reasonably high, said Chief Crosbie. And while the as serious as something such as auto theft, motorcycles can do their bit to help police foil thieves.

Besides the above mentioned precautions, Chief Crosbie suggests motorcyclists do something to prevent what he calls "cannibalization" or stripping of motorcycles for parts.

"In a lot of cases the vehicle's serial number has been taken off so we can't identify it properly later," he said.

"We're suggesting that even if they etch their own social insurance number someplace on the bike, this would help recover the vehicle," said Chief Crosbie.

Enrolment Decline Not As Severe as Expected

Separate school enrolment figures in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties left trustees smiling following the regular board meeting Tuesday night.

Enrolment is down a bit, but it didn't drop as low as forecasts made last March predicted.

Total enrolment in separate schools in Hastings, Prince Edward and Nipissing district this September is 4,599. The figure is down from last September's enrolment of 4,858. But it's much less than the decline predicted last March.

The separate school figures correlate with those for Hastings County public schools, which expected a five-per-cent decline and instead found the drop of only one per cent.

The separate school board administers 18 elementary schools, from Picton to Whitney at the gateway to Algonquin Park.

Kindergarten enrolment is up by 80 children from last year, an increase of more than 20 per cent. To offset the kindergarten increase registration of those from Grades 1 to 8 is down.

Trustees were told that, for the next two years, the system will be losing more students graduating from Grade 8 than will be entering into Grade 1.

Ignorance Main Threat To Women's Equality

OTTAWA (CP) — Many underdeveloped countries share a troublesome obstacle in establishing equality for women—their societies are basically tribal and the men, as the providers, see women's liberation as a threat to their masculinity.

That has become evident at a United Nations seminar on women's rights, which ends here next week. Many delegates, notably from countries that had been colonies of the major powers in the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries, have raised this issue.

Marie Zoleni of Peru, a sociologist who is one of only two male delegates among women from 30 countries, said in an interview that Spanish even has a word for the maleness principle—machismo." with its attendant emphasis on virility and physical prowess.

Justin Saboe, the Kenyan delegate and only other man at the seminar, said the problem also is rife in his country.

Both, however, said they are picking up valuable ideas from other delegates on how to establish "national machinery" that will make equality for women a reality rather than a dream. They see education as being a main tool in this fight.

"Many of the eight million or so women in my country cannot write," Mr. Zoleni said. "To have the right to vote, you first have to be literate."

Mr. Saboe said women in Kenya generally have not had a chance to take advantage of formal education.

"As a result, you'll find that nearly 90 per cent of our rural women are illiterate. When you talk in terms of integrating them into development, you have to think of it in a slightly different way than we talk about it here in Canada.

"Our male problem is ignorance and, then, of course, there is a general apathy among the women. Most of them believe that they are 'women' whose role is to bring up children and that's the end of it."

Most of the seminar, which began Sept. 4, has been workshops closed to the media. It is designed to lay groundwork for 1975, decreed by the UN as International Women's Year.

Silicone Implants Suitable?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a woman, 36, and fairly ague, at least for the present. I am living with a man I love dearly. It is not the problem. It's his parents. We moved in with them two years ago and it's more than I can take.

J's mother is 58. His father is 61. His brother is a ward of a county hospital. distinguishable from the real thing.

Dear Dr. R.: Why don't you just admit that you moved in on them? If you're unhappy, how do you think his parents feel?

My advice is to clear out—at once—with Mr. Wonderful or without him. Two years is long enough for aging parents to put up with a shack job right under their noses.

There is no such thing as privacy. Our bedroom is the only place I can relax.

I could go on and tell you how I support him, but I don't have that much talk in my pen. I've talked to J about moving, but he says we can't afford to right now. I need a life alone with the man I love. I'm sick and tired of keeping house for his parents. What should I do?—Old Before My Time

Successful Living

Playmates Foster Independence

By DORIS CLARK

One way to help a child develop independence — or a feeling of managing and directing his own life — is in his relationships with his playmates.

Each child should be given his turn in doing things and in being a leader. If one eager beaver takes the lead all the time, there are going to be other children left behind and just never learn to develop their initiative. Unless they do, these are the individuals who will cause themselves from some of the challenges of teen-age years as they grow.

As they do get older, opportunities should be presented by their community for older children and youths to have a part in community councils of various kinds. They should be consulted and recognize themselves as individuals who need to know what is going on; as individuals who will be making important decisions and starting on their own two feet, for what they are, as right and good and useful.

Mothers can help get things off on the right foot and so can fathers. Leaders, sports leaders. What is happening with your little ones?

Dear Doris: Many years ago as a girl I read the poem "If I had A Boy" in "The Furrow". I liked it and bought some copy. It might have a son to whom I could talk in similar vein as a parent.

Well, I had, and I did. I put the poem in his first scrapbook. I'm glad to be able to send it to you — for L.H. who has requested it.

Mrs. A.L.G.

Dear Mrs. A.L.G.: It is great, and could inspire any mother or dad to make a pal and partner of his boy or girl.

Our thanks go out to you and the several others who sent it in. L.H. now has her copy.

Confidential to Over Seventy: I could not answer you privately since you supplied me with no address. You mention being a "Lullaby of ter Indian Chief" and offer to send it to me.

We do have one called "Lullaby of the Leaves" which starts, "Little brown baby bird, lapped in your nest." Would that be the same one?

Perhaps it is the one you sang to the children when you were a nursemaid. You do well to remember all the words. Please write again and let me know more about you — and whether this is the poem you are referring to.

Women Clinging to Old Roles Condemn Others to Inequality

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial court judge Nancy Morrison says many women are still clinging to the obsolete social stereotype of helpless females and by doing so condemn their sisters who fight for equality.

Judge Morrison told the Canadian Home Economics Association convention that the troubles in the woman's movement won't end until women shake loose from the old myths.

She said neither side is totally right in its concepts of roles and values.

Women had won some ground on equal pay and job classifications, but the press and advertising media reinforced the polarization of female opinion by labelling women as either "pussycats or bra-burning liberationists."

"We are portrayed in snippets of long loaves by the media, and we are not yet taken seriously in the sports or financial pages or by advertising companies."

Judge Morrison said the women's liberation movement has had a two-pronged effect.

"It has brought issues to light and has given us an awareness of what some of the problems are. Job classifications are changing, pay is escalating, equal status legislation has been passed and people are generally more sensitive to women's problems.

"But women's liberation has produced a cruel stereotype and there is a lack of understanding of the common goals that are reached by different means."

Among the old myths Judge Morrison said women have not yet shaken are: They can't vote the mark for women; the great bulk of the world are men; women can't cope on a high level because they have menstrual cramps; women are incapable of stability or decisiveness and are too emotional.

She said women have not buried the notions that they need direction from men and that women want to be dominated.

"Those arguments are nonsense in every field. Take the lid off the pickle jar yourself and quit the charade.

½ cup flour, sifted
1½ tbps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¾ cup rutabaga, cooked and mashed
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
2 tbsps. butter, melted

Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Combine remaining ingredients and add to flour; mix only until blended. Pour ¼ cup portions of batter into hot butter in pan; fry until bubbles appear. Turn and bake other side until golden brown. Makes 8-10 (3½-inch each) pancakes.

Spiced Rutabaga Pancakes
2 cups biscuit mix
½ tsp. cinnamon
one and one-third cups milk
¾ cup rutabaga, raw and grated
2 tbsps. butter, melted

Beat biscuit mix, cinnamon, egg and milk until smooth. Fold in prepared rutabaga. Pour ¼ cup portions of batter into hot butter in pan; fry until bubbles appear. Turn and bake other side until golden brown. Makes 8 (3½-inch each) pancakes.

Candied Parsnips
two lbs. parsnips
one cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. ginger
two tsps. grated lemon rind four tbsps. lemon juice
¼ cup butter or margarine

Pare parsnips; place in 1 inch boiling salted water in saucepan; simmer, covered, for 20 minutes or until partially cooked, until parsnips can be pierced with a fork but are still firm. Drain, cool slightly and cut into ½-inch slices.

Place, in 1½-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar, monosodium glutamate, salt, ginger, lemon rind and juice. Dot with butter. Bake in 350 deg. F. oven 30 minutes or until parsnips are tender and glazed.

Serves 8.

Harbed Cabbage Creole
one medium head cabbage
one can tomatoes, broken up
¼ cup green pepper
two tbsps. minced onion
1 tsp. salt
1½ tsps. sugar
¼ tsp. oregano
two tsps. lemon juice

Shred cabbage (makes 2 quarts). Place in ¼ inch boiling water in medium saucepan. Cover and cook 10 minutes, drain.

Meanwhile, in another saucepan combine tomatoes and all ingredients except lemon juice. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 15 minutes. Stir in lemon juice.

Add tomato mixture to cabbage; toss gently. Serve hot.

Serves 6 to 8.

Chartreuse
six small kohlrabi eight carrots six small beets
two small rutabaga parsley
salt
pepper

Cook each vegetable separately; peel and slice kohlrabi, carrots and rutabaga and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Cook beets in boiling water in their skin. Peel and slice beets. Layer cooked vegetables, alternating colors, in a casserole that is straight sided and deep. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and parsley between layers. Place pan in dish of hot water and cover tightly (aluminum foil if necessary). Bake 30 minutes at 350. Unmold on a warm serving platter and serve with Hollandaise Sauce.

FASHION SHOW

Tickets for the October 3 fashion show sponsored by the Belleville Medical Secretaries Association are available from any medical secretary. Tickets are $1.25.

W.I. MEETING

Mary Mackey was hostess for the September 5 meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute. The members met at Glenmore Farm for a tour of the museum, and conducted their meeting in the Sunset Moodie library. Plans were made to entertain five W.I. groups at the Centre next month.

PRINCE EDWARD — BELLEVILLE LADIES CLUB

The fall meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies Club was held at the Recreation Centre recently with 80 members and visitors present.

Arrangements were made during the business meeting for a trip to the Gatineau area in September, and to the Sharbot Lake area in October.

Evelyn Wood introduced Cora Wallbridge who showed slides of her trip to Hawaii. She told the audience about the plant and animal life on the various islands, and described how hula dancing customs derived, from the way dancers talked to each other with their hands, eyes and body.

Conveners Evelyn Wood and Vera Bedell served refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

Antiques on Display

St. Andrew's annual Antique Show and Sale got underway yesterday as 18 antique dealers from the Belleville area, and as far away as London, set up their displays of furniture, glassware, china and jewellery in the lower hall of the church. Here, Eileen Leeman does some final arranging before the doors opened to the public. Tickets to the show, which continues until 10 p.m. tonight, are one dollar and can be purchased at the door.

Bylaw Awaits Council Action

TRENTON — Town merchants will be able to set their own store hours Monday through Saturday if an amended hours bylaw, tabled in council Monday, is finally passed as it now stands.

The proposed bylaw states all Trenton shops must remain closed between the hours of 18 p.m. and 8 a.m. the following day, six days a week. It now prohibits 9 a.m. to 18 p.m. daily operating hours.

Council which was set to give the bylaw three readings this week, backed off under strong opposition from the Trenton Retail Merchants Association.

It was agreed councillors will await submissions from both TRMA businessmen — who oppose longer store hours — and Western Realties Ltd. before any final decision is made.

Western Realties, developer of the proposed $2.75 million east-end mall, represents K-Mart, a large department store chain, in a bid to extend store hours from 18 to 18.

Under the proposed bylaw, any business contravening the bylaw — with the exception of hotels, taverns, and restaurants — will be liable to a $1,000 fine.

Had new store hours legislation been passed this week, it would have come into force Oct. 1, 1974.

Bread Up Three Cents a Loaf

Local bakeries today announced a three-cent increase in the price of a loaf of bread, effective immediately.

Only Weston Bakeries Ltd. said it was delaying the price increase until its current stock was depleted — at most a week.

Bakeries blamed the increase, the third this year, on higher sugar, flour and material prices.

Bakers said they believed prices will stay firm for another six months.

"We hope so anyway," said Belleville Bakeries manager Doug Adams.

Milk prices have remained stable since last April's price increase.

Ron Keiser, manager of a Belleville Mac's Milk outlet, says his customers "are kind of deluded ... no one knows where inflation is going to stop.

"They're serious enough in their complaints but there's nothing they can do about it," he said. "If everyone stopped buying eggs and milk for three days the government would stop it and do something about the prices."

Arnold Quickfall, owner of Reid's Dairy, says milk price increases are probably coming in the government's proposed move to remove the five-cent-a-quart subsidy.

"Something is going to happen this fall," he said. "When and how much I don't know."

Mr. Quickfall said consumers will not only have to shake up five cents previously subsidized by the federal government, but "spiralling overhead of the dairy business" will also be a factor in future price increases.

Beerfest Planned For Base Personnel

TRENTON — Middleton Park community council is taking the first steps this weekend towards what they hope will be a lasting tradition and a successful money raising venture.

Preparations are nearly complete for Oktoberfest at CFB Trenton's Tent City. This year's beerfest will run Friday and Saturday beginning 8 p.m. each night.

Oktoberfest co-ordinator Master Cpl. Allen Hooton said Tuesday the event is the first of its all-night affair held at the base. Department of national defence and other military staff, dependants and guests are expected to fill the 1,500-foot tent with 600 persons each night.

Master Cpl. Hooton said funds raised by the festival will go into community council coffers and then be passed on to various minor sport groups in the Middleton Park area.

Both originator and co-organizer of Oktoberfest, an autumnal festival increasing in popularity in Ontario, Master Cpl. Hooton says he sees the two evenings as a way of bringing base personnel closer together.

With base personnel coming off holidays, taking or coming back from leaves, and the arrival of new people, a festive gathering "is a good way to get people to get to know each other," he said.

"If this goes over good, we'd like to have a one and a half day affair next year," indicated Master Cpl. Hooton. "I've been asked quite a bit if we could have rides for children."

He said official opening ceremonies will be conducted by Mrs. Jim Forestell, the mayor of Middleton Park.

Advance tickets for the beerfest, and dance are available from all Park council members at $5 each.

Workshop Planned

A two-day workshop for county secondary school teachers will be held Friday and Saturday at the Four Seasons Motel, about 24 teachers are expected to attend the workshop on understanding human behavior, arranged by the Hastings County Counsellors' Association. Workshop director is Dr. Alan Shapiro from the Alfred Adler Institute in Toronto.

Reeve to Toronto

Sidney Township Reeve Gord. Winnett will attend the Canadian Good Roads Association convention to be held in Toronto next week. The four-day convention begins Monday.

Corn on Display

District farmers will have an opportunity Thursday to see and compare 30 different corn crops that represent different varieties and seed treatments. Ten one-acre corn plots will be on view at the farm of Alfred Cairns, 1½ miles west of Highway 14 on the second concession of Ameliasburgh from 2 to 8 p.m. The test plot experiment is under the auspices of the United Co-ops of the area.

Bogus Bills Found

City police have issued a warning after a counterfeit $50 bill was passed in Belleville earlier this week. The bill was in the Miracle Food Mart deposit handed in to the Royal Bank. It bears the serial number B H 899059.

Tieing Up Last Threads

Master Corporal Jim Hooton adjusts the rope stays of a recently erected 120-foot beer tent in final preparations for Middleton Park community council's first annual Octoberfest. The massive tent is the latest feature on Tent City grounds inside CFB Trenton, the site of fall festivities this Friday and Saturday.

All Eyes on Game, Police Enjoy Calm

It must have been that everyone was watching the Team Canada-Soviet Union hockey game on television last night.

City police, fire and Ontario Provincial Police officials report no serious calls or incidents overnight.

Fire Chief Leo Culhane said there wasn't one fire call while Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said his department had only to contend "with a few drunks fighting" ... probably over the outcome of last night's game.

Arts Survey Underway Soon To Establish Centre Need

A questionnaire to be used in the study of the need for an arts centre here will soon be mailed Quinte cultural groups.

It will be mailed during the next 10 days by consultants conducting the survey, the Quinte Arts Council (QAC) was told Tuesday night.

The questionnaire is only aimed at gleaning introductory information and will be followed by personal interview by consultants who will want serious answers, said QAC executive member Diana Aitken.

All groups and individuals within the QAC must "realistically" assess the local cultural scene and be ready with observations and ambitions on the type of arts facility required, she said.

Mrs. Aitken's comments followed a meeting of community and cultural representatives last week in Belleville with Brian Dixon, executive director of Toronto consulting firm will conduct the survey for Loyalist College.

The provincial government has allocated $25,000 for the study to determine (1) if a cultural centre is justified in the district and (2) what type of facility is needed.

Both Loyalist and QAC representatives have been viewing the possibility of such a centre for some time.

Funds for the survey came among Ontario government projects aimed at decentralizing cultural resources throughout the province.

Mrs. Aitken said the meeting with the study consultant indicated the undertaking was part of a government initiative. As such, if the community can prove the need for an arts centre "there is no reason why it shouldn't happen here".

The consultants will be instructed in a broad public response to their study — from needs of senior citizens to those of children, she said.

Four Arrested Following Thefts

BRIGHTON — Two Brighton youths have been charged with break, enter and theft and another with possession of stolen property, following break-ins at Dunnsion Hardware and the Scotty Broughton Youth Centre here.

Provincial police here have charged Carl Leon Shortt 17, of 36 Oliphant St., and Charles Eric Jonesyk, 18, of 27 Percy St., with break, enter and theft at both places last week-end.

Charged with possession of stolen property from the same premises are Phillip Thomas Sadore, 17, of Burlington, and Mark Lionel Tenkey, 16, RR 7 Brighton.

Police said today all property stolen in both break-ins has been recovered. This includes goods valued at an estimated $1,400 stolen from Donnision Hardware.

Mayor Joins Jaycees

Belleville Jaycees kicked off Jaycee week Tuesday night with a dinner meeting at which Mayor Robin Jeffrey was inducted into the groups.

In accepting this honor, Mayor Jeffrey paid tribute to the men and women in Jaycees an organization which only last year invited women to join the group.

She said she hoped this will be a policy after choir in the city would follow. As a new Jaycee the mayor said she would participate in a blood donor clinic sponsored by the club in November.

Four other members also were inducted into the club. Pat Alexander, Bob Mickelson, Vartan Samanjian and Connie Nordis.

Guest speaker for the evening at Sun Valley was David Mather of the Dale Carnegie Institute in Hamilton. He told the group that membership is a disease which stops people from comparing what they are to what they should be.

"We never use 90 per cent of our ability. What makes the difference why some people achieve the ranks of success and others don't?" he asked.

"One reason is that we let other people's opinions stand in the way of the things we want to do. Another is a lack of belief in ourselves that holds us back.

In other club business, reports were made on the Jaycees participation in re-painting the bill board at the CNR station listing various city industries and the upcoming charities and the upcoming

New Jaycee

With this being Jaycee Week, there's no fitting way to mark the occasion than by inducting the mayor of the city into the club. With Jaycee president, Bruce Alexander, right, looking on, Mayor Robin Jeffrey shakes hands with Glenn Wirdell, a past president. Mayor Jeffrey expressed hope that other clubs would follow the Jaycee policy begun last year of admitting women to what was formerly a men's club.

Artist Offers Talent To School Children

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

"To see, express, work and do" might well be the maxim, applied to a Queen Victoria Public School fall art program.

These are the words of school principal Clair Rupnow in describing what he sees as the "ultimate end" of an artist's visit to his Pine Street school.

Through an Ontario Arts Council grant and some participation by the Hasting County Board of Education, Belleville potter Audrey Davies will spend more than a month acquainting young people with her craft and how it applies to them.

The project isn't designed to turn out 275 little potters and could have entered virtually any school in the city this year — the Queen Victoria choice is "rather personal."

She amplified this by adding: "If you have a wonderful experience in Centennial, it's never wise to try and relive it."

As far as goals are concerned Mrs. Davies is satisfied with simple "exposure to a new experience."

"I would like each of the children to make something they can take home," she said, "even if its only a piece of clay with the child's thumb print in it."

In working at Centennial, Mrs. Davies said:

"They (students) embraced and endorsed my belief and faith in young people.

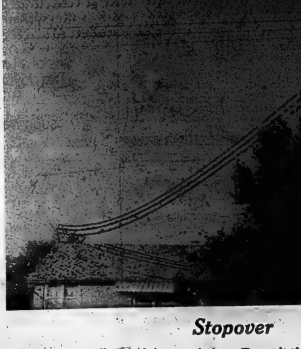
"I now believe more strongly in young people than I ever did," she said.

While the Queen Victoria program will be more regimented with students visiting the studio on a curriculum basis, Mrs. Davies says "it will still be free ... not like a classroom situation."

"The youngsters will be coming into a studio ... totally different atmosphere from class," she said.

"It will be a chance for the students to learn a new way to express themselves," she added.

The program begins Oct. 21 and continues into early December. Mrs. Davies will work at the school Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week beginning at 9 a.m. and finishing at 5 p.m. The general public is invited to drop in to visit.



"It's a first, it's great and we're really excited," said Mr. Rupnow.

Finale of the program will be a pottery exhibit just prior to Christmas.

The Davies Touch

Belleville potter Audrey Davies will bring her studio into a Queen Victoria Public School class room for more than a month this fall, showing young people what potting is all about. Mrs. Davies last year was artist in residence at Centennial Secondary school where she said the students "embraced and enforced her faith in young people."

Stopover

A huge convention of what appear to be tree swallows interrupt their trip south for a rest on Herchimer Avenue early this morning. Thousands of the birds gathered on wires, rooftops and in trees. Eventually they'll end up in southern U.S., Mexico and Cuba for the winter.

CP News Roundup

Lewis Says Whelan Should Go

EUGENE WHELAN

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, said Tuesday that Eugene Whelan has "outlived his usefulness as federal minister of agriculture."

"Like many others, I find Mr. (Whelan's) bumptious, amiable, shoot-from-the-lip qualities attractive at times, but he has overdone it seriously the last little while," Mr. Lewis told a news conference in this community 15 miles northwest of Chatham.

"I like his defence of the farmers, but you don't have to clobber the consumer with the defence," he said.

Mr. Lewis said Mr. Whelan's defence of farmers is allowing consumers "to be taken, not by farmers, but by the supermarkets."

Body Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Graeme Wallace, author of a study on the dead of their parents in Canada, said the new Canadian Co-ordinating Council on Deafness (CCCD) is too far removed from local problems to work.

"To create a viable organization you should start from the grass roots," said Dr. Wallace, who has a doctorate in psychology. "It's the local problems that have to be dealt with."

Sue Strikers

HEARST, Ont. (CP) — Cochrane Nursing Homes Ltd. is suing 20 registered nursing assistants and aides who went on a wildcat strike against the Hearst Nursing Home Sept. 4, a company official said Tuesday.

Benefits Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits paid in July totalled $158.2 million, up eight per cent from June payments, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

Three Killed

SARNIA (CP) — Three persons were killed Tuesday when the car in which they were riding spun out on a country road two miles east of here and was involved in a collision with a second vehicle.

Dead are Sherrien Jan Jarmusk, 18, driver of the car, and passengers Ronald Edward Joseph Savage, 18, and Joseph Hector Durocher, 15, all of Sarnia.

Dorothy Pillerik of Sarnia, driver of the other car, was taken to hospital and was in fair condition Tuesday night.

Workers Vote

STRATFORD (CP) — Non-medical workers at the Stratford General Hospital will vote soon on what hospital officials say is the final offer in a lengthy wage dispute.

Union leaders agreed Tuesday to take the offer to about 250 non-medical workers, members of Local 434, Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

Ill-treated

TORONTO (CP) — An interchurch group here supporting the United Farm Workers in California finds that Canadian farm workers "are not getting the treatment they should," says the co-chairman of a study group on workers in southwestern Ontario.

Rev. Robert Lindsey of the United Church, co-chairman of the inter-church investigation, said Tuesday the group is not in a position to start naming villains but Canadian consumers must shoulder some responsibility for the migrant workers' situation.

Nixon Likely to Enter Hospital Within Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Former president Richard Nixon probably will enter a hospital within a week, says his daughter. A team of medical specialists was reported on standby at the Camp Pendleton naval hospital near his San Clemente, Calif., home.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower said Tuesday that the tensions Nixon received at home for the blood clots in his leg veins that improved his phlebitis and that he will enter the hospital "to get something checked."

She said her mother has indicated that the former president is "irritable" because of the illness, but she labelled as "crazy" reports that his mind is wandering or that he is dangerously depressed about having to resign office last month.

"Of course, he's not on top of the world," Mrs. Eisenhower said.

"I think he's doing very well under the circumstances."

The Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Tribune say that preparations for Nixon's admission have been made at the Camp Pendleton hospital.

A spokesman for the Secret Service in Los Angeles declined to comment on the reports.

Quits Job

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Reid, chief troubleshooter for Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, said Tuesday he has decided to cut short his assignment with the party and return to his full-time job as publisher of a pharmaceutical trade magazine.

Car Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a deficit of more than $580 million in automotive trade with the United States during the first half of the year, Statistics Canada reports.

Too Ill to Testify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former president Richard Nixon is too ill to be required to testify about security measures taken during his appearance at a rally in Charlotte, N.C., in 1971, his lawyers contend in a motion seeking to quash the subpoena.

The motion, filed here Monday and made public Tuesday, also asked that the subpoena be quashed because Nixon's actions at that time enjoyed presidential privileges and because the documents and tape recordings requested also are privileged.

Nixon has been ordered to testify by entering a deposition in Santa Ana, Calif., Sept. 24 in a civil suit filed by 21 persons in Charlotte. They accused White House aides and local officials illegally prevented them from attending a rally in honor of evangelist Billy Graham. Nixon spoke at the event.

A hearing on the motion is scheduled for next Monday in U.S. District Court.

Police Watch

EDMONTON (CP) — The Indian caravan en route to Ottawa from Vancouver has been under constant surveillance by the RCMP, a member of the group said Tuesday.

Arctic Natural Gas Will Be Needed Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Natural gas from northern frontier areas will be needed to avoid supply shortages in southern markets by the 1980s, Canadian Arctic Gas Study Ltd. says.

Current reserves of natural gas in western provinces are not adequate to meet projected demands from consumers, the company said in a submission to the National Energy Board released Tuesday.

Future discoveries and development of new reserves in Alberta and British Columbia might be able to offset shortages until the early 1980s, but shortfalls in supplies from current reserves and uncertainty over the rate of future discoveries in the provinces makes it "desirable that frontier reserves be connected as soon as possible to the market place."

Canadian Arctic Gas Study Ltd. was set up to study the feasibility of constructing a Mackenzie Valley pipeline to carry Alaskan and Mackenzie Delta gas to markets in southern Canada and the United States.

In its brief to the board, the company said demand for natural gas will reach 10.9 billion cubic feet a day by 1980 and 12.1 billion by 1985.

Prohibiting Gas Exports Won't Prevent Shortage

OTTAWA (CP) — Prohibiting exports won't prevent a possible shortage of natural gas in Canada, Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. said in a brief filed Tuesday with the National Energy Board.

The brief to the board, due to hold hearings later this fall on the gas export policy, said that curbing off exports would provide only a few years of relief before production would become inadequate anyway to meet Canadian requirements.

Gulf said any failure to honor gas export commitments would delay, "perhaps forever," the possibility of Canada gaining access to Mackenzie Delta gas reserves through a joint Canada-United States pipeline. Canada needed U.S. participation to build such a pipeline which would also transport Alaskan gas to the U.S. mainland.

The company said there will

Big Drunk Is Culture

OTTAWA (CP) — Even a colossal drunken party can be a cultural event—especially if it is the "biggest drunk in Canada"—and on that basis Ottawa is supporting this year's Grey Cup parade in Vancouver.

Board of control voted Tuesday to spend $28,494.78 to send two bands and a float on the parade, but the vote was not unanimous.

Controller Tom McDougall said he doubted if the money is being well spent during highly-inflationary times.

But Mayor Pierre Benoit said the Grey Cup and parade are just as much a part of Canadian life as other areas of the arts.

"Many people say it is just the biggest drunk in Canada but even if it is the biggest drunk it is as much a cultural institution as the National Arts Centre," he said.

All-Canadian Line Proposed

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. Ltd. (AGTL) of Calgary submitted to the National Energy Board in Ottawa Tuesday a proposal to build a $3.7-billion all-Canadian pipeline to transport Canadian Arctic natural gas to Canadian markets.

AGTL announced Monday its withdrawal from a consortium proposing a $6-billion pipeline to transport Canadian Arctic and Alaskan gas to Canadian and United States markets. The company said it now prefers to pursue an all-Canadian pipeline.

How Bill Davis plans to waste $55 million of your money.

As employees of his government, we've been negotiating new mileage rates for the use of our own cars on government business.

We just want decent rates. Right now we're subsidizing our employers.

But our employers don't even want to negotiate.

Instead, they dismiss the matter by saying we no longer need to use private cars. The government will provide transport.

And that's where you come in.

If the 23,000 employees involved are each given a car, it will cost the taxpayer about $55 million a year.

The government would rather waste your money than bargain with us in good faith.

It's ridiculous.

We say this policy is impossible to implement. We know that in the meantime we'll be left subsidizing the government through unreasonable mileage rates.

Our members have been instructed to withdraw the use of all private cars to prove to the government the folly of its plan. (The government has said their use is not mandatory).

You can support us, and register your disapproval of such wastage, by writing your MPP.

Please do.

Before Mr. Davis sends you a bill for $55 million.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Question: We want to visit the Dutch West Indies Islands, in particular Aruba. Can you supply any details on these Islands ?

ANSWER: On the panama Canal and Caribbean cruise routes and in the midst of the North and South American trade routes, the Netherlands Antilles enjoy a modest prosperity. Willemstad, the capital city, is a bright mosaic of Dutch-Caribbean homes and gardens where, houses come in pastel shades and citizens speak in many tongues. Generously here is an centimeters as the sunshine.

Aruba and Curacao have established healthy tourist trades. They have modern hotels, nightclubs, shops, restaurants, fashionable beaches and good roads. Bonaire, known for years as the most tranquil of the Dutch Leewards, has increased its bid for tourists with up-to-date hotels, a new pier for cruise ships and the world's most powerful shortwave radio station. Bonaire is also a sanctuary for over 145 species of exotic bird life.

The Netherlands Antilles are islands of perpetual sunshine. Cacti, agaves, aloes and other drought-resistant vegetation are evidence of the area's light rainfall; about 22 inches a year. However, brief showers may be expected in November and December. The tropical climate of the Dutch Islands keeps the annual temperature at a comfortable average of 82 degrees. Aruba, Bonaire and Curacao all lie outside hurricane - prone regions.

The Dutch scene cannot be separated from Caribbean colors in Oranjestad. Quaint Dutch colonial houses are raspberry red, blue, mandarin yellow and chocolate. The profusion of color is maintained by a local tenet, which warns, "do not covet the color of your neighbor's house". Quaintness and charm are not offered by modern residences, broad boulevards, parks, churches and schools.

Oranjestad has no slums; Aruba's standard of living ranks among the highest in the world. The town has stylish shops and splendid market streets. Nassaustraat, the heart of the shopping centre, abounds with social action and a lively cast of characters.

Schooner Harbor, with its wharfside market and houseboat restaurant, is the perfect movie set. Willem III tower, in the background, is the symbol of Aruba.

In Aruba, Curacao and St. Maarten the password is good eating is "rijstaffel" (rice table). This Dutch East Indian feast, served on Aruba's famous boneshout at Paradera Baai, is composed of rice accompanied by 20 to 40 side dishes. You can also dine on the rooftops of a fort in Curacao, in an authentic Dutch windmill in Aruba or picnicstyle on Little Bonaire, an uninhabited island three miles square, off the coast of Bonaire. Curacao is the birthplace of the famous orange-flavored Curacao liqueur and the Caribbean home of Amstel beer. Tap water, distilled from the sea, is safe to drink. A service charge is usually included by most hotels and restaurants; if this is not done, tip 10 to 15 percent.

Before taking a taxi on the islands, ask the driver about the fare. Generally in Curacao the average fare is about 40 cents a mile, from Dr. Plesman Airport into Willemstad, the charge is $4. Curacao Sightseeing, Bon Bini, Tours, Go-Go Tours and Tabor Tours offer sightseeing excursions around the island. For all rides in town, last fares increase 50 percent between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.; out of town they are 25 per-cent higher between 10 p.m. and midnight and 50 percent higher after midnight. Station wagon fares are lower than taxi fares, but should also be agreed on before the trip.

Self-drive European and American sedans or convertibles rent for $8 to $12 a day or $35 to $60 a week with unlimited mileage; gas is not included and a $50 deposit is required. In Willemstad there is a regular quarter-hour service from Wilhemina Square to Brion Square, as well as hourly departures from both squares to the airport, suburbs and villages. Autos can easily be toured in a day by rented car, taxi or sightseeing car. In addition, a regular bus service operates between Aruba's Leach resort area and Oranjestad. Both Aruba and Curacao have a good system of all-weather roads.

Some of Draft Evaders Will Refuse Amnesty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's clemency program has temporarily freed most of the 86 Vietnam-era draft evaders in federal prisons, but some may be back.

Because to many, Ford's offer to do alternative service in lieu of jail was no different than what they refused to do before they were imprisoned. They said they owe the United States no service for refusing to fight in what they called an immoral war.

Steve Reich of Chicago was one. He refused to leave the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., saying he wouldn't accept anything short of complete amnesty.

Several others who left said they will return rather than accept alternative service.

Attorney-General William Saxbe ordered the inspection of draft violators released late Tuesday on 30-day furloughs to give them time to appeal their sentences to a newly-created clemency board.

Presumably that board might rule that some prisoners must spend time doing public-service work in lieu of completing their sentences.

The board was set up by President Ford after he decided to offer amnesty to draft evaders and deserters—both those in jail and those in exile or hiding—if they agreed to alternative service.

Early reports indicated the offer wasn't faring much better than those who had avoided prison by leaving the U.S.

Only one draft evader was known to have turned himself in Tuesday.

John Barry, 22, reported to federal authorities in San Francisco. Barry, who had never registered for the draft, said: "The whole mess is not going to be a stigma I'll carry the rest of my life."

Doug Bittle returned to San Francisco from Canada to take a look at, Ford's offer, but he was cautious, Bittle said: "I want to look at it a bit more closely. If they want reasonable service, reasonable work, I'm interested, I wouldn't mind working at Napa State Hospital or doing anything in which I felt I was helping someone."

The Justice department said draft evaders like Bittle may re-enter the U.S. without fear of arrest or 10 years. Border stations have been told to allow any draft evaders or deserters on their wanted lists to enter the U.S. after giving them a copy of Ford's amnesty proclamation.

The green parrot is aimed at giving them time to apply for amnesty, but the FBI conceded it could be used as a loophole to allow exiles to visit their families and friends without fear of apprehension.

Cockroach Cure Easy

TORONTO (CP) — Ald. Ying Hope says he has a sure-kill method of dealing with Toronto's cockroach problem.

Mix baking soda, sugar and water, he advised Toronto's executive committee Monday. Then either spray it on the roaches or leave drops of it around.

"The cockroaches take it and they fear they'll explode and they simply explode," Mr. Hope said. "It's that simple."

He said the method proved effective Tuesday morning when he demonstrated it in Veronica Blair who brought a jar of cockroaches to the executive committee meeting and threatened to turn them loose if there was no action taken.

Drinking on Job Increasing

TORONTO (CP) — Lloyd Fell says drinking on the job is becoming so prevalent that it will be "an uncontrollable monster" in 15 years.

But Mr. Fell, staff representative of the United Steelworkers of America and a former problem drinker himself, feels something positive can be done.

He's a director of Lifeline—an operation sponsored jointly by the steelworkers' union in Toronto and 125 firms with which the union has collective agreements and which is working to rescue the alcoholic before he loses his job and destroys his future.

Lifeline is the only program in which a union and almost all the employers with which it has agreements are working together to deal with problem drinkers.

It has rehabilitated 96 persons since it started last January and failed four times.

Mr. Fell said one problem is protection of the drinker by the steward or foreman.

"The drinking symptoms often shatter his jug with the plant guard, foreman or union steward and is not likely to take extremely the threat that he may lose his job," he said.

Many Draft Evaders Intend to Stay Here

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry Condon is a deserter from the United States Army who now lives in Canada and wants to go home.

"Very many intend to stay," he said in an interview Tuesday. Many are citizens and many intend to become citizens.

"Not many want to go back very much, myself included."

Mr. Condon, 27, has been an exile from his friends and family for six years ever since he deserted from the Special Forces, or Green Berets, and fled the U.S. rather than fight in the Vietnam war.

However, Mr. Condon called President Gerald Ford's offer of great amnesty if deserters and draft dodgers speed up to 24 months in low-paying public service jobs to promote the national health, safety or interest "unfair and unpalatable."

He said groups across Canada and Europe were "virtually unanimous" in rejecting it.

Mr. Condon is an editor of Amex-Canada — a magazine published in Toronto for American exiles.

He, and others, write articles on exile lifestyles, the problems of finding good work and the state of the battle for amnesty from the U.S. government.

Mr. Condon's flight took him from New York to Canada and several European countries, including Sweden where he spent two years. He returned to Canada and lived in Vancouver almost two years before coming to Toronto last spring.

Doc Charles Knight, 30, decided in 1967 the war was wrong and applied for draft deferment as a conscientious objector.

He was refused in 1968 and headed north to Toronto, arriving with $12 in his pocket.

Since then he won his draft case on a technicality and frequently returns to the U.S.

Though he can live in the U.S. if he wishes, Mr. Knight now lives in Canada and plans to raise a family in both countries.

He is helping organize a conference in Toronto later this month of war resisters from around the country and is British, France and Sweden. They will discuss how they can influence the U.S. public toward their demand for complete amnesty.

Kitchener Rents Going Up

KITCHENER (CP) — Tenants of small, older apartment buildings, particularly walk-ups, appear to be in for rent increases of up to $30 a month in this southern Ontario area.

A spokesman for C. E. Dobrick Ltd., which manages 1,338 units in small buildings in Waterloo region, Guelph, Stratford and Woodstock, said the rents are increasing by six to eight per cent as leases expire, bringing the cost of an average two-bedroom apartment to about $100 a month.

He attributed the increases to generally higher costs.

The board of directors of the Waterloo Regional Apartment Owners' Association, whose members own about 8,000 units in this area, met Monday to discuss the impact of higher mortgage rates.

Association President Tony Bergmeier said capital costs have and are being increased by up to 50 per cent.

Mr. Bergmeier said tenants in new buildings should not be hit too hard by increases because interest rates on mortgages on these buildings are probably already at 10 or 11 per cent.

Business and Workers Agree NDP Labor Code Is Working

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia employers studdered and unions protested when the New Democratic Party government unveiled a new labor code last fall.

"It's given unions too much power," complained business men in a province where 40 per cent of the work force is organized.

"It doesn't go far enough," retorted union leaders.

After nine months under the code, the reactions of both sides were cautiously positive.

although spokesmen were quick to suggest improvements.

There have been complaints and cases are appealed because some of the more controversial sections of the code still are to be proclaimed.

But generally business and labor agree that the climate of industrial relations in B.C. has improved.

An indicator of this is that the amount of time lost due to strikes and lockouts in the first six months of 1974 was down substantially from the record total in 1973.

Despite the soaring cost of living and union demands for massive wage increases, time lost to the end of June totalled 943,933 man-days. During the first half of 1972—like 1974 a heavy bargaining year in B.C.—1,300,800 man-days were lost in work stoppages.

This year's figures include a nine-week construction strike and a walkout earlier this summer in the important lumber industry.

The new code replaced three statutes—the Labor Relations Act, the Mediation Services Act and the Trade Union Act—which had angered labor under the former Social Credit government.

A key change gave a revived labor relations board broader powers to deal with industrial disputes, including exclusive jurisdiction over labor relations concerning strikes, lockouts and picketing.

That change took away the courts' power to order ex parte injunctions against strikes and picketing—a move welcomed by unions which for years have complained about court intervention.

The new law prohibits strike-breaking, offers employees security against technological change, gives the board powers to impose first contracts and, in theory, makes certification and organizing easier for unions.

Employers worried that the law would give unions too much hand. Labor complained that many of their proposals for change were ignored.

Labor Minister Bill King, a member of two railway unions before entering politics, said the labor code generally is working out well.

"It is difficult for people who have so long been geared to the government to react in any way but negatively," he said. "Some people are prepared to dig in, then they find out it isn't so bad.

"It's important we address ourselves to the solution of problems rather than prohibitions in industrial relations."

The government has broadened its range of weapons in the settlement of industrial disputes. Both labor and business spokesmen said they favored policy changes that provide for more mediation, industrial inquiries and ministerial intervention.

"The old government just stayed out until the last minute and then imposed compulsory arbitration," one union spokesman said.

In one case, however, the government has had to do some backtracking. The labor code gave the right to strike to firemen, police and hospital employees and provided for voluntary binding arbitration to settle disputes involving those workers.

But that section headlined its early launch when firemen in four Vancouver suburbs went on strike. An emergency session of the legislature forced the 200 men back to their jobs by presenting for a 21-day cooling-off period.

Mr. King admitted that the dispute showed a weakness in the new code but said action had to be taken to protect the safety of the public.

The strike brought criticism from both unionists and friends of the government.

Critics said the right to strike should be taken away from essential services, while a spokesman for the B.C. Federation of Labor said his organization does not like to see councils of trade unions imposed on labor.

While both union and business spokesmen had their specific complaints, nearly all said industrial relations have improved under the new code.

Said Wilfred Hamilton, president of the Employers' Council of B.C.:

"We have a very positive view of the labor relations board. We're not happy with all their decisions but at least the board produces reasons for its decisions so we can examine the body of law that is being built up and appeal findings more intelligently.

"In many cases even the findings of the board have been unanimous."

Mr. Hamilton, a former federal postmaster-general, also said there has been a good working relationship between Mr. King and business generally. He said he approves of Mr. King's method of dealing with problems on a case-by-case basis.

The businessmen have reservations about a section, proclaimed recently, that would allow picketing of "allies" of employers. These are defined as companies that supply goods or provide services to struck companies.

But Mr. Hamilton said he would be careful about condemning sections of the act that have not yet been given a chance to work.

"There is room that is positive than negative as far in the operation of the labor code."

Chuck Connaghan, president of the B.C. Construction Labor Relations Association, said "on balance" the code is good but had strong reservations about the technological changes provisions.

"The government didn't recognize particular problems of the construction industry," he said. "The legislation was put in by people who know nothing about technological change."

Mr. Connaghan said the definition of changes is too broad and covers almost everything that goes on in the industry. He foresaw a multitude of jurisdictional fights between unions and difficulties as new materials and methods are introduced.

"If painters are put out of work because an owner of an office building wants carpets on the walls, does that constitute a technological change? Under the definition, it does."

Cy Stairs, head of the B.C. Construction Trades, said the new code does not make it easier for construction unions to organize members on work sites.

"The code was almost totally written by specialists without much reference to the labor movement. It is not the code we had hoped for and made representations for."

An official of the B.C. Federation of Labor said the code has improved the industrial climate.

"The year could have been one of the worst for bargaining."

But the federation opposed, among other things, exclusion from bargaining of farm workers and domestics, the imposition of trade union councils, and the right of employers to stay out of unions for religious reasons.

For provincial government employees the cumbersome of the new labor code and a Public Service Labor Relations Act has given them bargaining rights for the first time.

John Fryer, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Union, said his members now work under the best public employee legislation in North America.

While pensions are not a negotiable item, and that bothers the union, Mr. Fryer said its members are consoled to making the new laws work.

The government and the union already have worked out a master agreement and bargaining units now are negotiating more specific contract terms. They have an arrangement that emergency services will be provided in disputes that end in strikes.

Recycling Business Is Large

TORONTO (CP) — The recycling industry is a growing one which accounts for "an estimated $1 billion in business a year," but it needs more recognition from the government, says Elliot Krever, president of the Canadian Association of Recycling Industries.

He said in an interview that the main components making up the recycling sector are not regarded by governments as legitimate industries.

Governments should recognize the recycling sector for the extent of its operations, its importance to the economy and for the dollar value of material it produces, not to mention the many thousands of people it employs, he said.

The association's 300 member companies are grouped in five divisions: Ferrous metal (iron and steel scrap), non-ferrous (copper, brass, aluminum, lead and other scrap metal), secondary metal, paper stock and textile fibres.

Mr. Krever said the association has made some head way with the government, especially in the last six months, about matters affecting its membership which need revisions.

He cited taxation and freight rates as example of disadvantages to member companies.

"The federal 12-per-cent sales tax on equipment does not apply to manufacturers and processors," Mr. Krever said.

Secondary metal dealers and processors must apply for an exemption from the tax every time they acquire new equipment for processing purposes.

"Sometimes they get an exemption, sometimes they don't," he said.

The secondary metals sector also believes it is being discriminated against in rail freight rates, which are lower for virgin metal than for material recovered from scrap or secondary metal moved in bulk.

Mr. Krever said the recycling industries "are important because we conserve and extend the period of time for the use of virgin raw materials."

Recycled aluminum accounts for more than 25 per cent of all aluminum produced, he said.

Mr. Krever added that between 17 and 28 per cent of all new production in Canada comes from recycled material.

Swedes Propose Earnings Ceiling

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — Two Swedish social reformers want to slap a ceiling on national salaries with any excess earning being funnelled off to the developing nations.

The idea of a wage ceiling, even as high as a suggested annual $40,000, is unlikely to appeal to tradesmen here.

But the fact that the subject is aired in publications such as the consumer magazine Vi (We) and the business weekly Veckans Affarer is a measure of the constant debate about life and work styles which goes on in this experimental society.

Swedish economist Gunnar Adler-Karlsson, professor of social science at Denmark's Roskilde University, would put the top limit in Sweden somewhere between $20,000 and $40,000.

Berit Rollen, 39-year-old chief editor of Vi and former private secretary to Social democrat Prime Minister Olof Palme, would set the limit lower, at $17,500.

The first reaction by many people might be that they would gladly settle for such a salary. But in Sweden, where meat, beer and movie seats cost twice as much as in Britain, for example, and taxes are among the highest in the world, these salaries are not exceptionally high.

Still, the Swedes had the honor for a short time recently of being the world's richest people—when the dollar dropped to an unprecedented 4.18 kroner, making the gross national product per head in Sweden $8,300. The dollar has recovered since, but Swedes are near the top of the list.

With every Swedish family aiming for a comfortable apartment, a car and a summer cottage or boat, it may be time for them to consider exactly where they—and the world—are heading, said Adler-Karlsson.

"We are like hamsters inside a wheel, always running to reach a top that forever eludes us. We're all after pie in the sky.

"In Sweden, large sectors of the population are constantly reaching for that next rung in the pyramidal income-ladder, the one just above their heads."

And it is folly, said the professor, for the universal treadmill will never stop.

It is not just capitalist economies that keep the treadmill whirling, he said, citing pronouncements by the late Nikita Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung and the united Nations Economic Commission for Africa to show that all have been too much obsessed with the idea of "catching up."

Instead, the Swedish professor advocates a minimum standard for all in the world: Guaranteed adequate nourishment, pure water, health services and a simple dwelling—and on the other end of the scale, to pay for it, a "maxi-salary."

It is at least as important that a Swedish family abstains from a second car as that an Indian family abstains from its fourth child," he said.

Vancouver Social Clubs Cater to Gambling Urge

VANCOUVER (CP) — In several smoke-filled social clubs in the Greater Vancouver area, men meet daily to gamble among themselves and with the Criminal Code of Canada.

The clubs are as different as the men who use them. Loggers form the majority of the membership of one downtown club, where stakes are relatively modest, while at a club the RCMP recently raided in nearby Richmond as much as $14,000 in chips has been seen on the table at one time.

The clubs don't advertise. Like the better players in their membership, they keep their cards close to their chests.

But, in a recent interview, the manager of one downtown club talked about his operation.

The Playfair was opened in 1958 and has 760 members who pay 25 cents for a lifetime membership.

Under the Criminal Code, gambling clubs must operate as "bona fide social clubs." They must not be allowed to fall into the hands of criminals and are not allowed a rakeoff from the games. They are allowed to charge a minimal fee, usually 75 cents a half-hour from each player.

"We have doctors, lawyers and the regular working guy as members; a cross-section of everybody," said club manager Leo Thodos.

"We even have a couple of psychiatrists as members."

Members play poker at the 11 green cloth-covered tables, 14 in other clubs, no liquor is allowed.

Mr. Thodos said the most money he has seen on a table is $5,000 in chips, although most games are smaller.

At one table, a bald-headed man wrestled as he studied his cards and the faces of seven other men under the fluorescent lights. He fared gleamed with perspiration, belying the bluff of confidence.

A young man at the next table sipped a bottle of orange pop as he lost $200 on a good hand. He showed no sign of emotion because he is a professional and is in the game for the long run, believing the odds are on his side and the cards will turn eventually.

"More than half of the members are businessmen," he said. He, like all the clubs, have people who play cards for a living," said Mr. Thodos.

"But it's not like it used to be where you had a handful of good card players and the average guy was a goof."

He said too many good players are in town and the stakes are more even.

"They had a professional gambler on the Johnny Carson Show one night and he said, none of the best card players are in Vancouver. Of course there are still plenty that get taken."

But he downplays the prevalence of cheats.

"The players are too good. They watch for them (cheats) . . . the good players will know.

"There are certain moves that a cheat will make with the deck and most of them can be detected.

"If they kick upper a bottle of pop and try to bring in a cold (chilled) deck they won't get far."

Although Mr. Thodos said cheats are asked to leave the club and cannot return, a city police constable said the penalty is often a broken arm.

The constable pay more attention to lounges and nightclubs.

"Usually if they're going to cheat someone they'll get a girl in a bar to set him up for a private game where they can take him for $10,000 or $15,000.

"There's lots of this in Vancouver, more than ever."

About 12 clubs operate in the Greater Vancouver area. The Lulgrave Recreation Club, largest in the city, is a dimly lit hall with tarnished chandeliers and a multi-scarred floor which serves as a gambling casino.

It has a membership of several hundred, integrating loggers, professional gamblers and skid road types with just enough veneer for a classy game.

Because the club is located close to the public safety building, it is under constant police scrutiny. And the club, like others, treads carefully on the edge of the law.

"If we raided these places, there would be 1,000 legal games and we wouldn't be able to control any of these," said one veteran of the police department's gambling squad.

"You'd have guys being beaten up and ripped off all over the place. If people want to gamble, you can't really stop them.

"As it is now, we can watch the clubs and try to make sure there isn't anything more than gambling going on in them."

But the RCMP in Richmond raided what is generally regarded as the richest of the clubs, with several thousand dollars on two or three of its tables.

It opens about 3 a.m. when the other clubs close.

When police raided the club, the records were seized and 13 persons were arrested. It was the first club to be raided under gambling laws in many years.

Non-fiction Books Face Brisk Demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — Non-fiction books are big business and becoming bigger, according to one of Britain's largest book publishers.

And David St. John Thomas should know. He is the president and major shareholder of David and Charles, a publishing firm which produced more than 1.6 million non-fiction books last year.

"Perhaps it's a reaction to today's increasingly rapid pace of life," Mr. Thomas said in an interview. "There's a" tremendous interest in the back-to-nature" type of book. A surprising number of people are interested in a topic like compost gardening for example."

His firm publishes only non-fiction books and expects to do a gross volume this year of $7.5 million. Established in 1960, the firm has produced more than 10 million books, publishing 300 to 350 titles a year.

David and Charles' new book list includes such topics as aviation, antiques and collecting, art and architecture, canals and waterways, cookery, countrysside and folklore, crafts and practical education, gardening, geographical and geology, history, road transport and sport.

Mr. Thomas was here to visit Jim Douglas, a North Vancouver-based publisher who set up a Canadian-controlled company, Douglas, David and Charles, with the British firm.

"We chose Vancouver as the headquarters of our Canadian representation because of the substantial population here in the west which tends to have been neglected by most English publishers.

"They regard Canada as starting at Montreal and finishing at Sudbury," Mr. Thomas said.

According to Mr. Thomas, investment in Canada will result in more of his firm's books being produced in Canada.

The firm, with representation in some 20 countries, has its head office in a railway station in Newton Abbot, Devon, about 200 miles west of London.

"Our first booklets were on English railways and we've always been interested in transportation," said Mr. Thomas, who has written several books himself.

"We specialize in 'how to' books. We have books on how authors can get published . . . but haven't yet done a book on how to get started in the publishing business."

Seeked Happiness

SHEFFIELD, England (CP) — The city planners of this steel-making city have decided there is too much gloom. They aim to cheer up the citizens with a three-month Festival of Happiness next summer which will feature such events as a bed-pushing race through the streets, medieval jousts and a giant chess game with people acting as the pieces.

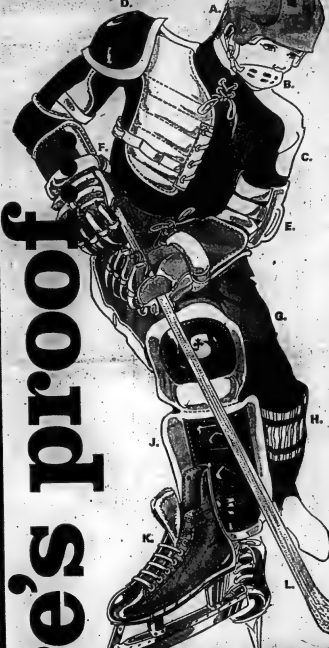
College Assists Indians

VANCOUVER (CP) — Everyone has to start before they learn to swim, so Vancouver Community College is a four-month orientation program given a helping hand to Indian students embarking to cope with the city.

The program stresses city orientation, personal abilities and weaknesses, upgrading of basic academic skills. It helps out with housing, finances, job hunting and discrimination against Indian students.

Of the 20 talents enrolled in the program in April, eight now are ready for other training.

There are about 300 Indian students at the college, most of them enrolled in technical or vocational programs.



"They can see some job at the end with a technical program. Four years seems a long time to a young person," explained Harvey Brooks, a counsellor with the special programs division at the college and an Indian himself.

Mr. Brooks said many Indians work in areas of welfare after graduation.

"The welfare aid program is a natural. His jobs are there for Indian graduates. They seem to identify in that area. They've been through the hardships and they know where to go now."

Septuagenarian Esteems World with Some Risks

OTTAWA (CP) — Eric Morse has travelled more than 12,000 miles to escape "into a world where there is some risk."

At 70, Morse, considered the dean of Canadian canoeists, has dipped his paddle into waters retracing the entire fur-trade route from Montreal to the mouth of the Mackenzie River, travelled rivers and streams from Hudson Bay to Alaska and battled waters from Lake Winnipeg to the mouth of the Coppermine River on the Arctic.

"For centuries man has devoted most of his efforts to making life more comfortable and secure, until every so often it becomes uncomfortable," said the honorary national director of the Association of Canadian Clubs.

"Man comes an urge to escape into a world where there is some risk.

"No one would wish to turn back the clock and revert to hardship and adventure as a permanent way of life, but civilized living in a modern city lacks zest."

Mr. Morse and his wife Fern, his constant canoeing companion since their marriage in 1929, share a love of nature and curiosity to see what's around the next bend in the river.

"The Canadian wilderness is unique," said Mr. Morse. "There are few poisonous snakes, the rivers aren't full of man-eating fish and the mosquitoes won't devour polecats at you. How can anybody fail to appreciate such a fantastic resource".

Historian, author, adventurer and explorer, Mr. Morse began serious canoeing in 1951 when he and two companions challenged three Ottawa diplomats to experience the Canadian wilderness.

"What followed was a perfectly harmless week-long trip down the Gatineau River. But it was sufficient. All were bitten by the same bug that had sized me for so many years."

Following that came years and thousands of miles of whitewater, portages, solitude and the fulfilment of being able to challenge nature and win.

When the Morses decide to make a canoe trip, the organization and outfitting fall on the shoulders of Mrs. Morse. Supplies must be practical and light in weight and northern trips require detailed planning.

"I only allow myself two luxuries on a northern trip—a pillow case and an alarm clock," said Fern. If a trip is scheduled to begin in July, she starts planning for it the previous year.

Tripping with the Morses has become a summer adventure for many diplomats, executives and sometimes politicians.

In 1968 former prime minister Pearson's parliamentary secretary—Pierre Elliott Trudeau—was a member of his party that paddled the entire Coppermine River.

"Pierre is an expert canoeist and was for the most intrepid whitewater man on the Coppermine," said Mr. Morse.

In 1973, Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife Margaret accompanied the Morses on a trip up the French River.

Vienna's Dorotheum Unusual Business

VIENNA (Reuter) — Distressed aristocrats make discreet visits to pawn the family silver; art dealers come looking for old masters and pawn obnoxious Austrian ones to buy up old pots and pans and second-hand shoes.

Some people just wander in to avoid the rain.

For all of them, the destination is the Dorotheum, an imposing 1880s building just a stone's throw from the Imperial Hofburg Palace in central Vienna.

With its origins in the early 18th century, the Dorotheum has evolved into an institution which its director, Dr. Karl Hellner, describes as "typically Austrian and unique."

When Emperor Joseph I founded it in 1707, the aim was to provide a cheap pawnbroking service for the poor.

In 1787 the establishment moved into the grand surroundings of the monastery of Seitz Dorotheer — hence the name.

Since then the pawnbroking business has remained on a non-profit basis. Although the institution is a registered firm, it comes under the minister of the interior and has charitable status.

Most of the business now comes from auctioneering. Originally only those pawns that were not redeemed fell under the hammer but now two-thirds of the 414 000 items sold each year are brought directly to be auctioned.

What makes the Dorotheum unique is that it caters to all pockets. Although Hallas said it does not try to compete with the top auction rooms in London or New York, the fine art auctions at the Dorotheum still attract a steady stream of old masters.

Paintings by Vienna artists such as Gustav Klimt or Egon Schiele easily fetch over $40,000.

At the other end of the scale the pawnbrokers visitor who climbs the broad central staircase to the porters room can find plenty for only a dollar or two.

"We have our regular customers — some people equip their entire households here," says Hallas.

But for many of the Viennese who spend their afternoons in the Dorotheum the fun comes from just watching as the auctioneer and his assistants find buyers for a series of unlikely objects, heaping up a pace of three lots a minute.

The proceedings have something of the atmosphere of a church service or a theatre matinee, though the place that springs easiest to mind is a courtroom — with a verdict every few seconds.

The auctioneer, pencil in hand, sits behind a raised platform and the bids. His assistant calls in the bids in a rapid singsong and with a quick ring of the bell the highest bidder is announced to pay the cashier and collect his trophy.

For those who cannot afford an old master but need to cover up a damp patch in the wall, there are dozens of paintings of cows, alpine peaks, embassies and dying saints at moderate prices.

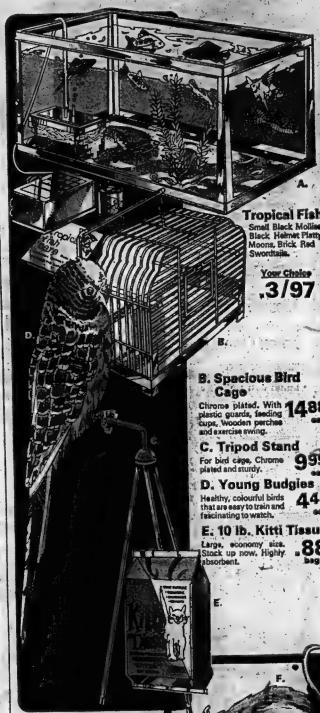
On other floors there are daily auctions of clothes, stamps, coins, furniture, carpets, jewelry and objects catalogued as "miscellaneous."

Each floor — in both china dog or fur stole — is available for inspection beforehand and is neatly labelled with a ticket: "One angel, floating position, carved wood, flesh-colored, partly gilded."

To go with the angel one can find a set of priestly vestments and even a massive carved confessional from a demolished church.

Hallas said there are no profits to be had in bad taste.

But he doesn't mind. The Dorotheum did some of its best business during the chaos and collapse of the 1930 and he prefers not to see a repetition of that.



Bishop Drives Train

WAKEFIELD, England (AP) — A steam locomotive on a preserved railway has been named Eric Treacy after the Bishop of Wakefield, a railway enthusiast. Dr. Treacy drove the locomotive for five miles over the railway which runs over the North of Lancashire moors.

Team Canada Comes on in Third to Earn Tie

QUEBEC (CP) — Bobby Hull has been a hero many times in his 18-year professional hockey career, but probably never any more so than Tuesday night when he gave Team Canada a 3-3 tie with the Soviet Union.

Hull, the first big-name player to jump to the World Hockey Association from the National Hockey League three years ago, scored his second goal of the game at 14:18 of the third period for the tie.

He also assisted on the first goal of the game, scored by Phil Esposito.

"That was the greatest team effort I've ever seen by any hockey club and a defence corps that only been together for a few weeks," Hull said — recorded after being selected as the top Canadian player in the game.

"It was amazing. We worked together very well."

Unlike Team Canada '72, a collection of NHL stars, this year's edition made up of WHA players, didn't will in the third period. The first Team Canada took an early lead in the first game but sagged to a 7-3 loss.

Then, 74 put grumbling aside in the final minutes and nearly won the game. Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Toros was given a clear shot at goal on a pass from Gerry Cheevers with 22 seconds left but missed the net with a high and wide shot.

"I was trying to put the puck up high, but (Vladislav) Tretiak (the Russian goalie) was twisted like a pretzel, with his body up," said Mahovlich, a left winger. "So I hammered the puck past the post.

"I was maybe this wide," he said holding his fingers about half an inch apart.

The Soviet Union led 3-2 on the third period on second-period goals by two defencemen, Valeri Kharlamov and Vladimir Petrov. McKenzie and Esposito scored in the first period and Hull scored his first in the middle period.

McKenzie's goal was the result of a mistake by Petrov. Hull was battling along the right boards with defenceman Valeri Vasiliev and Petrov moved to to pick up the puck. He fired it into the corner to the left of the Russian goal where Andre Lacroix was left unscreened. Lacroix fed the puck to McKenzie who knocked it into the short side at 7:45.

The score remained 1-0 for Canada until 7:46 of the second period when defencemen Bobby Orr and Brad Park combined on a screened shot from about 10 feet inside the blue line.

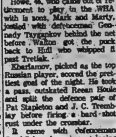
The put Canada back in front less than five minutes later when he slapped a shot past Tretiak from the left-wing circle. Gordie Howe and Mike Walton drew the assist which came while Vasilyev was off for a crippled Ralph Backstrom.

Howe, 46, who came out of retirement to play for the WHA with is son, Mark and Marty, posted with defencemen Gordon "Terrydon" Labbat for net before Walton got the puck back to Hull who whipped it past Tretiak.

Kharlamov, picked as the top player in Europe, scored the first goal of the night. He took a pass, outmaneuvered Brad Park and split the defence pole of Pat Stapleton and J. C. Tremblay before firing a hard shot past under the crossbar.

Orr, with defencemen Brad Selwood serving a tripping penalty, scored the second after three minutes later, with Paul Henderson getting the assist and Russian power-play goal, with Canadian goalie Gerry Cheevers out of position.

Cheevers was caught after stopping a shot from Yuri Kharlamov on the right side. The puck was sent over to the left and Petrov tapped the puck into the unguarded net.



The Canadians, expected to be weary by the third period, came out skating hard and took three great saves by Tretiak — Serge Bernier, Paul Henderson and Houle — to keep the Russians in the game. Then came the best the Russian goalie got much to the delight of 19,854 partisan fans.

Referee Kompalla of West Germany, who was in charge of three games in the 1972 series, called a hooking penalty to Alexander Bodorev 58 seconds after Hull's goal, but the Canadians couldn't make it pay off.

Kompalla handed out nine minutes after Hull's goal, but the Canadians and was jeered on a few occasions by the crowd, which included Prime Minister Trudeau.

The next game of the eight-game series is scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto at 8 p.m. EDT Thursday. The game will be televised nationally by the CBC.

Canadian coach Billy Harris said he may make some lineup changes, but he wouldn't elaborate.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1974

Now We're All Believers In Harris and Company

How many can stand up today and say: "We told you so"?

Be honest, now.

Didn't you approach last night's Russian-Canada opener with a wait and see attitude?

When the action started, weren't you talking to yourself . . . maybe just a little?

Weren't you bleeding with our skaters to at least keep it close?

And as the drama unfolded and coach Billy Harris' game plan began to take shape, didn't you begin to see that, hey, we were doing alright?

Wasn't it early in the first period that you said to yourself: "Hell, they won't beat us by four tonight."

And just a little later, perhaps it dawned on you that our side was going to make the Russian work for a one or two-goal margin of victory.

Very soon, the realization came that it was anyone's game.

As it turned out, we had enough chances to win it.

In the third period, Vladislav Tretiak the goalie who almost did us in 1972 was up to his old pranks.

Rejean Houle, Bruce MacGregor and Serge Bernier had the Russians at their mercy on separate occasions but the portunities. But each time, Tretiak came up big.

Later, Vasiliev was in goof up the equalizer to Bobby Hull.

Obviously, Hull had preferred not to pay much attention to Tretiak's press clippings. It was the second goal of the game for the Winnipeg Jet star.

And Hull was in on the first Canada goal, attracting a crowd on the right boards in the Russian zone and causing such a stir that a defender directed the puck to Andre Lacroix who relayed to the old bruiser himself, Johnny McKenzie, and it was in the net.

We haven't had the chance to see Bobby in action all that much since he took his hockey talents to the World Hockey Association. But last night, he didn't disappoint us.

Perhaps we may be pardoned by fans in the rest of the country if we consider Hull's performance satisfaction as something special.

It was a great moment for Canada but in Bobby's old stamping ground, it was unbelievable.

SLICES — Round 1 of the Russia - Canada series was lacking to some respects but it had nothing to do with the efforts put forth by the two teams.

Somehow, we think the games rate better play-by-play commentary than CTV's Johnny Esaw is able to deliver. But then, the same network gives us Pat Marsden, for Canadian Football League games and he hasn't got it either.

The timing of at least two of the suds company's commercials was terrible last night. On both occasions, play was underway when the cameras returned to the action.

And what was the viewer treated to while Brad Selwood and a Soviet forward were exchanging pleasantries in the early going? Why an entertaining look at the Canadiens' players' bench, that's what.

Oh, well, the score shifts to Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, Thursday. Could be we'll get some professional coverage from there.

Series leader, Elliott Forbes-Robinson of La Crescenta, California is not only currently challenged by Harry Ingle of Charlotte, North Carolina, a two time series runner-up and current U.S. Super Vee champion, who trails Elliott by 20 points.

Other top contenders will be two drivers who have been competing in the Canadian Formula Atlantic series; Dewey Hobson of Ann Arbor, Michigan, who won the Sebro Rookie of the Year award and Richard Melville from Kingston, Jamaica, a front runner in both series.

Other contenders with wins to their credit this season are Ron Bagley of State College, Penn. and Fred Phillips of Shreveport, Louisiana who is second National Champion. The lead shake will be a very swift driver from Rancho City, Michel Jourdain and the youngest driver in the top ten, Jim Miller from Roanoke, Virginia.

No less or average speed records have yet been set at Mosport Park by the Pro Super Vees, but you can bet on a lap record in excess of 100 mph as the drivers of the nimble 1600 cc VW engine-powered, open-wheeled cars vie for a share of the $10,000 purse.

H&R, Auger's Rained Out

For those Quinte Football League fans who had planned to the Alemite Tuesday night because of the Team Canada-Russia series, or other assorted reasons, you didn't miss anything.

The game between Howard and Auger Men's Wear was cancelled because of the downpour early in the evening. The rain left the field too wet to play on.

However, the best of seven final series will continue Thursday night at 7 at the Alemite. It now stands tied at 1-1.

Tweed Minor Hockey Gears for New Season

TWEED — The annual meeting of the Tweed Minor Hockey Association will be held Thursday, in the council chambers at the village municipal building, at 8 p.m.

In the hope of an early election of officers would make it easier to get the program in operation, the association's steering committee was called in last night.

Two executive meetings have already been held to formulate plans for the anticipated opening of the season, in early October.

"At this stage," says TMHA president Ray Fay, "we are looking for more enthusiastic men and women to assist in coaching and refereeing.

"Ray Crouch is waiting for more volunteers to get his Ontario Hockey Association training course started.

"New ideas on how to make the annual walkathon more successful would be appreciated."

Comments Burton Vance, "The opportunity to learn new techniques in teaching the fundamentals of hockey has never been available in our 18 years' of operation.

"Support also has harbored the opinion that he would like to show us what a good coach he could become, should get in on the ground floor of this new coaching program."

Registration fees and the possibility of organizing additional fund raising projects are on the agenda for Thursday's meeting.

ADDS TO LEAD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Bobby Allison's victory in the Delaware 500 increased Richard Petty's point lead over Cale Yarborough in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Grand National point standings. Sunday's win raised Petty's points total to 3,761,875 and earnings to $232,690 after 25 starts. Yarborough, 39th Sunday, is second in both categories with 3,249,375 points and $203,936.

Two familiar faces on the Belleville Bobcats this year are Al Garrison and goalie, Bruce Clark. Garrison will go through the season equipped with a face guard to protect him against further injury to his left eye. He only played six games last year as a result of his eye injury, but scored 13 goals and added seven assists. Clark and Bob Moore, the Cats' other netminder, are both returning this year and hope to improve on their goals against, average from last year. The goalies had the third best average in the Metro Junior B League in 73-74.

Play Kingston Tonight

Cats Put Together Impressive Lineup

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

The Belleville Bobcats open their exhibition schedule this night at the Memorial Arena at 8:15 with a game against the Kingston Voyageurs.

Kingston is a new club in Metro Junior B League this season and will act as a farm team to the Kingston Canadiens.

The Voyageurs will have to go a long way, though, to beat the Cats tonight. Basically Belleville has the makings of a real contender.

Dave Taylor and Joe Edwards are back from last year to enforce the blue line and rookie Wayne Calberry, a big boy to say the least won't hurt the defensive corps either.

Up the middle the Cats have team captain Rob Foster, a strong two-way hockey player; Jim Richard son, the league's No. 2 scorer last season and the Cats highest, with 29 goals and 37 assists in 43 games, and Al Garrison, providing he doesn't get hurt again.

Garrison could turn up the heat on most of the opposition's goals.

Last season Garrison connected for 13 goals and seven assists in six game before his eye injury. This year he is equipped with a face guard to protect the eye while it is still healing.

Then there's Grant Goegan up front. In six regular games last season he had eight goals. During the playoffs he was the team's second highest scorer with eight goals and 13 assists in 17 games. Goegan was only an associated player last year as was Mike Watt. In 30 games Watt came up with seven goals and 17 assists and established himself as one of the better penalty killers on the squad.

Paul King is also back from last season. King had 19 goals and 16 assists in 38 games scoring. King proved, to be a go-getter and one of the tougher body checkers on the Bobcats had.

Belleville's goalies, Bruce Clark and Bob Moore, both finished with the third lowest goals against average in the league. Both Moore and Clark are back again this year.

What the veterans can't do, the rookies seem to be able to.

First year players such as 19-year-old Jean Doucette who scored 26 goals in 29 games for Pembroke Thunder last year, Scott Samis who came up with three goals in the first exhibition game and another bright spot, and others like John Locke and Bobby Thompson who are always in there digging and pushing potential.

The Cats face off against Kingston tonight and start a new season. Don't be surprised if they don't lose any pre-season games this time around. They lost only five games in 44 during the regular season last year, and this year looks even better.

Fittipaldi and Hulme Team Up at Mosport

Two former World Driving Champions, Emerson Fittipaldi and Denis Hulme, have brought the formula of youth and experience to Team Mosport, placing the pair on the frontrunners on the Grand Prix circuit.

This duo of Fittipaldi and Hulme, who are in third and fourth positions respectively in the Grand Prix standing, will pilot the McLaren-Ford's when they compete in the Labatt's 50 Grand Prix of Canada at Mosport Park, Canada, Sept 20-21-22.

A strike of Brazil' Fittipaldi is the youngest man ever to win the World Driving Championship, capturing the title in-1972. Three points back of leader Clay Regazzoni and two behind Jody Scheckter, with two races remaining, Fittipaldi has a second title within his grasp. Teammate Hulme has accumulated 20 points this season. He is currently in seventh position.

Fittipaldi broke in to the Grand Prix circuit in 1970 with the Lotus team under Colin Chapman, and had his first Grand Prix win that year. Jochen Rindt was killed at Monza. Two years later at the age of 25, he went out Jackie Stewart to become the youngest man ever to win the World Driving Championship. This season Fittipaldi has captured the Brazilian and Belgian Grands Prix, placed second at Britain and Italy, third in Spain and Holland, fourth in Sweden and fifth in the Grand Prix of Monaco.

Quinte League Set to Go

With a full slate of officers and regular season game assignments completed, the Quinte Hockey League is set to open the 1974-75 season with a doubleheader at Memorial Arena, Thursday, October 31.

Back from last season are: Cornerstone Builders, coached by Gord Smith; Belleville Hotel, Frank Fox and Sharon Construction, Gord Sine.

Replacing Reid's Dairy, is a strong entry from the Gas House Hockey League, Belleville Mills Restaurant, coached by Don Putnam.

The new entry has accepted the position of president while secretary-treasurer is Earl Rivers.

Cup Games Scheduled

Bay of Quinte Soccer Association cup games scheduled this week see Trenton Whitley entertain Belleville Rovers in OFB, Trenton, tonight, at Centennial Park at 6:30 p.m. while Charity Cup fixture, and two matches set for Sunday.

Charity Cup action at Cobourg, the home town Tray's, while Trenton Rangers' the group's regular season, hook up with Belleville Cobb Mile Olympics at 5 p.m.

A Trenton Challenge Cup semi-final match also goes Sunday, with Whitley's at Wentworth Insturtion at 2.30 p.m.

High School Soccer Back in Full Swing

Highschool soccer opens another season this afternoon, but it's a far cry from the Centennial at Centennial and tomorrow the defending senior Bay of Quinte champs, Trenton, will be at home to play Quinte at Zwick's Island.

Two new schools have been added to the league this year; Napanee will have a junior team and East Northumberland Secondary School, Brighton, will have both junior and senior squads.

Schools are divided into two conferences, east and west. Each team will play the other five games in its division once during the regular season. The playoff will see a crossover from the east conference with the top team in west playing the second place team in the east and vice versa.

Regular scheduled play ends on October 31 with playoffs set for the following two weeks.

The OSSA championship will be held in Belleville on Saturday, November 9 and Trenton Juniors will be out to defend their central-Ontario crown.

LOU BROCK

Bucs Stymied By Lou Brock

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even when sliced, Lou Brock, St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing whiz, was cut-out for the slyest pitchers in the National League.

Brock got the best of pitcher Jerry Reuss and the Pirates Tuesday night as the Cards beat Pittsburgh 3-2 in the East pennant race.

Brock stretched the Cardinals' lead to 3½ games over Pittsburgh in the East pennant race.

"We did all we could against Brock, but he won," said Reuss, who went the distance. "The only foolproof way to stop him is to keep him off the bases."

Brock opened the 12th with a single and stole second easily. It extended his single-season record to 103 stolen bases and lifted him into second place on the all-time list with 744, one ahead of Eddie Collins who played from 1906-1930, mostly with Philadelphia Athletics.

Ted Simmons sacrificed Brock to third after Reggie Smith was intentionally walked and Ted Sizemore sacrificed to drove in Brock with the winning run.

Brock had tied Collins' mark by stealing second in the 10th inning.

"I was fatigued in the 12th, but I was able to read Reuss' body movements and got a good jump," said Brock.

The all-time stolen base leader is Ty Cobb with 892.

Meanwhile, in the NL West, first-place Los Angeles and runner-up Cincinnati both lost, leaving the Dodgers 3½ games ahead of the Reds. Houston Astros beat the Dodgers 7-0 and San Diego Padres whipped the Reds 6-1.

Chicago Cubs downed Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, Atlanta Braves topped San Francisco Giants 4-3, and the New York Mets at Montreal Expos game was postponed because of wet grounds.

The St. Louis victory was the sixth straight and the Pirates' setback was their sixth in a row.

Bob Gibson held Pittsburgh to five hits over the first nine innings, and relievers Alan Hrabosky allowed no hits in the remaining four innings.

The Pirates scored their only run in the first inning on Al Oliver's homer, but the Cards tied the score in the seventh on a single by Simmons, a balk and an double by Joe Torre.

Houston's Tom Griffin stopped the Dodgers on five hits for his third shutout of the season and 16th victory.

Lee May drove in three Houston runs with his 36th homer and a sacrifice fly, and Doug Rader hit his 17th homer.

San Diego has received a strong pitching—from Bill Grief—in beating Cincinnati and aiding the Reds' pennant hopes. Grief allowed only six hits.

Don Kessinger either drove in or scored all of Chicago's runs. He walked in the first inning and came home on Peter LaCock's double. Then in the fifth, he doubled in two runs and scored on Jose Cardenal's single.

Atlanta's Buzz Capra pitched a seven-hitter for his 15th victory and Marty Perez knocked in the winning run with a seventh-inning single.

Ivan Murrell drove in the Braves' first three runs with a pair of singles. Ron Bryant, the Giants' 24-game winner of 1971, again failed in an attempt for his fourth victory this year. He has lost 15.

STARS GET SMITH

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars have acquired Al Smith, who led the American Basketball Association in assists last season with Denver Nuggets, in return for a high draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash, the club said Tuesday. Smith averaged 8.1 assists a game.

Palmer's Not Out of It Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Palmer found out this season that the Cy Young Award doesn't do anything for a sore arm.

Palmer had it all last season—television commercials, his fourth straight 20-victory season and the hardware that told him he was the best pitcher in the American League.

This season, at best he will have 18 victories. And the appearances he will remember won't be in film studios, but in the offices of orthopedic surgeons.

He spent almost two months on the disabled list with a sore elbow.

Palmer helped salvage some of what is left of this season with a seven-hit shutout Tuesday night, pitching Baltimore Orioles to a 4-0 victory over New York Yankees.

It was a crucial game for the Orioles since a loss would have dropped them 3½ games behind the Yankees in the AL East.

Elsewhere, Detroit Tigers beat Boston Red Sox 5-3, Kansas City Royals edged Oakland A's 3-1, Milwaukee Brewers shaded Cleveland Indians 3-2, Minnesota Twins pummeled Chicago White Sox 8-0, and California Angels-Texas Rangers game was rained out.

Palmer's victory, his seventh in 19 decisions, moved the Orioles within 1½ games of the Yankees.

Elrod Hendricks doubled with one out in the seventh, took third on Mark Belanger's base single when Doc Medich, 18-14, was slow covering first, and got beat infielder Lou Piniella's throw to the plate on Al Bumby's sacrifice fly for the only run Palmer needed.

Paul Blair's three-run homer in the eighth provided a cushion for Palmer.

Kaline's 2,963rd hit sparked a sixth-inning rally which lifted the Tigers to their victory over the Red Sox.

Kaline would like to collect seven more hits before he retires. Then he can join the 3,000-hit club which so far has only 11 members.

Leading off the sixth and with the Tigers trailing 3-2, Kaline singled. Bill Freehan singled and Reggie Sanders sacrificed before Leon Roberts knocked in the tying and go-ahead runs with a single. The loss dropped the Red Sox 9½ games behind the first-place Yankees in the East.

Steve Busby, 10-14, stopped the defending champion A's on three hits. George Brett's run-scoring single in the seventh made Busby a winner over Jim (Catfish) Hunter, 23-12.

Darrell Porter's 15th home run and a pinch single by Bob Hansen produced two seventh-inning runs to tilt the victory in Milwaukee's favor.

Mike Hegan followed Porter's homer with a double. After an intentional walk to Dave May, Hansen's single scored pinch runner Bobby Mitchell.

Vic Albury scattered six hits and Minnesota, helped by a wild pitch and a pair of errors during a six-run first inning, blasted the White Sox.

It was the Twins' ninth triumph in their last 11 games and lifted Albury's record to 7-8. Stan Bahnsen, 11-15, took the loss.

Fog Enshrouds Courageous During Workout in Heavy Going

Plagued by Errors, Aussies Go in 4

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It's difficult to go to a foreign country and take away something that has been there 123 years, Australian Alan Bond said Tuesday after his challenger Southern Cross lost for the fourth straight time in the America's Cup yacht racing series.

"We will be back, however, and you can be sure we'll be tough. We learned a lot, and will learn more."

The American defender, Courageous, weighed Bond's challenger by seven minutes, 18 seconds in the fourth outing of the best-of-seven series and sauntered to the finish line 3 minutes, 19 seconds ahead of the Australian boat.

Courageous' victory margin was the largest of the series. The first three races were decided by 1 minute, 40 seconds; 1 minute, 48 seconds and 2 minutes, 41 seconds.

Bond said he was disappointed that the top trophy in yachting will remain on its pedestal at the New York Yacht Club, but was the worst defeat handed a foreign challenger since Constellation beat the British entry Sovereign by 15 minutes, 49 seconds in 1964.

"It is not easy to say you have been beaten by better men," the 37-year-old Bond said in an explanation of his failure—an effort said to have cost him upwards of $6 million.

"On this occasion I don't necessarily think it's the men. The technology was simply better, and they sailed the defender well.

At the outset of the series on Sept. 14, most agreed that the contenders, Courageous and Southern Cross, were about equal in ball speed. Courageous was given a slight advantage in light wind, Southern Cross the nod in heavy winds and choppy seas.

As it turned out, Courageous' conditions prevailed in the races. But the Aussies were guilty of serious errors in sailing, particularly in tactics and navigation.

Bond admitted as much after losing the initial race by four minutes, 54 seconds.

"We were guilty of human errors," he said. And he tried to correct them by replacing both his navigator and tactician in the second race—and himself taking a winch grinder's job below deck.

The changes didn't help. The Aussies managed to narrow the margin to one minute, 11 seconds in the second race, but in the third outing the advantage climbed to five minutes, 27 seconds and the Aussies knew their cause was hopeless.

Carew Wants Out

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Rod Carew, all-star second baseman of Minnesota Twins, upset over being booed by his home fans, says he wants to be traded by th American League baseball team.

Carew, who is leading the league with a .364 average and has all but clinched a third straight American League batting title, was booed by some of the 4,895 fans at Metropolitan Stadium Monday night, after he dropped a pop fly in the 9th inning. It was his 30th error of the season.

"I'm going to be asked to be traded," Carew said Tuesday. "I'm going to ask Calvin (Twins president Calvin Griffith) to make a deal for me. "Eight years is long enough to spend in one place. I've had it with some of these fans."

Super Ware

"This is what I call a sale.

"We've gained a lot of new customers at Dominion this year. I can tell.
Week after week my deliveries to our stores are increasing.
That's why we're holding a Super Warehouse Sale.
To show our appreciation to our new customers.
Today Dominion has the largest single grocery retail distribution centre in Canada.
For instance, our Ontario Warehouse is bigger than 36 football fields.
That's one reason we can distribute more groceries in one day than any other chain.
And this helps keep costs down.
We appreciate the new customers we've gained.
So we've dedicated our special Super Warehouse Sale to them.
We've carefully selected unusually good values to make this a big saving event.
Compare our special Super Warehouse Sale prices now.
And you'll see. Everybody saves, or my name isn't Gordon."

Riders Aiming To Cut Mistakes

HAMILTON (CP) — In the last 13 years, Saskatchewan Roughriders have won only one football game here.

However, Rider coach John Payne says things like that don't matter.

His team will be out to win tonight when they meet the Tiger-Cats in a Canadian Football League interlocking game, to be televised nationally on the CTV network.

Saskatchewan has lost three of its last four games and is tied with British Columbia for second place in the Western Football Conference. Each has five wins and four losses. One win behind Edmonton Eskimos.

Payne says his team needs to win both games on its eastern tour. The second comes Sunday in Ottawa.

His objective may be difficult to obtain with nine players on the injury list, including running back Pete Watson, defensive cornerback Bob Pearce and wide receiver Steve Mamchak, all of whom showed great promise in earlier games.

Bol Payne is not blaming his team's recent defeats on injuries.

"We're still doing some dumb things," he said after last week's 34-16 defeat by Edmonton Eskimos. "We just have to cut out the mistakes."

Rider fans will be watching to see if Payne makes greater use of backup quarterback Randy Mattingly, the forerunner who took over from Ron Lancaster in the game against Edmonton and led the Riders to two face-saving touchdowns in the last eight minutes of play.

The Ticats, meanwhile, need a victory to move from second place in the Eastern Conference to a tie with Montreal Alouettes.

To help them do that, they have picked up two late National Football League cuts, Al Dennis of Cleveland Browns and Richard Bishop of Cincinnati Bengals.

Dennis will replace Harold Torrell who was dropped as starting guard while Bishop fills in for injured Fred Gramberg at defensive right tackle.

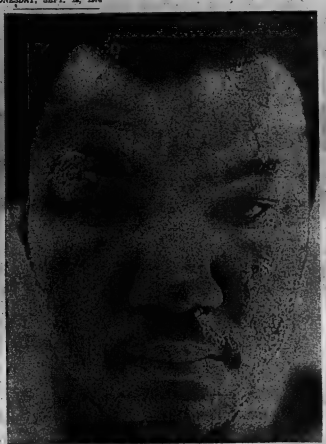
Hamilton also has dropped defensive halfback Harry Abdo in favor of another non-import, Brian Donnelly, a former British Columbia Lions player.

League statistics show Saskatchewan has the best record of any WFC team in interlocking games: 33 wins, 20 losses. But it is doubtful whether that will intimidate the Ticats, who last week drubbed Calgary Stampeders 27-6.

JOHN BLEDSOE

Bombers Beef Up

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers are counting on an improved offence to take some of the pressure off their over-worked defence tonight when they tangle with front-running Edmonton Eskimos in Western Football Conference action.



The Bomber offence, almost non-existent in a 23-3 loss to the Eskimos in Edmonton last week, has been bolstered by the addition of Dave Buchanan and he return to form of fullback John Bledsoe.

Buchanan, the leading rusher when he played for Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1971, replaces Jim Poston who was released last week. Buchanan will start at halfback for Winnipeg in the non-televised game.

Medication Covers Cut Over Right Eye

Foreman and Ali In October Date

KINSHASA (Reuter) — World heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman is expected to show the public and world press today the one-inch-long cut over his eye that has spoiled the greatest sports extravaganza ever.

Foreman's title defence planned for next Wednesday against former champion Mohammad Ali, has been postponed until next month because of the deep cut suffered by the champion during a sparring session Monday.

So far Foreman has stayed out of sight but reporters have pressed his manager Dick Sadler to produce him for pictures and interviews.

Sadler promised to persuade Foreman to meet the press at his training quarters at Nsele, 45 miles from this city.

Both Foreman and Ali were reported to be happy in Africa and would remain here for the extra month before the fight.

Ali is expected to tour Zaire as he continues his training, coming back to the N'sele camp, where the government entertains party officials and overseas visitors, only for the final build up to the fight.

Foreman will keep up his roadwork and body training but it will be a week or two before he can resume sparring. Any unhealed cut or tissue weakness would be too rich a target for Ali's potent left jab.

London promoter John Daly spent most of Tuesday on the telephone to New York trying to complete negotiations for the rescheduled fight.

Flames Sell Stefaniw To Kansas City Entry

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Scouts, a new National Hockey League franchise ready to begin play, has purchased centre Morris Stefaniw from Atlanta Flames, it was announced Tuesday.

Sid Abel, Kansas City general manager, said Stefaniw has already reported to the Scouts' training camp at Fort Huron, Mich.

The 5-foot-11, 176-pounder set an American Hockey League scoring record when he had 36 goals, 71 assists and 101 points training camp.

for Nova Scotia Voyageurs in the 1971-72 season.

He played for Atlanta in 1973-74 and was the first man to score a goal for the Flames.

Financial terms of the purchase were not announced.

In another move, Kansas City suspended Keith Ducksharck, a left winger acquired from Atlanta in the NHL expansion draft.

Abel said he suspended Deadmarsh indefinitely and will fine him for not showing up at the

Tree Frog (See Vol. 20)
Beetle's front hooked to branch like a trapeze artist. Leathery cup-toes keep him from falling off. His voice is more than a croak.

Coral (See Vol. 5)
This marine coelenterate with tentacles, stinging cells and nematocysts. By modifying, they form spectacular reefs, sometimes a thousand miles long.

Hamadryas Rat (See Vol. 9)
Magic Eyes with weak eyes. Follows its leader in single-file. Adapted easy to feed by using his ears. (Omitted by the writers of his species.)

Weaver-bird (See Vol. 21)
Also bell-like and soft notes of a bird. Its nest is perfect to mount by feet. Some females refuse to mate unless the male can build a fine nest. Spending his time right like a young newly-wed.

Koala (See Vol. 10)
Lowland color in Australia, hunted and other fills some mouth like human mouth. Also known as kangaroo, hedgehog and... Teddy Bear.

Foxes (See Vol. 7)
Looks like a wildcat, smells like a skunk. Only fox has long, fast feet bare bones to attach ears.

IN MEMORIAM

BRENNOVA — In loving memory of our dear brother, Ernest Brenno, who passed away September 18th, 1969. He fights a battle and he wins, he loses.

He would no more remain;
Just where the battle sleep,
And there we have no reason,
We too shall fall and die.

We shall not see him die,
We shall not hear his cry,
We shall not hear his voice,
But we shall hear the trumpet sound.

Sadly missed by sister Kay, Ray and Family.

CLARKE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Clarke Smith, who passed away September 18, 1972.

Time has flown by since you left us,
Left us lonely, left us sad,
But memories linger on forever,
Dear Dad.

Wife, Thelma

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to my neighbours for visits, cards and flowers while I was in the hospital. Also thanks to Dr. Ross and Dr. Miller, nurses and staff on the 2nd floor, Belleville General Hospital.

Fred J. McLean

Our sincere thanks to relatives and friends for cards, flowers and kindness shown during the illness and passing of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Percy Dorland. Special thanks to Dr. Hall and Dr. Ross, nurses and staff of the 2nd floor, Belleville General Hospital, for their kindness and care given to our dear husband and father. The late Dorland, Dorland and Family.

With Sincere and Deep Appreciation, Mrs. Ethel Dorland and Family.

A larger three bedroom high ranch bungalow with built-in garage. Lower level is well designed for future family room. Kitchen is shown evening in size. East end acreage.

LET THE BIRDS AWAKEN YOU

What a delightful sound this is! A variety of song birds abound in the setting of this large three bedroom bungalow with family room. There is a main floor ensuite with the master bedroom. There is a fireplace to spread a warm glow over your family room. There is an abundance of cupboards in the kitchen. If you prefer rural living, this is for you.

CAN'T AFFORD TO BUY?

We say you can't afford to wait! All you will get by waiting is higher prices. Maybe the interest rate may come down a bit later? In all likelihood the increased cost will balance it out. We still have some 10% mortgages available.

New Brunswick Plans Early Acadian Village

FREDERICTON (CP) — A New Brunswick government agency is spending $4.3 million to create a village that will run without electricity or petroleum products.

It is not intended as a prototype for the future but as a reminder of the past.

The project is the Acadian village, now being carved out of a three-mile-by-half-mile tract between Caraquet and Grande Anse in northwestern New Brunswick.

It will be the second such village in New Brunswick. King's Landing near Fredericton was created to portray the life of early English-speaking settlers. Acadian Village will do the same for French-speaking settlers.

David Webber, director of historical sites for the province, said there will be some similarities between the two sites but lots of differences.

Among the differences in life-styles that will be depicted are the smaller and simpler homes Acadians lived in compared with the expensive residences of the English who settled around the St. John River valley.

The Acadians made most of their furniture and utensils themselves, while the English tended to import theirs from England.

A strong religious influence was reflected in the Acadian homes and this has also left its mark.

Acadian Village will depict different eras in Acadian life at different areas of the province. The Acadians settled mainly in eastern and northwestern New Brunswick.

Its layout will be a series of isolated developments separated from each other by woods rather than the continuous settlement style at King's Landing.

Mr. Webber said that Acadian Village, when it opens in 1977, will encompass 2,500 acres. There will be 11 major building clusters.

"We've split Acadian Village up so that the buildings come from the old seigneuries of New Brunswick, the old French districts. Basically we're trying to represent each seigniory with a complex."

A church, school, store and tavern are to be included and a fishermen's cluster will be built along the Caraquet River which runs through the site.

Other clusters will show rich and poor in different periods of the 18th and 19th centuries, including a log cabin with land cleared around tree stumps.

The site was chosen because it was once the location for a settlement.

"All the marshes had already been diked, which served as a great deal of trouble. It's the only diked river area we could find that wasn't inhabited, so we weren't putting anyone out of their homes."

Buildings for the village have been found all over the western part of the province. If small enough, they are moved as is to the site. If too big, they are dismantled, brought to the site and put back together.

Old buildings are used because there are no plans available to enable workmen to build accurate replicas.

"We're trying to do three things. We're trying to save what's left. We're trying to put it back into shape so people can see it the way it was and it was reasonably new. And then we're trying to interpret the life of the people who might have lived in that building or in the community of the period.

"We might as well make a movie if we're not going to use the original artifacts and buildings. It's really kind of a living museum."

He said his branch is still looking for articles of the period from 1750 to 1860. It will buy them or accept them as gifts but not on loan.

ONE O'CLOCK AT THE GOTHAM by Rae Foley

Here is a fast-moving, suspense novel of romance and excitement. Jessica Edwards has been warned yesterday by her lawyer, relatives, and friends, that she was not fit to handle money. But as soon as she came into her inheritance in fact a few days before — she secretly married a man about whom back-ground she knew nothing at all. Strange and terrifying things began to happen, danger lurked in a bottle supposed to contain medicine, a man's body hurtled from a hotel window. An exciting climax is reached on the roof of a penthouse high above the street.

HIGH CITADEL by Desmond Bagley

A plane crash in the hills Andes, the surviving passengers embark on a perilous descent only to find they are trapped by a well-armed Communist force, whose target is one particular 7.7.7, and his beautiful niece. The Communists deliriously intend to wipe out the whole party; when they realize this, three of their number ill-equipped and inexperienced in mountaineering, set off on a fearful race to save their companions.

THE MEN THAT GOD MADE MAD by W. A. Swanberg

The day was Easter Monday 1916 when a small group of men defied all the laws of both God the might of England in a bold and doomed attempt to make Ireland free. Daniel O'Dwayer became a martyr and a hero for hadn't he always had all the qualities of a hero except one, said his mother: This 4 penny bun time, nothing had hit him hard. Inevitably the time came when O'Dwayer was put to the test and from that testing came the spark which would burn into fierce and set alight Ireland's next pilgrimage. A magnificent story by a master storyteller.

MIDNIGHT IS A PLACE by Joan Aiken

This latest novel by Joan Aiken is set in Yorkshire during the 19th century and the Industrial Revolution. Local hell is a factory belonging to Mr. Sweet, who lives at Midnight Court, a gloomy mansion with his guardian Sir Randolph, owner of the Midnight Mill and Carpet factory. On the eve of his thirteenth birthday, Sir Randolph brings into his household a French orphan, Lucas, a small, wilful French girl, Anne-Marie Migraine who speaks no English. But her history turns out to be curiously connected with his guardian's carpet factory. When a fire guts Midnight Mansion, leaving Sir Randolph dead, Lukas and Anne-Marie find themselves destitute and friendless and obliged to somehow earn a living in the factory town. Their adventures lead them through the streets and sewers of the town, and finally back to the Midnight Mill and the recovery of at least part of their lost wealth.

THE LONG DARK NIGHT by Harold Rayne.

Wrongly accused of a crime for which he has had to spend eight long years in prison, Boyd Ritchie returns to the small town in New England where it all began. Eight years are long enough to twist Ritchie's mind and mood, to give him time to plan the perfect revenge in Old Testament style. With diabolical precision, he sets off to make Tarkington remember Boyd Ritchie and his "long dark night" with terror and unending horror.

Seeks Money

CHESTER, N.S. (CP) — A campaign to raise $317,000 for additional equipment and to pay operating expenses has been started by Bonny Lea Farm, a school for disadvantaged children and adults. At present there are 37 residents at Bonny Lea Farm.

Record Perfect

PICTON, Ont. (CP) — Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. has announced it received the Duncan Cement Association award for a perfect safety record in 1973. The award consists of a cement block bearing a Greek hero's mask and inscription, Safety Follows Wisdom.

Muscovites Rush To Bay of Joy

MOSCOW (Reuter) — "God don't make the little green apples," the voice of Frank Sinatra wafts across the tiny inlet from a tiny loudspeaker set he wooded hill behind.

Out on the green expanse of water, a dozen supersonic-looking racing yachts tack in the brown and a contingent of sun lotioners burn, one inch high in the air.

A slim, blonde girl in a wide-brimmed hat emerges from the trees, leading an equally blonde child by the hand.

The sun glints on the silver-grey fuselage of a descending airliner and the golden cupola of a small village church glimmers on the opposite bank.

But suddenly the idyll is shattered—Sinatra fades and a shrill woman's voice rings out from the trees, leading an equally blonde child by the hand.

"Grisha, stop vacationing," she admonishes, "we must unload the beach kit and some of your things surrounding the water for swimming and for sunbathing." It is the Bay of Joy, fast becoming the favorite weekend retreat for weary Muscovites.

Part of a system of artificial waterways around the Soviet capital, the huge man-made lake known in Russian as the Bukhta Radosti opens after when the working week is over.

Thousands make a journey of some 20 miles by train to spend their one day resting on the beach, then trek through fields and woods to the water.

Hundreds—and still only hundreds because the motor age is only dawning in the Soviet Union—take the family car for the weekly run through the dusty, narrow country roads to the bay.

A patch of narrow sands at the far park for about 100 yards, and there is little crowding.

There are a couple of single-deck buses, apparently with parties from a factory, and occasionally a raiding party a run from the station among with miles back disgorges a load.

On the beach, reached through a pine wood, children splash and scramble in a fenced-off play area at the edge of the water while anxious mothers call: "Sasha, be careful!" "Masha, not too far!"

Around mid-day the smell of burning charcoal and then of sizzling meat drifts down from the hill—the Kazakh kiosk has started operations.

The ice-cream stand which despite the potential for big sales, stayed locked and shuttered until noon, runs out just after 2 p.m.

"No point in you people standing there," the girl behind the counter shouts to the long line. "There won't be any more." Some children begin to cry.

Back on the beach, three middle-aged women are self-conscious in their red cellophane wrinkly aprons arriving to spread the soup. Apparently the sun violating the rules for swimming and sunbathing, for they quickly move on.

Those elderly and portly women walk down to the water in perpetual, immodest costumes, given the area of flesh they have to cover.

Only one women in the whole beach is wearing what was until recently the favorite Soviet female beach ensemble—bra and pants.

Many men and most young women have gone topless.

There is a sudden chop of thunder, and the light breeze becomes a wind. Rain follows the cones from the gorge.

The "tourists-in-socialists" quickly gather their belongings and head off in the hope of reaching their cars or a minibus, before the rain begins.

But there is no question in sight. Some try to shelter under the trees, but not just as well as the children standing solemnly in the downpour.

As the rain eases slightly, the road is lined with gesticulating drivers, bending over the engines of their cars and looking curiously at the cars as they drive past.

But their weekend, as long as the numbers passes leaving the rain, they will once again head for the Bay of Joy and a day at the beach.

PLAY MAYOO WITH YOHOO

Every year insects and the rain mildly about a fifth of the United States' timber growth and fire annual some five million acres, National Geographic magazine says.

Coal Miners from Britain Recruited by Kaiser in B.C.

SPARWOOD, B.C. (CP) — The work may be slightly bit that's about all for 36 British coal miners who have given up England for the Rocky Mountains and the East Kootenays.

The workers, employed at Kaiser Resources mine here, arrived July 31. They and their families were the first products of an intensive Kaiser recruiting drive aimed at luring qualified miners to a country where workers willing to toil underground are scarce.

With unskilled unemployment for the coal industry, the company is putting a high premium on a stable and qualified labor force. Thus the recruiting drive which has met with success in Yorkshire, Lancashire, Nottingham and other British coal centres.

The miners and their families here showed few regrets at giving up life in their native land.

"The situation in England is that everything's running down," said Keith Fyfth, 30, from Barnsley in Yorkshire. "There's just no opportunity. The standard of living just doesn't compare.

"We never owned a car, nor did anyone else we knew. But here, we'll have that chance."

Maurice and Margaret Nottingham, also from Yorkshire, described the decision to pull up stakes as the product of "a feeling of more to get."

Like the rest of the families, the Nottinghams got the idea to emigrate to Canada from advertisements placed in national British newspapers by Kaiser personnel manager Allan Stewart.

Mr. Stewart said he plans trips to Britain and West Germany this year to seek more miners and tradesmen.

And while many of the miners don't want to discuss the British coal strikes of earlier this year, some make it clear the frustration the strike laid them played a major part in the decisions to come to Canada.

The strike was in its third week when the ads were placed.

"We just were on the spur of the moment," said Nottingham's miner Charles Fanshaw.

"We were fed up, the strike was going on and what with the Irish crooner blowing things up we just decided to leave."

Mr. Hewett said: "We want to see them ask roots, buy some furniture, a house, a car."He conducted interviews in March and April, asking the miners whether they planned to stay in Canada.

"Our average turnover has been a third the per cent a month, which is not bad for the mining industry," he said. "But we'd like to see it lower."

In an effort to make sure the miners stayed around, Kaiser gave each of them a $1,000 loan, forgivable if the miner stayed for 18 months.

The families figure the cost of living here roughly the same as it was in Britain. However, the $4.80 an hour the miners make here is more than twice what they earned in Britain.

"We realize how much work, how much overtime they put in, we just couldn't seem to get ahead," said Jean Small, who emigrated with her husband Roy and their five children.

Mrs. Small added that she's amazed at appliances such as electric dryers and by the fact apartments come equipped with stoves and refrigerators.

The mine where the miners are working uses water and gravity to remove the coal. When production stopped this summer for the annual three-week vacation, the British miners carried out maintenance chores and familiarized themselves with new techniques.

The scale of the operation has been impressive to the new workers.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Maurice Nottingham. "It was written in a five-foot seam into the home and this one's 59 feet wide."

As for the future, the British miners did not foresee any difficulties and said they intended to stay at it.

Keith Fyfth said: "We've been brought up to it. My father and grandfather were miners. I'm not thinking of doing anything else."

Fireworks Training

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Persons wanting to qualify as fireworks supervisors will start training meeting Oct. 1 at Branch 6 of the Royal Canadian Legion. Under revisions of the Canada Explosives Act in 1973, exhibition-type fireworks must be exploded under supervision of qualified persons. The fire department, in co-operation with the department of energy, mines and resources, has planned the course.

Teacher Of The Year

TORONTO (CP) — Clyde VanAtten of Belleville was named Teacher of the Year during a music festival here. He was chosen by the festival based on performances of the people who teaches in the Belleville-Trenton area.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Karras, lukewarm considered and then rejected by ABC-TV as Don Meredith's replacement on ABC's Monday night football panel, finally has got an onair shot at the job.

Although he played a relatively straight and was unusually—for him—restrained in his Monday night tryout, he was immediately better than ABC's first choice, black actor and NFL veteran Fred Williamson.

Williamson, 38, was dropped from the Monday night football broadcast after three pre-season games because he just couldn't back—in the broadcast booth.

Karras, who spent the last two seasons as sort of a free-lance association analyst of televised Canadian Football League games in addition to his acting career, was summoned last Friday to replace Williamson.

Although no final decision has been made on whether Karras will join the show permanently, the 36-year-old former Detroit Lions great seemed to fill the bill in the dispute between Buffalo and Oakland.

Tom Vance, Karras' agent, said no contract for a full-time job has been offered.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—British actor Cyril Richard, 78, whose portrayal of Captain Hook in Peter Pan won him acclaim more than 30 years ago, was released from hospital Friday after treatment for an undisclosed heart ailment. There was no apparent heart damage, a spokesman for the hospital said.

PARIS (AP) — French painter and engraver Andre Dunoyer de Segonzac died Tuesday at the age of 93 after a attack of bronchitis. His works included landscapes, still lifes and portraits.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingrid Bergman says it was she who instigated her torrid romance with Italian director Roberto Rossellini a quarter century ago and it started before she had ever seen him.

Wed the successful Hollywood actress and wife of Dr. Peter Lindstrom, who also was her manager, did was write a letter to Rossellini, she recalls.

"I have seen your films 'Open City and 'Paisan,'" she wrote, "and enjoyed them very much. If you need a Swedish actress who speaks English very well, who has not forgotten her German, who is not very understandable in French and who in Italian knows only 'ti Amo' (I love you), I am ready to come and work with you."

The letter led to a child by Rossellini while she was still married to Lindstrom, a divorce and a second child and marriage to Rossellini which Ricci seven years ago produced two more children.

Miss Bergman has been married since 1958 to Swedish theatrical producer Lars Schmidt, who she describes as "the first man in my life without a big ego.

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope hosted a television special Tuesday in Central Park with Jackie Gleason and Carol Channing in a determined reviews from about 2,000 persons in the vicinity of the cameras.

Camp Grounds To Reopen

MADOC, Ont. (CP) — William Hawthorne, owner of Crystal Beach here, says he plans to reopen the campgrounds only if the park was closed in 1978 because of pollution at Moira Lake. Crystal Beach had several cottages and about 200 camp sites. Mr. Hawthorne said the campground will call for expand and tennis courts and a swimming pool.

Music from the East

A trio of Indian musicians played in concert Tuesday at St. Michael's Academy to introduce the vents to Belleville. An ancient instrument, ancestor of the sitar, the vesna is played by R. K. Satyanarayan (centre) one of India's most famous musicians, now on a tour of Europe and North America. His instrument is over 300 years old and has been handed down in his family for generations. On the drum is G. L. Narayana Rao and Ramthen Mehesan plays the flute. Staff photo. The group is from Madras.

Charlebois Special Offers Variety of Musical Talent

"The show's outrageous. But then, so's Charlebois."

That's how David Aconstas describes the star of his show — Outerpieces With Robert Charlebois. It's a hour-long special music-variety program featuring the Quebec super-singer, scheduled on the CBC-TV network Friday, Sept. 28 at 9 p.m.

For Aconstas, who produced, directed and scripted the upcoming special, Outerpieces is something of a coup. For years Charlebois resisted the overtures of other producers, and finally consented to do his first TV special for Radio-Canada viewers largely because of Aconstas's reputation for creating unique visual effects and studio settings.

But the show promises to have been well worth the wait. Outerpieces is a neatly bilingual musical tour de force that has Quebec's biggest international pop star — a practitioner of jazz, the fractured French-Canadian patois which has helped sell more than 500,000 of his 10 albums over the last five years — all charged up in electricity an Angophile assiduous with six of his high-octane songs, three in French, and three in English, plus an opening that's half-and-half.

Moreover, the pop-singing dynamo carries the senses with his body movements as much as he does with his expressive compositions. During the program's brilliantly-staged 60-minutes you'll see the fitzgerald-inspired, rock-cumin idol prance, twist and shimmy a la Elvis the Pelvis through Hound Dog and Entre Deux Jeints, keep onto the top of a bar during The Greatest Idea, and even dodge a trash act part of the acrobatics — and special effects — accompanying the number Fo Man Cha.

On the same bill, between Charlebois' whirlwind performances, are people like Rideau, a top Bagdatad from Lima, Peru, whose legerdemain includes hatching a canary from a hen's bottle followed by a dazzling display of levitation (he suspends a girl in mid-air on the handle of a curling broom); no language problem there).

There's also Les Quiches mall, a four-man South American group playing Andean music on curious instruments like a 15-string, armadillo shell ukelele, panpipes, and a from maker from a hollowed tree trunk. Plus Quebec folk fiddler Philippe Gagnon, and a vocal group called Mouth who mime different instruments.

Set designer Val Stravoren and costumer Calla Martel rate top marks for their contributions. And to ensure that the show sounds as good as it looks, it has a mix of 34 separate sound tracks, a practice rare in Canadian television.

Terrorism Subject Of New Quebec Films

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Terrorism in Quebec was the subject of two films — one a documentary and the other fictional — shown Monday as part of a Canadian film-makers' day at the Stratford film festival.

The documentary, called Action: The October Crisis of 1970, was given its world premiere. The 67-minute film was directed by Toronto-born Robin Spry and produced by the National Film Board of Canada's Montreal studio.

It compiled mainly from film and video-tape news footage along with voice-over commentary written by Mr. Spry. The film is an account of the kidnappings of Pierre Laporte, then Quebec labor minister, and British diplomat James Cross.

The fictional film, called Les Ordres, the work of Montreal writer-director Jean Claude Lord. Monday was its first English-language showing.

The film concerns a young man's increasing involvement with terrorists who want to disrupt a coming provincial election.

Completing the program Monday night was a feature-length history of Canadian film-making, called Dreamland.

It covers Canada's film-making from 1896 to 1930, using clips from many of the oldest and early talking movies produced here, by or about Canadians. Humorous commentary was written by director Donald Brittain of Ottawa.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, September 19

Aries (March 21-April 19) Someone who thinks highly of you will prove the degree of their feelings with something far more concrete than praise.

Taurus (April 20-May 7) Consider all the ensuing aspects of a decision you'll be making. Look, too, at the hopeful and happy side before deciding.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You're going to find that a situation you haven't taken seriously has advantages worthy of pursuing.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) One you have known for some time but not as well as you think will show you she has a greater depth of character than you expected.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You're more on the receiving end than the giving end, now. Don't wince. What you'll get will be worth having.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may not know what to do with a good idea you have. An older friend of yours does. Talk it over in detail.

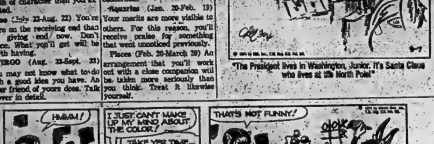
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You should do very well in commercial matters or business situations the next couple of days, especially if someone older is involved.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A friend of yours is going to need your strong shoulder to lean on for something she's too timid to pursue alone. You'll benefit as well.

Sagittarian (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Over the next few days you'll be surprised at how easy it is to get others to do you favors.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The way you'll handle a delicate situation involving you and two close friends will please all concerned.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your merits are more visible to others. For this reason, you'll receive praise for something that went unnoticed previously.



Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) An arrangement that you'll work out with a close companion will be taken more seriously than you think. Treat it likewise yourself.

Toronto Bread Prices Raised

TORONTO (CP) — Major bakeries here announced Tuesday that bread prices are being increased in Metropolitan Toronto.

The retail price of a standard 24-ounce loaf is going up three cents to 45 cents, with corresponding increases in other loaves.

General Bakeries Ltd.'s bread went up in price Tuesday, while others were to take today and Monday.

Peter Wygaert, General Bakeries president, said the three cent increase likely will be the last major price rise for some time. The industry's two biggest costs have been made stable, he said—sugar, by union contracts and flour, by government controls imposed a year ago.

Mr. Wygaert said wage costs accounted for more than half the latest increase since his company's expected eight-per-cent increase in contracts that took effect in the summer were closer to 15 per cent when negotiated.

The rest of the increase covers packaging materials and ingredients, particularly sugar which has increased 400 per cent since February.

If Only Sicily Was Stormont Davis Would Be Easy Victor

TERMINI IMERESE, Italy (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis got the kind of reception the politicians dream about when he visited this Sicilian town of 24,000 Tuesday.

"If this was only Stormont," a Davis aide said wistfully as the premier was cheered by almost 2,000 Sicilians on the first full day of his official visit to Sicily and Italy.

The aide was referring to the eastern Ontario riding of Stormont where the premier has called an Oct. 17 byelection. The byelection was called to find a replacement for former labor minister Fern Guindon who resigned in June and ran unsuccessfully in the July federal election.

Organizers of the Davis trip and local dignitaries heralded the premier's visit by posting signs throughout the town two weeks before his arrival.

About 18,000 natives of Termini now live in Ontario, and many of their relatives took time off work to greet the premier when he arrived in the town square.

Davis planted a maple tree in the town park as a symbol of friendship between Ontario and the town.

Ontario's ministry of natural resources did not think an Ontario maple would thrive in the humid Sicilian climate so a stunted green maple was purchased from a Palermo nursery. The 15-foot tree cost about $12.

Terrorist lnnerves in 24 miles east of Palermo.

The ceremonies were also to include renaming one of the town's main streets Ontario, but Mayor Francesco Candiloro explained that town council does not meet in the summer and therefore couldn't pass the by-law necessary for the renaming. The street will be renamed in October.

In a speech from the town hall balcony, Davis said his visit was to show "how much we appreciate the contribution people from Sicily and Italy have made to our country and our province."

Later, Davis was almost mobbed by citizens when he toured the 16th-century cathedral, and scuffles broke out in the ground when he attempted to pass out small Ontario flags.

At a luncheon, socialist opposition leader Antonio Fazo joked with Davis about a set of cufflinks presented to Mayor Candiloro.

Amold laughter, the premier promptly presented a set to Fazo, "just to show we treat the opposition fairly."

At the luncheon, Tony Fusco, a Toronto businessman who helped organize the visit, thanked the regional officials on behalf of Italian-Canadians for their welcome of Davis.

The premier, who landed in Rome Monday, will spend two weeks on a 1,600 mile journey through Italy.

Renaude Lapointe Is Senate Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — The morning after she was asked to be Senate Speaker, Renaude Lapointe telephoned the prime minister's office to say she would not do it.

"But he was not there, he had left for Vancouver," the new Speaker said in an interview Tuesday.

"I had time to think about it and when he came back he called me himself. We discussed the problems and finally I said I can try."

The diminutive 62-year-old Liberal senator from Quebec, appointed speaker Monday, said she has always had such self-doubts.

"All my life, since I was a humble stenographer in a lawyer's office in Quebec, I said I could not do the job and stayed there 4½ years."

When she was 27, the French-speaking daughter of Ulysse Gosselin had to be coaxed into her first newspaper job with Le Soleil in Quebec City.

"I tried it and I stayed in the profession for 31 years."

It was the same story in 1970 when Miss Lapointe was asked to serve on the Canadian delegation to the United Nations where she stayed for three sessions. At the time, she had just left the newspaper business to take a job in the Indian affairs department.

But her protests that she couldn't speak in public were disregarded. "They said I had, so go in a few days and it was not as bad as I thought."

During these years she taught herself English.

In November, 1971, Miss Lapointe was appointed to the 13-seat Senate.

"When I first arrived in Ottawa my ambition was to find an apartment with a view of the Parliament Buildings. I never thought I would be inside."

Senator Lapointe anticipates that the new Parliament will be busier for the Senate than the 29th Parliament, when a minority Liberal government was in power.

"Perhaps it will be more quick-paced because there will not be as powerful an opposition."

Insurance Indexing Plan Being Sought

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Life Insurance Association is looking for an indexing system to protect insurance buyers from the effects of inflation, but it's going to take some time to find a solution, says association president Rob Dowsett of Toronto.

He told a news conference Tuesday that the association is studying the problem but solutions appear to be both expensive and complicated. Some companies are beginning to build riders against inflation into policies now, but an industry-wide solution appears a long way off.

Council Besieged

Angry Mohawks Turn Back OPP

By HARRY HOLMAN
Staff Reporter

TYENDINAGA — Agitators armed with makeshift clubs responsible for stirred tensions among the Quinte Mohawks, Chief William Brant charged here Wednesday night.

He made the claim after controversy on the reserve shimmied in a fractious demonstration that:

— Saw the chief run down a call for resignation of the reserve's elected council.

— Saw demonstrators to confine the council in an attempt to force its resignation;

— Brought provincial police swarming to the Mohawk's community centre, only to have dogs slammed and barricaded against them.

Stemming from controversy over an Indian-owned industrial corporation, it was the first show of militant protest here in "modern" times. It brought a warning to council that its stand in the dispute threatened the peace of the reserve.

"If your actions you're going to create violence here — and who should we fight among ourselves?" demanded Wes Bandy, spokesman for the protesters.

"This is just short of violence. So he also told Chief Brant and the council: "And I'm blaming the government of Canada, the department of Indian Affairs and you."

But later, Chief Brant blamed the dispute on fears among some reserve residents that the controversial corporation would cripple them to taxation.

"There is a group of people here that have been misinformed and we have had the provincial agitators stirring them up," he said.

"I have spoken to a few already that have changed their minds and they feel they have been used," he said.

His comments came nearly four hours after the council sat down to its regular twice-monthly meeting with protagonists crowded into the small council chamber.

Mrs. Hardy presented council with a petition demanding its resignation and calling for an election in 45 days.

Chief Miracle, a member of council who has been a spokesman for the protest group, told fellow councillors that any business conducted after presentation of the petition was void.

Resignation papers were handed the councillors who refused to sign.

Chief Brant said council would not be intimidated.

"We have been asked to resign and we have absolutely no grounds for it," he told the demonstrators. The department of Indian affairs has not in any way asked us to leave our posts and we see no reason to, at this time."

Council attempted to carry on with its scheduled business, but the insistence mounted.

About 50 demonstrators of all ages, some carrying placards, crowded into the small 15 x 30 foot room. Massed around the council table, they barraged councillors with questions and criticisms. The chief and council frequently interrupted their business session to reply.

The exchange lasted more than two hours — and then the demonstration peaked.

As council adjourned the crowd closed ranks. Chief Brant, the councillors and council officials were prevented from leaving the room. There was some shoving and pushing. Then Richard Brant, chief constable of the reserve's three-man police force, signalled to a provincial police officer outside the room.

Provincial police, who had been regrouped in a standby near the community centre by the reserve police chief, appeared on the scene and headed for the council chamber.

The crowd slammed the doors against them, then rushed up a table and desk to reinforce the barred entrances.

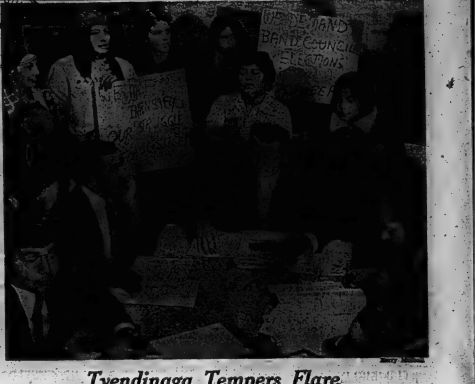
The situation remained at impasse when — after about a half-hour, Earl Hill, chief for eight years until his defeat by Chief Brant in last year's election, was admitted to the crowded, smoke-filled room.

Mr. Hill asked the crowd to permit the councillors to leave.

"We're not that type of people," he appealed to the demonstrators. "Let's act with common sense. We can't hold people here against their will."

Someone suggested the provincial police leave the reserve and the doors would be opened. The message was passed to the OPP by Chief Constable Brant, and within minutes the officers — about 18 men — left the scene.

The crowd then broke up and left — many of their coffee at the reserve's recreation centre.



The events climaxed weeks of controversy evoked by formation of Tyendinaga Mohawk Ltd. — a corporation which recently concluded a contract with Reta Footwear. About 25 women now are being trained by the corporation to produce shoes for the Bata.

But, opponents say the corporation sets a precedent which could open the reserve to unrestricted commercial intrusions. As an Indian-owned corporation it is subject to taxation and also provincial and municipal laws.

Reserves are tax-free, and governed by the federal Indian Act.

As a council-owned project, the corporation was turned down by the Tyendinaga Land Claims Commission. The corporation was then formed as a private company. Councillor Carl Brant and his two brothers are the directors.

This led to charges of conflict of interest Wednesday night against the councillor, which he has earlier denied.

Tyendinaga Tempers Flare

Tyendinaga Band councillors were held against their will Wednesday as protestors called for council's resignation and barricaded the doors. Only after an appeal by former chief Earl Hill did militants allow council members to leave. Councillors all refused to resign and a petition calling for an election within the next 45 days was rejected.

Gas Cheaper

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent gasoline stations in the United States are dropping pump prices as a result of a price gallon, cutting into sales of many higher-priced, major-brand dealers, an Associated Press survey shows.

Industry gasoline supply figures indicate that there is more of the fuel in stock this year than the same time last year, but demand is holding about even, creating a surplus. It means that the major companies are having trouble selling all their gasoline through their own outlets.

Diet Sound as Dollar, That Shakes Him Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Former police minister John Diefenbaker celebrated his 79th birthday Wednesday and chortled over a telegram which said:

"A 100 years was the war of the event; that was about compared to you and Moses."

Dozens of people, many of them House of Commons employees, filed into Mr. Diefenbaker's office to congratulate him and shake hands with Mrs. Diefenbaker, who is recovering from major surgery.

"I feel so much better than I did," said Mrs. Diefenbaker, at one point as the visitors, queued up outside, filed her health.

"And I've never felt better," said her husband. "The only bad news I had recently was when I had a medical check-up and the doctors said, 'you're as sound as a dollar.'

"That distressed me to no end."

Surgery Separates 13-month-old Twins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Separated by surgery which took 6½ hours, stainless twin girls from the Dominican Republic slept in separate cribs for the first time in their 13 months of life.

"I know of no reason why they won't live," Dr. C. Everett Koop said after the long operation carried out Wednesday by 23 surgeons and nurses at Children's Hospital.

"They were two healthy little girls together and we have every reason to believe they'll be two healthy little girls apart," said Dr. Koop, who headed the surgical team.

He said not only are both girls expected to live, but that they should lead normal lives and even bear their own children.

Clara and Allagracia Rodriguez, who had been joined since birth at the pelvis and abdomen, were given their own complete sets of internal organs during the surgical operation.

In the initial recovery stage, Clara and Allagracia were placed in two beds, but they will be treated in the same bed later to prevent possible psychological trauma resulting from separation after living as one being for so long, hospital spokesman Shirley Sonnem said.

Waiting Ocean Ships Resume Their Trips

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Forty-three ocean vessels that had been waiting in the Lake Ontario entrance to the Welland Canal — some as long as a week — have resumed their up-bound voyages after an interim agreement was reached Wednesday ending a pilots' dispute.

The 54 pilots, members of the Corporation of Great Lakes Pilots, voted to end their boycott of upbound traffic, but Capt. Ross King, president of the union, emphasized the agreement is only an interim one that will last until the end of the current shipping season.

The Canadian pilots have been angered by what they feel is a violation of a 1961 international agreement that says pilotage in the international waters of the St. Lawrence Seaway should be shared equally by both Canadian and United States pilots.

The Canadian pilots contend that for the last five years, their American counterparts have been taking more and more of the traffic.

Retroactive Rate Increase For Aged Enrages Newman

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Des Newman Wednesday criticized a provincial government decision to increase rates in government-assisted homes for the aged by $4 a day, retroactive to April 1.

Mr. Newman, chairman of the municipal-liaison committee (Ontario), told Durham region council that the move might cost some residents an additional $700 for retroactive charges.

Jewish Schools May Receive Tax Support

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Ontario government is taking tentative steps to provide tax support to private Jewish schools in Metropolitan Toronto.

The newspaper quotes unnamed education sources as saying government officials have encouraged Jewish educationists to affiliate with a local board of education so that their more than 3,000 students will qualify for provincial grants and local property tax support.

The Globe said Monday the borough of North York board of education will deal with a formal request for affiliation Monday. It quotes the education sources as saying confidential talks have been going on since early August with North York senior staff and a handful of trustees.

Margaret Recovering From Emotional Stress

MONTREAL (CP) — "I'm under psychiatric care for severe emotional stress but I think I'm on my way to recovery," a subdued Margaret Trudeau said Wednesday outside Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital.

Escorted by her husband the prime minister, who visited her for a few hours during the day, Mrs. Trudeau looked frail and drawn during the brief news conference.

Mrs. Trudeau, 28, admitted to the hospital 18 days ago, said she did not know how long she would remain under care although she said she expects to "recover soon."

Prime Minister Trudeau spent more than two hours with his wife and, hospital officials said, the couple took a stroll in the hospital gardens before meeting the press.

Mr. Trudeau refused to comment on his wife's condition saying "it's in her press conference" although he told one hospital official earlier that "the press has no business here."

Mrs. Trudeau, who married the prime minister in March 1971, spent long hours working and drawn during the July federal election campaign, doing some personal campaigning in her native province of British Columbia.

In early August she made a brief private visit to Paris and later spent some time vacationing with her husband and two young sons at their summer residence outside Ottawa.

Montreal Transit Strike Is Settled

QUEBEC (CP) — Representatives of Montreal's striking garage and maintenance workers and the city's transit commission came to terms early today in negotiations aimed at ending the city's transit strike, now in its 66th day.

The agreement, which must be ratified by union members, averts special legislation by the national assembly planned for later today. The strikers were scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. EDT today to vote on the proposed settlement.

A spokesman for the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission (MUCTC) said, however, there will be no bus service again today despite the tentative agreement. He said service may resume following the meeting.

But even if the settlement is accepted by the 1,600 garage and maintenance workers, who went on strike Aug. 7, the subway will not start functioning again for at least 24 hours, a spokesman for the commission said.

Premier Robert Bourassa announced late Wednesday that "agreement in principle" had been reached, although details remained to be settled in the overnight meeting.

The government had planned to introduce legislation Wednesday afternoon to force a return to work, but the national assembly was adjourned until today once there appeared hope of a settlement without government intervention.

Reeve Seeks Re-election

PICTON — Picton reeve Ross Cronkwright announced Wednesday that he will seek re-election this fall.

Elected as a councillor in 1970, he served a two-year term then again ran for office, this time as deputy-reeve. Successful in the 1972 election, deputy-reeve Cronkwright became reeve in January, 1974, following the death of Picton mayor H. J. McFarland.

Reeve James Bird, elected in 1972, stepped up to fill the mayor's office while deputy-reeve Cronkwright advanced to the reeveship.

Adult Courses Outlined

The Hasting-Prince Edward separate school board has announced the annual adult education program for 1974-75.

This year the program will be split into two parts. The series of lectures will be given in October and the second next spring.

Part one will be held on each of the five Wednesdays in October, beginning Oct. 2, at 8 p.m. in Nicholson Catholic College.

Rev. A. Mikolashay, professor at Regis College, Toronto, will give the first three lectures on reconciliation and the anointing of the sick. This will be followed by two lectures by Rev. D. Belyea, professor at St. Michael's College, on the question of suffering and its meaning for Christians today in light of scriptural insights.

In the spring, the second part of the series will consist five lectures by Rev. Ray Corriveau, professor at St. Augustine's Seminary on morality.

Driver Fined

Township Honors Town Hall

AMELIASBURGH — Ameliasburgh residents will celebrate the centennial of their township hall, Friday, Sept. 20, with a variety night and a street dance.

In 1874, municipal council tabled a building plan and specifications for a stone building to measure 40 by 32 feet. Lots 29 to 32 were bought from David Coleman. The building was completed by February, 1875, and a caretaker hired at an annual salary of $20.

Included in the hall's basement is a lock-up with a three-inch thick wooden door. The room measures 20 by 15 feet and has one barred window.

This facility is not believed to have been used more than once.

Friday night's centennial celebrations at the township hall will begin at 8 p.m. with a two-hour variety show followed by dancing.

She was the sister of Mrs. Barbara Tilley, Mrs. Vera Stabler, Mrs. Patricia Faiers, Stanley, Arthur, Raymond, Leland, and Gary, all of Peterborough, John of Winnipeg, and the late Weldon Fine.

Walk-a-thon Planned For New Arena Seats

FRANKFORD — Dr. McMullen Recreation Centre here will have 500 seats installed in its arena if the Saturday's walk-a-thon proves a success.

And with walkers with the perseverance of 53-year-old Don Morrison of Frankford, the estimated $13,000 price tag will at least be handsomely approached.

Mr. Morrison will be walking the 30-mile route with an approximate 300 backers. All 300 have sponsored him for a total of close to $1,000, a fifth of the cost of the new seats.

But that's not all. Mr. Morrison said Wednesday. He expects to hear from several other possible sponsors, and hopes the $3,000 figure will grow.

Welkers, set to start at Frankford's arena at 8 a.m. Saturday, will march south to Trenton, to New Development Rd., north to Wooler and back to the village.

A month of sponsor hunting will then end for Mr. Morrison, who says his wife thinks him "a passing thing" while he looked for sponsors, he was away from home so often.

Motorist Hits Posts

MADOC — A Montreal man has been charged with careless driving following an accident at 7 a.m. when a car went out of control and took out 26 guideposts.

Police said Ronald Anthony Rachman was travelling on Highway 7, less than a mile west of the Lennox and Addington - Hastings county line when the accident occurred. Damage to the car was estimated at $500.

Two cars sideswiped each other in the 5th concession of Huntingdon Township, two miles from Highway 62, at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Damage to a car driven by Barbara J. Sararas of RR1, Thomasburgh was $100 and $600 to the car driven by Gilbert E. Trumpeter of Pennsylvania.

Merchants Argue Merits of Bylaw

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Town merchants, both individually and through their association have condemned council for the seven months of a bylaw that permits K-Mart, a large department store tenant of the proposed east-end mall, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. store hours.

However, reaction is either muted or unobtainable to a proposal bylaw that would allow all merchants to operate similar hours six days a week, as informal survey of downtown merchants revealed this week.

Several managers of chain stores declined comment when asked if their branches intended to keep longer hours if the proposed bylaw passes.

Policy, said one clothing store manager, is dictated by head office. Whatever is prescribed will followed, he indicated.

Individual downtown retailers are not united in their desire to remain open till 10 p.m. thereby offering more competition to a new K-Mart store.

One hardware store owner said he would remain open longer only if he absolutely had to.

Longer hours would add turnover to the 60 hours he already puts in a week, he said. Overhead costs, such as hydro and heating bills and salaries of addition staff, would make longer hours prohibitive, he said.

Salvation for this small downtown store would be in the specialized more personal service, he felt. Canadian Tire or a K-Mart store would offer house-brand harmones, whereas he sells only brand-name tools that many prefer.

"We also get a lot of people in here who don't know what they want or need for a job," he added. "We give them individual service, the large store's don't."

Any new bylaw would affect his operation little, he said, but felt that the K-Mart bylaw, passed in August, is objectionable.

He referred the words of Trenton Retail Merchant Association president Lloyd Wells, who objected to town council succumbing to the dictates of a large out-of-town department store: "It was passed without anyone knowing about it."

Mona Brubaker, co-owner of Brubaker Jewellers, added similar comments saying the way it was rushed through is "unfair" to downtown merchants.

"Dr. Born (town councillor) has the right idea that the bylaw was rushed through. No one asked us — What do you think", she said.

What council's action did do, she said, was bring downtown merchants together, something that will likely be of benefit in future years.

Migrant Family Missing

WAUPOOS — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is searching for a family of migrant workers who disappeared Tuesday without notice from the farm of their employer, Ross VanVlack of RR 4, Picton.

After the family's departure Mr. VanVlack reported approximately $225 of missing property. Items missing included a hot plate, a girl's bicycle and other portable objects.

The workers, a father and his three teen-aged children had worked for Mr. VanVlack for about a week. They are believed to be from South Carolina.

Chemical Speeds Up Crop Maturing Time

PICTON — Prince Edward County farmers this year are employing a chemical growth regulator to win the annual race with Jack Frost in tomato fields.

Richard Hendry, resident agricultural representative with the offices of the ministry of agriculture and food here, says the regulator called Ethryl, replaces hormones and speeds ripening in the fruit. A number of county farmers this season are working with it.

By spraying their tomato fields with Ethryl, farmers can accelerate the ripening process. At this time of year it takes approximately 10 days for the growth regulator to color the yield.

Cost of using Ethryl is approximately $42 an acre says Mr. Hendry. Although the initial output is expensive, it is offset by money saved through preservation of the tomato crop yield. Fruit that normally would have been nipped by frost can be harvested, fully ripened, before colder weather arrives.

Although Ethryl was introduced about four years ago it is only in recent months that Prince Edward farmers have begun significant usage of this growth regulator.

Mr. Hendry notes the summer weather was slow for natural ripening and lacked the heat required to ripen tobacco, sweet corn and field corn.

He says that, in 1973, figures show more than 1,300 acres of processing tomatoes in Prince Edward and 80 acres of fresh market tomatoes. New figures for 1974 are not yet available.

Farm Raided

WARKWORTH — A 22-year-old RR 4 Warkworth man, Solomon Junior Stucky, was charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking following an OPP and RCMP narcotics squad raid on a Percy Township farm a mile east of here Wednesday.

Campbellford Provincial Police estimate the seizure has a street value between $10,000 and $20,000.

Campbellford Provincial Police acted on a tip received from an undisclosed source.

Upon search of the farm police said they discovered fully-grown plants hanging from the loft in the barn drying. Also, plastic garbage bags also were uncovered, full of processed marijuana, authorities said.

A Peach of an Apple

New Apples Described As Scab-resistant

SMITHFIELD — The newest apple celebrity to come out of the Smithfield experimental farm here is Macfree, a variety that is free of one of growers' worst enemies — apple scab.

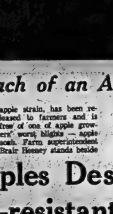
The last Smithfield success was the Quinte, a cross between Crimson Beauty and Red Melba that is an extremely early ripening fruit. It can be harvesting in late July or early August.

Blair Heeney, superintendent of the Smithfield farm, has just returned from a tour of research stations in Britain, and reports that the Quinte strain has been well received in Europe, especially in the Soviet Union and Finland.

Although the Macfree is technically described as "scab-resistant" it is actually scab-free, to Mr. Heeney says. It bears well and matures during the second week of October.

Malus floribunda, a berry-size wild Asian apple, was discovered to be scab-free and is the basis of the new strain. It has been crossed with McIntosh, Jonathan and Rome Beauty.

Both Quinte and Macfree apples have good red coloring. Quinte is a good quality eating apple, but storage is a problem. What recommends it to growers is its earliness.

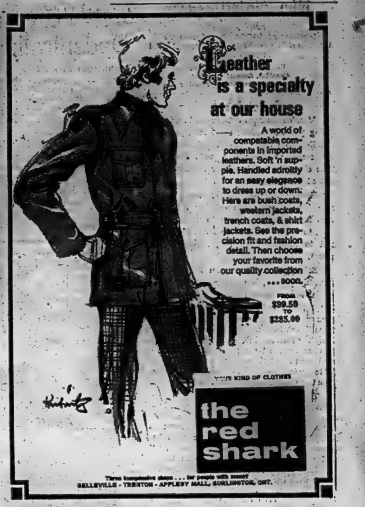


Macfree, maturing much later fills another spot in the growers' calendar and it is more versatile apple than Quinte.

Quinte-size growers had a chance to see the new strain — which has been released to growers — and other varieties during the farm's annual apple tour Wednesday.

Also on display were newly developed machinery, chemicals and planting techniques.

Later, at a meeting of the Quinte Branch of the Ontario Institute of Agrologists heard Robert Eadie, MPP Middlesex South, parliamentary assistant to provincial agriculture minister William Stewart, describe the 20 marketing products of the province under the Farm Products Marketing Act.



Honored at the meeting was Morley Webster, of Brighton, now retired but a veteran of the Smithfield Farm. Mr. Webster was presented with one of 100 medals struck to mark the centennial of the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph for his "significant contribution to agriculture in Ontario." The presentation was made by Dean C.M. Switzer of the college.

Lunch Break

Mrs. Wilma Adams has raised an interesting point regarding rural students going to Belleville Collegiate's 70-minute lunch break and the 20-minute wait from the time classes are finished for the day until buses leave for home.

However she does not have a very strong case for changing the existing schedule. This is geared principally to urban students, to enable them to go home for lunch and to permit counselling sessions after school.

Briefly, Mrs. Adams, an Ameliasburg township parent, is worried about the potential for mischief among those who are temporarily at a loose end. But these youngsters must eat too, either in town or some place where they can eat a box lunch. Similarly the kids need a break from the school grind and environment; but they would surely have to be both dexterous and purposeful to achieve much in 70 minutes that veers from the straight-and-narrow.

This is not to say that nothing untoward occurs, difficult as it may seem, but it is begging the question: what can be done short perhaps of reducing the lunch hour to 56 minutes? If the youngsters cannot be trusted to conduct themselves properly, or find something profitable to do in these free time periods, then there is something wrong with the society itself.

The Killers

That Northern Ireland is not yet done with terrorism and political assassination is the tragic conclusion to be reached in the wake of the slaying of two members of the judiciary — Roman Catholics accused with the Orwellian label of terrorists, of "collaborating with the British."

If we have come to expect this form of madness from Ulster's own peculiar brand of thuggery, it is more startling when similar mayhem emanates from Ottawa.

Ottawa may be something of a backwater, in a geographical sense at least, where capital cities are concerned, but every now and again it exhibits the sort of violence that is connected to the big cities of the world. Assassination-style killings are the ultimate of the crimes of passion.

There have been a number of shooting incidents in Ottawa in the past week or two, the most serious one in which a 39-year-old man was shot four times as he parked his car in the basement garage of an apartment block. Despite his wounds the man was able to get to the elevator and his apartment and call police.

A police inspector, observing that he was not prepared to say whether it was a gangland shooting — he said it might have been a "straight grudge" — went on to make an interesting point. Violence on television and in the movies (he cited the current "Death Wish" to which we referred recently) "really plays on the imaginations of some criminals."

In the U.S., where television stations daily advertise such films at local drive-ins and movie theatres, this is understandable. But although it is less so, but given the Ottawa experience who knows if it will not feature more prominently, and tragically, in the future.

Youngsters Die

Highway 17 is one of the more notorious of the trunk routes from a traffic hazard standpoint. And it is all the more disturbing to learn of the death of two kindergarten children, as well as the woman driver, in collision with a truck east of Sudbury.

Other children, as well as the truck driver, were injured. So early in the school year makes this fatality all the more a matter of concern to all. The whole question of traffic accidents, of which this is but one more misfortune, is of grave import. It demands some sort of increased counter action, by drivers in the first instance, as well as by Government.

One more point about the crash itself. The schoolbus was a small yellow van and the subject of seatbelts was raised in the afternoon's inquest into coroner, Dr. J. A. Pidutti. He said he did not know if the children were wearing belts, but suggested they probably should have been.

A Formidable Task

Decentralization of Bureaucracy Is Chretien's Objective

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Decentralization of the federal government's huge and still largely concentrated administrative apparatus has been big in talk but still remains little in action.

The idea is to spread around some of those Ottawa economic goodies — jobs, fiat fat and stable payroll, and that built-in prosperity it generates — all slowly centered in the cozily comfortable National Capital.

After all, the whole country chips in with taxes to keep the administrative wheels turning, so why should not it get a fairer share of the pay-out?

It should, of course, and that is what the Cabinet, individually and collectively, keeps saying.

Almost all members of Parliament — except those representing the National Capital area — are for it.

And the Prime Minister on rare occasions gives the idea symbolic support with talk of having Cabinet meet off and away from Parliament Hill.

But apart from a token shift of a branch of the Mint to Winnipeg — a big deal, maybe, for Defence Minister Richardson, but really pretty small job and payroll problems — nothing much happens.

Now, though, things could be different, with a new man in Treasury Board, hard-nosed Jean Chretien, a young Cabinet hot shot who talks about decentralization and spends like he means it.

Things could be different, too, because Chretien made decentralization more than a nice-sounding statement of good intentions.

For when he was Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs — before taking over as Treasury Board President — he lifted an entire division out of his department headquarters establishment in Ottawa and set it down in Yellowknife.

As Treasury Board boss he has a lot to say about the public service. And a lot of power.

He is warning public servants and their unions that they "could find themselves transferring east and west in the new, supercentral civil services from Ottawa."

He sees these shifts in what he calls "human cities."

He explains: "To decentralize from Ottawa to Toronto or Montreal is no decentralization at all. Only a guy who is a director in Ottawa (with a salary in the $35,000 to $25,000 range) and a divisional supporting staff to go with it, could have a very nice life in, say, Chicoutimi" — or Moncton, Amherst, Campbellton, Brandon-Neepawa, and the like.

Jean Chretien has been around long enough (he's 39 years) to know that, unless pushed, the public service can move with all the speed of a glacier.

He figures to do some shoving.

The way it is, he says, "the deputy wants to be close to the minister, and the minister's deputy wants to be close to the deputy and if the whole department follows the pattern, they all stay put in the same building on the same street here in Ottawa.

He concedes it is not going to be easy to break this public service habit of togetherness.

But it could be harder than he thinks.

Already ask Regional Economic Expansion Minister Don Jamieson, who is handing out world pleases in leading the public service into the world of new jobs in decentralization.

He set up his regional offices in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies, and the West Coast, and discovered that so many of his bureaucrats selected to be operational that he had to create "operational dupings," additional — and largely useless — staff had to be hired for the region.

President Gerald Ford's Clemency Plan Backfires

By BRUCE LEVEYT

WASHINGTON (CP) — American military draft dodgers and deserters living in Canada and other countries generally have shown a cool reaction to President Ford's clemency proposals.

Many of them don't like the idea of pledging to any specific conditions attached to their return home. Others figure that if they do go back, they would get a better deal from the courts than from Ford.

Because of the many issues involved, the bulk of them are convinced they have committed no moral wrong in evading Vietnam war service.

Some who have come back to take their chances in the court feel the president's proposals won't change those unfavorable odds because the courts, at least in recent years, have exhibited no real leniency which has been, in many cases, greater than that suggested by the president.

Donald Feige, an assistant U.S. attorney in nearby Maryland, prosecuted most of the selective service cases in the district of Columbia and Maryland last year.

"Of the last 18 cases I've prosecuted," he says, "two or three were kicked out solely on technical grounds and the rest received two to three years' probation with a misdemeanor felony."

Alternative service has included work in hospitals, schools and recreation programs.

One draft evader, a 32-year-old who asked only to be identified, said, "President Ford's amnesty gesture would really change things for most deserters and resisters."

He is now hiding in Maryland for three years before his conviction and says he would rather serve the remaining 20 months of my sentence than remain in continual amnesty."

"While draft dodgers face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, Feige says, "There hasn't been a jail sentence here for draft evasion since September, 1972."

There's no explicit policy of leniency, that's just the way the sentencing has been going.

A Justice Department source says the U.S. attorney's office in the District of Columbia "has not been anxious to prosecute draft evaders."

Leon Hardy, assistant U.S. attorney prosecuting draft evaders in the Washington area, says "many cases have been dropped on technicalities."

For the last 18 months, Mackall has been working full time as experimental school for black children which he founded in Washington.

Harrey, who is prosecuting Mackall, said, "He has probably already satisfied the conditions."

But Mackall's attorney has moved for a dismissal.

Some federal prosecutors sums it up: "For draft offenders, the Ford amnesties is under conditional: amnesty because most have been sentenced to gain most by doing so."

Inflation Parley Idea is Rejected by P.M.

By DON O'HEARN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — I think I'll go along with Prime Minister Trudeau in this latest fiasco about inflation.

The prime minister doesn't see any purpose in a conference on inflation. In fact he can see it doing possible harm.

He says he doesn't see any point in calling a meeting which would turn out to be a feast of hand-wringing and everyone telling each other they were wrong.

Anyone who has been much around conferences should know he is right.

A conference on inflation today could be diving into a black sea of dark night without a point of destination.

Most of the premiers, when they talked on the question at their meeting last week, hardly came across as a bunch of Solomons.

When the prime minister in Ottawa suggested that perhaps they were impotent to do anything, the premier was making the wrong wod but he was aiming in the right direction.

Confidence was an active theme at the conference.

Most of the premiers, and particularly Premier Davis as the official spokesman, expressed "confidence" that the country could beat inflation.

But none of them went beyond that. They didn't let us in on why they were confident or how they thought this trick of confidence could be done.

The only impression that could be taken was that they were mouthing words.

There was exactly one suggestion at the conference, or at least one that got out to the public, as an anti-inflationary measure.

This was Premier Schreyer's proposal of an excess profits tax.

The talks, except for this, was just talk. Paying homage to the fact that we have inflation and that this great strong glorious country certainly could beat it.

But how? There, didn't even seem to be any interest in this, except in look for a conference.

Premier Davis did not talk of our land speculation tax as an anti-inflationary measure and made some hopes for imposing it.

But this is essentially a lot of bull. The land speculation tax was imposed primarily to regard the land supply and housing problem. It is somewhat anti-inflationary. But this is merely an off-shoot benefit.

Premier Campbell, now the senior of our premiers, said an inflation conference could be a "pooling of ignorance."

A similar thought could have been in the back of the prime minister's mind when he was talking of impotence.

Unceremonious End to Haile Selassie Reign

The Christian Science Monitor

There is something saddening in the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie - that slight, dignified octogenarian who helped put Ethiopia on the road to modernization. The Lion of the Tribe of Judah, who legend says is descended from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, established a successful unitary state of many diverse people. With great skill he gave the country the first semblance of a centralized government and educational system.

Who, moreover, does not recall that he cried out with a voice of conscience at the League of Nations in 1935 when Mussolini's army invaded Ethiopia.

But his very success sowed the seeds of his downfall. It was inevitable that this feudal ruler and his feudal and corrupt military pass from the scene, and that modern political elements came into play. The armed forces seized their power eight months ago in what has been called "a creeping coup," and although they promised to uphold the crown of the king, apparently many radical voices demanded and won the monarch's full removal.

At this point the new military administration - the anonymous 5-man Armed Forces Coordinating Committee is a mystery. There is no recognized leader. For the moment, parliament is closed, the Constitution suspended, and they are forming a provisional government. But it is promised that elections will be held as separated under a new constitution, which also provides for a free press and representative civilian government.

Hopefully, that will be the case.

Situated in the Horn of Africa, where it controls the approaches to the Red Sea, Ethiopia has great strategic importance. That it will remain a Western-oriented country is probably certain in view of the growing Soviet influence in neighboring Somalia and in South Yemen.

This is one reason why the Ethiopian military originally hailed the overthrow of Haile Selassie, despite the harsh aspects of his rule, and treat him decently and humanely.

Accountants' Responsibility Has Broad Implications

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Some people may still think of accountants as those people in green eyeshades who do long columns of figures until they balance.

But that's not how today's chartered accountants see their function.

Their professional responsibility is to monitor the financial consequences of corporate activities—and those activities are more and more concerned not just with profits but with the social consequences.

The chartered accountants are seeking ways to adapt their accounting techniques to the realm of the social performance of business.

That task was the subject of a special seminar at the 1974 annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, which has just concluded in Saskatoon.

One speaker, Prof. R. L. Brummet of University of North Carolina, pointed to the accountants' capacity for systematizing information and making it useful to management.

"This is surely adequate justification for the modest but significant involvement of the accounting profession in this new area of activity," he said.

"We should start by measuring and communicating in those areas where there are significant social concerns, and for which there is high consensus of priority."

Another seminar participant, associate Prof. Ross Elias of University of Manitoba, said that he had examined 225 annual reports of large Canadian companies in 1973, and found 134 contained data included some type of social reports.

These told shareholders — in various degrees of detail—about the companies' environmental concerns, personnel matters between contractual obligations (safety programs for example), and community activities.

One detail missing from most of the reports on environmental control activities, Dr. Elias found, was their efficacy. "The effectiveness of these areas is rarely reported."

In the area of a corporation's social performance—unlike its financial performance—there are not yet any standards by which the reporting can be judged to be complete, reliable and objective.

Accountants should rise to the challenge, and become more involved in social reporting," Dr. Elias concluded.

Finding a universally acceptable formula for social reporting is not the only challenge to face the men of business still concerned with financial statements despite all the safeguards that ensure their objectivity.

But the rewards would be equally great. As A. G. Isley, realists are blind and deaf to anything contrariwise that business may do by the social scientists. Businessmen don't hesitate to magnify their good works beyond recognition. Conversely, they are often criticized sometimes. Employees of one large corporation have wondered about the public relations department's generous support of a particular non-profit organization—until the man who headed the department married the woman who headed the organization.)

Corporations are created for business reasons, not philanthropic. But most of them today recognize a responsibility, not just to shareholders and creditors but also to employees, suppliers, customers and the society in which they exist.

The accountants are in a unique position to promote that role, and to give the public an accurate and impartial picture of the way business is carrying it out.

Hasty-Pees Graves Visited by Davis

AGIRA, Italy (CP) — Premier Daniel Gerard expressed his regret. "We have had no rain for six months," he said in Italian as Ontario Premier William Davis visited Wednesday the cemetery and burial place of soldiers and airmen who died in the battle for Sicily during the Second World War "that is why the grass is so parched."

And the sky gardener, who maintains the immaculately kept cemetery, got to place a wreath at the marble memorial that dominated the Sita on a Sicilian hillside—a wreath that was supposed to be placed by the premier himself.

The cemetery is in the area of a peaceful hill about 25 miles from Mount Etna.

Above it is the town of Agira and many of those buried in the cemetery lost their lives in an attempt to capture the town during the bloody days of July, 1943.

The dead represented such regiments as the 48th Highlanders, the Royal Regiment of Canada, the Royal 22nd, the Hastings and Prince Edward and the regiment recruited in substantial portion from Davis' own area of Peel, the Lorne Scots.

There are 489 Canadians buried at Agira, 47 fro the army and 32 from the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The premier and his wife strolled amongst the tombstones, bearing such names as Tomlinson, Ferguson, Barrett and McCormack.

Most were killed during the three dreadful weeks spanning from the middle of July to early August. Many were killed in the battle for Agira, a town of 8,000 which sits nestled near the top of a hill, 1,980 feet above sea level.

The Canadians captured Agira from the Germans on July 28, almost three weeks after they participated in the Allied invasion of Sicily. The island was captured by the Allies after 38 days of fierce fighting.

Even through the battle for Sicily has been over for more than 21 years, visitors still flock to the cemetery. In the last 12 months, more than 600 have signed the visitors book in the small stone building at the entrance to the cemetery.

Many of those who visited were from Italy. Others were from Canada visiting the burial sites of friends or relatives.

"It makes one feel great to see a cemetery so well taken care of," one relative wrote in the guest book. "It makes the whole trip worth while."

The marble gravestones, each engraved with the maple leaf, bears the names and ages of the identified soldiers and their dates of death.

On the third day of his 15-day visit to Italy and Sicily, Premier Davis and his wife Kathleen also attended a reception and an informal dinner in the resort town of Taormina.

Good Samaritan Finds Help Not Appreciated

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto man who stopped to help a provincial police constable July 3 on Highway 27 just north of here was sentenced Wednesday to 15 days in jail for impaired driving.

Earl Brenner was driving to Penetanguishene from Toronto when he noticed a police cruiser stuck in a ditch beside the highway.

Police said the man got out of the car and offered to help, but the constable noticed Brenner's staggering walk and the smell of alcohol of his breath.

Brenner was arrested and charged with impaired driving.

Big Blue Growls Along with Critic

Young PC MP Says He was Threatened

OTTAWA (CP) — Sean O'Sullivan, 23-year-old Conservative MP for Hamilton West-worth, is seeking legal advice over what he calls a threat from an official of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. O'Sullivan, has publicly criticized the "Big Blue Machine," the popular tag for the Ontario Conservative Party, for not producing enough seats for a national Conservative win in the July 8 general election.

After he made the statement, he received a letter from W. S. Thomson, vice-president of the Ontario party, taking him to task for his remarks.

The Aug. 16 letter said: "We are not prepared to be criticized in the press by either young people or old people who still have a lot to learn.

"Anytime therefore, that you publicly criticize the Big Blue Machine you are criticizing me, and other people have found out that's the way that I am a damn tough adversary. . . ."

In his reply, Mr. O'Sullivan, who did not make the correspondence public, said he has undertaken to secure "independent legal opinion, as well as the guidance of the Law Officer of Parliament, with respect to the right of members of the House of Commons to freedom of speech without fear of threat or negative consequences."

In an interview Wednesday, Mr. O'Sullivan said the letter from Mr. Thomson, whom he described as a wealthy businessman, would be weighed "along with my responsibility to the party."

Asked whether he considers the letter a threat, he said, "It can be construed that way."

Mr. Thomson's letter was written under the letterhead of "MacPherson-Thomson Co. Ltd." of Toronto and it began: "I am sorry to read once again that you have been sounding off about the Big Blue Machine . . ."

It also says "anyone who attempts, however, to blame the result of the recent election on that complex organization is either ill informed or may be just plain stupid. . . ."

In his written reply, Mr. O'Sullivan said:

"With arrogance, disdain for . . . Big Blue Machine also take it upon themselves to discourage any expression of opinion contrary to their own. This high-handed approach is an affront to democracy, particularly within a party as diverse as the Progressive Conservative Party.

"Accordingly, I do reject the threat in your correspondence . . ."

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the inflamed, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported very striking improvement. Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—definite improvement was reported in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to scientific shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Shopper Lists Her Gripes

Dear Ann Landers: I'm ticking to reply to Veteran of the Supermarket Tangles." That check-out derne had-lots to say about rude customers. Her list of complaints was plenty complete. I wonder if she is aware that the customer may have a few gripes from the other side of the counter. Having just come back from the supermarket, they are fresh in my mind. Here's a little advice on how to make a shopper's life miserable:

1. Bring up the items so fast that the cash register sounds like an adding machine. It's fun for the shopper to discover, after the girls home, that she paid $1.88 for a 48-cent hot cereal. She then has the enjoyable task of returning to the store for a refund. The walk will be good for her.

2. Throw the canned goods down on the counter as if they were bowling. With a little luck you can break a few eggs and squash a loaf of bread.

3. Wait until the 5 o'clock rush to count your money and change the cash register tapes. It's a thrill to stand in line and watch you fumbling around for half an hour. Every housewife adores shopping and hates to leave the store.

4. Pack everything in one big bag. When the customer gets out of the store, the bottom will fall out and she'll get another good look at everything she bought. It will give her an opportunity to see she has everything she needs. Also, it's wonderful exercise to chase cans down the street.

I can think of plenty more, but this will do for now. I'm ready for a chance to speak my piece.—The Customer Is Always Right Since the Second World War.

Dear World War: Your letter was my laugh for the day. Thanks a heap for getting your gripes down on paper. It's a great way to unload your hostility, and I'm not kidding.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband blames me because we have no friends. He says I am too quiet and people think I'm stupid.

The real reason we have no friends is because he doesn't shut his mouth. The man is an authority on everything. He turns every conversation into the Spanish Inquisition, asking questions about things that are none of his business. He loves to get into people's personal lives, and is a bigger gossip than any woman I know.

What can I do to get him to see this?—The Mouse

Dear M: I know the type. Three months and no cars. I suggest that you diagnose the "no friends" problem with a counselor. If the counselor is halfway bright, he'll get the picture early and hopefully get the message across to Mr. Yackety-yack.

Dear Ann: I am six months pregnant and very happy about it. My husband and I have been trying to have a baby for two years. The problem is that we've been separated for three months. He wants a divorce. We've been fighting for over a year. After he learned I was pregnant he took off.

My question is, what should I do about birth announcements? It seems like a stupid question, but I am stumped. I know I'll be having this baby alone. Any suggestions?—Missy

Dear Missy: Why send announcements? Your close friends will know you had the baby and the others will learn of it eventually. I have always regarded announcements of any kind as "invasive."

If you insist on sending birth announcements, ignore the fact that you are separated. Your husband is the baby's father and that's the only thing that matters.

Dear Ann Landers: My best friend and I are planning to get married. The problem is that he wants a very big wedding and I want a small, intimate one.

We get along beautifully until someone brings up this subject, then we end up mad at each other and the evening is ruined.

I am a nervous person and the thought of a great big wedding scares me to death. It would seem more like a theatrical production than a sacred ceremony. And another point: Am—my folks are not very but they are awfully sweet and to tell my boyfriend so he will pay your parents' limited finances well [illegible] and financially, and [illegible] will stretch to the limit if I say understand.—Embattled Betty is enough. You don't need any can't really afford a big bash. I want one. Please tell me what! Dear Betty: The point about other arguments.

Quintuplets in Poland Bring No Family Fortune

Poland (Reuter) — Stanislaw Rychert kisses his family goodbye and leaves for work at the millions of other Poles going about their daily routine.

But if this army surgeon, loved anywhere in the Eastern European, this routine would quickly change. He would soon become a prominent citizen five years ago.

For the fact distinguishes Stanislaw from any other man in Poland—he is the father of quintuplets.

In the West, he might have been bombarded with offers of small fortunes for signing away exclusive publicity rights on his children.

In Poland, however, where such commercialism is unheard of, Stanislaw and his wife Leokadia continue to live in a second-floor flat in a tree-shaded street.

"Of course, the fact of the quintuplets had a great influence on our style of life not, to find out," said Mrs. Rychert, who also has two sons aged six and nine.

Rychert sat silent as his wife went on to explain his main changes in their life. While no fortune has come their way, the family-focus of interest, interest in Poland—has not been allowed to suffer money problems.

They talked from their two-roomed flat in this Baltic seaport to their present six rooms in a rambling old house for which they pay only nominal rent.

Although it is three years since the quintuplets were born, Mrs. Rychert, a small woman dressed simply in shirt and blouse, is still unpaid-holiday from her job of restaurant cook.

For his pay he receives about 3,000 zlotys ($134) a month. In addition, her husband brings home 1,000 zlotys in pay and children's allowances and a special government payment of 1,000 zlotys a month for each of the quintuplets brings the monthly family income to around 16,000 zlotys.

The only payment approaching the idea of commercialism is one of 900 zlotys a month from a state-controlled photographic agency.

Such an income is not overly high for a family of nine. The Rycherts are in need for a car but Mrs. Rychert said they were having a new home built and paying for it out of their savings.

"Of course we would not have needed it if we had not had the quintuplets," she was quick to add.

The family is helping in other ways, especially in those directly concerning the children.

The authorities provide without charge two governesses and five nurses to supervise the quintuplets round the clock.

A state clothing enterprise pays for their clothes and a shoe factory provides new footwear twice a year.

Nutrient Deficiencies May Lower Defences

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— Small deficiencies of certain common nutrients in pregnant women can lower their children's defences against infection—possibly including cancer—researchers say.

A balanced diet is best, and no supplement is seen as the best substitute precisely.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology nutritionists say such shortages are "invisible" because affected mothers and their children appear normal and healthy in all other respects.

The nutrients involved are called lipotropes, Dr. Paul Newberne, head of research team, said animals with lipotrope-deficient mothers are more susceptible to certain cancer-causing agents.

"Combatting cancer appears to be in part a function of the thymic-dependent immune system," which is impaired by lack of the lipotrope nutrients, Newberne said. "So it is logical to us that lipotrope deficiencies may make it easier for cancers to overcome the body's defences and proliferate."

Newberne said most of his group's conclusions came from animal research. But he said other recent research involving humans supports many of his group's conclusions.

The researcher say the lipotropes, especially folic acid and methionine, an amino acid or building block of protein, should be prescribed for pregnant women if needed.

Lipotropes, which are not stored well in the body, are found mainly in meats, eggs, fish and green leafy vegetables.

Successful Living

She's Babied Still at 55

By SUZIE CLARK

Dear Doris: I come from a family of 10, yet can turn to none of them except my dear husband, when in times of need.

I am the youngest of them all and they still seem to keep me as a kid, both physically on me. Our family has grown up and left us and the older I get the harder this treatment is to take, I am ill.

I didn't mind it so much when I was a kid.

Just A Friend.

Dear Friend: I can sympathize personally. I have an older brother and two older sisters. I notice that I am somewhat still treated like part of "the kid". My brother simply cannot take most of my ideas seriously, even though he trusts me as kindly as one could ask.

In studying family patterns, we find that one's place in a family has a great deal to do with the shaping of a personality. The oldest boy, the oldest girl — they are the leaders and much is expected of them. The one in the middle (neither youngest nor oldest) has a hard time finding his place in the sun. The youngest is usually in danger of over-indulgence.

You need pretty level-headed and loving parents to sort this out in this kind of situation I feel them. Sounds like you did try to accept your role as youngest and make close friends of your own age outside your family.

Let In A Little Light

If you're living, dining or bath rooms are rather small and the family budget and your house design can't stand some major alterations, Belleview Glass and Mirror, 264 Pinnacle St. has a suggestion. Mirrors. Mirrors can make a room light in a given room and add a feeling of spaciousness without. Starting down with or remodling a Rec.room. And believe me over 50 different designs — floral, bevelled, framed, goldcornered, to fit any place in any room. Think big and spend a little by using mirrors to do a big job.

Love Those Blue Grapes!

One of my previous childhood memories which I can still relive every year, is the Autumnal arrival of those grapes. I loved them then and I love them now. And Sidney Lee, 305 Main St. W., has them on hand now, also with tasty Bartlett Pears, a good lunch-pail nutritious treat, and appetite fresh from cross trees. It's a tremendous time of year for you and your family can enjoy this bounty, with quality fruits and vegetables from Sidney Lee.

A Great Luncheon Menu

I perused the luncheon menu of the Riviera Room in the Hotel Belvedere, 399 Front St, and was delighted with what I saw. Each day there are daily specials, like liver and onions or a cold plate for $1.95, but the regular menu holds some surprises, especially if you like Italian food. There are also, for example, Italian Antipasto, salad Julien, spaghetti lasagna and ravioli, veal cutlet with a special house sauce, plus the usual cutlets, sandwiches and delicious selections. If you like Italian food reasonably priced, why not give the Riviera Room a try for lunch?

What's Really Clean?

There are some pretty frightening fabrics (forgive the pun) determine exactly what's been given a little of this and a little of that to make them do everything but the ironing. But the detergent can't do the job if the water at your home is as hard as the proverbial floor. Nor can the rinse cycle on your automatic washer. With an Aqualux Water Softener, the water is soft and the detergent has been given all the help it needs to get the job done before it ever leaves the pipes in your home. Laundry's no joy, boy. You need all the help you can get. Read an Aqualux Water Softener by calling 962-6464.

Me And My Datsun

Guess who just bought a new Datsun from Yaker's Car Sales, 142 North Front St.? I and the Rank of Nova Scotia. It's a 710 Hatchback that you just can't help but love. It's powered with 1600 cc engine that's not too heavy on the mileage at that. Yaker's also has a full range of Datsuns for your family to choose from. Whether it's a truck, you want that sporty bucket seat. And for shopping or carting a bicycle around, the hatchback is now a necessity for me. Yaker's have been saying they have a car for you. They do. They had one for me!

Something To Celebrate

The Quinte Mall is having its third birthday at the moment and its customer-oriented celebrations are substantial. The Quinte Bowling Centre is participating wholeheartedly in the celebrations. And if you are looking for a new exercise machine, one can get a present of your own because of the 200 bonus coupon in the mail flyer which you can use towards a purchase of a new Zinn or Nissen machine available at the Quinte Bowling Centre. And if you need a new vacuum cleaner, hose, if, why not get one during the special birthday sale. And you'll have something to celebrate too.

Adhering To Details

I visited Trenton Optical, 16 Bridge St. E. the other day, my glasses fell off my nose. Mr. Friede caught them before they crashed to the floor and by dipping them in hot water, bent the temples and frame back to shape. Now they're as good as new. Trenton Optical has a complete line of frames and lenses and they do offices and corridors and any other commercial work that needs carpeting. They even do schools too. And who's to say your couldn't get your husband's office carpeted for Mrs as a birthday or Christmas gift? Wrays will do it. Call them at 962-9851.

Where To Put What

Last week we talked about painting walls, courtesy of the knowledge of interior designer Paul Bernard of Bernard 1 & Interiors, 218 Campbell St. For the last while, we have dismissed color choice but not any more, says Paul. Okay, So you have the colors chosen. Where do you put what? Paul advises that the sheen on the paint is a natural consideration too. Kitchens should have flat finishes and he should ceilings contrary to many of common practice, because otherwise light is reflected where you don't want it. Cross otherwise kids is washable too. Semi-gloss should be Oil-based for paint jobs and the flat paint used for windows. Let the lights do their job and the paint do its.

A Rare Offer

There's still time to see Daviess and Daviess Travel, 188 Front St., and get yourself on one of the three special Caribbean cruises being offered by Royal Viking Line on their luxury liner, Royal Viking Sky. Because of the Cyprus crisis, the Mediterranean schedule was revised at the last minute and the three week-long cruises starting October 4, October 25 and November 15 are going for 20 per cent less than they would normally. This ship has outside staterooms for all or most of all its passengers. It's travel, with the best of Norway along for the ride. Call Daviess now at 962-2042.

What About That Christmas Party?

Last week we welcomed a new member to Around Town — The Drift-Inn near Consecon on Hwy. 33. The dining room there isn't large, although the menu has many gourmet offerings. But it is sufficient for your entertaining needs if your company or group numbers up to 35 people. Mrs. Pat Harris will be glad to take your reservation if you call her at 392-3142 and help you plan a special meal to make your party special. Because it will have to be special. You're having it!

Down With Daisy The Sexist Doll!

It's probably silly to be troubled about something as small as a doll...but nevertheless, I'm upset.

The reason is Daisy, a nine-inch-tall plastic doll created by British fashion designer Mary Quant.

The publicity release introducing Daisy to the public describes her as a "model girl, travelling the world with 6 different outfits to suit every occasion."

"Her long blonde hair is washable and her pliable plastic arms and legs make her really flexible so she can sit, stand, wave and assume other girlish postures."
